THE MINDE OF

THE FRONTISPEECE,
And Argument of this WORKE.

Tre, Aire, Earth, Water, all the Opposites I har through the powrefull to a vnites; and from their Discord diewthis Harmonic I hat finites in Nature: who, with raught eye, Affects his owne-made nearries. But, our Will, Devie, and Cowies raferble, the skill Of salls orders; who the Mind attires With all Herotog Fertues This afpires to tame and obrie; by her noble Guide Internized, and well-nigh Deifi'd. But who forlake that faire Intelligence, To follow Palsion, and voluptuous Sense; That thun the Path and Toyles of Herenles: Such, charm'd by circe's luxurie, and cafe, Themselves deforme theirs whom, to great an ods; That these are held for Beasts, and those for Gods.

PHOLEVS APO 11.0 (fared Poche)
Thus an fat thoran their moien. Fables he
The northern of all Probologine.

Some Network forcers il two con feme appeare
Dotte appear Romes prome teach value to beare
Both forcemes, benefing loys Greeke, Hope, and Feate.

These Process Denotions have excite; These process to Very to those from Vice affright; All fully now glong Freezi with Delights

This Course our Pour freeres 1 and those that failes by wall my Suces not by his Compage, faile.

To the most High & Mightie Prince CHARLES, King of Great Britaine, France, and IRELAND.

SIR,

Our Gracious acceptance of the first fruites of my Trauels, when You were our Hope, as now our Happinesse; hutb astu-area both Will and Power to the sinishing of this Peece: being limited by that unperfect light which was snatcht from the howers of night and repose. For the day was not mine, but acdicated to the seruice of your Great Father, and your selfe which, had it proved as fortunate as faithfull, in me, and others more worthy; we had hoped, ere many yeares had turned about, to have presented You with a rich and wel-peopled Kingdows; from whence now, with my selfe, I onely bring this Composure:

Inter victrices Hederam tibi serpere Laurus.

It needeth more than a single denization, being a double Stranger. Sprung from the stocke of the A2 ancient ancient Romanes; but bred in the New-world, of the rudenesse vibereof it cannot but participate; especially basing Warres and Tumults to bring it to light in stead of the Asuses. But how ever unperfect, Your favour is able to supply; and to make it worthy of life, if you sudge it not unworthy of your Kosall Patronage. Long may you like to be, as you are, the Delight and Glorie of your People: and slowly, yet surely, exchange your mortall Diadem for as sminortall, Sa wishes

Your Maiesties most humble Seruant,

GEORGE SANDYS.

THE LIFE OF OVID.

VBLIVS OVIDIVS NAS so, descended of the ancient Family of the Nasones, who had preserved the dignitie of Roman knightsfrom the first originals of that Order, was borne at Sulmo, a Citie of the Peligni, on the 14. of the Calends of April, in the Consul-ships of Hireius and Panfa, both slaine at the battell of Mutina against Marcus Antonius. While yet a boy, his quicke wit and ready apprehension gaue his parents an affurance of a future excellencie; in so much as his father Lucius sent him to Rome (together with his brother, a yeere elder than he, and borne on the same day) to bee instructed by * Plotius Grippus, that Art might perfect the accomplishments of nature. In his first of youth he was much addicted vnto poetrie, wherein hee had and sections grace and naturall facilitic But continually reproned by his fatherier following fo vnprofitable a flustic with an ill will he for fooke the pical nat walkes of the Muses to trauck in the rugged paths of the Law, under Bu dim Fulous and Porcus Latro; of whose ch quence and learning he was a great Admirer. Neither attained he themoto a vulgar commendation; betop, an abred by Marcus Anneus Seneca among the principall Orators of those times. His prose was no other than diffolued verfe: his speech wittie, briefe, and powerful in perswasion. Having past through discrsoffices of Indicature, and now readie to assume the habit of a Senator: his elder brother and father being dead, impatient of toyle, and the clamours of litigious Aftemblies, hee retired himfelfe from all publick affaires to affected vacancic and his former abandoned fludies. Yet fuch was the mutuall affection Letweene him and Varro, that he accepted of Command, & ferued under him him in the wars of Asia: from whence he returned by Athens, where he made hisaboad, vntill hee had attained to the perfection of that language. Hee was of a meane stature, slender of body, spare of diet; and, it not too amorous, enery way temperate. He drunk no wine but what was much alayed with water: An Abhorrer of vnnaturall Lufts, from which it should seem that age was not innocent: neat in apparell; of a free, affable, and courtly behauiour; whereby he acquired the friendship of many, such as were great in learning & nobilitie; among whom not a few of Consular dignitie: and so honoured by diners, that they wore his picture in rings cut in precious stones. A great Admirer, and as much admired of the excellent Poets of those times, with whom hee was most familiar and intimate. Being perfwaded by some of them to leave out three verses of those many which hee had written, hee gaue his confent, fo that of all he might except three only: wherewhereupon they prinately writ chose which they would have him abolish, and he on the other side those which he excepted; when both their papers, being showne, presented the same verses; the first and second recorded by Pedo Albinovanus, who was one of the arbiters, (bouem.

Sem bouenque virum, semi urumque Sod g lidam Borean, egelidum ; Notis. whereby it appeareth that his admirable wit did not want an answerable judgement in suppressing the libertie of his verse, had he not affected it. An ample patrimoniche had in the territories of Sulmo; with a house and a remple in the citie, where now stands the Church of Saulta Maria de Tumba: and where now stands the Church of Sanctu Maria de Confolatione he had an other in Rome, not farre from the Capitoll; with pleasant Hort-yards betweene the wayes of Flammia and Claudia, wherein hee was accustomed to recreate himselfe with his Muses. Hee had had three wines: whereof the first being given him in his youth, as neither worthie nor profitable, foone after (according to the custome of the Romans) he dinorced: nor liu'd he long with the fecond, although nobly borne, and of behaviour incul-. puble. The chastitie and beauty of the third he often extolleth; whom hee instructed in poetrie, and to his death s entirely affected. Neither was her affection inferior to his; living all the time of his banishment like a sorrowfull widow; and continuing to the end exemplarie faithfull. But in this enery-way happy condition, when his age required cafe, and now about to imploy his beloued vacancie in the reniew and polithing of his former labours, he was banished, or rather confined to Tomos (a citie of Sarmatia bordering on the Euxine Sea) by Augustus Casar, on the sourth of the Ides of December, and in the one and fittiethycere of his age, to the generall griefe of his friends & acquamtance: who failed into I brace in a thip of his OWNC, A 5 / owne, and by land performed the reft of his voyage. The cause of this his so cruell and deplored exile is rather coniectured than certainely knowne. Most agree that it was for his too much familiaritie with Iales the daughter of Augustus, masked under the name of (orinna. Others, that hee had unfortunately seene the incest of Colar: which may be infinuated, in, that he complaines of his error, and compares himself to Allaon. But the pretended occasion was for his compoling of the Art of Loue, as intolerably lassimious, and corrupting good manners. Apretence I may cal it, fince vnlikely it is that he should banish him in hisage for what he writ whe hardly a man, & after follong a communice. Yet Augustus, either to conceale his owne crime or his daughters, would have it to thought: neither would Ov 1 n reneale the true cause, lest hee thould further exasperate his displea. fiere. After he had long in vaine folicited his repeate by the mediation of Germanicus

the

Germanicus Casar, and others that were neere vnto the Emperour; or at least to bee removed to a more temperate Clime; his hopes (as he writes) torsaking the earth with Angustus, he dyed at Tomos in the fifth yeere of the raigne of Tiberius; having lived seven yeeres in banishment. As Tibullus and hee were borne in one day, fo he and Linie dyed on an other; that his birth and death might bee nobly accompanied. He had so wonne the barbarous Ger's with his humanitie and generous actions (having also written a booke in their language) that they honoured him in his life with triumphant garlands, and celebrated hisfunerals with univerfall forrow; eresting his tombe before the gates of their citie, hard by a lake which retaineth his name to this day. His fepulchre was found in the yeere, MDVIII. with a magnificent conerture presenting this Epitaph,

FATYM NECESSICATIS LEX.

Mere her that line ag I'o t, b; the rage Of great Augustus benished from Rome: Who salis countric (ought t'interre b. Age; But wordy, Este bath logg dhim in this tomb.

Yeare MDXL. thewed to Bargania pen of filmer, found not long before under ecrtaine ruines, with this infeription; OPIDII NASONIS CALA-MVS: which the highly esteemed, and preserved as a facred relique. Of the bookes which he writ, since most of them are extant among vs. I will onely recate these following verses of engagin Politianus.

(things

3 Your times first birth be chants the change of

2 I've flames of lane in Plegiacks fings,

a Hossi

9 11 8 30

1 1 ... z

3 Wather fix down full lbis he infrares,

4 Fielles de ates frange in benouers cares, of in most between deplores his fadexile,

5 11 we feel Roman Festivals com it,

" C p.h shory will nown to Latin cares,

8 cance thelin thinglide in heavely fiberes,

the factor of the state of the 13 1. p. l. es eg. Grathat abuse the times,

Yet leanes he out the Remedie of Lone, a legitimate Poem (except he make it an appendix to the Arr) and his Con-Jolaviou to Linia for the death of Dru-(m: which Seneca hath excerped and sprinkled among his seuerall Consta-R 11095. Among fuch a multiplicitie of orguments our gentle Poet did neuer write a virulent verse, but onely against Connificus; (maskt under the name of Ibis) who folicited his wife in his absence, and laboured against the repeale of his banishment. Concerning his Meramorpholis, it should feeme that he therein initated Parthenius of Chies, who writ on the same argument; as the Latin Poets even generally borrowed their inuentions from the Gracian Magazins. I will conclude with what himselfe hath written of this Poem, wherein I have imployed my vacant howres: with what successe, I leave to the consure of others, which perhaps may proug leffe rigid than my owne.

Yet

Trift.libat.

I thanke your lone; my verfi farre lineber then My picture show me; wherefore those peruse: My verie, which fing the charged shapes of men Though left unperfect by my banisht A. use. Departing , the fel fadly with my hand Lite the fire, with other riches, threw. Mer for ne fo Thestias turning in his brand, A better fifter than a mother grew: So I swhat should not perish with mescast Those beokes my issue in the funerall flame: In that I did my Muse and verse distali; Gr that as yet unpolished and lame. But since I could not fo desiroy them quite; I or fundric copies it should seen e there be: Now may they line, nor lazily delight The generous header; put in mind of me. Yet they with parience can by none be read, That know not how they uncorrected fland: Snatcht from the forge, ere throughly anuited; Defrived of my last life-giving hand. for praise I pardon crane: bough highly graced 11, Keader, they be not despited by thee: Tet in the front be thefe fixe verfes placed; If with thy liking it at least agree. Who me to this cript an-volume, peor in worth Buthin your on charlorage afford. To wi ne mare factour, cer by him fet for th; The weather the uncrell of his 1 o d. The the dare which preferes it's was def & At flea ure with a friendly band correct.

OVID DEFENDED.

Since diners, onely wittie in reprooning, have prophened our Poet with their fisstidious censures: wee, to vindicate his worth from decraction, and prenent preindicacie, have here revived a few of those institute testimonies, which the cleerest indicements of all Ages have given him. I will begin with the censure of that accurate Orator

Marcys Annæys Seneca, Con One of his frequent and admiring 10. Auditors. Naso hada constant, becomming, and amiable wit. His Prose appeared no other thand solved Verses: And a little after. Of his words no Produgall, except in his Verse: wherein, her was not ignorant of the fault, but a seeled it: and often word say, that a Molemisse-became not a heautifull sace, but made it more loadly. Among the excellent of his time, weemny esteeme

Who written thus in his history. It is it.

Hid.115.2.

Contrott

moj?

In Ole

S. HIEROME;

Semiramis, of whom they report many monders, erected the walls of Babylon; see testifics that renowned Poet in the fourth booke of his Metamorphosis. Nor is hetergot by De Cuic.

S. AVGVSTINE.

And Nato, that excellent Poet. Now defeend wee to those, whom later times have preferred for learning and indecement. Thus sings the high project.

In Narcicia, Prais'd

ANGET VE POLITIANVE.
The world control of the world more, The world control of the defamed, ORome!
Than his foureex lether defamed, ORome!
His on Genek fands (a'as!) but laffe incombe.
Perhaps of ferre thy Augustus spees
To looke on Iulians to no friendly eyes.

la Cheromano Dulogo, crownes him with the perfection of Eloquence. And the Cenfurer of all

Pocts,

Lereber.

thus writes, when hee comes to cenfure our Author. But now wee arrise rebere the height of wit, and sharpnesse of indgement, are both to bee exercized. For, who can commend OV I D sufficiently? much lesse, who dares reprehend him? Notwithstanding, I will say something; not in way of detraction, but that we also may be able to grow with his greatnesse. Then speaking of his Metamorphosis. Bookes deserming a more fortunate Author; that from his last hand they migho have had their perfection: which hee himfelse bewalleth in luculent Verses. Tet are there, in these, well-nigh an insinite number, which the wit of an other, I believe, could never have equall'd. And thus exclaimes against Casar in the person of OV I D.

Tyrant, with me I would thou hadst begun:
Nor thy black slaughters had my face fore-run.
If my licentious Youth incenst thee so;
Thy owne condemnes thee: into exist goe.
Thy Cabinets are stain'd with horrid deeds;
And thy forde guilt all monstrous names exceeds.
Diaine wit, innocence, nor yet my tongue,
Next to Apollo's, could preuent my wrong.
I smooth'd th'old Poets with my sluent vaine;
And taught the New a far more numerous strain.
If hen thee I prais'd, then from the truth i sweru'd'
And banishment for that alone descru'd.

In Heroibus.

STEPHA-

can bee faid to transcend him.What should I say of that singular, and well-nigh diwine contexture of Fable with Fable? (0 surpassing, that nothing can bee spoken or done, more artificially, more excellently; or, indeed, more gracefully. Who bandling Wife may gather better instruction. fuch dinerlitie of matter, so cunningly weaves them together, that all appeare but one Series. Planudes, well knowing that Cirecce had not a Poem (o abounding with delight and beautie, translated it into that language. What should I say more? All Arts, which Antiquitie knew, are here so fully defineated, that a number, expert in both tongues, of prime understanding and sudgements, admirest beyond all expression. The first that writ a Commentarie on this booke (whereof fiftie thou-Land were vented, and that in his life time) was Ingrafac. Comment.

RAPHAEL REGIVS: who thus in his Preface. There is nothing apportaining to the knowledge and glorie of warre, whereof wee have not famous examples in the Metamorphosis of OV 1); (not to speake of stratagems, nor

The Orations of Commanders) described with such efficacie and eloquence, that ofsen, in reading, you will imagine your selfe imbroiled in their conflicts. Neither shall you finde any Author, from whom, a civill IACOBYS MICYLLYS.

In princi-

pio Adli-

Hardly shall you find a Poem, which flowes tionum. with greater facilitie. For what should I speake of Learning? Herein, so great, so various, and abstruce; that many places bane neither beene explained, nor yet understood; no, not by the most knowing:requiring rather a resolution from the Dclian Oracle, &c.

Let the ingenuous, that affect not error, now rectifie their owne by the judgements of these. But, incurable Criticks, who warre about words, and gail the found to feed on their force, as not defiring their fanitie, I forbeare to disswade, and deliuer them vp to the consure of Agrippa.

QVCD OLIM FA-

CHEBAT VOTVM GER-

MANICO OVIDIVSIDEM

AVGVSTISS MO CAROLO

Interpretis fui nomine tacuant

OVIDIANT MANES.

The opus, or tim de drige nanis iter. Officioque, lesem non amos fatus bonorem. Huntibedicioto, nome dexter ades. Hase to da placelum deders in carmine vires: Ingerium vuitultatque caditque tuo. Pagens in lecium docte (ubituramonetur Principis, ut Clario milfa legenda Deo.

OVIDS

METAMORPHOSIS.

The first Booke.

THE ARGIVENT.

T'He World, form'd out of Chaos. Man is made. The Ageschange. The Giante Heaven invade. Earth turnes their blaut to men. Towe's flames confound Lycaon, now a Wolfe. The World is drown'd. Markind, caft flower restore. All quickning Earth Renews the reft, and gives new Monfters birth. Apollo, Python kills; hart-wounded, louis Luft flying Daphne : She a Laurel prones. Toue, lo made a Cow, to maske foule deede. Hermes, a Heard Fman. Syrinx, changed to Reeds, DeadArgus eyes adorn the Teacock's traine. The Cow to lo loue transform's againe.

F formes, to other bodies chang'd, I fing. Alsilt, you Gods (from you thele wonders fpring.) And from the Worlds first fabrick to these times. Deduce my neuer discontinued Rymes. The Sea, the Earth, al-couering Heauen vnfram'd, One face had nature, which they chaos nam'd: An undigested lump ; a barren load, There jarring feeds of things ill-joyn'd aboad. No Titan yet the World with light adornes; Nor waxing Phabe fill'd her waned hornes:

Mor

Nor hung the selfe-poiz'd Earth in thin Ayre plac't; Nor Amphitrite the vast shore imbrac't. With Earth, was Ayre and Sea: the Earth vnstable, The Ayre was darke, the Sea vn-nauigable: No certaine forme to any one affign'd: This that refists. For, in one body ioyn'd, The Cold and Hot, the Drie and Humid fight: The Soft and Hard, the Heavy with the Light. But God, the better Nature, this decides: Who Earth from Heaven, the Sea from earth divides: And purer Heauen extracts from groffer Ayre. All which vinfolded by his prudent care From that blinde Masse; the happily dis-ioyn'd With strifelesse peace he to their seats confin'd. Forth-with vp-sprung the quicke and waightlesse Fire, Whose flames vnto the highest Arch aspire: The next, in leuitie and place, is Ayre: Grosse Elements to thicker Earth repayre Selfe-clog'd with waight : the Waters, flowing round, Posselle the last, and solid Tellus bound.

What God somer this division wrought,
And every part to due proportion brought;
First, Jest the Earth-ynequall should appeare,
He turn'd it round, in figure of a Sphere;
Then Seas distins'd; commanding them to rore
With rustling Winds, and give the Land a shore.
To those h. addeth Springs, Ponds, Lakes immense;
And Rivers, whom their winding borders sence:
Of these, not sew Earth's thirstie iawes devour;
The rest, their streames into the Ocean pour;
When, in that liquid Plaine, with stream wave,
The sony Cliss, in stead of Banks, they lave a ids Trees increase to Woods, the Plaines extend, he rocky Mountaynes rise, and Vales descend. Two equal Zones, on either side, dispose he measur'd Heauens; a sisth, more hot than thole is many Lines th'included Globe diuide: th'midst vnsusserable beames reside; now clothes the other two: the temperate hold wixt these their seats, the heat well mixt with cold. As Earth, as Water, vpper Ayre out-waighs; o much doth Ayre Fire's lighter balance raise, here, he commands the changing Clouds to stray;

There, thundering terrors mortall mindes dilmay; and with the Lightning, Winds ingendring Snows of the Permitted energy way to blow; Who hardly now to teare the World refrainc So Brothers iarre!) though they divided raigne.

o Persis and Sabaa, Eurus flies;

Vhose fruits persume the blushing Mornes vp-rise;

Jext to the Euening, and the Coast that glowes

Vith setting Phabus, flowry Zeph'rus blowes;

Scythia horrid Boreas holds his raigne, eneath Boote: and the frozen Waine:

the Land to this oppos'd, doth Aufter steep
Vith fruitfull showrs, and clouds which cuer weep boue all these he plac't the liquid Skies;
Vhich, void of earthly dregs, did highest rise.
Scarce had he all thus orderly dispos'd;

When-as the Starres their radiant heads disclos'd Long hid in Night) and shone through all the skie. Then, that no place should vnpossessed lie, right Constellations, and fair-sigured Gods, an heavenly Mansions sixt their blest abodes: 3

The

The glittering Fishes to the Flouds repayre; The Beafts to Earth, the Birds refort to Ayre. The nobler Creature, with a minde possest, Was wanting yet, that should command the reft. That Maker, the best World's originall, Lither Limfram doffee Coelestiall; Or Earth, which late he did from Heauen divide, Some facred feeds retayn'd, to Heauen ally'd: Which with the living streame Prometheus mixt; End in that artificial structure fixt The forme of all th' all-ruling Deities. And where as others see with downe-cast eyes, He with a leftie looke did Man indue, And bade him Heauens transcendent glories view. So, that rude Clay, which had no forme aforc, Thus chang'd, of Man the vinknowne figure borc. The Golden Age was first; which vncompeld, And without rule, in Faith and Truth exceld. As then; there was nor punishment nor feare; Not the catting Lawes in braffe preseribed were; Nor suppliant crouching prifiners shooke to see Their orgrie ludge : but, all was fafe and free. To vifit other Worlds, no wounded Pine Did yet from Hills to faithleffe Seas decline. Then, vicambitious Mortals knew no more, But their owne Countrie's Nature-bounded shore. Nor Sw, 11 ds, nor Armes were yet: no trenches round Befieged Lownes, nor firit full Trumpets found:

The Souldier, of no vie. In firme content

The jet-free harth did of her owne accord

And harmeleffe ease, their happy dayes were spent.

(Vintoin, wit i floughs) all forts of fruit afford.

ontent with Natures vn-enforced food, They gather Wildings, Strawb'ries of the Wood, owre Cornels, what vpon the Bramble growes, and Acorns, which loui's spreading Oke bestowes. Twas alwayes Spring: warme Zephyrus sweetly blew On finiling Flowres, which without fetting grew. forth-with the Earth corne, vnmanured, beares; and cuery yeere renewes her golden Eares: With Milke and Nectar were the Rivers filled; and yellow Hony from greene Elms distill'd. But, after Saturne was throwne downero Hell, he rul'd; and then the Silver Age befell: More base than Gold, and yet than Brasse more pure. we chang'd the Spring (which alwayes did indure) o Winter, Summer, Autumne hot and cold: he shortned Springs the year's fourth-part vphold then, first the glowing Ayre with feruor burn'd: he Raine to yeicles by bleake winds turn'd. Jen houses built; late hous'd in Caues profound. plathed Bowres, and Sheds with Ofiers bound. pen, first was Corne into long furrowes throwne: nd Oxen vinder heaule yoke sold troug Next vnto dus succeeds the Brazen Ag orle natural prompt to horrid warte and rage: ht yet not wicked. Stubborne Tr's the lift. men, blufhleffe Crimes, which all degrees furpaft, he World furround. Shame, Truth, and Faith depart. and enters, ignorant in no bad Art. pree, Treason, and the wicked Loue of gayn. heir failes, those winds, which yet they knew not, strayn: nd ships, which long on lofth Mountaynes stood, nen plow'd the vnpractized bosome of the Flood.

. -

Conto

The.

The Ground, as common earst as Light, or Ayre, By limit-gitting Geometrie they share. Nor with rich Earth's iust nourishments content, For treasure they her secret entrailes rent; The powerfull Euill, which all power inuades, By her well hid, and wrapt in Stygian shades. Curst Steel, more cursed Gold she now forth brought: And bloody-handed Warre, who with both fought. All live by spoile. The Host his Guest betrayes; Sons, Father-in-lawes: 'twixt Brethren loue decayes. ... Wines husbands, husbands wines attempt to kill: And cruell Step-mothers pale poyfons fill. The Sonne his Fathers hastic death desires: Foild Pietie, trod under foot, expires. Afraa, last of all the heavenly birth. Affrighted leaves the blood-defiled Earth. And that the Heavens their safetie might suspect. The Giants now coelestiall Thrones affect; Who to the skies congested Mountaines reare. Then love with thunder did Olympus reare; Steep Pelien from under Offe throwne. With their ownewaight their monstrous bodies grone; And with her Childrens blood the Earth imbru'd: Which shee, scarce throughly cold, with life indu'd, And gaue thereto, t'vphold her Stocke, the face And forme of Man; a God-contemning Race. Greedie of flaughter, not to be withstood; Such, as well shews, that they were borne of blood. Which when from Heauen Saturnius did behold; He figh't; renoluing what was yet untold, Of fell Lycass's late inhumane feast. lust anger, worthy leve, inflam'd his breast

A Synod call'd, the summoned appeare. There is a way, well seene when skies be cleare, Tho Milkie nam'd: by this, the Gods refore Vnto th'Almightie Thunderers high Court With euer-open dores, on either hand, Of nobler Deities the Houses stand: The Vulgar dwell disperst: the Chiefe and Great In front of all, their thining Manfions leat. This glorious Roofe I would not doubt to call, Had I but boldnes lent me, Heauen's White-ball. All fet on Marble seats; He, leaning on His Iuory Scepter, in a higher Throne, Did twice or thrice his dreadfull Treffes shake: The Earth, the Sea, the Stars (though fixed) quake; Then thus, inflam'd with indignation, spake: I was not more perplext in that sad Time, For this Worlds Monarchie, when bold to clime, The Serpent-footed Giants durst inuade, And would on Heaten their hundred-hands haue laid. Though fierce the Foo, yet did that Warre depend But of one Body, and had soone an end. Now all the race of man I must confound, Where-cuer Nereus walks his wany Round: And this I vow by those infernall Floods, Which flowly glide through filent Stygian woods All cures first sought; such parts as health reiect Must be cut off, least they the sound infect. Our Demi-gods, Nymphs, Sylvans, Saryres, Fauncs, Who haunt cleare Springs, high Mountayns, Woods, and (Lawnes (On whom fince yet we please not to bestow Cœlestiall dwellings) must subsist below. Thinke you, you Gods, they can in safetic rest,

4

When me (of lightning, and of you possest,
Who both at our Imperiall pleasure sway)
The sterne Lycann practized to betray?
All bluster, and in rage the wretch demand.
So, when bold Treason sought, with impious hand,
By Casar's bloud tout-race the Roman name;
Man-kind, and all the World's affrighted Frame,
Astonisht at so great a ruine, shooke.
Nor thine, for Thee, selfe thought, Augustus, tooke,
Than they for some. He, when he had suppress
Their murmur, thus proceeded to the rest.

He hath his punishment; remit that care: The manner how, I will in briefe declare. The Times accul'd, (but as I hop't bely'd) To trie, I downe from steep Olympus slide. A God, transform'd like one of humane birth. I wandred through the many-peopl'd Earth. Twere long to tell, what crimes of enery fort Swarm'd in all parts: the truth exceeds report. Now past den-dreadfull Manalus confines. Cyl'ene, cold Lycaus clad with Pines, There where th' Arcadians dwell, when Doubtfull light Drew on the deawy Charriot of the Night, I entred his vnho pitable Court. The better Vulgar to their pray'rs refort, When I by fignes had showne a Gods repayr. Lycain first derides their zealous pray'r; Then faid, We straight the undoubted truth will trie, Whether he be immortall, or may die. In dead of night, when all was whift and ftill, Me, in my fleepe, he purposeth to kill.

Nor with to foule an enterprize content,

An Hostage munders, from Moles in sent:
Part of his seuer'd scarce-dead lims he boyles;
An other part on hissing Embers broyles;
This set before me, I the house ore-turn'd
With vengefull slames, which round about him burn'd.
He, frighted, to the silent Desart slies;
There howles, and speech with lost indeuour tries.
His selfe-like iawes still grin: more than for food.
He slaughters beasts, and yet delights in bloud.
His armes to thighs, his clothes to bristles chang'd;
A Wolfe; not much from his first forme estrang'd;
So houe hair'd; his lookes so full of rape;
So siery ey'd; so terrible his shape.

One house that fate, which all descrue, sustaines:
For, through the World the sierce Eriams raignes.
You'ld thinke they had conspired to sinn: But, all
Shall swiftly by descrued vengeance fall.

Inue's words apart approue, and his intent
Exasperate: the rest give their consent.
Yet all for Mans destruction grieu'd appeare;
And aske what forme the widowed Earth shall beare?
Who shall with odours their cold Altars seast:
Must Earth be onely by wilde beasts possess.
The King of Gods re-comforts their despaire;
And biddeth them impose on him that care:
Who promis'd, by a strange original!

And now about to let his lightning flie, He fear'd left so much flame should earth the skie, And burne heauens Axeltree. Besides, by doome,

Of better people, to supply their fall.

Of certaine Fate, he knew the time should come, When Sea, Earth, radish Heaven, the curious Frances

Of this World's masse, should thrinke in purging slame. He therefore those cyclopean darts rejects; And different-natur'd punishments elects: To open all the Flood-gates of the skie, And Man by inundation to destroy. Rough Bereas in Aolban prison laid, And those drie blatts which gathered Clouds inuade;

Out flyes the South, with dropping wings; who shrouds His terrible aspect in pitchy clouds.

Mists bind his brows, Rain from his bosom poures. As with his hands the hanging clouds he crush;

They roar'd, and downe in showres together rushs. All-colour'd iris, Inno's mellenger, To weeping Clouds doth nourishment confer.

The Corne is lodg'd, the Husband-men despaire; Their long yeares labour lost, with all their care. Jone, not content with his athereall rages.

His Brother's auxiliaric flouds ingages.

The Streames convented; Tis too late to vie Much speech, said Neptune; all your powres effuse; Your dores vinbarre, remoue what-ere restraines Your liberall Waues, and give them the full raynes. Thus charged, they returne; their Springs vnrolds And to the Sea with head-long furie rol'd.

He with his Trident strikes the Earth; Shee shakes And way for Water by her motion makes.

Through open fields now rush the spreading Floods; And hurry with them Cattell, People, Woods, Houses, and Temples with their Gods inclos'd. What fisch a force, vn-ouerthrowne, oppos'd,

The higher-swelling Water quite desoures;

Which hides the aspiring tops of swallowed towres. Now Land and Sea no different visage bore: For, all was Sea, nor had the Sea a shore. He, takes a Hill: He, in a Boat deplores; And, where He lately plow'd, now firikes his Oaren. O're Corne, o're drowned Villages He failes:

He, from high Elmes intangled Fishes hales. In Fields they anchor cast, as Chance did guide:

And Ships the under-lying Vineyards hide. His white hair streams, his swolne Beard big with showres | Where Mountayne-louing Goats did lately graze, The Sea-calfe now his valy body layes.

Groucs, Cities, Temples, couer'd by the Deep, The Nymphs admire, in woods the Delphins keep. And chace about the boughs: the Wolfe doth (win Amongst the Sheepe: the Lyon (now not grim)

And Tygres tread the Waues. Swift feet no more Auaile the Hart; nor wounding tuskes the Bore.

The wandring Birds, hid Earth long fought in vaine. With weary wings descend into the Mayne. Licentious Seas o're drowned Hills now fret:

And vnknowne furges Ayerie Mountaynes beat. The Waves the greater part devoures the reft.

Death, with long-wanted fullenance, opprest. The Land of Phocis, fruitfull when a Land,

Divides Ainia from th' Actean strand: But now a part of the infulting Mayne, Of sudden-swelling waters a vast Playne, There, his two heads Parnaffus doth extend

To touched Stars; whose tops the Clouds transcend. On this Dencation's little Boat was throwne: With him, his Wife; the rest all ouer-slowne.

Corycian Nymphs, and Hill-gods he adores;

Which

And

And Themis, then oraculous, implores. None was there better, none more just than Hee: And none more reuerenc't the Gods than Shee. Tone, when he faw that all a Lake was growne, And of so many thousand men but one: One, of so many thousand women, left: Both guiltlesse, pious both; of all bereft: The clouds (now chac't by Ebreas) from him throwes: And Earth to Heauen, Heauen vnto Earth he showes. Nor Seas perfift to rage: their awfull Guide The wilde waves calmes, his Trident laid aside: And calls blew triton, riding on the Doep (Who is mantle Nature did in purple steep) And bids him his lowd-founding shell inspire. And give the Flouds a fignall to retire. He his wreath'd trumpet takes (as giuen in charge) That from the turning bottom growes more large: To which when he gives breath, tis heard by all, From farre-vprifing Phebus to his Fall. When this the watery Deitie had fet To his large mouth, and founded a remeat? All Flouds it heard, that Earth or Ocean knew? And all the Flouds, that heard the fame, with drew. Seas now have shores : full streames their channels keep? They fink, and hill aboue the waters peep. Earth re-ascends: as waves decrease, so grow The formes of things, and late-hid figures show. And after a long day, the trees extend Their bared tops; with mud their branches bend. The World's restor'd. Which when in such a state, So deadly filent, and to defolate; Deseation law: with teares which might have made

An other Floud, he thus to Pyriha faid. O Sister! O my Wife! the poore Remaines Of all thy Sex; which all, in one, containes! Whom humane Nature, one paternall Line, Then one chafte Bed, and now like dangers joyne! Of what the Sunne beholds from East to West, We two are all: the Sea intombs the rest. Nor yet can we of life be confident; The threatning clowds strange terrors still present O what a heart would'ft thou haue had, if Fate Had taine me from thee, and prolong'd thy date! So wilde a feare, fuch forrowes, fo forlorne And comfortleffe, how couldeft thou have borne! If Seas had fuckt thee in, I would have follow'd My Wife in death, and Sea should me have swallow'd. O would I could my Father's cunning vic! And foules into well-modul'd Clay infule! Now, all our mortall Race we two contayne; And but a pattern of Man-kind remaine. This faid, both weptiboth pray'rs to heaten addreffe; And feeke the Oracle in their diffresto Forth-with descending to caphilus Floud, Which in known banks now ran, though thick with mad ; They on their heads and garments water throw ; And to the Temple of the Goddeffe goe; At that time all defil'd with mosse and mire; The vnfrequented Altar without fire. Then, humbly on their faces prostrate lay'd, And kiffing the cold flones, with feare thus pray'd. If Powres dining so just defines confine, And Angry Godsidoe in the end relent; Say, Themis, how shall we our Race repaire?

O, helpe the drown'd in Water and Despayre! The Goddesse, with compassion mou'd, reply'd; Goe from my Temple ; both your faces hide; Let Garments all vnbraced loofely flow; And your Great-Parents bones behinde you throw. Amaz'd! first Pyrrha silence breakes, and said; By me the Coddesse must not be obay'd; And, trembling, pardon craues: Her Mothers ghost She feares would suffer, if her bones were toft. Meane-while they ponder and reiterate The words proceeding from ambiguous Fate. Then, Pronicthides, Epimethida Thus recollecteth; loft in her dismay: Or we the Oracle misse-vnderstand (The righteous Gods no wicked thing command) Or Earth is our Great-Mother: and the stones, Therein contain'd, I take to beher bones. These, sure, are those we should behinde vs throw. Although Titania thought it might be fo, Yet she misse-doubts. Both with weake faith rely On ayding Heauen. What hurt was it to try? Departing with heads vail'd, and clothes vnbrac't, Commanded stones they o're their shoulders cast. Did not Antiquitie auouch the same. Who would be lecu't! the stones lesse hard became. And as their naturall hardnesse them for fooke; So by degrees they Mans dimensions tooke; And gentler-natur'd grew, as they increass: And, yet not manifefuly Man exprest: But, like rough hewne' rude marble Statues stand That want the Workemans last life-giving hand. The Earthy parts, and what had any juyce,

The First Booke.

Were both converted to the body's vie. The unflexible and folid, turne to bones: The veines remaine, that were when they were stones. Those, thrown by Man, the forme of men induc: And those were Women, which the Woman threw. Hence we, a hardy Race, inur'd to paine: Our Actions our Originall explaine.

All other creatures tooke their numerous birth. And figures, from the voluntary Earth. When that old humour with the Sunne did sweat. And flimy Marishes grew big with heat; The pregnant Seeds, as from their Mothers wombe, From quickning Earth both growth and forme assume. So, when feuen chanel'd Nile forfakes the Plaine, When ancient bounds retiring streames containe. And late-left flime athereall feruours burne. Men various creatures with the gleabe vp-turne: Of those, some in their very time of birth; Some lame; and others halfe aliue, halfe earth. For, Heat and Moysture, when they temperate grow, Forth-with conceine; and life on things bestow. From striuing Fire and Water all proceede: Discording Concord cuer apt to breede. So, Earth by that late Deluge muddy growne, When on her lap reflecting Titan shone, Produc't a World of formes; reftor'd the late; And other vnknowne Monsters did create. Huge Python, thee, against her will, she bred;

A Serpent, whom the new-borne People dread; Whole bulk did like a mouing Mountaine show. Behold! the God that beares the Siluer Bow (Till then, inur'd to strike the flying Deere,

Or.

秀

Their happy Sclues, and longs to taste their blisse: Admires her fingers, hands, her armes halfe-bare; And Parts vnseene conceiues to be more rare. Swifter than following Winds, away she runs; And him, for all this his intreatie, shuns.

Stay Nymph, I pray thee stay; I am no Fo: So Lambs from Wolves, Harts flye from Lyons lo: So from the Eagle springs the trembling Doue: They, from their deaths: but my pursute is Loue. Wo's me, if thou shouldst fall, or thornes should race Thy tender legs, whilft I enforce the chace! These roughs are craggy: moderate thy haste, And trust me, I will not pursue so fast. Yet know, who't is you please: No Mountanere. No home-bred Clowne; nor keepe I Cattell here. From whom thou fly ft thouknow'ft not (filly foole!), And therefore fly it thou. I in Delphus rule. Ionian Claros, Lycian Patara, And Sez-girt Tenedos doe me obay. love is my Father. What shall be, hath beene. Or is; by my instructive rayes is seenc. Immortall Verse from our invention springs; And how to strike the well concording-strings. My shafts hit sure : yet He one surer found, Who in my emptie bosome made this wound. Of herbs I found the vertue; and through all The World they Me the great Physician call. Aye me, that herbs can Loue no cure afford! That Arts, relieuing all, thould faile their Lord!

More had he faid, when the, with nimble dread, From him, and his vnfinitht court-thip fled. How gracefull then! the Wind that obvious blew,

Too

Too much betray'd her to his amorous view; And play'd the Wanton with her fluent haire, Her Beauty, by her flight, appear'd more rare. No more the God will his intreaties loofe; But, vig'd by Loue, with all his force purfues. As when a Hare the speedy Gray-hound spyes; His feet for prey, shee hers for safetie plyes; Now beares he vp; now, now he hopes to ferch her; And, with his fnowt extended, straines to catch here Not knowing whether caught or no, she slips Dut of his wide-stretcht iawes, and touching lips. The God and Virgin in fuch strife appeare: He, quickned by his hope, She, by her feare, But, the Purfuer doth more nimble proue: Enabled by th' industrious wings of loue. Nor gives he time to breathe: now at her hecles, His breath upon her dangling haire shee seeles. Cleane spent, and fainting, her affrighted bloud Forfakes her cheeks. Shee cryes vnto the Floud. Helpe Father, if your streames contayne a Powrel May Earth, for too well pleafing; me devour a Or, by transforming, O destroy this shape, That thus betrayes me to vindoing rape. Forth-with, a numnefie all her lims possess; And slender filmes her softer sides inuest. Haire into leaues, her Armes to branches grow: And late swift feet, now roots, are lesse than slow. Her gracefull head a leany top fultaines: One beauty throughout all her forme remaines. Still Physbur loues. He handles the new Plant; And feeles her Heart within the bark to pant: Imbrac't the bole, as he would her haue done tuto boile, as as il out and and and

As ignorant of what she more than fear'd. I'ue faynes (her importunitie to shift) Her borne of Farth. Saturnia begs the gift. What should he doe? be cruell to his Loue; Or by denying her, fulpition moue? Shame that perswades; and Loue doth this disswade? But, stronger Loue Shame vnder foot had layd; Yet doubts, if he should such a thing deny His Wife and Sifter, 't would the fraud descry. Obtayn'd; not forth-with feare the Goddesse left; Diffrusting Ioue, and icalous of his theft, Vntill delinered to Areus guard. A hundred eyes his head's large circuit starr'd: Whereof, by turnes, at once two onely flept: The other watcht, and still their Stations kept. Which way so-ere he stands, he 16 spyes: 16, behind him, was before his eyes. By day, she graz'd abroad: Sel vnder ground, He hous'd her, in vnworthy halter bound. On leaves of Trees, and bitter herbs she fed. Poore foule! the Earth, not alwayes greene, herbed; And of the Torrent drinks. With hands Vp-heau'd Shee-thought to beg for pity: how deceiu'd! Who low'd, when she began to make her mone; And trembled at the voyce which was her owne. Vnto the banks of inachus shee stray'd; Her Fathers banks, where the to oft had play'd: Beholding in his streame her horned head. She starts; and from her selfe, selfe-frighted, fled. Her Sifters, nor old Inachus, her knew: Which way fo-ere they went, she would pursue, And fuffer them to stroke her; and doth moue

Their wonder with her strange expressed loue. He brought her Grasse: She gently lickt his hands, And kift his palmes; nor, longer, teares withftands. And had thee then had words, thee had display'd Her Name, her Fortunes, and implor'd his ayde. For words, the letters with her foot imprest Vpon the Sand, which her fad change profest. Wo's me! cry'd inachus: his armes he throwes About her inowy Necke. O, wae of woes! Art thou my daughter, throughout all the Round Of Earth so sought; that now, vnsought, art sound! Lesse was thy losse: lesse was my miserie. Dumbe wretch (alas!) thou canst not make reply: Yet, as thou canst thou dost: thy lowings speake, And deop-fetcht fighes that from thy bosom breake. jignorant, prepar'd thy marriage bed: My hopes, a Sonne-in-law, and Nephewes fed. Now, from the Heard, thy issue must descend: Nor can the length of time my forrowes end; Accurst in that a God. Deaths sweet reliefe Hard fates denie to my immortall griefe. This faid: his Daughter (in that shape belou'd) The Star-ey'd Argus farre from thence remou'd; When, mounted on a hill, the warie Spic Survayes the Playnes that round about him lie. The King of Gods those forrowes she indur'd: Could brooke no longer, by his fault procur'd: Bur, calls his sonne, of fulgent l'leias bred; Commanding him to cut off Argus head. He wings his heeles, purs on his Felt, and takes His drowlie Rod; the Towre of love forfakes;

And, winding, stoops to Earth. The changed God

Their

His

His Hat and Wings layes by; retaynes his Rod: With which he drives his Gotes (like one that feeds I he bearded Heard) and fings this flender Reeds.

Much taken with that Art, before vnknowne, Come, fit by me, said Argus, on this stone. No place affordeth better Pastorage, Or shelter from the Sunnes offensive rage. Pleas'd Atlantiades doth him obay; And with discourse protracts the speedy Day: Then, singing to his Pipes soft melody, Findcuors to subduc each wakefull eye.

The Herds-man striues to conquer vigent sleepe:
Though seiz'd on halfe, the other halfe doe keepe
Observant watch. He askes who did invent

(With that, he yawn'd) that late-found Inftrument.

Then, thus the God his charmed eares inclines? Amongst the Hamadry'd's and Nonacrines (On cold Arcadian Hils) for beautie fam'd, A Naias dwelt; the Nymphs, her Syrinx nam'd Who oft decein'd the Satyres that pursu'd, The rurall Gods, and thefe whom woods include: In exercises, and in chast defire, Diana like: and fuch in her attire. You either in each other might behold: Her Bow was Horne; Diana's was of Gold: Yet of mistooke. Lar crown'd with Pines, returning From steep Lycans, faw her; and, loue-burning, Thus faid: Faire Virgin, grant a Gods request; And be his Wife. She would not heare the rest: But fled from the despis'd as from her shame, Till to smooth i adon's fandy banks shee came. There stopt; implores the liquid Sisters aid, o change her shape, and pitty a forc't Maid.

an, when he thought he had his Syrinx claspe etweene his arms, Reeds for her body graspt. It sighs: they, stir'd there-with, report againe mournefull sound, like one that did complaine. In apt with the musick; Yet, O sweet (said he) sogether ever thus converse will we hen, of vnequall wax-joyn'd Reeds he fram'd his seven-fold Pipe: of her 't was Syrinx nam'd.

The fly Cyllenius, thus discoursing, spyes low leaden fleep had feal'd-vp all his eyes. hen, filent, with his Magick rod he strokes heir languitht lights, which founder fleep prouokes, and with his Fawchion lops his nodding head: Those bloud beimear'd the hoarie Rock with red. here lyes he; of so many lights, the light put forth: his hundred eyes let in one night. t, that those starry iewels might remayne, sturnia fixt them in her Peacocks trayne. Inflam'd with anger, and impatient hafte, Before fad los eyes and thoughts shee plac't Erynnis Snakes, and through the World doth drive The confeience-stung affrighted Fugitiue. hou, Nile, to her long toyle an end didft yeeld. Approaching thee, thee on thy margent kneel'd; Her looks (fuch as shee had) to heaven vp-throwes; With tears, fighs, founds (expressing worldlesse woes) thee feemed love t'accuse, as too ingrate, nd to implore an end of her hard fate. e clips his Wife; and her intreats to free ne'vniustly plagu'd. Be confident (said he) nee neuer more thall cause thy griese, or scare:

His yow he bids the Stygian Waters heare. Appeas'd; the Nymph recouer'd her first looke; Sofaire, to tweet! the haire her skin forfooke: Her horns decreate: large eyes, wide iawes, contract: Shoulders and hands againe become exact: Her hootes to nailes diminish; nothing now But that pure White, retaynes thee of the Cow. Then, on her feete her body the creets Now borne by two. Her felfe she yet suspects; Nor dares to speake alowd, left the thould heare Her felfe to low; but foftly tries with feare. Now, thee, a Goddeffe, is ador'd by those That linnen weare, where facred Nilus flowes. Hence sprung Ioue's Epaphus, no lesse dinine: Whose Temples next vnto his Mother's joyne. Equall in yeeres, nor equall spirit wants The Sunne-got Phactum: who proudly vants Othis high Parentage; nor will give place. Inachides puts on him this difgrace: Foole, thou thy Mother trusts in things vnknowne; And of a Farher boafts that's not thy owne. Vext Phaëton blutht: his thame his rage repels: Who flraight to clymene the flander tels: And Mother, faid he, to your griefes increase; I free, and late so fiery, held my peace; Atham'd that fuch a tainture should be lay'd Vpon my bloud, that could not be gayn-faid. But, if The descended from aboue; Giuc proofe thereof, and this reproach remoue. Then hangs about her necke: by her owne Head,

By Merope's, her Sifters nuptiall bed, Impears her to produce some certaine gage,

That might affure his question'd parentage. Mou'd with her fonnes intreaty, more inflam'd With indignation to be so defam'd, he cafts her armes to heauen; and looking on His radiant Orbe, thus faid: I sweare my fon, By von faire Taper, that fo bright appeares Withfar-projected beames; who fees, and heares: That Sun whom thou behold ft, who light and hear Affords the informed World, did thee beget. fnot, may he tome deny his fight: and to my eyes let this be his last light. Nor far-remoued doth his Palace stand; lis first-vprise confines vpon our Land: If that thy heart doe ferue thee, thither goe; and there thy Father, of thy Father, know. Dereat, joy'd l'baëton enlightned grew; Whose towring thoughts no lesse than Heauen pursew. His Athropia past, and Ind which fries With burning beames, he climes the Sun's vprife.

C:

Onid'i

OVIDS

TETAMORPHOSIS.

The second Booke.

THE ARGUMENT.

R Ash Phaeton fires the World. His sisters memme
His Tragedie; who into Poplars surne;
Their teares to Amber; Cygnus, to a SwanIoue, Phoebe-like, Calisto found a Man.
Her, Iuno made a Beare: Shee, and her son,
Advanced starres, that still the Ocean soun.
Coronis, now a Crowe, sites Neptune's frights
Nictimine is made the Bird of Night.
The too-officious Rauen, late of sayre,
Is plum'd with black. Ocyrogrowes a Mare.
Phoebus, a Heardsman: Mercury, twice such;
Who turnes betraying Pattus into Tuch.
Envious Aglauros, to a Statue, full
Of her minde's spors. Loue Ioue converts t'a Bull.

Shone all with gold, and stones that slame-like blaz'
The roofe of Inory, divinely deckt:
The two-lean'd silver-doores bright rayes project.
The workmanship more admiration crau'd:
For, curious Mulciber had there ingrau'd
The Land-imbracing Sea, the orbed Ground,
The arched Heavens. Blew Gods the billowes crown 'd;
Shape

The

Shape changing Protens, Triton thrill; the tall Big-brawn'd Algeon mounted on a Whale. Stay Doris, and her daughters, heauenly-faire: Some fit on Rocks, and drie their Sea-greene haire; Some freme upon the dancing Waves to glide; Others on backs of crooked Liffies ride: Among them all, no two appears the fame; Nor de le more than fifters well became. The Harth had faluage Beafts, Men, Cities, Woods, Nymphs, Satvres, rurall Gods, and crystall Floods: About all thefe, Heaven's radiant Image shines, On both fides deckt with fix refulgent Signes. To this, bold Phaeton made his afcent; And to his doubted Father's presence bent: Yet fore to fland aloofe: for, mortall fight Could not indure t' approach so pure a light. Sul cloth'd in purple, fits vpon a Throne, Which eleerly with tralucent Emralds shone. With equall-raigning Houres, on either hand, The Dayes, the Moneths, the Yeers, the Ages stand: The fragrant Spring with flowrie chaplet crown'd: Wheat cares, the browes of naked Summer bound: Rich Astramn linear'd with crusht Lyeus blood; New, homy-headed Winter quinering stood. Much daunted at these sacred nouelties, The fearcfull Youth all-feeing Phabus spics;

Much daunted at these sacred nouesties, The searchall Youth all-seeing Phases spics; Who said, What hither drew thee Phaces, Who sait, and worthily, my dearest Son? He thus reply'd: O thou resulgent Light, Who all the World rejoycest with thy sight! O lather! it allow'd to vie that name, Now Cymens by thee disguise her shame;

Produce some signe, that may my birth approuc,
And from my thoughts these wretched doubts remoue.
He, from his browes, his shining rayes displac't;
And, bidding him draw-neere, his neck imbrac't.
By merit, as by birth, to thee is due
That name, said he; and Clymene was true.
To cleere all doubts; aske what thou wilt, and take Thy granted wish. Beare witnesse thou dark Lake,
The oath of Gods, vnto our eyes vnknowne.
These words no sooner from his lips were slowne,
But he demands his Chariot, and the sway
Of his hot Steeds, to guide the winged Day.
The God repents him of the oath he made;
And, shaking his illustrious Tresses, said:
Thy tongue hath made mine erre, thy birth vnblest.

O, would I could break promise! this request, I must confesse, I onely would denie: And yet, diffwade I may. Thy death doth lie Within thy with. What's fo defir'd by thee, Can neither with thy ftrength nor youth agree. Too great intentions fet thy thoughts on fire. Thou, mortall, do'ft no mortall thing defire; Through ignorance, affecting more than they Dare vndertake, who in Glympus fway. Though each himselse approue; except me, none Is able to supply my burning Throne. Not that dread Thunderer, who rules aboue, Can drive these wheeles: and who more great than love? Steep is the first ascent; which in the prime Offipringing Day, fresh Horses hardly clime. At Noone, through highest skies their course they beare:

Whence Sea and Land euen We behold with feare.

Produce

Then downe the Hill of Heauen they scoure amaine With desperate speed, and need a steady reigne; That Thetis, in whose wany bowres I lie, Mach cuening dreads my down-fall from the skie. selides; the Heavens are daily hurried round, That turn the Scattes, to other motions bound. Against this violence, my way I force, And counter-tun their all-o'ic-bearing course. My Charriot had: can the fraile firength afcend The obujous Poles, and with their force contend? No Georges, no Cities, fraught with Gods, expect; No marble Fanes, with wealthy offrings deckt. Through faluage shapes, and dangers lyes thy way: Vhich could ft thou keep, and by no error ftray, Betweene the Buls fharp horns yet must thou goes By hun that draws the strong Amonian bowe; "The deathfull Scorpion's far-out-bending clawes; The thorter Crab's; the roaring Lyon's lawes. Non easie is't those siery Steeds to tame: Who from their mouthes and nosthrils vomit flame. They, heated, hardly of my rule admit; Bur, head-strong, struggle with the hated bit. Then, left my bountie, which would faue, thould kill; Beware and whil It thou maift, reforme thy will. A figne thou crau's, that might confirme thee mine: I, by dehorting, giue a certaine figne; Approu'd a Father, by Paternall feare: 3.00k on my looks, and reade my forrows there. S, would thou could'ft descend into my brest; And apprehend my vexed Soules vnreft! And laftly, all the wealthy World behold, Of all that Heaven enrich, rich Seas infold,

Or on the pregnant-bosom'd Earth remayne, Aske what thou wilt; and no repulse sustaine. To this alone, I giue a forc't consent: No honour, but a true-nam'd punishment. Thou, for a bleffing, beg'ft the worst of harms. Why hang it thou on my neck with fawning arms? Distrust not; we have sworn: but aske, and take What thou canst wish: yet, wifer wishes make. In vaine dehorted; he, his promise claymed; With glory of so great a charge inflam'd. The wilfull Youth then lingring Phabus brought To his bright Chariot, by Vulcan wrought. The Beam and Axeltree of massie gold; On Silver Spokes the golden Fellies rol'd: Rich Gems and Crysolites the Harnesse deckt; Which, Phabus beames, with equal light, reflect, Whil'st this, adiniring Phaeton survayes, I he wakefull Morning from the East displayes Her purple doores, and odoriferous bed, With plentie of deaw-dropping Roses spred. Cleare Lucifer the flying Starres doth chace; And, after all the rest, resignes his place. When Titan faw the Dawning ruddy grew, And how the Moon her filuer horns with-drew: He bade the light-foot Houres, without delay To joyn his Steeds. The Goddeffes obay: Who, from their loftic Mangers, forth-with led His fierie Horses, with Ambrolin fed. With facred Oyle anoynted by his Syre, Of vertue to repulse the rage of fire, He crown's him with his Rayes; Then, thus began With doubled fighs, which following woes fore-ran.

Or

Lct

Let not thy Father still aduise in vaine. Sonne, spare the whip, and strongly vse the raigne. They, of their owne accord will run too fast. Tis hard, to moderate a flying hafte. Nor drive along the five directer Lines. A broad and beaten path obliquely windes, Contented with three Zones: which doth auoid The diffant Poles: the track thy wheeles will guide. Defeend thou not too low, nor mount too high; That temperate warmth may heatten and earth supply. A loftic course will headen with fire infest; A lowely, earth: the fafer Meane is best. Nor to the folded Snake thy Charior guide: Nor to the Altar on the other fide: Betweene these drive. The rest I leave to Fate: Who better proue, than thou, to thy owne state. But, while I speak, behold, the humid Night Beyond th' Helperian Vales hath ta'ne her flight. Aurora's splendor re-inchrone's the Day: We are expected, nor can longer flay. Take vp the reignes, or, while thou maift, refule 3 And not my Chariot, but my counfell vic; While on a firme foundation thou doft stand, Not yet pollett of thy ill-witht Command. tet me the World with viuall influence cheare: And view that light which is vnsafe to beare. the generous and gallant I haeton, All courage, vaut's into the blazing Throne: Glad of the reignes, nor doubtfull of his skill; And gives his Father thanks against his will. Alcane while, the Sumes I wife Horfes, hot Pyrous, Strong Asban, fiery Phiegon, bright Edus, Neighing?

Neighing alowd, inflame the Ayre with heat; And, with their thundring hoours, the barriers beat. Which when hospitious Thetis once with-drew, (Who nothing of her Nephew's danger knew) And gaue them scope; they mount the ample skie, And cut the obuious Clouds with feet that flie. Who, rays'd with plumed pinions, leaue behinde The glowing East, and slower Easterne-winde. But, Phabus Horses could not seele that fraight: The Chariot wanted the accustom'd waight. And as ynballac't ships are rockt and tost With tumbling Waues, and in their steerage lost: So, through the Ayre the lighter Chariot recles; And joults, as emptie, vpon jumping Wheeles. Which when they found, the beaten path they shun; And, straggling, out of all subjection run. He knowes nor how to turne, nor knowes the way; Or had he knowne, yet would not they obay. The cold, now hot, Triones fought in vaine To quench their heat in the forbidden Maine. The Serpent, next vnto the frozen Pole, Benum'd, and hurtlesse, now began to rowle With actuall heat; and long forgotten ire Refumes, together with æthereall fire. Tis faid, that thou Bootes ranst away, Though flow, though thee thy heavy Waine did flay. But, when from top of all the arched skye, Vnhappy Phaeton the Earth did eye: Pale fudden feare vn-nerves his quaking thighs; And, in so great a light, benights his eyes. He with those Steeds vnknowne; vnknown his birth; His fute vngranted: now he couets earth;

Te '

To be the sonne of scorned Merope. Kapt as a ship vpon the high-wrought Sca, By faluage tempelts chac't; which in despaire The Pilot leaueth to the Gods, and Pray'r. What should be doe? much of the heaven behinde; Much more before: both measur'd in his minde. "Ine neuer-to-be entred West survay's; And then the East. Lost in his owncamaze, Andignorance, he can nor hold the reignes, Nor let them goe; nor knowes his Horses names: Bur stares on terror-striking skies (posiest By Beafts and Monfters) with a panting breft. There is a place, in which the Scorpion bends His compast clawes; who through two Signes extends. Whom when the Youth beheld, flew d in black sweat Of poyfon, and with turn'd-vp taile to threat A mortall wound; pale feare his fenses strooke, And flackned reignes let's fall, from hands that shooke. They, when they felt them on their backs to lie, With yn-controlled error feoure the skie Through vnknowne agric Regions; and tread The way which their difordred fury led. Wo to the fixed Starres their courfe they take; And stranger Spheres with smoking Charlot rake: Now clime now, by fleep Pracipies descend: And nearer Earth their wandring race extend. To lea her brother's Steeds beneath her owne The Moon admires the Clouds like Comets thone. Inuading fire the upper Earth affayl d; All chapt and con'd; her pregnant inycorexhal'd. Trees feed thererum: Graffe, gray-headed turns: And Carne, by that which did produce it, burns.

The Second Booke.

But this was nothing. Cities with their Towres, Realmes with their People, funerall fire deuoures. The Mountayns blaze: High Ather, but too high; Fount-fruitfull Ida, neuer till then drie; Uete, old Imilus, and Cilician Taurus Muse-haunted Aelicon, Oeagrian AEmus. Loud Eetna roreth with her doubled fires: L'arnassus grones beneath two flaming spires. Steep Others, Cynthus, Eryx, Mimas, glowe; And Khodepe, no longer cloath'd with inowe. The Phrygian Dindyma, in cinders mourns: Cold Caucasus in frosty Scythia burns. High Mycale, divine cytheron, wast; Pindus, and Offa once on Pelian caft, More great Olympus (which before did thine) The ayrie Alpes, and cloudic Appenine. Then l'hacton beheld on euery side The World on fire, nor could fuch heat abide; And, at his deadly-drie and gasping lawes, The scalding Ayre, as from a furnace, drawes; His Chariot, redder than the fire it bore; And, being mortall, could indure no more Such clowds of ashes, and eached coles. Muffled in smoake which round about him rowles, He knowes not where he is, nor what succeeds; Dragg'd at the pleasure of his frantick Steeds. Meniay, the Akthiopians then grew fwart; Their blood exhaled to the outward part. A sandie Desert Lybia then became, Her full veins emptied by the thirfty flame. With hair vnbound and torn, the Nymphs, diffraught, Bewaile their Springs Baotia Direct lought; -Args, Argos, enymone: Ephyre, faire Priene mist: Nor streames securer are. Great Tanais in boyling chanell fumes; Teuthranian Cayeus with heat confumes; Umenus, old . encus, Erymanibus, Yellow Lycorn as; to be twice-burnt, Zanthus. A. wander, running in a turning maze, Mygdonian Melas, and Eurotas blaze; Euphrates, late investing Babylon; Grontes, l'hafis, Ister, Thermodon, Ganges, Alpheas, Sperchius lately cold, And Tagus flowing with diffolued gold. The Swans, that rauitht with their melodie Alemin banks, now in cayller frie. To faithest Earth affrighted Nilus fled; And there conceal'd his yet vnfound-out head, Whilfthis feuen duftie chanels ftreamleffelie. 1(marian Hebrus, Strymon now are drie: Hesperian streames, khene, Rhodanus, the Po, And Scepter deflinated Tyber glow. Earth cracks: to Hell the hated light descends; And frighted I lato, with his Queene, offends. The Ocean thrinks, and leaves a field of Sand; Where new discouered Rocks, and Mountaines stand, That multiply the scattred Cyclades, Late couer'd with the deepe and awfull Seas, The I iffices to the bottom dine: nor dare The sportlesse Dolphins tempt the sultrie Aire: Long boyl daliue, the menffrous i bock die, And on the brine with turn d-vp bellies lie. With Doris and her daughters, Nevens raucs; Who hade themselves beneath the scalding waves.

Bur .

IF

Thrice wrathfull Neptune his bold arme vp-held About the Floods: whom thrice the fire repel'd. Yet foodfull Tellus with the Ocean bound, Amidst the Seas, and Fountaines now vnfound (Selfe-hid within the womb where they were bred) Neck-high aduanceth her all-bearing head. (Her parched fore-head shaddowed with her hand) And, shaking, shooke what-cuer on her stand: Where-with, a little shrunke into her brest, Her facred tongue her forrowes thus exprest: If such thy will, and I descrue the same, Thou chiefe of Gods, why fleeps thy vengefull flame? Be't by Thy fire, if I in fire must frie: The Author lessens the calamitie. But, whilft I striue to vtter this, I choke. View my fing'd haire, mine eyes half-out with smoke! The sparkling cinders on my vissage throwne! s this my recompence the fauour showne Hor all my seruice ? for the fruit I haue borne? That thus I am with plough and harrowes torne? Wrought-out through-out the yeare? that man and beaft Sustaine with food? and you with incense reast? But, fay I merit ruine, and thy hate: What hath thy brother done (by equal Fate Elected to the wauy Monarchie), That Seas thould finke, and from thy profence flie? If neither he, nor I thy pittic moue, Pitty thy Heauen. Behold! the Poles aboue At either end do fume: and should they burne, Thy habitation would to ruine turne. Distressed Atlas shoulders thrinke with payne, And scarce the glowing Axettree sustayne.

Tarica

If Sea, if Earth, if Heauen shall fall by fire, Then all of ys to char must retire. O! quench these stames: the miserable state Of things releeue, afore it be too-late.

This faid, her voyce her parched tongue forfook, Not longer could the smothering vapors brook; But, down into her-selse with-drew her head, Neere to the infernall Cauerns of the Dead. Tone calls the Gods to witnesse, and who lent The strayning Chariot; should not he preuent, That All would periff by one destinie; Then mounts the highest Turret of the skie, From thence inur'd to cloud the spacefull Earth, And give the flame fore-running thunder birth. But, there, for wafted clouds he fought in vaine, To thade or coole the scorched Earth with raine. He thunders; and, with hands that cannot erre. Hurls lightning at the audacious Charioter. Him strooke he from his feat, breath from his brest, Both at one blow, and flames with flames supprest. The frighted horses, plunging seucral wayes, Breake all their tire to whom the bit obayes; The reignes, torne beame, crackt spokes, disport abroad, Scorche Heauen was with the Chariots ruines strow'd. Fut, soule Jesse i bacton, with blazing haire, Shot head-long through a long descent of Aire; As when a falling flarre glides through the skie. Or feemes to fall to the deceived eye. Whom great Eridanus (farre from his place -Of birth) receiv's, and quencht his flagrant face : Whole Nymphsinterridhim in his Mothers womb; And fixe this Epizaph ypon his Tomb?

Here Phaeton lyes ; who though he could not guide His Fathers Steeds, in high attempts he dy'd. Chabus with griefe with-drew. One day did runne

The Second Booke.

About the World, they fay, with-out the Sunne, Which flamic funerals illuminate; That good, derined from a wretched Fate. When Cymene had faid what could be faid In fuch a griefe; halfe-foul'd, in black array'd,

She fils the Earth the wanders through, with grones, First seeking his dead corps, and then his bones. Interrid in forren Lands shee found the last: Her feeble-lims vpon the place thee cast,

& And bath'd his name in teares, and strictly prest The carued Marble with her bared breft. Nor leffe th'H liadrs lament; who shead

From drowned eyes vaine offerings to the dead:

Who with remorticlesse hands their bosoms teare; And wayling, call on him that cannot heare.

With joyned horns foure Moons their orbs had fil'd, Since they their cuftomarie plaints vpheld:

When Phaethula, thinking to have cast

Her felie on Earth, cry'd, ah! my feet stickfast! Lampetie, prefling to her fifters ayd,

As suddenly with fixed roots was stayd. A third, about t'haue torne her scattered haire, Tore-off the leaves which on her crowne the bare.

This, grieueth at her stiffe and senselesse thighes: Shee, that her stretcht-out arms in branches rise. And whil st with wonder they themselves behold,

The creeping barke their tender parts infold; Then, by degrees, their bellies, brefts, and all Except their mouthes; which on their mother call.

What .

What should shee doe? but run to that, to this, As furie drane; and fnatch a parting kille? Buryet, not fo fuffiz'd, thee strone to take Them, from themselues, and down the branches brake: From whence, as from a wound, pureblood did glide. Opitty, Mother! (ftill the wounded cry'd) Nor tene vs in our Trees! O! now adicu! With that, the barke their lips together drew. From these electe dropping trees, tears yearly flow: They, hardned by the Sunne, to Amber grow; Which, on the moyflure-giung River spent, To Kuman Ladies, as his gift, is fent.

Sthenelian Cygnus at that time was there. A kin to Phaêton; in love, more necre. He, Icaning State (who in Liguria raign'd, Which Cities great and populous contayn'd) Fild with complaints the Riuer-chiding floods, The fedgie banks, and late augmented Woods. At length, his voice grew small: white plume contends In whiteneffe with his haire: his neck afcends. Red films vnite his toes: armos turne to wings: His mouth, a flat blunt bill, that fadly fings. Becomine a Swan, remembring how vniust Touc's lightning was, nor Heauen, nor him will trust. Whom Lakes and Ponds (detefting fire) delight; And Hoods, to Flames in nature opposite.

The worfull Father to dead Phaeton, Him tele neglecting (all his luftre gon, As when eclipst) day, light, his owne life hates; And loved griefe, with anger aggrauates. Retuing to Illuminate the Earth.

knough, too much my toile! born with the birth

Of Time; (as reftlefle;) without end, regard, Or honour: recompene't with this reward! Some other now may on my Chariot sit. It all of you confelle your selues vnfit ; Let to te afcend: that he (when he shall trie) At length may lay his murdering thunder by. Then will be finde, that he, who could not guide Those fire-hoou'd Steeds, deseru'd not to have dy'd. The Gods stand round about him, and request That endlesse Night might not the World inuch. Euch 10 to excus'd his lightning, and intreats: Which, like a King, he intermixt with threats. Displeased Phab is, hardly reconciled, Takes-vp his Steeds, as yet with horror wild. On whom he vents his spleen: and, though they run, He lathes, and vpbraids them with his Son. The Thunderer then walks the ample Round Of Heauens high walls, to fearch if all were found. When finding nothing there by fire decay d; He Earth, and humane industries survay'd.

The Second Booke.

Arcadia chiefely exerciz'd his cares; There, Springs and streames, that durst not run, repaire's; The Fields with graffe, the Trees with leaves indue's, And withered Woods with vanisht Shades renew's. Oft paffing to and fro, a Nonacrine

The God inflam'd; her beautie, more diuine! Twas not her Art to spin, nor with much care And fine varietie to trick her haire; But, with a zone, her loofer garments bound, And her rude troffes in a fillet wound: Now armed with a Dart, now with a Bowe: A Squire of Phube's. Manalus did knowe

None

None more in grace, of all her Virgin throng: Bur, Fauorites in fouour last not long. The parted Day in equal balance held, A Wood thee entred, as yet never feld-There from her shoulders thee her Quiuer takes, Vobends her Bowe; and, tyr'd with hunting, makes The flowry-mantled Earth her happy bed; And on her painted Quiner layes her head. When love the Nymph without a guard did see In the hapofiture; This stealth, faid hee, My Wife thall never know: or, tay thee did; Who, ah, who would not for her fake be chid! Diana's thape and habit them indew'd, He faid; My Huntresse, where hast thou pursew'd This morning's chace? Shee, rifing, made reply; Haile Pow'r, more great than love (though love stood by) In my effeem -He smild: and gladly heard Him-selfe, by her, before Himselfe preferr'd; And kift. His kiffes too intemperate grow; Not such as Maids on Maidens do bestow. His strict imbracements her narration stay'd; And, by his crime, his owne deceit betray'd. Shee did what Woman could to force her Fate: (Would I use faw hit would her spleene abate) Although, as much as Woman could, shee strone; What Woman, or, who can contend with Dwe! The Victor hies him to th'athereall States. The Woods, as guiltie of her wrongs, shee hates; Almost forgetting, as from thence shee flung, Her Quiner, and the Bowe which by it hung. High Miena's Distynna with her traine Now entring, pleafed with the quarry flaine,

Beheld, and call'd her: call'd vpon, shee fled; And in her semblance Iupiter doth dread. But, when shee saw the attending Nymphs appeare; Shee troops amongst them, and diverts her feare. Ah, how our faults are in our faces read! With eyes scarce euer rais'd, shee hangs the head: Nor perks shee now, as shee was wont to do, By cynthia's fide, nor leads the starry crew. Though mute theebee, her violated thame Selfe-guiltie blushes silently proclaime. But that a Maid, Diana the ill hid Had soone espy'd: they say, her sly Nymphs did. Nine Crescents now had made their Orbs compleat; When, faint with labour, and her brothers heat, Shee takes the shades; close by the murmuring And filuer current of a fruitfull Spring. The place much prays'd, the streame as coole as elecre Her faire feet glads. No Spyes, said thee, be here: Here will wee our difrobed bodies dip. Califlo blushe: the rest their faire lims strip. And her perforce vncloth'd, that fought delayes; Who, withher body, her offence dilplayes. They, all abailit, yet loth to have it fpy'd, Striuing her belly with their hands to hide; Auant, faid cynthia; get thee from our trayne; Nor, with thy lims, this facred Fountaine stayne. This knew the Matron of the Thunderer; Whose thoughts, to fitter times, reuenge defer:

Nor long delaye's; for, Areas (which more scorne And griefe prouok't) was of the Lady borne. Beheld with ire, which turn'd her eyes to flame; Must thou be fruitfull too, to blaze my shame,

Beheld,

And

From thence, those stars, the price of whordome, driue;

Nor let th'impure in your pure Surges diuc.

They both affent. Her Peacocks to the skyes Their Goddesse draw; late stucke with Argus eyes. Thou too, thou prating Rauen, turn'd as late From white to blacke, by well-deferued Fate.

(The spotlesse filter Foue was not more white. Nor Swans which in the running brookes delight:

Nor yet that vigilant Fowle, whose gaggling shall Hereafter free th'attempted Capitoll.)

Thy tengue, thy tell-tale tongue did thee vndoe: And what was white, is now of fable hew.

The Palme, coronis, of Lariffa, bare From all th' AEmonian Dames for matchleffe faire. Who dearly, Delobian, was belou'd by thee; As long as chafte, or from detection free. But, Phwbus Birdher scapes did soone descrie: Nor could they charme th'inexorable Spie: Whom, flying to his Lord, the Crowe purfewee

(As talkarine as he) to know the newes;

And, knowing, faid: Thy felie thou doft ingage By thankleffe feruice: flight not my prefage. Know what I was, and am: through all my time My actions fift: thou'lt find my faith my crime. For, Pallar, on a day, in cheft compos'd Of Attick Offars, prinately inclosed Her Erichthonius (whom no Woman bare) Committed to the custodie and care Of three faire Virgin Nymphs, that daughters were To prudent cecrops, who two shapes did beare: Nor told what it contayn'd; but, charg'd that they Her secrets should not to themselues betray.

Thele from an Elme I (vnelpy'd) elpy. Faire Herse and Pandrosa faithfully Performe their charge. Aglauros then did call Her fearfull fifters, and vntyes with-all The wicker Cabinet; whole twigs contayne An infant, rayled on a Dragon's trayne. This, I my Goddeffe told; and for reward, Am now cashiered from Minerua's Guard. The Bird of Night preferd. Beware by mee: Nor too officioully tell all you fee.

Perhaps, you thinke, I to that place afpir d Without her grace: vnfought-to, or defir'd: Should you aske Pallas, and her anger by; Though more than angrie, this shee would deny. Me had King (oroneus, great infame. hrough happy Phocis, by a royall Dame. Rich futers I (despile me not) had store:

ly beauty wrackt me. Walking on the shore, As leafurely as now I'vie to goe, Cold Neptune faw me, and with luft did glowe. The time, his prayr's, and prayles spent in vaine; What would not yeeld, he offers to constraine:

And follows me that fled. The harder strand Behind me left: and tyr'd with yeelding fand, To Gods and Men I crie. No humane aid

Was then at hand: a Maid relectics a Maid. or, as to heaven my trembling armes I threw; My armes cole-black with houering feathers grewi My Robe I from my fhoulders thought to throwes?

But, that was plume, and to my skin did growe. Vith hands to beat my naked breft, I trie: bur, neither brest to bear, nor hands, had L

Running

Running, in fand I sunke nor as before; But, me the scarce-tought Earth, vnburden'd bore. Forth-with, I lightly through the Ayre ascend; And on Minerua, without blame, attend. But, what was this; when shee, whose wicked deeds Vnwoman'd her, in our lost grace succeeds? For, know (nomore than through all Lesbos spred) Nyétimene defil'd her Fathers bed. Though now a Bird; yet, full of guilt, the fight, The Day, the thuns, and masks her thame in Night. About her, all our winged troops repayre; And, with muc tiues, chace her through the Ayre. To her, the Rauen: Mischiese dice surprise For staying me. Vaine Omen's I despile; Then, forward flew; and told the hurtfull truth Of lost coronis, and th' AEmonian Youth. The Harp drops from his hand: and from his head The Laurell fell; his chearefull colour fled. Transported with his rage, his bow he tooke, And with incuitable arrow strooke That brest, which he so oft to his had ioyn'd: Shee threeks; and from the deadly wound doth wind The biting steele, pursu'd with streames of blood, That bath'd her pure white in a crimson Flood: And faid; Though this be dew, yet, Phabus, 1 Might first haue teem'd: now, two in one must die. Shee faints: forc't life in her blood's torrent swims: And stifning cold benums her senselesse lims. His crueltic, to her he lou'd, too late, He now repenteth, and himselfe doth hate, Who lent an eare, whom rage could fo incense: He hates his Bird, by whom he knew th'offence;

The Second Booke.

Hechates his Art, his Quiuer, and his Bowe; Then, takes her vp, and all his skill doth showe. But (ah!) too late to vanquish Fate he tries: And surgerie, without successe, applies. Which when he faw, and faw the funerall pyle Prepared to deuour so deare a spoyle; Since no coelestiall eye may shed a teare, He fetcht a grone, that made Earth grone to heare: And now vncar'd-for odours powr'd vpon her : And ynduc death with all due rites doth honour. But, Phabus, not induring that his feed (And that by her) the greedie Fire should feed, Snatcht it both from her womb, and from the flame: And to the two-shap't Chiron brought the same. The white-plum'd Rauen, who reward expects. He turnes to blacke; and for his truth rejects. It pleas'd the Halfe-horfe to be so imploy'd; Who in his honorable trouble ioy'd. Behold: the Centaur's daughter with red haire. Whom formerly the Nymph caricle bare By the swift River, and Ocwoe nam'd; Who had her Father's healthfull Art disclaym'd. To fing the depth of Fates: Now, when her breft Was by the prophecying rage posses, And that th'included God inflam'd her mind; Scholding of the Babe, the thus divin'd: Health giver to the World, grow Infant, grow; To whom mortalitie so much thall owe. led Soules thou shalt restore to their aboads 1 Ind once against the pleasure of the Gods. o doe the like, thy Grand-fires flames denie: nd thou, begotten by a God, must dic.

Thou,

Hence,

Thou, of a bloodlesse corps, a God shalt bee:
And Nature twice shall be renew'd in thee.
And you, deare Father, not a Mortall now;
To whom the Fates eternitic allow;
Shall wish to die, then when your wound shall smarr.
With Serpents blood, and slight your helplesse Art.
Relenting Fates will pitty you with death,
Against their Law, and stop your groning breath.

Not all yet said, her sighes in stormes arise;
And ill-aboding teares burst from her eyes.
Then, thus: My Fates preuent me: lo, they tie
My faltering tongue; and farther speech denie.
Alas Liese Arts not of that valew be,
That they should draw the wrath of Heauen on me!
O, rather would I nothing had fore-knowne!
My lookes seeme now not humane, nor my owne.
I long to feed on grasse: I long to run
About the spacious fields. Woe's me, vndon!
Into a Mare (my kindred's shape) I grow:
Yet, why throughout my Father but halse so.

The end of her complaint you scarce could heare. To vinderstand: her words consused were. Forth-with, nor words, nor neighings, she exprest; Her voyce yet more inclining to the beast: Then, neigh'd out-right. Within a little space, Her down-thrust armes upon the Meadow pase. Her singers soyne; one hoose siue nayles unite: Her head and neck enlarge, not now upright: Her trayling garment to a trayne extends; Her clangling haire upon her crest descends: Her voyce and shape at once transform'd became: And to the Prodigic they give a name.

Old chiron weeps; and Phabus, vainly cryes On thee to change the changelesse Destinies. Admit thou could'it: thee, from thy selfe expel'd, Then Elis, and Messenian pastures held. It was the time when, cloth'd in Neat-herds weeds, Thou play'dst vpon vnequall seuen-fold Reeds: Whil'st thee thy Pipe delights, whil'st cares of loue Thy foule possesse, and other cares remoue; Without a guard the Pylian Oxen stray: Observed by the craftic sonne of May, Forthwith he fectely conucighs them thence, In vntract Woods concealing his offence. None saw but Battus, in that Country bred; Who wealthy Neleus famous horses fed. Him onely he mildoubts: then, (t'ane a-part) Stranger, faid Mercury, what ere thou art; If any for this Herd by chance inquire, Conceale thy knowledge: and receive, for hire, This white-hair'd Cow. Hee tooke her, and reply'd, Be safe; thy theft shall sooner be discry'd By yonder stone, than me; and shew'd a stone. lone's sonne departs, and straight returns vnknowne (A seeming Clowne in forme and voice) who said: Saw'st thou no cattel through these fields conuay'd? Detect the theft; in their recouerie joyne: And, lo, this Hecfer, with her Bull, is thine. He (the reward redoubl'd) answer'd: There Beneath those hills, beneath those hills they were. Then, Hermes, laughing lowd; What, knauc, I say,

Me to my selfe; me to my selfe betray?

Whose nature now is in that name exprest.

Then, to a Touch-stone turn'd his periur'd brest;

,OM

Shee might not enter), and the darke doore strooke With her bright lance; which straight in sunder broke. There faw shee Enuie lapping Vipers blood; And feeding on their fleth, her vices food: And, having feen her, turn'd-away her eyes. The Catiffe flowly from the ground doth rife (Her halfe-deuoured Serpents laid-aside) And forward creepeth with a lazie stride. Viewing her forme so faire; her armes, so bright; Shee gron'd, and figh't at fuch a chearfull fight. Her body more than meger; pale her hew; Her teeth all rufty; still thee looks askew; Her brest with gall, her tongue with poyson sweld: Shee only laught, when shee sad sights beheld-Her euer-waking cares exil'd foft fleep: Who looks on good successe, with eyes that weep; Repining, pines: who, wounding others, bleeds: And on her felfe revengeth her mildeeds. Although Tritonia did the Hag detest; Yet briefely thus her pleasure Mee exprest: Aglauros, one of the Cecropides, Doe thou infest with thy accurst disease. This faid; the hastie Goddesse doth aduance Her body, with her earth-repelling lance. Enuio pursues her with a wicked cye, Much grieu'd at her prenayling industrie. Wrapt in darke clouds, which way so ere she turns, The Corne she lodges, slowry pastures burns, Crops what growes high; Towns, Nations, with her breath Pollutes; and Vertue persocutes to death. When thee the faire Athenian towres beheld, Which so in wealth, in learned Arts exceld,

And feastfull Peace; to crie shee scarce forbeares, In that shee saw no argument for teares. When thee Aglaures lodging entred had, Shee gladly executes what Pallas bade: Her cancred hand youn her brest shee lay'd, And crooked thornes into her heart conuay'd. And breath'd in banefull poylon; which thee sheads Into her bones, and through her liuer spreads. And that her enuy might not want a cause: The God in his divinest forme shee drawes: And with it, fets before her wounded eyes Her happy fifter, and their nuptiall ioyes: Augmenting all. These secret woes excite, And gnaw her foule. Shee fighes all day, all night; And with a flow infection melts away, Like Ice before the Sunnes vncertaine ray. Faire Herse's happy state such heart-burne breeds In her black bosom, as when spiny weeds Are fet on fire: which without flame confume: And feem (so small their heat) to burne with sume. Oft shee resolues to die, such sights to shun: Oft, by disclosing, to have both vndon. Now fits ilice on the threshold, to preuent The Gods accesse; who with lost blandishment, And his best Art, perswades Quoth shee; forbeare, I cannot be remou'd, if you stay here. I to dris bargain, he reply'd, will stand; The doore then forces with his figured wand. Striuing to rife, to second her debate, Her hips could not remoue, prest with dull waight. Againe shee struggled to have stood on end: But, those villupple sinewes would not bend. Incrochiag

And

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The third Booke.

THE ARGYMENT.

A Rui devoops from Dragons late-sowne tooth arise.

By bu owne Hounds the Hart Act 20n dyes.

Iuno, a Beldame. Semele doth frie
In wisht imbraces. Bacchus from Ioue's thigh
Takes second birth. The wise Tipesias twice

Doth change his sex. Scorn'd Eccho pines t'a voice t
Selfe-lord Narcissus a Dassaill.

Bacchus, a Boy. The Tyrrhen's ship stands still,
With Iuy mor'd. Strange shapes the Saylers fright t
Who Dolphines turne, and fill in ships delight.

Nd now the Godariuing with his Rape
At facred creet, refumes his heavenly shape.
The King his sonne to seeke his daughter sent,
Fore-doomed to perpetuall banishment,
Except his fortune to his wish succeed:
How pious, and how impious in one deed!
Earth wandred-through (toue's thefts who can exquire?)?
He shuns his Country, and his Fathers ire:
With Phabus Oracle consults, to know?
What Land the Fates intended to bestow.
Who, thus: In desart fields observe a Cow,
Yet never you'r, nor service to the plow.

Followher flow conduct, and where shee shall Repose, there build: the place Baotia call. Scarce Cadmus from Callalian Caue descended. When he a Hecfer saw, by no man tended, Her neck vngall'd with groning feruitude. The God ador'd, he foot by foot pursew'd. Cephisus floud, and Panope now past, Shee made a stand; to heaven her fore-head cast, With loftie horns most exquisitely faire; Then, with repeated lowings fild the Ayre: Looks back upon the company shee led; And, kneeling, makes the tender graffe her bed. Thanks-giving cadmus kift the vnknowne ground: The stranger fields and hills saluting round. About to facrifice to heaven's high King, He fends for water from the living Spring.

A Wood there was, which never Axe did hew: In it, a Cauc, where Reeds and Ofiers grew, Rooft with a rugged Arch by Nature wrought: With pregnant waters plentifully fraught. The lurking Snake of Mars this Hold possess; Bright scal'd, and shining with a golden crest; His bulk with poyfon swolne; fire-red his eyes: Three darting rongues, three ranks of teeth comprile. This fatall Well th'vnlucky Tyrians found; Who with their down-let Pitcher, rays'd a found. With that, the Scrpent his blew head extends; And furfering Ayre with horrid hisses rends. The water from them fell: their colour fled: Who all, aftonitht, shook with sudden dread. Hee wreaths his scaly foldes into a heape; And fetcht a compasse with a mightie leape:

The Third Booke.

Then, bolt-vpright his monstrous length displayes More than halfe way; and all the Woods survayes. Whose body, when all seene, no lesse appeares, Than that, which parts the two Coelestiall Beares. Whether the Tyrians fought to fight, or flie, Or whether they through feare could neither trie; Some crash tho twixt his iawes; some clasp to death; Some kils with poyfon; others with his breath.

And now the Sunne the shortest shadowes made: Then, cadmus, wondring why his servants stay'd, Their foot-steps trac't. A hide the Hero's wore, Which late he from a flaughtred Lyon tore: His Arms a dart, a bright steele-pointed Speare; And such a minde as could not stoope to feare. When he the Wood had entred, and there view'd The bodies of the flaine with bloud imbrew'd: Th'infulting victor quenching his dire thirft At their suckt wounds; he sigh't, as heart would burst: Then faid, I will reuenge, O faithfull Mates, Your murders, or accompany your Fates. With that, he lifteth vp a mighty stone, Which with a more than manly force was throwne. What would have batter'd downe the strongest wall, And shiuered towres, doth give no wound at all. The hardnesse of his skin, and scales that grow Vpon his armed back, repell the blowe. And yet that floorg defence could not fo well The vigour of his thrilling Dart repell; Which through his winding back a passage rends : There flicks: the fleele into his guts defeends. Rabid with anguith, hee retorts his looke Vpon the wound; and then the inteling tooke

Tier

Betweene his teeth; it every way doth winde: At length, tugged out, yet leaves the head behind. His rage increast with his augmenting paines: And his thick-panting throte swels with full veines. A cold white froth surrounds his poys'nous lawes: On thundring Earth his trayling scales he drawes: Who from his black and Stygian maw eied's A blasting breath, which all the grasse infects. His body, now he circularly bends; Forthwith into a monstrous length extends: Then rusheth on, like showr-incensed Floods; And with his breft ore-beares the obuious Woods. The Prince gaue way; who with the Lyon's spoyle Sustayn'd th' assault; and forc't a quick recoyle, His Lance fixt in his lawes. What could not feele, He madly wounds; and bites the biting steele. Th' inuenom'd gore, which from his palate bled, Converts the graffe into a duskie red: Yet, flight the hurt, in that the Snake with-drew; And so, by yeelding, did the force subdew. Till Agenorides the steele imbrew'd In his wide throte, and still his thrust pursew'd; Vntill an Oke his back-retrait with-stood: There, he his neck transfixt: with it, the Wood. The Tree bends with a burden so vnknowne; And, lashed, by the Serpents taile, doth grone. While he furuay'd the hugenesse of his foe, This voyce he heard (from whence he did not know) Why is that Serpent To admir'd by thee? Agenor's sonne, a Serpent thou shalt bee. He speechlesse grew: pale searc repeld his blood; And now vncurled haire like briftles flood. Behold!

Behold! mans Fautresse, Pallas (from the sky Descending to his needfull aide) stood by: Who bade him in the turn'd-vp furrowes throw The Serpents teeth; that future men might grow. He, as commanded, plow'd the patient Earth: And therein fow'd the feeds of humane birth. Lo (past beliefe!) the Clods began to moue: And tops of Lances first appear'd aboue: Then, Helmets, nodding with their plumed Crefts; Forth-with, refulgent Pouldrons, plated Brefts; Hands, with offensive weapons charg'd, insew: And Target-bearing troops of Men vp-grew. So in our Theater's Tolemnities, When they the Arras rayle, the Figures rise: Afore the rest, their faces first appeare; By little and by little then they reare Their bodies, with a measure-keeping hand, Vntill their feet ypon the border stand. Bold Cadmus, though much daunted at the fight Of such an Host, address him to the fight. Forbcare (a new-borne Souldier cry'd) t'ingage Thy better fortune in our civill rage ! With that, he on his earth-bred brother flew: At whom, a deadly dart another threw. Nor he that kild him, long surviucs his death; But, through wide wounds expires his infant breath. Slaughter, with equall furie, runs through all: And by vnciuill civill blowes they fall. The new-forung Youth, who hardly life possess; Now panting, kitk their Mother's bloudy breft But five furuiu'd: of whom, Echien one; His Armes to Earth by Pallas counsell throwne,

He craves the love he offers. All accord As Brothers should, and what they take afford. Sidonian Cadmus these assist, to build His loftic walls; the Oracle fulfild.

Now flourisht Thebes: now did thy exile proue In shew a blessing; those that rule in loue And warre, thy Nuptials with their daughter grace: By fuch a Wife to haue so faire a race; So many fonnes and daughters; nephewes too (The pledges of their peacefull beds) infew; And they now growne to excellence and powre. But, Man must censur'd be by his last houre: Whom truly we can neuer happy call, Afore his death, and closing funerall.

In this thy enery way so prosperous state, Thy first mille-hap sprung from thy Nephew's face. Whose browes vnnaturall branches ill adorne; By his vngratefull dogs in pieces torne. Yet fortune did offend in him; not he: For, what offence may in an error be? With purple bloud, flaine Deare the Hills imbrew: And now high Noon the shades of things withdrew; While East and West the equal Sunne partake: Thus, then, Hyantius to his Partners spake, That trod the Mazes of the pathlesse Wood: My Friends our nets and iauelins reake with blood: Enough hath beene the fortune of this day: To morrow, when Aurora shall display Her rosic cheeks, we may our sports renew. Now, 1 habu, with inflaming eye doth view The crannyed Earth: here let our labour end: Take vp your toyles. They gladly condescend.

The Third Booke.

A vale there was with Pines and Cypresse crown'd, Gargaphie call'd; for Dian's loue renown'd. A shady Cauc possess the inward part, Not wrought by hands; there, Nature witty Art Did counterfet: a native Arch shee drew. With Pumice and light Topales, that grew. A bubbling Spring, with threams as cleere as glasse Ran chiding by, inclos'd with matted graffe. The weary Huntresse vsually here laues Her Virgin lims, more pure than those pure waues. And now her Bowe, her Iau lin, and her Quiuer; Doth to a Nymph, one of her Squires, deliuer: Her light impouerisht Robes another held: Her Buskins two vntie. The better skil'd Is menian Crocale, her long haire wound In pleited-wreathes: yet was her owne vnbound. Neat Hyale, Niphe, Khanis, Plecas (fill Imploy'd) and Phiale the Lauers fill. While here Titania bath'd (as was her guise) Lo Cadinus Nephew, tyr'd with exercise, And wandring through the Woods, approche this Groue With fatall steps, so Destinie him droue! Entring the Caue with skipping Springs bedeaw'd: The Nymphs, all naked, when a Man they view'd, Clapt their resounding brests, and fild the Wood With fudden shreeks: like Iuory pales they stood About their Goddesse: but shee, far more tall, By head and shoulders ouer-tops them all. Such as that colour, which the Clouds adorns, Shot by the Sunne-beam's; or the role Morn's: Such flusht in Dians cheeks, being naked tane. And though inuiron'd by her Virgin trayne,

She fide-long turnes, looks back, and wisht her bow: Yet, what shee had, shee in his face doth throw. With vengefull Waters sprinkled; to her rage These words she addes, which suture Fate presage: Now, tell how thou hast seene me disarray'd; Tell if thou canst: I give thee leave. This said, Shee to his neck and eares new length imparts; This Browe th' antlers of long-living Harts: His legges and feet with armes and hands supply'd; And cloth'd his body in a spotted hide. To this, feare added. Autonocius flyes, And wonders at the swiftnesse of his thighes. But, when his looks he in the Riuer view'd, He would have cry d, Woe's me! no words infew'd: His words were grones. He frets, with galling teares, Checks not his owne; yet his owne mind he beares. What should he doe? Goe home? or in the Wood For cuer lurke? Feare, this; shame that withstood. While thus he doubts, his Dogs their Master view: Black-foot and Tracer, opening first, pursew: Sure Tracer, Gnoffus; Black-foot Sparta bare: Then all fell in, more swift than forced Ayre: Spie, hauener, clime-cliffe; these Arcadia bred: Strong Fawn-bane, Whirlwind, cager Follow-dread; Hunter, for lent; for speed, Flight went before; Flerce Saluage, lately ganched by a Bore; Greedy, with her two whelps; grim Wolf-got Ranger; Stout Shepheard, late preserving flocks from danger; Gaunt Catch, whole race from Sicyonia came; Pet l', Courfer, Blab; rath Tyger neuer rame; Blanch, Mourner, Koyster, Wolfe surpassing strong; And Tempest, able to continue long: Swift,

The Third Booke.

Swifi, with his brother Churle, a Cyprian hound; Bold Snatch, whose sable brows a white star cround; Co'e, shag-hair'd Rug, and Light-foot wondrous fleet, Bred of a Spartan Birch, his Sire of creet; white-tooth, and Ring-wood (others not t'expresse.) O're Rocks, o're Crags, o're Cliffs that want accesse, Through streightned wayes, and where there was no way, The well-mouth'd hounds pursue the princely prey. Where oft he wont to follow, now he flyes; Flyes from his family ! in thought he cryes, I am Atteon, servants, know your Lord! Thoughts wanted words. High skyes the noyse record. First, collier pincht him by the haunch: in flung Fierce Kill-deare; Hill-bred on his shoulder hung. These came forth last; but crost a nearer way A-thwart the hills. While thus their Lord they stay, In rush the rest, who gripe him with their phangs. Now is no roome for wounds. Grones speake his pangs, Though not with humane voyce, vnlike a Hart: In whose laments the knowne Rocks beare a part. Pitcht on his knees, like one who pitty craues, His filent looks, in stead of Armes, he waves. With viual showts their Dogs the Hunters cheare; And seeke, and call Attaon. He (too neare!) Made answer by mute motions, blam'd of all For being absent at his present fall. Present he was, that absent would have beene; Nor would his cruell hounds have felt, but seene. Their snowts they in his body bathe; and teare Their Master in the figure of a Deare: Nor, till a thousand wounds had life diffeis'd, Could quiner-bearing Dian be appear d.

Long

'Twas censur'd variously: for, many thought The punishment farre greater than the fau't. Others so sowre a chastitie commend, As worthy her: and both, their parts defend. Joue's wife not so much blam'd or prays'd the deed; As shee rejoyceth at the wounds that bleed In cadmus Family; who keeps in mind Europa's rape, and hateth all the kind. Now new occasions fresh displeasure moue: For Semcle was great with child by lone. Then, thus shee scolds: O, what amends succeeds Our lost complaints! I now will fall to deeds. If we be more than titularly great; If we a Scepter sway; if Heauen our seat; If Ione's fear'd Wife and Sister (certainly, His Sifter) torment shall the Whore destroy. Yet, with that theft perhaps she was content, And quickly might the injurie repent: But, thee conceives, to aggravate the blame, And by her Belly doth her crime proclaime. Who would by Iupiter a Mother proue, Which hardly once, hath hapned to our loue: So confident is beautie! Yet shall he Deceiue her hopes: nor let me luno be, Vnlesse, by her owne soue destroy d, shee make A swift descent vnto the Stygian Lake. Shee quits her Throne, and in a yellow clowd Approach't the Palace; nor dismist that shrowd, Till thee had wrinkl'd her smooth skin, and made Her head all gray: while creeping feet conuay'd Her crooked lims; her voice small, weake, and hoarse, Berei-like, of Epidaure, her Nurse.

Long-talking; at the mention of love's name, Shee figh't, and faid; Pray heaven, he prove the same ! Yet much I feare: for many oft beguile With that pretext, and chastest beds defile. Though love; that's not enough. Give hea figne Of his affection, if he be divine. Such, and so mightie, as when pleasure warmes His melting bolome, in high luno's armes; With thee, such and somightic, let him lie, Deckt with the enfignes of his deitie. Thus shee aduiz'd the vnsuspecting Dame; Who begs of lone a boone without a name. To whom the God: Choose, and thy choyce possesse; Yct, that thy diffidencie may be lesse, Witnesse that Powre, who through obscure aboads Spreads his dull streams: the feare, and God of Gods. Pleas'd with her harm, of too much powre to moue! To perish by the kindnesse of her Loue: Such be to me, she faid, as when the Invites Of Iuno summon you to Venus Rites. Her mouth he fought to stop: but, now that breath Was mixt with ayre which sentenced her death. Then, fetch't a figh, as if his brest would teare (For, thee might not vnwith, nor he vniweare) And fadly mounts the skie; who with him tooke The Clouds, that imitate his mournefull looke; Thick showrs and tempests adding to the same, With thunder and incuitable flame. Whole rigor yet he striueth to subdew: Not armed with that fire which ouerthrew The hundred-handed Giant; 't was too wilde ; There is another lightning, far more milde,

By Cyclops forged with lesse standard ire: Which, deathlesse Gods doe call the Second sire. This, to her Father's house, he with him tooke: But (ah!) a mortall body could not brooke Athereal rumults. Her successe shee mournes; And in those so desir'd imbracements burnes.

Th' unperfect Babe, which in her wombe did lie, Was ta'ne by ione, and few'd into his thigh, His Mother's time accomplishing: Whom first, By stealth, his carefull Aunt, kinde Ino, nurst: Then, giuen to the Nyscides, and bred In secret Caues, with milke and honey fed.

While this on earth befell by Fates decree (The twice-born Bacchus now from danger free) lone, waightie cares expelling from his breft With flowing Nectar, and dispos'd to iest With well-pleas'd Iuno, faid: In Venus deeds, The Femal's pleasure farre the Male's exceeds. This thee denyes: Tirefias must decide The difference, who both delights had try'd. For, two ingendring Serpents once he found, And with a stroke their slimy twists vnbound; Who straight a Woman of a man became: Seuen Autums past, he in the eighth the same Refinding, faid: If such your powre, so strange, That they who strike you must their nature change; Once more I'le trie. Then, struck, away they ran: And of a Woman he became a Man. He, chosen Vmpire of this sportfull strife, Ioue's words confirm'd. This vext his froward wife More than the matter crau'd. To wreak her spite, His eyes thee muffled in eternall night.

Th'omnipotent (fince no God may vndoe An others deed) with Fates which should insew Inform'd his Intellect; and did supply His body's eye-sight, with his mindes electe eye.

He giving fure replyes to fuch as came, Through all th' Aonian City's stretcht his fame. First, blew Liriopesad triall made

Hirt, blew Livipe and trial made
How that was but too true which he had faid:
Whom in times past Cephifus flood imbrac't
Within his winding streams, and fore't the chaste.
The lovely Nymph (who not vnstuitfull provid)

The louely Nymph (who not unfruitfull prou'd)
Brought forth a Boy, euen then to be belou'd,
Narcifius nam'd. Enquiring if old age
Should crowne his Youth; He, in obleure prelage,

Made this reply: Except himselfe he know.

Long, they no credit on his words bestow:

Yet did the cuent the prophecie approue,

In his strange ruine, and new kind of loue.

Now, he to twentie added had a yeare:
Now in his looks both Boy and Man appeare.
Many a loue-fick Youth did him defire;
And many a Maid his beautic fet on firez
Yet, in his tender age his pride was fuch,
That neither Youth nor Mayden might him touch.

The vocall Nymph, this louely Boy did spy (Shee could not proffer speech, nor not reply) When busie in pursuite of saluage spoyles, He draue the Decre into his corded toyles.

Eccho was then a Body, not a Voyce:
Yet then, as now, of words shee wanted choyce; But onely could reiterate the close
Of every speech. This sumo did impose.

Th' omni

Fee

Beholds his eyes, two starres! his dangling haire Which with vnshorn Apol's might compare! His fingers worthy Bacebus! his Imooth chin! His luory neck! his heavenly face! where-in The linked Deities their Graces fix! Where Roses with vnfullied Lillyes mixl Adminethall sfor which, to be admir'd: And vnconsiderately himselfe desir'd. The prayfes, which he gives, his beautie claym'd. Who feeks, is fought: th' Inflamer is inflam'd. How often would he kille the flattering spring! How oft with downe-thrust arms sought he to cling About that loued necke! Those cousining lips Delude his hopes; and from himselfe he slips. Not knowing what, with what he fees he fryes: And th' error that deceives, incites his eyes. O Foole! that striu'st to catch a flying shade! Thou seek'st what's no-where: Turn aside, 'twill vade. Thy formes reflection doth thy fight delude: Which is with nothing of its owne indu'd. With thee it comes; with thee it stayes; and so 'Twould goe away, hadst thou the power to go. Nor sleep, nor hunger could the Louerrayse: Who, lay'd along, on that falle forme doth gaze With looks, which looking neuer could suffice; And ruinates himselfe with his owne eyes. At length, a little lifting up his head; You Woods, that round about your branches spred, Was guer so vnformnate a Louer!

You Woods, that round about your branches! Was guer to vnfortunate a Louer!
You know, to many you have beene a couer;
From your first growth to this long distant day
Have you knowne any, thus to pine away!

I like, and see, but yet I cannot find The lik't, and scene. O'Loue, with error blind! What grieues me more: no Sea, no Mountayn Reep, No wayes, no walls, our ioyes a-funder keep: Whom but a little water doth divide. And he himselfe desires to be inioy'd. As oft as I to kille the floud decline. So oft his lips ascend, to close with mine. You'ld thinke we toucht: fo small a thing doth pars: Our equal loues! Come forth, what ere thou art. Sweet Boy, a simple Boy beguile not so: From him that fecks thee, whither would'st thou go ? My age nor beautie merit thy disdaine: And me the Nymphs haue often lou'd in vaine. Yet in thy friendly shewes my poore hopes live; Still striuing to receive the hand I give: Thou smil'st my smiles: when I a teare let fall, Thou shedd'st an other; and consent'st in all. And, lo, thy sweetly-mouing lips appeare To veter words, that come not to our care. Ah, He is I! now, now I plainly see: Nor is't my shadow that bewitcheth me. With loug of me I burne; (O too too fure!) And fuffer in those flames which I procure. Shall I be woo'd, or wooe? What shall I craue? Since what I couet, I already have. Too much hath midde me poore! O, you divine And fauoring Powres, me from my lelfe dif-ioynd: Of what I loue, I would be dispossest: This, in a Louer, is a strange request! Now, strength through gricfe decayes; short with time I have to live; extinguisht in my Prime. Ner

Nor gricues it me to part with well-mist breath; For griefe will find a perfect cure in death: Would he I loue might longer life inioy! Now, two ill-fated Louers in one, die. This faid; againe vpon his Image gaz'd; Teares on the troubled water circles rais'd: The motion much obscur'd the fleeting shade. With that, he cry'd (perceining it to vade). O, whither wilt thou! stay: nor cruell proue, In leaving me, who infinitely love. Yet let me see, what cannot be possest: And, with that emptie food, my fury feaft. Complaining thus, himselfe he disarrayes; And to remorfelesse hands his brest displayer: The blowes that solid snow with crimson stripe; Like Apples party-red, or Grapes scarce ripe. But, in the water when the same appeare, He could no longer such a sorrow beare. As Virgin wax dissolues with feruent hear; Or morning frost, whereon the Sun-beams beat 3-So thawes he with the ardor of defire; And, by degrees, consumes in volcene fire. His meger checks now loft their red and white; That life, that favour loft, which did delight Nor those divine proportions now remaine, So much by Eccho lately lou'd in vaine. Which when shee saw; although she angry were, And still in minde her lare repulse did beare; As often as the miserable cry'd, Alas! Alas, the wofull Nymph reply'd. And ever when he struck his sounding brest, Like founds of mutuall sufferance express.

His last words were, still hanging o're his shade; Ah, Boy, belou'd in vaine ! so Ecche said. Farewell. Farewell, figh't she. Then downe he lyes: Deaths cold hand thut's his felfe-admiring eyes: Which now eternally their gazes fix Vpon the Waters of infernall Siyx. The wofull Naiades lament the dead; And their clipt haire vpon their brother spredi The wofull Dryades partake their woes: With both, lad Eccho ioynes at euery close. The funerall Pyle prepar'd, a Herse they brought To fetch his body, which they vainely fought. In stead whereof a yellow flowre was found, With tufts of white about the button crown'd: This, through Achaia spred the Prophets same; Who worthily had purchas't a great name. But, proud Echion's sonne, who did despite The righteous Gods, derides his prophecies; And twits Tiresias with his rauisht sight. He shook his head, which age had cloth'd in white; And faid, 'T were well for thee, hadft thou no eyes To see the Bacchanal solemnities. The time shall come (which I presage is necre) When Semeleian Liber will be here: Whom if thou honour not with Temples due; Thy Mother, and her fifters shall imbrue Their furious hands in thy effused blood; And throw thy feuered lims about the Wood. 'Twill be; thy malice cannot but rebell: And then thoul't fay; The blinde did see too well. His mouth proud Pentheus stops. Beliefe succeeds Fore-running threats: and words are scaled by deeds.

The Third Booke.

Li c is come ; the fields with clamor found: They in his Orgies tread a frantick Round. Women with Men, the base, and nobler sort, Together to those vnknowne Rites resort.

You sonnes of Mars, you of the Dragons race (Said be) what furic doth your minds imbase? Is Braffe of fuch a powre, which drunkards bear, Or found of Hornes, or Magicall deceit; That you, whom Trumpets clangor, horrid fight, Nor death, with all his terrors, could affright; Loud Women, wine-bred rage, a luftfull crew Of Beafts, and Kettle-drums, thould thus fubdew? Ar you, graue Fathers, can I but admire! Who brought with you your flying Gods from Tyre, And fixt them here: now from that care to farre Estranged, as to lose them without warre! Or you, who of my able age appeare; Whose heads should helmets, and not garlands, weare! Not leavy Jauclins, but good Swords adorne The hands of Youth. O you, so nobly borne; That Dragon's fiery fortitude indue, W hofe fingle valour fuch a number flue. He, in defending of his Fountayne, fell: Doc you th' Inuaders of your fame repell. He flue the firang: doe you the weake destroy : And fice your Country from foule imfamy. If Destinies decree that Thebes must fall; May men, may warlike engines raze her wall: I et sword and fire our famisht lines assault: Then should we not be wretched through our fault, Nor strine to hide our guilt; but, Fortune blame;

And vent our pittyed forrowes without shame.

Now,

Now, by a naked Boy we are put to flight: Whom bounding Steeds, nor glorious Arms delight. But haire perfum'd with Myrrbe, soft Anadems, And purple Robes inchac't with gold and gems; Who shall confesse (if you your aid denie) His forged Father, and falle Deitie. What ? had Acrisius vertue to withstand Th' Impostor, chaced from the Argine strand? And shall this vagabond, this forainer, Me Pentheus, and the Theban State deterre? Goe (said he to his servants) goe your way, And drag him hither bound : preuent delay. Him Cadmus, Athamas, and all diffwade; By opposition, more intemperate made. Furic increaseth, when it is with-stood: And then good countell doth more harme than good. So haue I seen an unstopt torrent glide: With quiet waters, scarcely heard to chide: But, when faln Trees, or Rocks, impeacht his courses. To fome, and roare with vncontrolled force. All bloudy they returne. Where is, faid hee, This Bacchus? Bacchus none of vs did see, Reply'd they; This his minister we found (Presenting one with hands behinde him bound) A Lydian zealous in those mysterics. On whom sierce Pentheus looks, with wrathfull eyese Who hardly could his punishment deferre. Then, thus: Thou wretch, that others thalt deterre, . Declare thy Name thy Nation, Parentage; And why thou followest this new-fangled Rage. He in whom innocency feare o're-came;

Made this reply; : Acetes is my name: .

My,

My life I owe to the Maonian earth; To none, my fortunes; borne of humble birth. No land my Father left me to manure, Nor Herds, nor bleating Flocks: hanfelfe was poore. The tempted Fish, with hook and line he caught: His skill was all his wealth: His skill he taught; And faid, My heire, successor to my Art. Receive the riches which I can impart. He, dying, left me nothing; and yet all: The Sea may I my patrimony call. Yet, lest I still should on those Rocks abide, To nauigation I my time apply'd; Obseru'd th' Olenian Kids, that raine portend; The Hyades, who weepe when they descend; Taygeta, and Ardurus, thereforts Officuerall winder; and harbour-giving Porcs. For Delos bound, we made the Chian shores: And, there arrived, with industrions Oarcs. Leaping a-shore, I made the beach my bed. When aged Night Aniera's bluffes fled. I role; and bade my men fresh water bring: Showing the way that guided to the Springs Then, from a Hill obseru'd the windes accorde My Mares I cald, and forth-with went abord. All here, the Master's Mate Ophelies cryes? And thinking he had light vpon a prize, Along the thore a louely Boy conuay'd, Adorned with the beautie of a Maid. Heavy with wine and fleepe, he reeled fo. That, though supported, he could hardly goe. When I beheld his habit, gait, and feature, Lould not thinke it was a humane Creature.

The Third Booke.

Fellowes, I doubt (nay, without doubt) faid I, This excellence includes a Deitic. O, be propitious, who-fo-'ere thou art; And to our industric successe impart; And pardon these who have offended thus. Then, Dillys faid: Forbeare to pray for ve: (Than he, none could the top faile-yard bestride With lighter speed; nor thence more nimbly slide) This, Libys, Swart Melanthus (who the Prom Commanded) and Alcimedon allow; Epopeus the Boats-man, to all fay; Bewitched with the blind defire of prey-This ship, said I, you shall not violate With facriledge of so divine a weight; Wherein I have most int'rest, and commands And on the harches their ascent with stand. Whereat, the desperate Lycabas grew wild: Who for a bloudy murder was exil'd From Tulcany. Whil'ft I along relift, He tooke me such a buffet with his fift. That downe I fell; and had faine ouer-board. If I (though senselesse) had not caught a cord. The wicked Company the fact approue. Then, Bacchus (for, 'twas he) began to moue, As if awaked with the noyfe they made (His wind-bound scales now discharg'd) and said : What clamor's this? What doe you? Sailers, whither Meane you to beare me? Ah, how came I hither! Feare not, said Prorens: name where thou would's be; And to that Harbor we will carry thee.

Then, Friends, Lyaus faid, for Naxes stand:

Naxes my home; an hospitable Land.

Bellones.

By Seas, by all the Gods, by what auayles, They sweare they will, and bade me hoyse-vp sayles. Which trim'd for Naxos on the Star-board fide: What do'st thou mad-man, foole? Opheltes cry'd. Each feares his losse. Some whisper in mine care: Most say by signes, Vnto the Lar-board steere. Amaz'd: Some other hold the Helme, said I; I'le not be tainted with your periuric. All chafe and storme. What? faid Ethalion. Is all our safetic plac't in thee alone? With that, my office he vpon bim tooke: And Naxos (altering her course) for sooke. The God (as if their fraud but now out-found) From th' upper deck the Sea survayed round; Then, seem d to crie. Sirs, this is not, said he, That promis't shore, the Landso wisht by me. What is my fault Awhat glory in my spoyle, If men a Boy, if many one beguile? I wept afore: but, they my teares deride; And with laborious Oares the waves divide. By him I sweare (than whom none more in view) That what I now shall veter, is as true. As past beliefe. The ship in those profound And spacefull Seas, so stuck as on drie ground. They, wondring, ply'd their Oares; the sayles display'd; And thrive to run her with that added aide. When luy gaue their Oares a forc't restraint ; Whose creeping bands the sayles with Berryes paint.

He, head-bound with a wreath of clustred Vines,

A lauelin shook, claspt with their leauy twines.

Stern Tygers, Lyaxes (such vnto the eye)

And spotted Panthers, round about him lye.

The Third Booke.

All, ouer-boord now tumble; whether 'twere Out of infused madnesse, or for searce Then, Medon first with spiny fins grew blacke; His forme depressed, with a compast back. To whom faid Lycabas; ô more than strange! Into what vicouth Monster wile thou change ! As thus he spake, his mouth became more wide; His nose more hookt: scales arme his hardned hide. While Libys tugged an Oare that fixed stands, His hands shrunke vp; now finns, no longer hands. An-other by a cable thought to hold; But, mist his armes. He fell: the Seas infold: His maymed body: which a tayle eft-soone Receives, reverfed like the horned Moone. They leap aloft, and sprinkle-vp the Flood; Now chace aboue; now vnder water scud: Who like lasciuious Dancers friske about; And gulped Seas, from their wide nosthrils spous Of twenty Saylers, onely I remayn'd: So many men our Complement contayn'd. The God my minde could hardly animate 3 Trembling with horror of so dire a Fate. Suppresse, said he, these tumults of thy seare; And now thy course for sacred Dia beare. Arrived there, with his implor deonsent, 1 Orders tooke; and thus his Feasts frequent.

Our eares are tyr'd with thy long ambages: Which wrath, faid he, would by delay, appeale. Goe, seruants, take him hence: let his fore't breath', Expire in grones: and torture him to death. In folid prison pent; while they prouide Whips, Racks, and Fire, the doores flie open wide.

Andi

And of themselves, as if dissolved by charmes, The fetters fall from his vapinion'd armes.

But now, not bidding others, Pentheus flings To high Cytheron's facred top, which rings With frantick fongs, and shrill-voic't Bacchanals, In Liber's celebrated Festivals.

And as the warlike Courser neighs and bounds, Instam'd with furie, when the Trumpet sounds: Euen so their far-heard elamours set on fire Sterne Pentheus, and exasperate his ire.

In midst of all the spacious Mountayne stood.

A perspicable Champain, fring'd with wood.

Here, first of all, his Mother him espyes,

Viewing those holy Rites with prophaneeyes. Shee, first, vpon him frantickly did runne:
And first her eger Iauclin peare't her sonne.

Come, fifters, cry'd thee, this is that huge Bore Which roots our fields; whom we with wounds must gore

With that, in-rush the sense-distracted Crew:

And altogether the amaz'd pursew.
Now trembled he; now, late-breath'd threats suppress:

Himselse he blames, and his offence consest. Who cry'd, Helpe Aunt Autome; 1 bleed:

O let Atteen's ghost soft pitty breed! Not knowing who Atteen was, shee lops His right hand off: the other Ino crops.

The wretch now to his Mother would have throwne. His suppliant hands: but, now his Lands were gone.

Yet lifting vp their bloody stumps, he said, Ah, Mother, see! Agane, well appay'd, Shours at the fight, casts up her neck, and shakes Her staring haire. In cruell hands shee takes The Third Booke.

His head, yet gasping: 10 sing, said shee,
10 my Mates I this spoyle belongs to mee.
Not leaves, now wither'd, nipt by Autumn's frost,
So soone are rawisht from high Trees, and tost
By Scattering windes, as they in pecces teare
His minced lims. Th'I/menians, struck with seare,
His Orgies celebrate; his prayses sing;
And incense to his holy Altars bring.

OFIDS

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The fourth Booke.

THE ARGYMENT.

DErceta, a Fifb. Semiramis a Doue. Transforming Nais equal Fate doth proses White berries Longer blood with black defiles. Apollo, like Eurynome, bequiles Leucothor, buried quick for that offence ? Who, Neltar-prinkled, sprouts to Evankincen Q. Grien'd Clitie, turn'd s'a Flowe, turns with the Sum Daphnis, to fime. Sex changeth Scytheon. Celmus, a Load-frome. Curets got by flowers. Crocus, and Smilax rum'd to little flowers. In one Hermaphrodite, swo bodies ioyne. Mineides, Bats. Sad Ino made dinine, With Melicert. Who luno's fall upbray'd, Or Statues, or Cadmean Fewles are made, Hermione and Cadmus, werne with wee, Proue hurtleffe Dragons. Drops to Serpents grown Atlas, a Mountaine. Gorgon-toucht Son-weeds To Corall change. From Gorgon's blood, proceeds Swift Pegalus: Crylaor alfo rakes From thence bis birth. Fair baires convert to Snakes, Bytyet, Alcithon Mineides.

The honour'd Orgies of the God displease.
Her fifters share in that impletie;
Who Bacchus for the sonne of lone denic.

And

And now his Priest proclaimes a solemne Feast; That Dames and Maids from viual labour rest; That wrapt in skins, their haire-laces vnbound, And dangling Treffes with wilde Iuy crown'd. They leavy Speares assume. Who prophesies Sad haps to fuch as his command despife. The Matrons and new-marryed Wives obay: Their Webs, their vn-spun Wooll, aside they lay; Sweet odours burne; and fing: Lyaus, Bacchus, Nesaus, Bromius, Euan, great lacchus: The-got, Sonne of two Mothers, The twice-borne, Father Eleleus, Thron neuer shorne, Lengus, planter of life cheering Vines; Nyclileus: with all names that Greece affigues To thee. ô Liber! Still dost thou injoy Vnwasted Youth; eternally a Boy! Thou're seen in heaven; whom all perfections grace; And, when vnhorn'd, thou hast a Virgins face. Thy conquests through the Orienzare renown'd. Where tawny India is by Ganges bound. Proud Pentheus, and Lycurgus, like prophane, By thee (ô greatly to be fear'd!) were flaine: The Thulcans drencht in Seas. Thou hold it in ane The spotted Lyuxes, which thy Chariot draw. Light Bacchanals, and skipping Satyrs follow, Whil'st old Sylenus, recling still, doth halloo; Who weakly hangs, upon his tardic Asic. What place to-e're thou entrest, sounding brasse, Lowd Sack-buts, Tymbrels, the confused cryes Of Youths and Women, pierce the marble skyes. Thy presence, we, 1/menides, implore: Come, ô come pleas'd! Thus they his Rites restore-Yet, The Fourth Backe.

Yet, the Menêides at home remaine: And with their plyed task's his Feast prophane: Who either weave, or at their distass spin; And vrge their Maids to exercise their sin. One faid, as shee the twisted thread out-drew; While others sport, and forged Gods pursews Let vs, whom better Palles doth inuite, Our victual labour leason with delight, And stories tell by turnes; that, what long yeares Denie our eyes, may enter at our cares. They all agree; and bade the eldest tell Her storie first. Shee paus'd, not knowing well Of many which to choole: Tinfilt vpon The Sad Dercetis, of fam'd Babylon (Who, as the Palestines beleeue, did take A scaly forme, inhabiting a Lake) Or of her daughter speake, with wing'd ascene High-pearcht on towres: who there her old age spents Or of that Nais; who with charmes most strange, And weeds too pow'rfull, humane shapes did change, Into mute Fishes, till a Fish thee grewt Or of the Tree whole berries chang'd their hew; The white to black, by bloods afpersion, growne: This pleafeth best; as being most vnknowne. Who thus began; and draws the following woll.

Young Pyramus (no Youth so beautifull Through all the East) and Thusbe (who for faire Might with th'immortall Goddeilos compare) loyn'd houses, where Semiramis inclos'd Her stately towne, with walls of brick compos'd. This neighbourhood their first acquaintance bred: That, grew to love; Love fought a nuptiell bed:

Buz

Non

But Parents, who could not with-stand, with-stood Their joynt defires, and like incenfed blood. Signes onely vtter their vnwitnest loues: But hidden fire the violenter proues. A cranny in the parting wall was left; By shrinking of the new-layd morter, cleft: This, for so many Ages undescry'd. (What cannot Loue finde out!) the Louers spy'd. By which, their whispering voyces sofuly trade, And Paffion's amorous embaffie conuay'd. On this fide, and on that, like Snailes they cleave 3: And greedily each others breath receaue. O envious walls (faid they) who thus divide Whom Loue hath loyn'd! O, give vs way to flide: Into each others armes! if such a blisse Transcend our Fates, yet suffer vs to kisse! Nor are wingrate: much we confesse we owe To you, who this deare libertic bestowe. At Night they bid farewell. Their kisses greet The senselesse stones, with lips that could not meet.

When from th'approching Morn the stars withdrew, And that the Sunne had drunke the scorched dew, They at the vivall Station meet againe; And with fost murmurs mutually complaine. At last, resolue in silence of the Night To steale away, and free themselues by flight; And with their houses, to forsake the Towne-Yet, left they to might wander vp and downe; To meete at Nimus tombe they both agree, Vinder the shell er of a shady Tree. There, a high Mulberry, full of white fruit; Hard by a living Fountayne fixt his Root.

The Sun, that seem'd too slow, his steeds bestowes In restfull Seas: from Seas, witht Night arose. Then Thisbe in the darke the doores vnbarr'd: And flipping forth, vnmissed by her guard, Comes maskt to Ninus tomb: there in the cold Sits underneath that Tree: Loue made her bold. When (lo!) a Lyonelle, smear'd with the blood Of late-flaine Becues, approche the neighbor flood, To quench her thirst. Far-off by Moon-light spy'd. Swift feare her flight into a Caue doth guide. Flying, her mantle from her shoulders fell: The fatall Lionesse, as from the Well Vp to the rocky Mountaine shee with-drawes. Found it, and tore it with her bloody iawes.

The Fourth Booke.

When Pyramus, who came not forth so soone, Perceived by the glimples of the Moone The footing of wilde Beafts: his looke grew pale. But, when he spy'd her torne and bloody vaile; One night (faid he) two louers shall destroy! Shee longer life deserved to inioy. The guilt is mine: 'twas I (poore foule!) that flue thee Who to a place so full of danger drew thee, Nor came before. You Lyons, ô descend From your aboads! a wretch in pecces rend. Condemned by his selfe-pronounced doom: And make your entrailes my opprobrious tombl Inte But Cowards wish to die. Her mantle hee Carryes along vnto th'appointed Tree. There having kift, and washt it with his eyes: Take from our blood, laid he, the double dyes. With that, his body on his fword he threw: Which, from the reaking wound, he dying drew.

The.

Now, on his back, vp-spun the blood in smoke: As when a Spring-conducting pipe is broke, The waters at a little breach break out. And hisling, through the aery Region spout. The Mulberries their former white forfake; And from his sprinkling blood their crimson take.

Now she, who could not yet her feare remoue, Retuins, for feare to disappoint her Loue. Her eger spirit seeks him through her eyes; Who longs to tell of her escap't surprise. The place and figure of the Tree she knew; Yet doubts, the berries having chang'd their hew. Vncertaine; she his panting lims descry'd, That struck the stayned earth; and starts aside. Box was not paler than her changed looke: And like the lightly breath'd-on Sea she shooke. But, when the knew 'twas he (now dispossest Ofher amaze) shee shreeks, beats her swoln brest, Puls off her haire; imbraces, softly reares His hanging head, and fils his wound with reares. Then, kiffing his cold lips: Woe's me (she said) What curied Fate hath this division made! Ospeake, my Pyramus! ô looke on mee! Thy deare, thy desperate Thisbe calls to thee ! At Thirbe's name he opens his dim eyes; And having seen her, thuts them vp, and dyes. But when his emptle scabbard shee had spy'd, And her known Robe; Vnhappy man! she cry'd, Their wounds from loue, from thine own hand proceed! . Nor is my hand too weake for such a deed: My loue as strong. This, this shall courage giuc To force that life which much disdains to liuc. Is

In death I'le follow thee! instyl'd by all, The wretched Cause, and partner of thy Fall. Whom Death (that had (alas!) alone the might To pull thee from me!) shall not dis-vnite. O you, our wretched Parents (thus seuere To your owne blood!) my last Petition heare: Whom constant loue, whom death hath ioyn'd, interre Together in one envi'd Sepulcher. And thou, ô Tree, whose branches shade the slaine; Of both our flaughters beare the lasting staine: In funerall habit: euer clothe your brood; A living monument of our mixt blood. This faid, his fword, yet recking, shee revers't, And with a mortall wound her bosom pearc't. The easie Gods vnto her wish accord : Their Parents also her desire afford: The late-white Mulberryes in black now mourne a And what the fire had left, lay in one vrne.

The Fourth Booke.

Here ended the. Some intermission made. Leucothoe, her listers filent, faid:

This Sunne, who all directeth with his light, Weake Loue hath tam'd : his loues we now recite. He first discouer'd the adulterie Of Mars and Venus (nothing scapes his eye) And in displeasure told to Innu's sonne Their fecret stealths, and where the deed was done. His spirits faint: his hands could not sustaine The worke in hand. Forthwith, he forg'd a chaine, With nets of braffe, that might the eye deceauc, (Leffe curious far the webs which Spiders weare) Made pliant to each touch, and apt to elofe: This, he about the guiltie bed beflowers.

No sooner these Adulterers were met. Than caught in his fo ftrangely forged net; Who, strugling, in compeld imbracements lay. The luory doores then Vulcan doth desplay; And calls the Gods. They shamefully lay bound: Yet one, a wanton, witht to be so found. The heavenly dwellers laugh. This tale was told Through all the Round, and mirth did long vphold. Venus, incenst, on him who this disclos'd A memorable punithment impos'd. And he, of late so tyrannous to Loue, Loue's tyrannie in iust exchange doth proue. Hyperion's fonne, what boots thy pearcing fight Thy feature, colour, or thy radiant light! For thou, who earth inflamest with thy fires. Art now thy selfe inflam'd with new desires. Thy melting eyes alone Leucothoe view; And give to her, what to the World is dew. Now, in the East thou hastnest thy vp-rise: Now, flowly fert'st; even loth to leave the skyes. And, while that Obiect thus exacts thy stay, Thou addest houres vnto the Winters day. Oft, in thy face thy mindes disease appeares; Affrighting all the darkned World with feares. Not cynchia's interposed Oche doth moue These pale aspects; this colour springs from loue. Shee all thy thoughts ingroft: nor didft thou care For Clymene, for her who circes bare. For Khodos, Chtie, who in love abounds, Although despised, though tortur'd with two wounds-All, all were buried in Leucothoe; Borne in liveet Saba, of Eurynome.

As thee in beautic farre surpast all other: So much the Daughter farre surpast the Mother. Great Orchamus was Faiher to the Maid: Who, scuenth from Belas Priseus, Perficienty'd. In low Hifperian Vales those pastures are Where Phabus horses on Ambreha fare. There, tyred with the trauels of theday. They renouate what labour doth decay. Now, while coelestiall food their hunger feeds. And Night in her alternate raigne moccods a In figure of Eurynome, the God Sharid Approche the chamber, where his life aboad. He, spinning by a lamp, Lewcathot found, With twice lix hand-maids, who inclosed her round Then kissing her (her Mother now by Art) I have, faidle, a secret to impart: Maids, presently with-draw. They all obey de He, after he had cleer d the chamber, faids The tardic Yeare I mensure: I am ho Who see all Objects, and by whom all see; The World's cloene eye: by thy fair felfe, I fweare, I lone thee about thought. Shoe shooke for feare 1 Her spindle and her distasse from her fell: And yet that feare became her wondrous well. Then, his owne forme and radiancy, he tooke: Though with that vnexpected prefence ftrocker Yet, vanquisht by his besentie, her complaint Shee laid-alide, and fulfred his constraint. This Clytic vext (his love obland no measure) Who in the furie of her fell displeasure, Divulged the quickly-spreading infamy. And to her father doth the fact descry.

Who sterne and sauage, shuts vp allremorses. From her that fu'd, subdew'd, the said, by force; And Sol to witnesse calls. He his dishonour Interres aline, and casts a Mount vpon her. Hyperion's sonne this batters with his rayes: And for her re-ascent a breach displayes. Yet could not the advance her heavy head: But life, too hafty, from her body fled. Neuer did Phalmi wish luch forrow mourne Since wretched Rhacten the World did burne Yet strives he with his influence to beget In her cold lims a life-rounking heat. But, fince the Fates such great attempts withstood; He steeps the place and body in a floud Offragrant Nectar: much bewailes her end: And fighing, faid; Yet shalt thou heaven ascend. Forthwith, her body thawes into a deaw: Which, from the moy fined earth, an odour threw Then through the hill ashrub of Prankincense Thrust vp his crowne, and tooke his root from thence Though loue might chries for row have excused; Sorrow, her tongue; Daye's King her bed refus'd. She, with distracted passion, pines away, Detesteth company; all night, all day, Difrobed, with her ruffled haire vinbound, And wet with humour, fire vpon the ground? For minclong dayes all fuffenance for beares i Her hunger cloyd with deaw, her thirst with teares Nor role; but, illets on the God hereyes: And cuer turnes her face to him that flyes. At length, to earth her stupid body cleanes: Her wan complexion turns to bloodlesse-leaner, Yet streak't with red: her perisht lims beget A flowre, resembling the pale Violet; Which, with the fun, though rooted fast, doth moue; And, being changed, changeth not her loue. Thus the. This wondrous fory caught their cares To some the same impossible appeares; Others, that all is possible, conclude, To true-styl'd Gods: but, Basebus they extrude. All whist, Atcitboe, call'd vpon, doch run Her shettle through the web; and thus begun. T'omit the pastorall loues, to few vnknowne, Of young Idean Duplinis; turn'd to stone By that vext Nymph; who could not elfc affwage Her icalousie: such is a louer's rage! And Scython who his nature innouaces, Now male, now female, by alternate Fates; With Celmus turn'd into an Adamant, Who of his faith to little love might vant ; The shorne Curetes, got by falling showres; Crecos and Smilax, changed to pretty flowres, I ouer-passe; and will your cares surprize With sweet delight of vnknowne nouelties.

The Fourth Booke.

Then, know, how Salmacis infamous grew a Whose too strong waves all manly strength vndo, And mollific, with their foule-fortning touch: The cause ynknown; their nature knowne too muche Th'idean Nymphs nurst, in secure delight, The sonne of Hermes and faire Approdite. His father and his mother in his looke You might behold: from whom, his name he tooko. When Summers fine he thrice had multiply'd; Leaving the fount-full Hills of foster 1de

Ya

He wandred through strange Lands, pleas'd with the sight Of forren streames; toyle less ning with delight. The Lycian Cities past, he treads the grounds Of wealthy Caria, which on Lycia bounds: There lighted on a Poole, so passing elect, That all the glittering bottom did appear; Inuiron'd with no marish-louing Reeds, Nor piked Bull-rushes, nor barren weeds: But, living Turf vpon the border grew; Whose euer-Spring no blasting Winter knew. A Nymph this haunts, enpractized in the chace, To bend a Bow, or run a strife-full race. Of all the Water-Nimphs, this Nymph alone To nimble-footed Dian was vinknowne. Her listers oft would say; Fie, Salmacis, Fie lazie lister, what a sloth is this! Vpon a Quiucr, or a Iauclin scaze; And with laborious hunting mix thine eafe. On Quiuer, nor on Iauclin, would she scaze; Nor with laborious hunting mix her case. But now in her owne Fountayne bathes her faire And shapefull lime; now kembs her golden haire: Her selfe oft by that liquid mirror drest; There taking counfell what became her best: Her body in transparant Robes array'd, Now on soft leaues, or softer mosse display'd: Oft gathers flowres; so, when she saw the Boy: Whom feen, forthwith shee couets to inioy; And yet would not approch, though big with hate, Till neatly trickt, till all in order plac't; Her love-inveighling lookes fer to infoare; Who merited to be reputed fair e.

Sweet Boy, faid the, well worthy the aboad Of blest cœlestialls! if thou be a God, Then art thou cupid! if of humane race, Happy the Parents, whom thy person grace! Thy fifter, if thou haft a fifter, bleft! Thy Nurse, much more, who fed thee with her breff! But (01) no lesse than deisi'd is shee Whom mariage shall incorporate to thee! If any such; let me this treasure steale: If not, be't I; and our dear Nuptials seale. This faid, the held her peace. He blushe for shame; Not knowing loue: whom shamefac tnesse became. So Apples show upon the sunny side; So Iuory, with rich Vermillion dy'd : So pure a red the filuer Moone doth staine, When auxiliary braffe refounds in vaine. Shee carnelly intreats a fifters kiffe: And now, advancing to imbrace her bliffe, He, ftruggling, faid; Lascinious Nymph, forbeare; Or I will quit the place, and leave you heare. Faire Stranger, timorous Salmacis reply'd, 'Tis freely yours; and therewith frept aside: Yet, looking back, amongst the shrubby Trees She closely sculks, and crouches on her kneed The vacant Boy, now being left alone, Imagining he was obseru'd by none, Now here, now there, about the margent trips; And, in th'alluring waves his ankles dips. Caught with the Water's flattering temp'rature, He streight distrobes his body; ô, how pure! His naked beautic Salmacis amaz'd: Who with valatisticd longing gaz'd

The Fourth Booke.

Her sparkling eyes shoot slames through this sweet error; Much like the Sunne reflected by a mirror. Now, the impatiently her hope delayes; Now, burns t'imbrace: now, halfe-madde, hardly stayes. He fwiftly from the banke on which he stood, Clapping his body, leaps into the flood; And, with his rowing armes, supports his lims: Which, through the pure waves, glifter as he swims. Like luory statues, which the life surpasse; Or like a Lilly, in a crystall glasse. kle's mine! the Nymph exclaim'd: who all vnstript; And, as the spake, into the water skipt: Hanging about the neck that did relift; And, with a mastring force, th'vnwilling kist: Now, puts her hand beneath his scornfull brest; Now cuery way inuading the diffrest: And wraps-about the subject of her lust, Much like a Serpent by an Eagle truss'e; Which to his head and feet, infettered, clings; And wreaths her tayle about his stretcht-out wings. So clasping luy to the Oke doth grow; And so the Pelypus detaines his foe-But Atlantiades, relentlesse coy, Still struggles, and resists her hop't-for joy. Inuested with her body : foole, said shee, Struggle thou may'st; but never shalt be free. O you, who in immorrall thrones reside, Grant that no day may euer vs divide! Her wishes had their Gods. Euen in that space Their cleaving bodies mix: both have one face. As when wee two divided scions ioyne, And see them grow together in one rine:

So they, by fuch a first inbracement glew'd, Are now but one, with double forme indew'd. No longer he aboy, nor the a maid; But neither, and yet either, might be faid. Hermaphreditus at himselfe admires: Who halfe a female from the foring retires, His manly lims now forthed; and thus prayes. With such a voyce as neither sex bettayes: Swift Hermes, Apbrodice ! him & heare Who was your forme! who both your names doth beare! May every man, that in this water swims, Returne halfe-woman, with infeebled lims. His gentle parents figne to his request; And with viknowne receits the firing infeft. Here, they conclude yer give their hands no reft, But Bacchus flight, and fill prophane his Feaft. Then, suddenly harsh instruments surprize Their charged eares, not extant to their eyes: Sweet Myrrhe and Saffron all the house perfume. Their webs (past credit!) flourish in the loome: The hanging woolf to green-lean'd Invipreads; Part, into vines: the equal twilled threads To branches run: buds from the diffaire fhooic; And with that purple paint their bluffing fruit. Now to the day succeeds that doubtfull light; Which neither can be called day, nor night-The building rembles: corches of fat Pines Appeare to hurne; the roome with flathes thines; Fill'd with finiciticall recemblances Of howling beatts, whom blood and flarghter please The Sifters, to the lineary roofe retire;
And, there dispert, anothe both light and lice. Thus,

Thus, while they corners feeke, thin films extend From lightned lims, with small beams inter-pend But how their former shapes they did forgoe. Concealing darkneffe would not let them know. Nor are these little Light-detesting things Born-vp with feathers, but transparant wings. Their voyce besits their bodies; small, and faint: Wherewith they harshly viter their complaint. These houses haunt, in night concease their shame; And of the loued Eucning take their name. All Thetes now feared Bacchus celebrates: Whose wondrous powr his boasting Aunt relates. She onely, of so many fifters, knew No griefe as yet, but what from them the drew. A happy Mother, Wife to Athamas, Nurse to a God: these caus'd her to surpasse The bounds of her felicities; and made Vext I uno storm; who to her selfe thus said; What? could that Strumpets brat the form defeife

Of poore Magnian Saylers, drencht in Seas? A Mother vige to murther ber owne fon? And wing the three Mineides that spun? Can I but vn-reuenged wrongs deplore? Must that suffize? and is our powre no more? He teacheth what to doe; learne of thy Foe: What furie can, the wounds of Pentheus show More than too-much. Why should not Ine tread The path which late her franticke fifters lead? A fleepe darke Cauc, with deadly Ewe repleat, Through filence leads to hell's infernall feat.

By this, dull Styx eiechs a blafting fume: Here ghosts desend, whose bodies earth inhume; Amongs Amongst those thorns, stiffe Cold, and Paleneffe dwell. The new-come ghosts nor know the way to Hell;

Nor where the roomy Ssygian Citie stands; Or that dire Palace where black Dis commands. A thousand entries to this Citic guide:

The gates still open stand, on every side. And as all Rivers run into the Deep; So all vnhoused Soules doe thither creep-

Nor are they pettered for want of roome: Nor can it be perceiu'd that any come

Here shadowes wander from their bodies pent: Some plead; and some the Tyrants Court frequent; Some in life-practized Arts imploy their times: Others are torur'd for their former Crimes.

Saturnia stooping from her Throne of Ayre (Her hate immortall!) thither makes repayre. As soone as shee had entered the gate,

The threshold trembl'd with her facted waight. Still-waking Cerberus the Goddesse dreads, And barketh thrice at once, with his three heads Shee calls the Furies, Daughters to old Night;

Implacable, and having all delight: Before the doors of Adamant they fit; And there with combs their fnaky curles vaknit.

When they through gloomy darknesse did disclose That forme of Heaven, the Goddesses arose. The Dungeon of the Damned this is nam'd.

Here Tityes, for attempted Rape defam'd, Had his vast body on nine Acres spread: And on his heart a greedy Vulture fed-

From Tantalus, deceitfull water slips:

And catcht-at fruit avoids his touched lips.

Thou

Thou euer scekest, or roul'st vp in vaine A stone, & Sifyphus, to fall againe. Ixion, turn'd voon a restlesse wheele, With giddy head purfews his flying heele-The Betides, whom Kinf-men's blood accuse, For ever draw the Water, which they loofe. On all, Saturnia frowns; but most of all At thee Ixion; then, a looke lets fall On Silyphus: And why (faid flice) remaines This brother onely in perpetuall paines; When haughtie Athamar, whose thoughts despile Both lone and me, abides in constant loyes? Then tells the cause of her approch, her hate, And what shee would: the fall of cadmus stare: That Athamas the Furies would distract. And vrge him to some execrable fact. Importunately shee soliciteth, Commands, intreats, and promiff, with one breath-Incenst Tisiphone her Tresses shakes: And, roffing from her face the hiffing Snakes, Thus faid: You need not yfe long ambages; Suppose all done already, that may please: Forfake this lothfome Kingdome, and repayre To th'ypper world's more comfortable ayre. Well-pleas'd Saturnia then to heaven with-drew: Whom first Thaumantian Iris purg'd with deaw. Forthwith, Tiffphone her garment takes,

Dropping with blood, and girt with knotted Snakes. About her head a bloody torch she shooke; And fwiftly those accurst aboads for sooke. Still-fighing Sorrow, Horror, trembling Feare, And gaitly Madnelle, ber alfociats were.

The entred Palace gron'd: pale poylon loyles The politht doores: the frighted Sunne recoyles. Then Athamas and Im, strucke with dread And monstrous apparitions, lought rhaue fled: But sterne Erinnys their cleape withstands; And stretching-out her viper-grasping hands, Shook her dark brows. The troubled Scrpents hitts Some, falling on her thoulders; shere vntwift; Others, vpon her vgly breft descend, Spet poylon, and their forked tongues extend. Two Adders from her crawling haire shee drew; And those at Aibamas and Ing threw: Thefe vp and down about their boloms roule; And with infus'd infection fad the Soule. No wound vpon their bodies could be found: It was the mind that felt this desporate wound. She brought besides, from her abhorred horize, The furfet of Echidna, with the fome Of hell-bred cerberus, full-wandring Error, Obliuion, Mischiefe, Teares, in fernall Terror, Distracted Fury, an Affection fixt On murder ; altogether ground, and mist; 1 With blood yet recking; boyl'd in hollow braffe, And flird with Hemlocke. While fad Alhamas And in quake, the pours into their brefts The ragefull poylon; which their peace infelts. Her flamy torch then whisking in a round (Whose circularie fire her conquest crown'd) To . Into's emptioregiment the makes A swift descent; and there vngirts her Snakes. Forthwith, Æelides with poyfor boyles. 14, my Mates, he cryes, here pitch your toyles;

The Fourth Booke.

The.

Here,

Here, late a Lyoneffe by me was seen With her two whelps. With that, purfues the Queen And from her breft clearchus inaucht: The Child Stretchoforth his little arms, and on him smil'd: Whom like a fling about his head he fwings; And cruelly against the pauement flings. The Morher, whether with her griefe diffraught, Or that the poylon on her fenles wrought, Auns howling with her haire about her eares; And in bare arms her Melicerta beares; Cryes Euche Bacchus ! Ium laught, and faid; Thus art thou by thy Foster-child repay'd. There is a Rock that ouer-looks the Mayne, Mollow'd by fretting Surges, sconfi from rayne, Whole craggy brow to valter Seas extends. This, Ino (fury adding firength) ascends; Descending head-long, with the load she beares; And strikes the sparkling waves, that fall in teares. Then, Venus, griening at her Neece's Fate, Bier Vncle thus intrents: O thou, whole State Is next to love's ; great Ruler of the Flood; My fute is bold; yet pitty then my blood, Now toffed in the deepe to men Seas: And joyne them so thy watrie Deities. Some favour of the Sea I should obtaine, That am ingender'd of the fomy Maine: Of which, the acceptable name I beare. Nep:une affords a fauourable eare: Who what was mortall from their beings tookes;

Then gaue to either a Maiefticke looke;

And her, Levesties; him, l'aleman namide.

In all their faculties divinely framed :

The Theban Ladics, who her steps pursew'd, Her last on the first Promontorie view'd. Then, held for dead; with haire, and garments rent, They beat their brists; and cadmus House lament. Of little luftice and much Crueltic. All, inno tax. Indure (thee faid) shall & Such blasphemies > L'le make you monuments Of my revenge. Thrests when their exents. When one, of all the most affectionate. Cry'd, O my Queene, I will partake thy Fate! And thought to leape into the roring filood; But could not move ; her feete fast lixed stood. Another, who her bosome meant to beat; Perceiu'd her stiff ned armes to lose their heat. By chance, her hand This streecheth to the Maines Nor could her hand now flore, vaffretch agains. As She her violated Treffes tare. Her fingers forthwith hardned in her haire. Their Statues now those scuerall gestures beare-Wherein they formerly furprised were. Some, Fowles became; now eald Cadmides; Who with their light wings sweepe those gulphy Seas-Little knew cadmus, that his Children raign'd. In facred Seas, and deathlesse States retayn'd. Subdew'd with woes, with tragical euents, That had no end, and many dire oftents, He leaves his Citie; as not through his owne,. But by the fortune of the place o're-throwne: And with his wife Hermione, long toll,

At length arrived at th' Illyrian Coast.

Their furnier toyles, and Familie's first face.

Now ipent with griefe and age, whil'st they relate:

The:

And was that Serpent facred, which I flew (Said he) whose teeth into the Earth I threw (An vincouth feed) when I from Siden came? If this, the vengefull Gods fo much inflame, May I my belly Serpent-like extend! His belly lengthned, ere his with could end. Tough scales vpon his hardned out-fide grew; The black, diffinguithed with drops of blew. Then, falling on his breaft, his thighs vnite; And in a spiny progrelle stretch out-right. His armes (for, armes as yet they were) he spreads: And teares on cheeks, that yet were humane, sheds. Come, O Sad Soule, faid he; thy husband toucly; Whil'st I am I, or part of me be such. Shake hands, while yet I have a hand to shake; Before I totally endue a Snake. His tongue was yet in motion; when it cleft In two, forthwith of humane speech bereft. He hift, when he his forrowes fought to vent; The onely language now which Nature lent. His Wife her naked bosom beats, and cryes, Stay Cadmus, and put off these prodigies. O strange! where are thy feet, hands, thoulders, breaft; Thy colour, face, and (while I speake) the rest! You Gods, why also am not I a Snake? He lick ther willing lips even as the spake; Into her well-knowne bosom glides; her waste, And yeelding neck, with louing twines imbrac't. Amazement all the standers-by possess; While glittering combs their flippery heads inueft. Now are they two: who crept, together chayn'd, Tall they the conert of the Wood attayn'd.

Thele

These gentle Dragons, knowing what they were, Do hurt to no man, nor mans presence feare. Yet were those forrowes by their daughters sonne Much comforted, who vanquisht india won: To whom th' Achaians Temples confectate; Dinincly magnifi'd through either State. Alone Acrisius Abantiades, Though of one Progenie, diffents from thefe: Who, from th' Argolian Citic, made him flie; And manag'd armes against a Deirie. Nor him, nor Perfeus he for I nie's doth hold; (Begot on Danaé in a showre of gold) Yet straight repents (so preualent is truth) Both to have forc't the God,& doom'd the Youth-Now is the one inthroned in the skyes: The other through Ayr's emptie Region flyes; And beares along the memorable spoyle Of that new Monster, conquer'd by his toyle. And as he o're the Lybian Deferts flew, The bloud, that drop's from Gorgen's head, ftreight greis To various Serpents, quickned by the ground: With these, those much insested Climes abound. Hither and thither, like a cloud of rayne Borne by crosse windes, he cuts the ayrie Mayne; Far-diffant earth beholding from on high; And ouer all the ample World doth flie: Thrice faw Ardingus, thrice to cancer preft; Oft hurried to the East, oft to the West. And now, not truffing to approched night. Vpon th' Hefperian Continent doth light: And craves some rest, till Lucifer displayes Aurora's bluth, and thee Apolle's rayes.

Huge-itatur'd Atlas Lapetoni des Here sway'd the vemost bounds of Earth and Seas; Where Titan's panting steeds his Chariot steepe, And bathe their fierie feet-locks in the Deepe. A thousand Heards, as many Flocks, he fed In those large Pastures, where no neighbours tread. Here to their tree the shining branches sute; To them, their leaves; to those, the golden fruit. Great King, faid Perfeus, if high birth may moue Respect in thee, behold the sonne of lone: If admiration, then my Acts admire; Who reft, and hospitable Rites desire; He, mindfull of this prophecie, of old By facted Themis of Parnassus told; In time thy golden fruit a prey shall proue, O laphets sonne, vnto the sonne of loue. This fearing, he his Orchard had inclos'd With folid Cliffs, that all accesse oppos'd: The Guard whereof a monstrous Dragon held; And from his Land all Forrainers expeld. Be gone, said he, for feare thy glories prooue, But counterfeit; and thou no lonne to lone; Then addes uncivill violence to threats. With strength the other seconds his intreats: In strength inferiour; Who so strong as he? Since courtefie, nor any worth in me, Vext l'erseus said, can purchase my regard; Yet from a guest receive thy due reward. With that, Medusa's vgly head he drew, His owne renerfed. Forthwith, Atlas grew. Into a Mountayne equall to the man: His haire and beard to woods and bushes range

His armes and shoulders into ridges spred; And what was his is now the Mountaynes head: Bones turne to stones; and all his parts extrude Into a huge prodigious altitude. (Such was the pleasure of the ever-bleft) Whereon the heavens, with all their tapers, reft. Hipporades in hollow rocks did close The strife-full Windes: Bright Lucifer mole And rous'd-vp Labour. Perleus, having cy'd His wings t" his feet, his fauchion to his fide. Sprung into ayre: below, on either hand Innumerable Nations left: the Land Of Æthion, and the Cepben fields furuay'd; There, where the innocently wretched maid Was for her mothers proud impictic, By vniust Ammon sentenced to die. Whom when the Heros faw to hard rocks chain'd: But that warm tears from charged eye-springs drain'd And light winds gently fann'd her fluent haire, He would have thought her marble: Ere aware He fire attracterin; and, aftonish by Her beautie, had almost forgot to fly. Who lighting faid; Offairelt of thy kinde (More worthy of those bands which Louers bind. Than these rude gynes) the Land by thee renownd, Thy name, thy birth declare; and why thus bound. At first, the filent Virgin was affrayd To speake t'a man sand modestly had made. A vilard of her hands; but they were ty'd: And yet abortine teares their fountaines hide. Still vrg'd, left the thould wrong ber innocence. As if albam'd to yeter her offence. Her HerCountrie shee discouers; her owne name; Her beauteous Mothers confidence, and blame. All yet viitold, the Waiies began to rore: Th' apparant Monster (hastining to the shore) Before his brest, the broad-spred Sea vp-beares. The Virgin shreeks. Her Parents see their feares. Both mourne; both wretched (but, shee iustly so:) Who bring no aid, but extalies of woe, With teares that flite the time: Who take the lease They loathe to take; and to her body cleave. You for your griefe may haue, the stranger laid, A time too long: thort is the houre of aid. If freed by me, Tone's fonne, in fruitfull gold Begot on Danae through a brazen Hold; Who conquer'd Gorgon with the shake haire And boldly glide through vn-inclosed aire: If for your fonne you then will me prefer; Adde to this worth, That in deliucring her; I'le trie (so fauour me the Powres divine) That thee, fau'd by my valour, may be mine. They take a Law; intreat what he doth offer: And further, for a Dowre their Kingdome proffer. Lo! as a Gally with fore-fixed prow (Row'd by the sweat of slaues) the Sea doth plow : Euen to the Montter furroweth with his breft, The forming floud; and to the neere Rocke prest: Not farther diffant, than a man might fling A way-inforcing bullet from a fling. Forth-with, the youthfull issue of rich showrs, Harth puthing from him, to the blew skye towrs. The furious Monfter eagerly doth chace His thadow, gliding on the Seas smooth face.

And as toue's bird, when thee from high furuayes A Dragon basking in Apollo's rayes; Descends vnscene, and through his necks blew scales (To shun his deadly teeth) her talons naile's: So swiftly stoops high-pitcht spachides Through finging ayre: then on his backe doth feaze; And neere his right fin theaths his crooked fword Vp to the hilts; who deeply wounded roar'd: Now capers in the ayre, now dives below The troubled waves; now turn's vpon his foe: Much like a chafed Bore, whom eager hounds Haue at a Bay, and terrifie with founds. He, with swift wings, his greedy lawes avoids; ' Now, with his fauchion wounds his scaly sides; Now, his shell-rough-cast back; now, where the taile Ends in a Fith, or parts expos'd t'affaile. A streame mixt with his bloud the Monster flings From his wide throat; which wers his heavy wings a Nor longer dares the wary Youth rely On their support. He sees a rock hard by. Whose top aboue the quiet waters stood; But vnderneath the winde-incensed flood. There lights; and, holding by the rocks extent. His oft-thrust sword into his bowels sent. The shore rings with th' applause that fills the skye. Then, cepbeus and Cassiope, with ioy, Salute him for their fon: whom now they call The Saujour of their House, and of them all. Vp came Andromeda, freed from her chaines: The cause, and recompense of all his paines. Meane-while, he watheth his victorious hands In cleaning waves. And left the beachy Sands

And

Should

This told; he faid: Now tell, O valiant Knight,

By what felicitie of force or fleight,

Should hurt the fnaky head, the ground he strew With leaues and twigs that under water grew: Whereon, Medula's vgly face he layes. The greene, yet inicy, and attractine sprayes From the toucht Monster stiffning handnesse tooke; And their owne natiue pliancy forlooke. The Sea-Nymphs this admired wonder trie On other Sprigs, and in the iffue ioy: Who fow againe their Seeds vpon the Deepe. The Coral I now that propertie doth keepe, Receiving hardnes from felt ayre alone: Beneath the Sea a swig, aboue a stone. Forth-with, three Altars he of Turf creds, To Hermes, love, and Her who warre affects: Minerua's on the right; on the left hand Stood Mercurie's: love's in the midft did ffand. To Mercurie, a Calfe they sacrifice; To loue, a Bull; a Cow, to Pallas dyes: Then takes Andromeda, the full reward Of so great worth; with Dow'r, of lesse regard. Now, Loue and Hymen vige the Nuprial Bed: The facred Fires with rich perfumes are fed; The house hung round with Garlands; enery where

Melodious Harps and Songs falure the eare;

The Cephen Nobles, and each stranger Guest,

Their heightned spirits: verfeus longs to heare

The Banquet done, with generous wines they cheare

Officeond mirth the free and happy fignes:
With Dores display'd, the golden Palace shines.

Together enter to this sumptuous Feast.

Their fallions, manners, and originall;

Who, by Lyncides is inform'd of all.

You got this purchase of the snaky haires. Then Abantindes forthwith declares, How under frosty Aslas cliffy side There lay a Plaine, with Mountaines fortify de In whose accesse the I boreides did lye; Two fifters; both of them had but one eye: How cunningly his hands thereon he lay'd, As they from one another it conuay'd. Then through blind wasts, and rocky forrests came To Gorgon's houses the way vnto the same, Belet with formes of men and beafts, alone By sceing of Medusa turn'd to stone: Whose horrid shape securely he did eye, In his bright target's cleere refulgency. And how her head he from her shoulders tooke, Ere heavy Ilcepe her inakes and her forfooke. Then rold of Pegafus, and of his brother, Sprung from the bloud of their new-flaughtred mother: Adding the perils past in his long way; What leas, what foyles, his eyes below furuay; And to what starres his lofty pitch ascends: Yet long afore their expectation ends. One Lord among the rest would gladly know, Why Scrpents onely on her head did grow. Stranger, said he, since this that you require Deterues the knowledge, take what you defire: Her passing beautie was the onely scope Of mens affections, and their enuied hope: Yet was not any part of her more rare (So say they who have seene her) than her haire.

Whom Neptune in Minerua's Fanc comprest. Jone's daughter, with the Æis on her breft, Hid her chafte bluthes: and due vengeance takes, In turning of the Gorgon's haire to Snakes. Who now, to make her enemies affrayd, Beares in her thield the Serpents which the made

OVIDS

OVID'S

Mary on the

METAMORPHOSIS.

n . I Made The fifth Booke.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Gorgon Scene, Coppeni Statues grows: So Phineus Peagus, Holyde Chithe for To Perfeut prayle. The fewer ayue Hippocrene By Horse boofe ways d. The Muses into Nine Rapa-flying Birds: Pierides, to Tyes. The Gods, by Typhon chac's, themfolnes diffuif. Sad 'yane into a Fountayne flower. Th' ill nurturd Boy a spotted Stellion etques. Lou'd Arcthula thewes mis a forene. A (calaphus an anla) Lightifeather wing The Swage tonger a Sytans, who ar Water months

Starn Lyngus Ceres to a Lynx derh zurne.

Hil'st the Dangean Heros this relates, Amidst th' allenibly of the Cephen States; Exalted voyces through the Palace ring:

Not like to theirs who at a marriage fing; But such as menace warre. The nuptiall Feast, Thus turn'd to ministry to the life express.

A peaceful Sea, whole brown o frown deformes. Streight raffled into billowes by rude ftormes. First, bineus, the rash Author of this warre, Shaking a Lance, began the deadly iarre. Lo, I the man, that will vpon thy life Revenge, laid he, the rapture of my wife.

Nor

Nor shall thy wings, nor love inforged gold, Worke thy cscape. About to throw: Q hold! Perplexed Cepheus cries: What wilt thou do? What furie, frantick brother, tempts thee to So foule a fact? Is this the recompence For such high merit? for her life's desence? Not Perfew, but th' incens't Nereides, But horned Hammon, and the wrath of Seas (That Orke that fought my bowels to desoure) Haue snatcht her from thee; rauisht in the houre Of her exposure. But thy ciucltic Perhaps was well content that the should die. To cale thy losse with ours. May tnot suffize, That shee was bound in chaynes before thine eyes; That thou, her Vncle, and her Husband, brought Her perill no prevention, nor none fought; But that anothers aid thou must enuy, And claime the Tropheys of his victory? Which, if of such efteeme, thou shouldst have strained T'haue fore't them from those Rocks, where lately chaind. Let him, who did, enioy them: nor exact What is his dew by merit and compact. Nor thinke, we Perseus before thee prefer; But him, before so abhort'd a sepulcher. · He, without answer, rowling to and fro His eyes on either, doubts at which to throwe: And pauling, his ill-aymed lance at length At Perfeus hurles, with rage-redoubled strength, Fixt in the bed-ftock; vp fierce l'erfeus starts, And his retorted Speare at Phineus darts: Who fuddenly behind an Altar stept; An, Altar vengeance from the wicked kept:

The Fifth Booke. And yet in Khatus brow the weapon fluck. He fell : the steele our of his scull they pluck: Who spurnes the earth, and staynes the board with blood With that, the multitude, with fury wood, Their Lances fling, and some there be who crie, That Cephens, and his forme in law, seculd die. But Cephens wisely quits the clamorous Hall Who Faith and luftice doth to record call, With all the hospitable Gods; that hee Was from this exectable vp-rese free. The warlike Pallas, present, with her shield Proceds her Brother, and his courage feel'& Young Indian Airs by ill hap was there, Whom Ganges-got Limniace did beare In her cleare Wattes: his beautie excellent, Which care and coftly ornaments augments Who scarce had fully fixteene Summers tolds Clad in a Tyrian mantle, fring'd with gold-About his neck he wore a carquenet: His haire with Riband bound, and odors wet-Although he cunningly a Dart could throwes Yet with more cunning could he vie his Bows. Which now a-drawing with a tardy hand; Quick Persens from the Altar snatche a Brand And dasht it on his face: ont-start his eyes; And through his flesh the shinered bones arise. When Syrian Lycabas his Atys view'd, Shaking his formleffe looks, with bloud imbrew & To him in strictest bonds of friendship ty'd, And one who could not his affection hide: After he had his tragedie bewail'd;

Who through the bitter wound his foule exhal de

He took the Bowe, which erst the Youth did bend: And faid; With me, thou Murderer contend; Nor longer glory in a Boye's fad fate, Which staines thy actions with deserved hate. Yet speaking, from the string the arrow flow: Which tooke his plighted robe, as he with-drew. Acrifianiades upon him prest; And sheath'd his Harpy in his groning brest. Now dying, he for Aty, looks, with eyes That fwim in night; and on his bosome lyes: Then chearfully expires his parting breath: Reloycing to be lown'd to him in death. I horbas the Syenit, Methien's lon With him the Libyan Amphimeden.; Eager of combate, flipping in the blood. That drencht the pauement, fell: his sword withstood. Their re-ascent, which through the shorr-ribs smore Amphimedon, and cut the others throte. Yet Perfeus would not veneure to inuade The Halbertere Eritbens with his blade; But in both hands a Gobler high imboft And massie, tooke; which at his head he tost: Who vomits clotted bloud; and, tumbling downe, Knocks the hatd paucment with his dying crowne. Then Polydamon (forung from Goddeffe-borne Semiramis) ! hlegyas, the vnshorne Elyce, Chius, Scythian Abaris. And brane Lycetus (old Sperchefius bliffe) Fell by his hand: whose feet in triumph tread Voon the flaughtred bodies of the dead. But Phinew, scaring to confront his Foe In cloic affault, far-off a dart doth throws

Which led by error, did on & da light; A Neurce, who in vaine forbare to fight. He fternly frowning, thus to Phineus Spake ! Since you, me an viwilling partie make, Receive the enemie whom you have made; That by a wound a wound may be repay'd. About to hurle the Dark drawne from his fides With loffe of bloud he faints and falling dy'd. Then great Odyses fell by Chymun's Sword; Next to the King, the greatest cophen Lord: Hyplans flow Prosever's Lymedes Hiplans. Old Emathion fell with thele; Who fear'd the Gods and favoured the right. He, whom old age exempted from the fight, Fights with his tongue, himselfe deth interpole, And deeply execrates their wicked blowes. Cromis, as he imbrac't the Altar, lopt His shaking head; which on the Altar dropt: Whose halfe-dead tongue yet curses; & expires His righteous soule amidst the sacred Fires. Then Broteas and Ammon, Phinews flew; Who from one womb at once their being dress Inuincible with hurlo-bats, could they quell The dines of swords Necre these Alphysus fell, The Priest of ceres, with a Miter crown'd; Which to his temples a white fillet bound. And thou Lampetides, whose pleasant wit, Detesting discord in soft peace more fit To fing vnto thy tuncfull Lire; now prest With Songs to celebrate the nuprial Feast: When Petralus, at him who stood far off With his desenfeless Harp; strikes with this scoff;

Which

Goe sing the rest vnto the Ghosts below: And peared his Temples with a deadly blow-His dying fingers warble in his fall: And then, by chance, the Song was tragicall. This, vnrcueng'd, Lycermas could not brooke; But from the door's right side a Leauer tooke, And him between the head and shoulders knocks: Downe falls he like a facrificed Ox. Ciniphean Palates then fought to seaze Vpon the left: when fierce Marmerides His hand nayl'd to the door-post with a Speare: Whole fide ftern Abas piere't as he fluck there. Nor could he fall; but giving up the ghoft, Hung by the hand against the smeared post. Melaneus then, of Perfeut partie, fell; And Dorilas, whose riches did excell: In Nasamonia none than he more great For large Possellions, and huge hoards of Wheat. The steel stuck in his groine, which death pursew'd: Whom Haleyonens of Battria view'd (The Author of the wound) as he did roule His turn'd-vp eyes, and fighed-out his foule: For all thy land, said he, by this diuorce Receive thy length; and left his bloudleffe corfe. The Speare, revengefull Abanti'des drew From his warm wound; and at the Thrower threw: Which in the middle doth his nares divide: And, passing through, appear'd on either side. Whilk Fortune crown'd him, clytin he confounds And Danus, of one womb, with different wounds: Through Clytius thighs a ready Dart he cast: An other 'swist the lawes of Danni pall, Mindefan The Fifth Booke.

Mindeftan Celadon and After flew, His Father doubtfull, getten on a lews: Echion, late well fecne in things to come; Now ougr-taken by an vnknowne doomes Theatles, Phineus Squire, his fauchion uy & And fell Agyrteathur fould parricide. Yet more remayn'd than were already spens: For, all of them, to murder one, consent. The bold Conspirators on all fides fight; Impugning promise, merit, and his right. The vainely-pious Father sides with th'other; With him, the frighted Bride, and penfine Mother ; Who fill the Court with out-cryes; by the found Of clashing Armes, and dying screeches drown'd. Bellona the polluted floore imbrews With streams of bloud, and horrid warre renewes. Falle Phineus, with a thouland, in a ring Begirt the Heros: who their Lances fling As thick as Winters haile; that blinde his fight, Sing in his eares, and round about him light. His guarded back he to a pillar fets; And with vindaunted force confronts their thrests. Chaonian Molpeus prest to his left side : The right, Nabathean Ethemon ply'd. As when a Tyger, pinche with famine, heares Two bellowing Herds within one Vale; forbeares, Nor knowes on which to rush, as being loth To leave the other, and would fall on both: So Perfeus, which to Arike, vncertayne proues; Who daunted Malpeus with a wound remoues; Contented with his flight, in that the rage.

Officree Athenen did his force ingage:

Metamorphosis. Who at his neck uncircumspectly stroke, And his keene sword against the pillar broke. The blade from varelenting from rebounds: And in his throte th' vnhappy owner wounds. Yet was not that enough to work his end; Who fearfully doth now his armes extend For pitty vnto Perseus, all in vaine; Who thrust him through with his cykenian skeine But, when he saw his valour ouer-sway'd By multitude: I must said he seek and (Since you your felues compell me) from my foe; Friends turn your backstthen Gorgons head doth there . Some others feek Said Theffalus, to fright With this thy Monster; and with all his might A deadly dart indeuour'd to haue throwne: But in that positure became a stone. Next, Amphix, full of spirit, forward prest : And thrust his sword at bold Lyncides beeft : When, in the passe, his singers stupid grow; Nor had the power of mouing to or fro. But Nileus (he who with a forged stile

And bare seuen silver Rivers in his shield. Distinctly waving through a golden field) To Perfeus faid: Behold, from whence we sprungt To euer-filent shadowes beare a-long This comfort of thy death, that thou didst die

By fuch a braue and high-t orne enemie. His viterance faultred in the latter clause: The yet unfinisht sound stuck in his lawes;

Vanted to be the sonne of seven-fold Nile,

Who gaping stood as he would something say: And to had done, if words had found a way.

These Eryx blames; 'Tis your faint soules that dead Your powres, said he, and not the Gorgon's head. Ruth on with me, and proftrate with deep wounds

This Youth, who thus with Magick Armes confounds Then tushing on, the ground his foot-steps stay'd;

Now murely lixe: an armed Statue made. These suffer'd worthily. One, who did fight For Perseus, bold Aconteus, at the fight

Of Gorgon's Inakes abortive marble grew. On whom Astrages in fury flew, As if aliue, with his two-handed blade; Which thrilly twang'd; but no incition made:

Who, whil'It he wonders, the same nature tooks; And now his Statue hath a wondring looke. It were too redious for me to report Their names, who perisht of the vulgar fort.

Two hundred scap'e the furie of the light: Two hundred turne to stone at Gorgon's fight. Now Phineus his valuat commotion rewes;

What should he doe the senselesse shapes he views Of his knowne friends, which differing figures bores And doth by name their feuerall ayd implore. And yet not trulling to his eyes alone,

The next he toucht; and found it to be stone. Then turns aside: and now, a Penitent, With suppliant hands, and armes obliquely bents.

O Perfens, thine said he, thine is the day ! Remoue this Monster. Hence, O hence conusy Medusa's vely looks, or what more firange,

Which humane bodyes into marble change ! Not hate, not thirst of rule begot this strife: I onely fought to re-obtaine my Wife.

Thefe

This

Thine is the plea of Merit; mine, of Time:
Yet, in contending I confesse my crime.
For life (O chiefe of men!) I onely sew:
Afford me that: the rest I yeeld to you.
Thus he; not daring to revert his eyes
On him whom he intreats: who thus replyes.
Faint-hearted I bineus, what I can afford,
(A gift of worth to such a searefull Lord)
Take courage, and perswade thy selfe I will:
No wounding sword thy bloud shall ever spill.
Moreover, that I may thy wish prevent,

Here will I fix thy lasting monument:
That thou by her thou lou'st maist still be seene;
And with her Spouse's image cheare our Queene.
Then, on that side Phoreons head doth place,
To which the Prince had turn'd his trembling face.
And as from thence his eyes he would have throwne.
His neck grew stiffe: his teares congeale to stone.
With fearfull suppliant looks, submissive hands.
And guiltie countenance, the Statue stands.
Victorious Abanisades now hyes
This native Citic, with the rescu'd prize:

But him, nor Arms, nor Bulwarks, could proted Against the snaky Monsters grim aspect.

Yet not the vertue of the Youth, which shong Through so great toyle, nor forrowes vider-gone; With thee, O Polyactic, King of small Sca-girt Scriphus, could preuaile at all.

There, vengeance takes on Pratus, and reftor'd

For Prairies had by force of Armes expeld

His brother; and vourped Argos held.

His Grand-father, whose wrongs redresse implor

Endlesse thy wrath, thy hate inexorables Detracting; and condemning for a fable Medusa's death. The moued Youth replyes: The truth your selfe shall see; Friends, shut your eyes. Then, represents Medula to his view: Who prejently a bloudleffe Statue grew-Thus long Tritonia to her brother cleaues: -Then in a hollow cloud Seriphus leanes (Scyros and Gyaros on the right-hand fide) And o'reshe toyling Seas her course apply d. To Thebes, and Virgin Helecon; there flay'd: And thus vnto the learned Sifters faid. The fame of your new Fountaine, rays'd by force: Of that swift-winged Medusaan horfe, Me hither drews to fee the wondrous Flood: . Who saw him issue from his Mothers blood... Goddesse, Frania answered, what cause

So-cuer you to this our Mansion drawes;
You are most wel-come. What you heard is true;
And from that Pegelus this Fountaine grew.
Then Pallas to the facred Spring conuay'd.
Shee admires the waters by the horse-hoose made;
Survay's their high-grown groves, coole caues, fresh bowrs,
And meadowes painted with all sorts of slowers;

Then happy stiles shee the Manides,
Both for their Arts, and such aboads as these.
O heavenly Virgin, one of them reply d,
Most worthy our Societie to guide,

If so your active vertue did not moue.
To greater deeds: deservidly you approve
Our studies, pleasant seat, and happie state,.
Were we secure from what we chiefly hate...

Blipt

Venus a Fish, a Stork did Hermes hide: And still her voyce vato her Harp apply'de Then call they vs. But, ours perhaps to heare, Nor leifure serues you, nor is't worth your care. Doubt not, said Paller, orderly repeat Your long d-for Verse ; and takes a shady seat. Then shee; On one we did the taske impose: Callinge, with Ingerown'd, vp-rofe; Who with her thumb first tun'd the quauering strings, And then this Ditty to the musique sings.

Tho gleab, with crooked plough, first Ceres rent; First gaue vs corne, a better nourishment; First Lawes prescrib'd: all from her bouncie sprung. By me, the Goddesse Ceres shall be sung. Would We could Verses, worthy her, reherse : For thee is more than worthy of our Verle-Trinaeria was on wicked-Typhon throwne; Who wnderneath the Ilands weight doth grong That durst affect the Empire of the skyes: Oft he attempteth, but in vaine, to rife. Ausonian Pelorn, his right hand. Down waighs; Pachyne on the left doth stand: His legs are under Lilyhaus spred; And Æinu's bales charge his horrid head: Where, lying on his back, his lawes expire Thick clowds of dust, and vomit flakes of fire Oft times he ftruggles with his load below: And Townes, and Mountaynes labours to ore-throw. Earth-quakes therewith, the King of thadowes dreads. For feare the ground should split about their heads. And let-in Day t'affright the trembling Ghosts. For this, he from his Went Empire posts,

Drawns:

The Fifth Booke. Drawne by black horses, tracing all the Round Of rich Sicilia; but, no breaches found.

Him Erycina from her Mount survay'd. (Now fearelesse) and, her sonne imbracing, said. My Armes, my strength, my glorie; for my sake,

O capid, thy all-conquering weapons take; And fix thy winged arrowes in his heart, Who rules the triple world's inferior part,

The Gods, even some himselfe; the God of waves; And who illustrates earth haue beene thy flaues. Shall Hell be free? Thing, and thy mother's Sway, Inlarge, and make th'internall Powr's oncy,

Yet we (such is our parience!) are dispis'd In our owne heaven; and all our force vnpriz d. Secst thou not Pallas, and the Queen of Night, Far-darting Diax; how my worth they flight?

And ceres daughter will a Maid abide, If we permit; for thee affects their pride. But, if thou favour our joynt Monarchy, Thy Vncle to the Virgin-Goddelle tie.

Thus Venus. He his Quiner doch vnclose; And one, out of a thouland arraws, chole At her Arbitriment; a sharper head

None had; more ready, or that furer [ped.] Then bends his Bowe the string chis care arrives, And through the heart of Dis the arrow drines.

Not far remou'd from Enna's high-built wall, A Lake there is, which men Pergufa call-Cäy/ter's flowly-gliding waters beare.

Par fewer finging Swans than are heard there-Woods crown the Lake, and clothe it round about With leavy veils, which Phabus beames keep-out.

The.

The trees create fresh ayr, th'Earth various flowres: Where heat nor cold th'eternall Spring deuoures. Whil'st in this groue l'reservina disports, Or Violets pulls, or Lyllyes of all forts; And while the stroug with childish care and speed To fill her lap, and others to exceed; Lis faw, affected, carryed her away, Almost at once. Loue could not brooke delay. The lad-fac't Goddesse cryes (with feare appall'd) To her Companions; oft her Mother call'd. And as she tore th'adornment of her haire, Downfell the flow'rs which in her lap shee bare. And fuch was her fweet Youth's simplicitie, That their losse also made the Virgin crie. The Rauisher flies on swift wheeles; his horses Excites by name, and their full speed inforces: Shaking for hafte the ruft-obscured raignes Vpon their cole-black necks, and thappy maines. Through Lakes, through Palicine, which expires A sulphrous breath, through earth ingendring fires. They passe to where Corinibian Bacchides Their Citie built betweene vnequall Seas.

The Land 'twixt Arethula and cyane
With stretcht-out hornes begirts th'included Seas
Here cyane who gave the Lake a name,
Amongst Sicilian Nymphs of speciall same,
Her head advane't: who did the Goddesse know?
And boldly said, You shall no farther goe;
Nor can you be vivilling Ceres son:
What you compell, perswasson should have won.
If humble things I may compare with great;
Anapis lou'd me: yet did he intreat;

And

The Fifth Booke.

And me, noe frighted thus, espous d. This faid, With out-stretcht armes his farther passage staid. His wrath no longer Plute could restraine; But gives his terror-striking steeds the raigne; And with his Regall mace, through the profound And yeelding water, cleanes the folid ground: The breath t'infernall Tartarus extends: At whose darke lawes the Charlot descends. But Cyanethé Goddesse Rape laments; And her owne injur'd Spring; whole discontents. Admit no comfort ain her heart thee beares Her filent forrow: now, refolues to teares; And with that Fountayne doth incorporate, Whereof th'immortall Deitic but late. Her folined members thaw into a dow: Her nailes lesse hard, her bones now limber grew The flendrest parts first melt away : her haire, Fine fingers, legs, and feet; that foone impaire, And drop to streames: then, arms, back, shoulders, side, And bosom, into fittle Currents glide. Water, in stead of blood, fils her pale veines: And nothing now, that may be grafpt, remaines. Mean-while, through all the certit, and all the Maine,

The fearfull Mother fought her childe in vaine.

Not deawy-hayr'd Aurora, when thee rofe,
Nor Hefperus, could with the repose.

Two pitchy Pines at flaming Æina lights;
And restletle, carries them through freezing Nights:
Againe, when Day the vanquitht Starres suppress,
Her vanisht comfort seeks from East to West.

Thirsty with trauell, and no Fountayne nye,
A cortage that the with straw, inuites her eye.

A

And

Metamorphosis.

At th'humble gate she knocks; An old wife showes. Her selfe thereat; and seeing her, bestowes. The water so desir'd; which shee before Had boyl'd with barly. Drinking at the doore, A rude hard-fauour'd Boy beside her stood, Who laught, and cald her greedy-gut. Her blood. Inflam'd with anger, what remayn'd shee threw Full in his face; which forthwith speckled grew. His armes convert to legs; a taile withall Spines from his changed shape: of body small, Lest he might proue too great a foe to life: Though leffe, yet like a Lizard: th'aged wife (That wonders, weeps, and feares to touch it) shuns, And presently into a creuise runs. Fit to his colour they a name clotts With fundry little stars all-ouerspeckt. What Lands, what Seas, the Goddesse wandred through Were long to tell: Earth had not roome enough. To Sicil thee returns: where ere thee goes, Inquires; and came where cyane now flowes. Shee, had thee not beene changed, all had tolds-Now, wants a tongue her knowledge to vnfold:: Yet, to the mother, of her daughter gaue A fure oftent : who bore voon a wave Persephone's rich zone; that from her fell, When, through the facred Spring, the funke to hell. This seen, and knowne; as but then lost, shee tare, Without selfe-pitty, her dis-sheueled haire; And with redoubled blowes her breft inuades: Nor knowes what Land t'accuse, yet all vpbraids; Ingrate, vinworthy with her gifts t'abound: Tringeria chiefly; where the steps thee found.

The Fifth Booke. Of her misfortunes. Therefore there shee brake The furrowing plough; the Oke and owner strake Both with one death; then, bade the fields beguile The trust impos'd, thrunk seed corrupts. That soile, So celebrated for fertilitie. Now barren grew: corne in the blade doth die. Now, too much drouth annoys; now, lodging showres: Stars smitch, winds blast. The greedy fowle deuoures The new-sowné graine: Kintare, and Darnell tire The fetter'd Wheat; and weeds that through it spire. In Elean waves Alphans Loue appeard; And from her dropping haire her fore-head clear'd: O Mother of that far-lought Maid, thou friend To life, faid she; here let thy labour end: Nor be offended with thy faithfull Land; That blamcleffe is, nor could her rape with-fland. I, here a guest, not for my Country plead: My Country Pifa is, in Elis bred; And, as an Alien, in Sicania dwell: But yet no Country pleaseth me so well. I, arethusa, now these Springs possesse: This is my leat: which, courteous Goddesse, blesse. Why I affect this place, corregia came Through such vast Seas; I shall impart the same To your defire; when you, more fit to heare, Shall quit your care, and be of better cheare. Earth giues me way: through whose darke cauerns roll d, I here ascend; and vnknowne stars behold While wader ground by Siyx my waters glide, Your sweet Proferpina I there cipy'd Full fad thee was : cuen then you might have feen Feare in her face; and yer ther is a Queen;

For, wandring in the Ort-yard, fimply thee

And yet thee in that gloomy Empire fwayes; And yet her will thinfernall King obayes.

Stone-like stood Ceres at this heavy newes; And, staring, long continued in a mule. When griefe had quickned her stupiditie. Shee tooke her Chariot, and ascends the skie: There, veiled all in clouds, with scattered haire, Shee kneeles to tupiter, and made this pray'r. Both for my blood and thine, ô tour, I few: If I be nothing gracious, yet doe you A Father to your Daughter proue; nor be Your care the leffe, because thee sprung from me-Lo, the at length is found, long fought through all The spacious World; if you a Finding call What more the loffe affures: but if, to know Her being, be to Finde, I have found her fo. And yet I would the injurie remit, So he the stolne restore: 'Twere most waste That holy Hymen should thy daughter loyne

To such a Thiefe; although shee were not mine.

Then lone: The pledge is mutuall, and these cares. To either equall: Yet this deed declares. Much loue, mis-called Wrong: nor should we shame. Of such a sonne, could you but thinke the same. All wants suppose, can be be lesse than great, And be lone's brother? What, when all compleat? I, but preferr'd by lot? Or if you burne. In endlesse spleen; Let Proserpine returne: On this condition, That shee yet have ta'ne. No sustenance: so Destinies ordaine. To fetch her daughter, ceres postes in haste: But, Fates with-slood: the Maid had broke her fast.

Pluckt a Pomegranet from the stooping Tree;
Thence tooke seuen grains and eats them one by one:
Observed by Ascalaphus alone;
Whom Asberon on Orphne erst begot
In pitchy Caues ta Dame of specials note
Amongst th' Auernal Nymphs. This viter'd, stayd
The sighing Queene of Erobus; who made
The Blab a Bitd: with waves of Phlegoton
His face besprinkles; plume appeares thereon,
Crookt beake, and broader eyes: the shape he had
He lost, forthwith in yellow feathers clad.
His head or'e-siz'd, his long nailes talons prone;

His winged armes for lazinefle scarce moue:
A filthy, euer ill-presaging Fowle,
To Mortals ominous: a screeching Owle
Yet was the punishment no more than due

To his offence. But how offended you Acheloides, that wings and clawes diffrace; Your goodly formes, yet keeps your Virgin-face? Was it, you Sirens, that your deathleffe Powers Were with the Goddeffe when shee gatherd flowrs?

Whom when through all the Earth you fought in vaine, You wisht for wings to swim vpon the Maine; That pathlesse Seas might testitie your care:
The easie Gods consented to your pray'r.
Streight, golden feathers on your backs appeare:

But, lest that musick, fram'd to incliant the eare,
And so great gifts of speech should be prophan'd;
Your Virgin-lookes, and humane voyce remayn'd.

But Inne, his fifter's discontent to cheare, Between her and her Brother parts the yeare,

The

The Goddesse now in either Empire swayes: 🐇 Six months with Ceres, fix with Plute stayes. Proferpina then chang'd her minde, and looke (Late such as sullen Dis could hardly brooke) And clear'd her browes; as Sol, obscur'd in shrowds. Of exhalations, breaks through vanquisht clowds.

Pleas'd ceres now bade Arethufa tell Her cause of flight: and why a sacred Well. Th'obsequious waters lest their murmuring: The Goddesse then about the Crystall-Spring Her head advanc'r; and, wringing her green haires, Shee thus Alphaus ancient loue declares.

I, of Achaia once a Nymph: none more The chace affected, or t'intoyle the Bore. By beautie though Incuer fought for fame; Though masculine; of faire I bare the name, Nor tooke I pleasure in my prayled face, Which others valew as their only grace: But, simple, was ashamed to excell; And thought it infamy to please too-well As from Stymphalian woods I made retreat (Twas hot, and labour had increase the heat) When well-nigh tyr'd; a filent streame I found, All eddilesse, perspicuous to the ground: Through which you euery pebble might have feen ; And ran, as if it had no River been, The Poplar, and the hoary Willow, fed By bordering streames, their gratefull shadow spread In this coole Rivulet my foot I dipt; And by and by into the middle skipt: Where, while I swim, and labour to and fro A thouland wayes, with armes that swiftly row,

I from the bottom heard an vakaowne tongue; And frighted, so the hither margent forung. Whither so fast, & Aretbufa ! twice Out cry'd Alphans, with a hollow voyce. Vnclothed as I was, I ran away (For, on the other fide my garments lay) The faster followed be, the more did burne; Who naked, sceme the readier for his turne. As trembling Doues the eger Hawkes eschew; As eger Hawkes the trembling Doues purlew; I fled, He followed To Orchomenus, Psophis, Cyllene, high-brow'd Manalaus, Cold Erymanthus, and to Elis, I My flight maintayned; nor could be come ny: But, far vnable to hold out to long; He, patient of much labour, and more ftrong. And yet o're Plaines, o're woody hills I fled, And craggy Rocks, where foot did nener tread. The Sunne was at our backs: before my feet I faw his shadow; or my feare did feet. How-ere his founding steps, and thick drawne breath That fann'd my haire, affrighted me to death. Starke tyr'd, I cry'd: Ah caught! help (& forlorne!) Diana helpethy Squire, who oft have borne Thy Bowc and Quiner Mou'd at my request, With muffling clowds the court'd the diffrest The River feeks me in that pitchy throwd, And scarches round about the hollow clowd: Twice came to where Diana me did hide; And twice he is Areibufe cry'd. Then what a heart had I the Lamb so feares When howling Wolves show the Fold the heares &

So heartlesse Hare, when trayling Hounds draw aye Her sented forme; not dares to moue an eye. Nor went he on, in that he could not trace My further steps; but guards the clowd and place. Cold sweats my then-besieged lims possest: In thin thick-falling drops my strength decrease. Where-ere I flep, fireames run; my haire now fell In trickling deaw; and, sooner than I tell My destinie, into a Flood I grew. The River his beloved waters knew: And, putting off th'assumed shape of man, Resumes his owne; and in my Current ran. Chafte Delia cleft the ground. Then, through blind cause

To lou'd Origin the conducts my waves: Affected for her name: where first I take Reuiew of day. This, Arethula Spake.

The fertill Goddesse to her Chariot chaines Her yoked Dragons, checkt with stubborn raignes:

Her course, 'twist heauen and earth, to Athen's bends; And to Triptolemus her Chariot fends.

Part of the feed thee gaue, thee bade him throw On yntill'd earth; part on the till'd to fow. O're Furepe, and the Affan Soyle conuay'd,

The Youth to Scythia turnes; where Lyncus sway'd. His Court he enters. Askt what way he came,

His cause of comming, Countrie, and his Name? Triprolemus men call me, he reply'd;

And in renowmed Athens Irclide. No thip through soyling Scas me hither bare; Not ouer-land came I; but through the ayre.

I bring you ceres gift: which sowne in fields, Corn-bearing crops (a better feeding) yeelds. The barbarous King enuies it: and, that he The Author of so great a good might be; Giues entertaynment; but, when fleep opprest His heavy eyes, with facele attempts his brest.

Whom Ceres turn's t'a Lynx : and home-wards makes The young Moplopian drive her facred Snakes. Our Chiefe concluded here her learned Layes.

The Nymphs, with one consent, give vs the Bayes: The vanquisht raile. To whom the Muse: Since you

Esteeme it nothing to descrue the due To your contention, but must adde soule words To your ill decds; nor this your pride affords Our patience roome: we'll wreak it on your heads,

And tread the path which Indignation leads.

The Paons laugh, and our sharp threats despile. About to scould, and with difgracefull noyse To clap their hands; they saw the feathers sprout

Beneath their nailes, and clothe their armes through Hard nebs in one another's faces spie; And now, new birds, into the Forrest flie. These Sylvan Scoulds, as they their armes prepare To beat their bosoms ; mount, and hang in ayre.

Who yet retayne their ancient eloquence; Full of harsh chat, and prating without sense.

OVID'S

OVIDS

METAMORPHOSIS

The fixth Books.

Tun ARGYMENT

Hames and Rhodopa; who Mountaines grows
Hames and Rhodopa; who Mountaines grows
The Pigeny, a Crane. Antigonic become,
A Storke, of Bases Cynamician and serious frages.
His impious daughters, france. In marious frages.
The Gods commits adulteries and rapes.
Arachine, a Spider. Niche yet browner
Her marble checkes in toures. Uncivil! Clowner
Are curff to Frogs. From toures dans Mariyas from His inory froulder new-made Pelaps from
P. ogne, a Swallow; fign'd with murders fraisms.
Sad Philomeles forces might complaines.
Rage to a Lapwing turnes sh'Odrytian hing.

Who both her Verle, and just reuenge common Then faid ther felfe: To praise is of no worths. Let our reuenged Powre our praise fer forth. Intends Arabbas ruine. She, the heard, Before her curious webs, her owne prefer d. Nor dwelling, nor her nation fame impact. Ynto the Damfell, but excelling Ara.

Dermy

Deriu'd from Colopbonian Idmons side : Who thirstic Wooll in Phocian purpledide. Her mother (who had pay'd her debt to fate) Was also meane, and equall to her mate. Yet through she Lydian townes her praise was spred: Though poore her birth, in poore Hypepa bred. The Nymphs of Tmelus of their Vines for sooke; The steeke Pattolian Nymphs their streames; to looke On her rare workes: nor more delight in viewing The don (don with such grace) than when a doing. Whether the orbe-like roule the ruder wooll; Or, finely finger'd, the felected cull: Or draw it into clowd-refembling flakes: Or equall twine with swift-turn'd spindle makes; Or with her liuely-painting needle wrought: You might perceive the was by Pallas taught. Yet luch a Mistresse her proud thoughts disclame: Let her with me contend; if foyld, no shame (Said the) nor punishment will I refuse. Pallas, forth-with, an old-wines shape indues: Her haire all white; her lime, appearing weake, A staffe supports: who thus began to speake. Old Age hath somthing which we need not thun: Experience by long tract of time is won. Scorne not aduice: with dames of humane race Contend for fame, but give a Goddelle place. Crave pardon, and the will thy crime remit. With eyes confessing rage, and eye-brows knir. (Her labour-leaving hands scarce held from strokes) She, masked Pallas with these words provokes. Old foole, that dot it with age; to whom long-life is now a curie: thy daughter, or lone wife,

If thou hast cities) raught be they by this: My wiledom, for my ledfe, lufficient is. And least thy counsell should an intrest clame In my diversion, I abide the large, Why comes the not & why tryall thus delayes ? She comes, said Paller, and her solfe displayer, Nymphs, and Mygdonian dames the Powre adores Onely the maid her felfe undaunted bore: And yet the blufhe; against har will the red Flusht in her chaples, and chance as swiftly fled. Euch for the purple Macuing paints the skyes: And so they whiten at the Suna vprile, Who now as desperately obdinate. Praise ill affecting, runs on her owne late. No more loves daughter labors to diffwades No more refulcth; nor the strife delayde. Both settle to their tasks apart: both spread At once their warps, suplifting of fine thred, Ty'd to their heames? a reed the dired divides, Through which the quick-returning thurtle glides, Shot by swift hands. The combains creed rooth Betweene the tvarp suppress the rising woose; Strife lefs ning toyle. With skirts micks to their walle, Both mone their cunning armes with nimble hafte. Here crimfon, dyde in Tyr an braffe, they we sue: The scarce distinguishe shadower fight deceaus. So watry clowds, thereby Apolle, showe; The vaft sky painted with a mightic Bowe? Where, though a thousand seuerall colours shine, No eye their close transition can define: What touch, the same so necrely represents; And by degrees, scarce sensible, diffents. Through

The Sixth Books.

Through-out imbellished with ductil gold: . And both reuiu'd antiquities unfold.

Pallas, in Athens, Marfe's Rock doth frame: And that old strife about the Citties name. Twice fix Coloffials fit in thron'd on hio, Repleat with awe-infuling gravities love in the midst. The sured figures cooke Their liuely formes: Ioue had a regalf looke. The Seargod stood, and with his Trident strake The cleaning rock, from whence's foundaine brake: Whereon he grounds his clame. With speare and skiels Her felfe the armes: her head a hudrion field : Her breft her Ægis guards. Her lance the ground Appeares to strike; and from this prognation wanted The hoary oliue, charged with fithe, afcerels. The Gods admire: with victory the ends. Yet the, to show the Rivall of her prayle What hopes to cherish for such bold assayes. Add's four contentions in the ventor bounds. Of cucry angle, wrought in little Roundsia One, Thracidi Rhodope and His nous fromens d Now mountaines, top? Will? neuer-melting flower. Once humane bodyes: who durft emulare The bloft Circleft wills both in stile and stare. The next containes the milerable doome Of that Pygmican marroll, outer-coine !!! By Inno; made a Crane, and forer to far in With her owne nation in perpential was: 1 9 A third presents Antigone, who showe For vamatche beautie with the with of Ibu Not llium, nor Lanmedon her sire;

Prevail'd with violent Saliania's ire.

The Sixth Books. Turn'd to a Stock s who with white pinions rais'd, Is over by her creaking bill felfo prais'd. In the last circle Cynaras was placit; Who, on the temples staires, the formes imbrac't Of his late daughters, by their pride o're-throwne: And seemes himselfe to be a weeping stone The web a wreathe of peaceful chose bounds: And her owne tree her work both ands and crownes

Arachne weatnes Europa's supe by loue : The Bull appeares to live, the Sea to move. Back to the thore the casts a heatly eye; To her distracted damsels scemes to cry: And from the sprinkling waves, that skip to meet With fuch a burden, thrinks hor wentiling feet. Afteria there a ftruggling Eagle preft t A Swan here spreads his wings o're Leda's brest. loue, Satyr-like, Antique compels;

Whole fruitfull womb with double iffue fwels: Amphieryo for Alemena's love became t: A showre for Danal; for Agina flame? For beautifull Mnemosyno he taken. A pastors forme; for Deois, a limites: Thee alfo, Neptune, like a luthfull Sucre, . She makes the faire Alstian Virgin beare: To get th' Aloi de in Enipe's shape : Now turn'd t'a Ram in sad Bifaltis rape.

The gold-hair'd mother of life-firengthning Scede, The inake-hair'd made of the winged Steede, Found thee a Scalion Thee Malanthe finder A Delphin. She to every forme affigures Life-equald looks; to cutry place their fires. Here Phabus in a Hourds-mans shape delighes;

A Lyon's now a now falcons wings displayes: 12 Macarian Isa Depheard-like betrayes. Liber, a grape, Erigone comprest: And Saturne, horfe-like, chirau gets, halfe-beaft. A slender wreathe her finisht web confines ; 10 Flowres intermint with clasping inty twines.

Not Pallas this, not Ermy this reprotes: Her faire successe the vext Virago moues; Who teares the web, with crimes coelestiall fraught: With shurele from cytorian mountaines brought, Arachne thrice vpon the fore-head hies. Her great heart brooks it not A cord the knits About her neck. Remorfefull Pallas flay'd Her falling waight: Line wretch, yet hang, the faid. This curfe (least after times thy pride secure) Still to thy iffue, and their race, indure. Sprinkled with Hecat's banefull weeds, her haire She forthwith sheds: her mole and eares impaire; Her head growes little; her whole body fo; Mer thighs and legs to spiny singers grow: The rest all belly. Whence a thred she sends:

And now, a Spider, her old webs extends. All Lydia fforms; the fame through Phygia rung: And gaue an argument to cuery tongue. Her, Niobe had knowne; when the, a maid, In Sipylus, and in Massia staid. Yet flights that home example: still rebels Against the Gods; and with proud leaguage swels. Many things sweld her. Yet Amphien's towne, Their high descents; nor glory of a crowne, So pleas'd her (shough the pleas'd her felfe in all) As her faire race. We Niebe might call

The Sixth Booke.

The happiest mother that yet euer brought Life vato light; had not her selfeso thought. Tirefun Mante, in prelages skild; The streets, inspir dby hely fury, fild With these exhorts: Ismemides, prepare: To great Latena, and her Twins; with prayer Mix sweet perfumes; your brows with Laurel bindi Byrne Latona bids. The Thebans wind About their temples the commaunded Bay: And facred fires, with incense feeding, prays. Behold, the Queene in height of state appeares: A Phrygian mantic, weam dwith gold, the weares: Her face, as much as rage would luffer, faire She stops; and shaking her disheucled haire, The godly troope with hauty eyes furusyes. What madnelle is it Here-lay Gods (the layer) Before the scene Coelestials to prefer? Or while I Alters want, to worthip her? Me Tansalus begot, alowd to feast In heauenly bowres; my mother not the least Pleias; greatest Atlas fire to those, On whole high shoulders all the stars repole. lone is my other Grandfather; and he My father in law: a double grace to me. Mc Phrygia, Cadpus kingdomes me obay: My husbands harp-rais dwalls we isyntly sway. Through-out my Court behold in curry place Infinite riches! adde to this, a face Worthy a Goddeffe. Then, to crowne my loyes; Scuen beauteous daughters, and as many boyess: All these by marriage to be multiply'd. Say now, have we not reason for our pride?

i Their

How dare you then Latona, Caus birth Before me place? to whom the ample Earth Deny'd a little spot t'vnlade her wombe? Heaven, Earth, nor Seas, afford your Goddeffe roome: A Vagabond, till Dels harbor gaue. Thou wandreft on the land, I on the wane, It faid; and granted an vnstable place. She brought forth two; the seuenth part of my race: Happy! who doubes? I happy will abide: Or who doubts that ? with plentic fortifi'd. My state too great for fortune to boniaue: Though much the rauith, the much more must leave. My bleffings are about low feare. Suppose Some of my hopefull sons this people lose, They cannot be reduc't so such a few. Off with your bayes; these idle Rices eschien. They put them off; the facrifice forbore:

And yet Latena filently adore.
As far as free from barrennesse, so much
Disdaine and griese th'inraged Goddesse much.
Who on the top of Cynthus thus begins
To vent her passion to her sacred Twins.

Lo I, your mother, proud in you alone;
(Excepting Iuno, second vnto none)
Am question d if a Goddesse; and must loose,
If you assist not, all religious dews.
Nor is this all: that curst Tantalian Seede
Adds foule reproches to her impious deede.
She dares her children before you prefer;
And calls me childlesse: may it light on her!
Whose wicked words her fathers tongue declare.
About to second her report with praier;

Peace, Phabus said, complaint too long delayes Conceau'd reuenge: the same vext Phabe sayes. Then swiftly through the yeilding ayre they glide To Cadmus towres; whom thickned vapors hide. A spacious plaine before the citty liet, Made dusty with the daily exercite Of trampling hooties; by strife full charious tracks. Part of Amphions actine fons here backt High-bounding steeds; whose rich capacison With scarlet blushe, with gold their bridles shone Ismenus loe, her pregnant wombs first springs As with his ready horse he bears a Ring, And checks his formy iawes; ay me the cryess. While through his growing beeft an acrow flyers. Hisbride flackning with his wying force, He leafurely finks fide-long from his horize. Next, Siphilus from clashing quiner slice With flackned raignes: as when a Pilot spice A growing frome; and, least the gentle gaile Should scape besides him, claps on all his laile. His hafte th'vneuitable bowe b're-rook, And through his throte the deadly arrow strook Who, by the horses mane and speedy thighes Drops headlong, and the earth in purple dies. Now Phadimus ; and Tantalus, the heire This Grand-fires name; that labour done, prepare To wrastle. Whilst with oyled lims they prest Each others power, close grasping brest to brest; A shaft, which from th'impulsive bow-string slew, Them, in that lad Conjunction joyntly flew. Both grone at once, at once their bodyes bend. With bitter pangs, at once to earth descend:

Her tongue, and pallat rob'd of inward heat At once congeale: her pulse forbeares to beat: Her neck wants power to turne, her feet to goe, Ner armes to moue ther very bowels grow Into a stone. She yet retaines her teares. Whom straight a hurle-wind to her Countrie beares; And fixes on the fummit of a hill. Now from that mourning marble teares diffill.

Th'exemplary reuenge struck all with scare: Who offerings to Latena's altars beare With doubled zeale. When, one as oft befalls, By present accidents the past recalls.

In fruitfull Lycia once, faid he, there dwelt A fort of Pelants, who her vengeance felt. Twas of no note, in that the men were bale: Yet wonderfull. I faw the poole, and place, Sign'd with the prodigie. My father, spent Almost with age, ill brooking travell, fent Me thither for choice Steeres: and for my guide. A native gave. Those pastures searcht, we spy'd An ancient Altar, black with cinders; place Amidft a Lake, with thiuering reeds imbrac't. O favour me! he, foftly murmuring, faid: O fauour mel I, loftly murmuring, praid: Then aske, if Nymph, or Faune therein refide, Or rurall God. The stranger thus reply'd.

O youth, no mountaine Powres this altar hold: Shee calls it hers, to whom loves wife, of old, Earth interdicted: till that floting lie. Wave-wandring Delo, finith ther exile. Where, coucht on palmes and oliums, the in spight Of ficeful lane, brought her Twins to light.

Theree.

Thence also frighted from her paincfull bed, With her two infant Deitkes she fled. Now in Chimara-breeding Lycia (fir'd By burning beames) and with long trauell tyr'd, Heat-railed thirst the Goddesse sore oppress: By their exhausting of her milk increast. By fortune, in a dale, with longing eyes A Lake of shallow water she descries: Where Clownes were then a gathering picked weeds With shrubby offers, and plash-louing reedes.

Approche; Tuania kneeles vpon the brink: And of the cooling liquor stoops to drinke. The Clownes with-flood Why hinder you, faid the The vic of water, that to all is free?

The Sun, aire, water, Nature did not frame. Peculiar; a publick gift Lelame Yet humbly I introse its not to drench My weary lims, but killing thirst to quenche My tongue wants moy lure, de my lawes are drye Scarce is there way for speech. For drink I dye. Water to me, were Nectar. If I line,

'Tis by your fauour: life with water giue. Pitty these babes: for pitty they advance Their little armes I their armes they Aretche by chance With whom would not such gentle words premaile?

But they, perseuering to prohibit, raile; The place with threats command her to forfake. Then with their hands and feet disturbe the lake: ; And leaping with malicious motion, moue The troubled mud; which riling, flotes aboue. .

Rage quenche ber thirst: no more Latene sucs. To such base slaves; but Goddelie like dock vie

Her dreadfull tongue; which thus their faces imply'd: May you for euer in this lake relide! Her wish succeeds. In loued lakes they striue; Now sprawle aboue, now under water dine; Oft hop vpon the banke, as oft againe. Back to the water: nor can yet restraine Their brawling tongues; but fetting shame aside; Though hid in water, vnder water chide. Their voyces still are hource: the breath they fetch Swels their wide throces; their lawes with railing stretch Their heads their shoulders touch; no neck betweene, As intercepted. All the back is greene # Their belies (euery part o're-fizing) white: Who now, new Frogs, in flumy pooles delight." Thus much, I know not by what Lycian, faid: An other mention of a Satyre made, By Phabus, with Tritona's reade, o're-come: Who for prefuming felt a Heavy doome. Why doe you (oh!) me from my felfe diffract? (Oh!) I repent, he cry'd: Alas! this fact Descrues not such a vengeance! Whilst he cry'd; Apollo from his body stript his hide. His body was one wound, bloud enery way

Streames from all parts: his finewes naked lay. Mis bare veines pant: bis heart you might behold;

For him the Faunce, that in the forrests keepe;

For him the Nymphs, and german Satyres weepe:

The pregnant Earth conceineth with their teares;

And all the fruers in his breft have rold.

His end, Olympus (famous then) bewailes; With all the shepheards of those hills and dales.

Which in her penetrated womb the beares,

Till big with waters: then discharg'd her fraught. This purest Phrygian Suscame a way our fought. By down-falls, till to toyling scas he came: Now called Marfy as of the Satyres name. The Vulgar, these examples told, returns Vato the present : for Amphien moune, And his poore iffue, All the mother hate. l'elops alone laments his fifters fate. While with some garments he presents his woes The inory peece on his left shoulder showes. This fleshy was, and coloured like the right. Blaine by his fire, the Gods his lims wnite: His scattered parts all found; saue that alone Which interpos d the neck and shoulder bonc. They then with inory supply'd th' vafound: And thus restored Pelops was made found.

The neighboring princes meet; the Cities neare: Intreat their kings the desobre to cheare. l'elops Mycane, Sparta, th' Argine State; And Calydon, not yet in Dian's hate & Fertill Orebomenes; Coviniban fam'd For high-priz'dbrasse; Messen, neuer tam'd; Cicona; Patra; Pylos, Nelius Crownes And Trazen, not then knowne for Pristers towne; With all that two-fes'd Ifibnes Streights include: And all without by two-lea'd Ishmes view'd. Aibens alone (who would belocu't) with-held: Thee, from that civill office, war compeld. 'Th' inhabitants about the Foneuch coast Had then belieg'd thee with a barbarous hoaft: Whom Thracsan Terens, with his Aids, o rethrew; And by that victoric renowned grew.

Metamorpholis.

Potent in wealth, and people; from the loynes Of Mars deriu'd: Pandion Progne joynes To him in marriage. This, nor I was bleft; Nor Hymen, nor the Graces grac't that feaft. Eumenides the nupriall tapers light At funerall fires; and made the bed that Night. Th' ill-boading Owle vpon the roofe was fet. Progne and Tereus with thele omens met: Thus parents grew. The Thracians yet reioyce; . And thanke the Gods with harmonic of vovce. The marriage day, and that of trys birth, They consccrate to vniuerfall mirth. So lyes the good vnseene. By this the Sun, Conducting Time, had through fine Autumns run : When flattering Progne thus allures her Lord. If I have any grace with thee, afford. This fauour, that I may my fifter fee: Send me to her, or bring thou her to me. Promise my father that with swiftest speede She shall returne. If this attempt succeede, The fumme of all my wishes I obtaine. He bids them lanch his ships into the maino: Then makes th' Athenian port with failes and oares; And lands upon the wisht Pyrean shores. Brought to Pandion's presence, they salute. The King with bad presage begins his sute. For locas he his wifes command recites, And for her quick returne his promise plights Comes Phi'omela; clad in rich array; More rich in beauty. So they vie to fay The stately Naiades, and Dryad's goe In Sylvan thades ; were they apparrel'd for-This. This fight in Tereus fuch a burning breeds, As when we fire a heape of hoary reeds; Or catching flames to Sun-dry'd stubble thrust. Her face was excellent: but in-bred kuft Inrag'd his blouds to which those Climes are prones: Stung by his countries fury, and his owne. He streight intends her women to intice, And bribe her Nurle to profecute his vice; Her selfe to tempt with gifts; his crowne to spende Or rauish, and by warre his rape defend. What dares he not, thrust on by wilde defire? Nor can his brest containe so great a fire. Rackt with delay, he Prome's fire renewes: And for himselfe in that pretention sucs. Loue made him eloquent. As ofcas be Exceeded, he would fay, Thus charged the. And mouing reares (as the had fent them) thede-O Gods! how dark a blindnesse ouer-sprods The foules of men! whilft to his fin he climes, They think him good; and praise him for his crimes, Euen Philomela wisht it! with soft armes She hugsherfather, and with winning charmes Ofher liues lafery, her destruction prest: While Teren by beholding pre-possest. Her kisses and imbraces hear his blood;

The Sixth Booke.

She, ouer-ioy'd, her father thanks: and thought Her selfe and lifter in that fortunate, Which drew on both a lamentable face.

He, by their importunities is wrought.

And all afford his fire and fury food.

And wisht, as oft as the her fire imbrac't,

He were her fire: nor would have been more chaft.

The

The labour of the Day now necre an end, From Steep Olympus Phabus Steeds descend. The boards are princely seru'd: Lyans flowes In burnisht gold. Then take their soft repose, And yet th' Odryfian King, though parted fries: Her face and graces ever in his eyes. Who parts vnleene vnto his fancy faines; And feeds his fires: Sleep flies his troubled brainess. Day vp: Pandien his departing son Wrings by the hand; and weeping thus begun-

Metamorphosis.

Deare Son fince Pietie this dew requires: With her, receive both your and their defires. By faith, aliance, by the Gods aboue, I charge you guard her with a fathers loue: And fuddenly fend back (for all delay To me is death) my ages onely stay. And daughter ('tis enough thy fifter's gone) For pitty leave me not too long alone. As he imposid this charge, he kist with-all: And drops of teares at every accent fall. The pledges then of promis'd faith demands (Which mutually they give) their plighted hande. To Progue, and her little boy, said he. My loue remember, and salute from me. Scarce could he bid farewell: fobs fo ingage His troubled speech; who dreads his soules presage. As soone as shipt; as soone as a dive ores. Had mou'd the furges, and remou'd the shores ; Shee's ours! with me my with I beare! he cryes. Exults; and barbarous, learce defers his joyes; His eyes fast fixt. As when loves eagle beares A Hare ther ayery, trust in rapefull scares:

And to the trembling prisoner leaves no way For hoped flight; but still beholds her pray. The Voyage made; on his owne land he treads: And to a Lodge Pandiens daughter leads; Obscur'd with woods: pale, trembring, full of feares; And for her fifter asking now with teares. There mues her vp; his foule intent makes knowne: Inforc't her; a weake Virgin, and but one. Helpe father I fifter helpe I in her distresse She cries; and on the Gods, with like successe. Shetrembles like a lamb, fnarcht from the phange Of some fell wolfe; that dreads her former pangs: Oz as a douc, who on her gorget beares Her blouds fresh Raines, and late-felt talencs feares Relior'd vnto her mind, her ruffled haire, As an a wofull funerall the care; Her armes with her owne füry bloudy made: Who, wringing her vp-heaucel hands, thus faid. Omonster! barbarous in thy horrid lust! Trecherous Tyrant! whom my fathers trust; Impos'd with holy toures; my fifters loue; My virgin state; nor nuprial vies, could move ! O what a wild confusion hast thou bred! I,an adultreffe to my fifters bed; Thou husband to vs both; to me a foe; To all a punishment; and justly so. Why mak'st thou not thy villanies compleat; By forcing life from her abhorred fear? O would thou hadil; ere I my honour lost! Then had I parted with a spotlesse ghost. Yet, if the Gods have eyes; if their Powersbe Of any powre; nor all decay with me;

And

Thou

162

Thou shalt not scape due vengeance. Sense of shame I will abandon; and thy crime proclaime: To men, if free; if not, my voice shall breake Through these thick walls; and teach the woods to speake: Hard rockes resolue to ruth. Let heaven this heare: And Heaven-thron'd Gods: if there be any there !

These words the saluage Tyrant moues to wroth: Nor lesse his feare: a like prouok't by both. Who drawes his fword: his cruell hands he winds In her loofe haire: her armes behind her binds. Her throte glad Philomela ready made: Conceiuing hope of death from his drawne blade. Whilst she reuiles, innokes her father; sought To vent her spleene; her tongue in pincers caught, His sword deuideth from the panting root: Which, trembling, murmurs curies at his foot. And as a serpents taile, diffeuer'd, skips: Euen so her tongue and dying sought her lipe. After this fact (if we may Runior trust) He oft abus'd her body with his luft. Yet home to Progree in the end retires: Who for her fifter hastily inquires. He funeralls belyes, with fained griefe : And by inftructed teares begets beliefe. Progne her royall ornaments rejects; And puts on black: an emptie tombe creds; To her imagin'd Ghost oblations burnes: Her fifters fate, not as the thould, the mournes. Now through twelue Signes the yeere his period drews What should distressed initemela doc? A guard restraind her flight; the walls were strong;

Her mouth had lost the index of her tongue.

The Sixth Booke.

The wit that milerie begots is great: Great sorrow addes a quicknesse to conceit. A woofe upon a Thracian loome the spreds; And inter-weates the white with erimfon threds; That character her wrong: The closely wrought, As cholely to a forwant gaile; befought To beare it to her Miltrelles who prefents The Queene therewith; not knowing the contents. The wife to that dire Tyrant this viriolds: And in a wofull verse her Rate beholds. She held her peace: 'twas firange! griefe firuck her mute. No language could with fuch a pallion fuce. Nor had the time to weepe, Right, wrong, were mixt

In her fell thoughts her foule on vengeance fore It was that time; when, in a wilde disquite, Sithenian matrons vieto folemnile Lyans three-yeares Feaft. Night spreds her wings: By night high Khodepe with timbrels rings. By night th'imparient Queene a jauelin takes, And now a Bacchanal, the Court forfales. Vines shade her browes: the rough hide of a Deare Shogs at her fider her thoulder bare a speare. Hurried through woods, with hier attendant froes, Terrible Progne, francick with her woes, Thy milder fury, Bacebus, counterfers. At length vnto the defart corrage gets:

Howles; Embe, cries: breakes ope the doores, and tooke Her fifter thence: with iny hides her looke: In habit of a Bacchanal arrayd And to her creethe amond donus yeld

That hated roofe when be your la know y

I he poore funkthooke; her silege bloudefle gre

The

Progne with-drawes; the facted weeds valos'da Her wofull fifters bathfull face disclos'd : Falls on her neck. The other durst not raise Her down-cast eyes: her fisters wrong surveyes In her dishonour. As the strong than fwome With vp-rais'd lookes; and call the Gods t' have borne Her pure thoughts witnesse, how she was compeld To that loth'd fact; the hands, for speech, vpheld. Sterne I regne broiles; her bosome hardly beares So yast a rage: who chides her fisters teares-

No teares, faid the our lost condition needs: But steele; or if thou hast what steele exceeds I, for all horrid practices, am fir: To wrap this roofe in flame, and him in it: His eyes, his congue, or what did thee inforce, Textirp; or with a thousand wounds, divorce His guiltie souler The deed I intend, is great: But what, as yet, I know not. In this heat Came trys in and taught her what to doe. Beheld with cruell eyes; Ah, how I view In thee, faid the, thy father I and began Her tragick Scene: with filent anger wan. But when her sonne saluted her, and ching Vnto her neck; mixt killes, as he hung, With childith blandithments; her high-wrought blond Began to calme, and rage diffracted food. Teares trickl'd from her eyes by strong constraint. But when the found her resolution faint With too much pittie, her sad fifter viewes. And faid, while both, her eyes by turnes perule. Why flatters he? why tongueleffe weeper the other? Why lifter calls not the whom he calls mother?

Degene-

The Sixth Booke.

Degenerate! thinke whole daughter; to whom wed: All pictic is sinne to Tereus bed. Then Itys trailes: as when by Ganges flouds A Tigrefic drags a Fawne through filent woods. Retiring to the most sequestred roome: While he, with hands vp-heau'd, fore-lees his doome, Clings to her bosom; mother! mother! cry'd; She stabs him: nor once turn'd her face aside. His throte was cut by Philomela's knife: Although one wound suffix'd to vanquish life. His yet quick lims, ere all his foule could paffe, Shee piece-meale teares. Some boyle in hollow braffe, Some hiffe on spits. The passements blutht with blood. I'regne inuites her husband to this food: And faines her Countries Rite; which would afford No attendant, nor companion, but her Lord. Now Terens, mounted on his Grand-fires throne, With his sons carved entrailes stuffes his owne: And bids her (so Soule-blinded!) call his boy. Progne could not disguise her cruellioy: In full finition of her horridire, Thou halt, faid the, within thee thy defire. He looks about : asks where. And while agains He asks, and calls : all bloudy with the flaine, Forth, like a Fury, Philomela flew; And at his face the head of Itys threw. Nor euer more than now defir d a tongue; Texpresse the loy of her revenged wrong. He, with lowd out-cryes, doth the boord repell; And cites the Furies from the depth of hell Now from his riling stomack strives to cash Th' abhoricationd: now weeps, with griefe agast!:

zizotanion padjos.

And calls himselse his sons unhappy tombe.
Then drawes his sword; and through the guilty roome
Pursues the Sisters; who appeare with wings
To cut the ayre: and so they did. One sings
In woods, the other neare the house remaines:
And on her brest yet beares her murders staines.
He, swift with gricse and sury, in that space
His person chang'd. Long tusts of seathers grace
His shining crowne; his sword a bill became;
His face all arm'd: whom we a Lapwing name.
This killing newes, ere halfe his age was spent.

Pandion to th' infernall Shadowes sent.

Erichthen: his throne and scepter held:
Who, both in instice, and bold armes exceld.
To him his wife source sons, all hopefull, bare:
As many daughters: two, surpassing faire.
Thee, Cephalus, thy Procris happy made:
But Thrace and Tereus, Boreas nuptials stayd.
The God belou'd Grithya wanted long;
While he put off his powre, to yie his tongue.

His fute reiected; horridly inclind

To anger (too familiar with that Wind.)

I iustly suffer this indignity:

For why, said he, haue! my armes said by?

Strength, violence, high rage, and awfull threats.

Tis my dishonour to haue vs'd intreats.

Force me befits. With this, thick clouds I driue;

Tosse the blew billowes, knotty Okes vp-riue;

Congeale soft snow, and beat the earth with haile.

When I my brethren in the ayre assaile,

(For that's our field) we meet with such a shocke,

That thundring skyes with our incounters rock,

The Sixth Booke.

And clowd-struck lightning flashes from on high.
When through the crannies of the earth I flye,
And force her in her hollow caues, I make
The Ghosts to tremble, and the ground to quake.
Thus should I have wood; with these my match have made
Erichtheus should have been compeld, not pray'd.
Thus Boreas chaster or no lesse storming, shooke

His horrid wings, whole avery motion ftrooke
The earth with blafts, and made the Ocean rore.
Trayling his dusky mantle on the flore,
He hid himselfein clouds of dust, and caught

Belou'd Orithya, with her feare distraught.
Flying, his agitated fires increast:
Nor of his ayeric race the raignes suppress Till to the walled cicones he came.

Two goodly Twins th' cspous'd Athenian Dame Gaue to the Icie author of her rape: Who had their fathers wings and mothers shape. Yet not so borne. Before their faces bare The manly ensignes of their yellow haire, Calais and Zetes both enplumed were.

But as the downe did on their chins appeare; So, foule-like, from their fides foft feathers bud. When youth to action had inflam'd their blood; In the first vessell, with the flowre of Greece, Through vnknowne seas, they sought the Golden Fleets.

And

OVID'S

O VID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The seuenth Booke.

THE ARGYMENT.

MEn, Dragous treth produce. Wing & Snakes their year @ By odors caft. A feire branch Olives beares. Drops sprous to Flowres. Old Acton your became, So Libers Nurses. An old Sheepe a Lambe. Cerambus flies. A Snake, a snake like Stone. An Oxe, a Stag. Sad Mera barki unknowne. Hernes front the Colm dames. The Telchines All change. A Done-sund Maid, The hard topleafen Becomes a Swan, His mother Hyric weepes Into a Lake. High-mounting Combe keeper Her fon-fought Life. A King and Queene eftrang & To flightfull Foule. Cophilus Rephen change Into a Seale. Eumilus danghter fices Through tracelefferegions. Men from Mushrumpe vifts Phinius and Periphas light wings affume. Se Polyphemous neece. From Cer berns Spuns Springi Aconite Inft Earth a grave denies

To Scyrons bones; which now in rocks or so.
Arne, a Chough. Scout Myrmidons are borne
Of soyling Ants. The last resetted Morne
Marks Cephalus. The Dog; that did purfus,
And Beaft puffi de; two marble Statues grow.

VVIth Pagasaan keele the Minya plow
The curling wanes: and Ph: news see; who now

With

In endlesse night his needy age consumes. The youthfull sons of Boreas, rais'd with plumes, Those greedy Harpyes, with tho virgin face, Far-off from his polluted table chace. They, vnder lason, having suffer'd much; At length the banks of flimy Phasis touch. Now I'hryxus fleece the hardy Minye aske: And from the King receive a dreadfull taske. Meane-while Æētias fries in secret fires: Who strugling long with ouer-strong desires, When realon could not such a rage restraine; She said: Medea, thou resists in vaine. Some God, vinknowne, with-stands. What will this prote! Or is it such as others fancic, Jouo? Why feeme the Kings commands to too feuere? And so, in truth they be. Why should I feare A strangers ruine, neuer seene before? Whence spring these cares? Why feare I more and more? Thele furies from thy virgin brest repell, Wretch, if thon canst. Could I, I should be well. A new-felt force my firiting powers inuades: Affection this, discretion that, perswades. I see the better, I approue it too: The worse I follow. Why shouldst thou pursue A husband of an other world; that are Of royall birth? Our country may impart A choice as worthy. If this forrein mate; Or live, or dye; 't is in the hands of face. Yet, may he live! I fuch a fute might move To equall Gods, although I did not loue. For what hath Iafon done? his hopefull Youth Would moue all hearts, that were not hard, to ruth;

His birth, his valour. Set all these apart; His person would: I am sure it moues my heart. Yet should not I assist, the slaming breath Of Bulls would blaft him; or, affaults of death Spring vp in armes from Tellus hostill womb: Or else the greedie Dragon proues his tomb. This fuffer, and thou hast a heart of stone; Borne of a Tygreffe, and more fauage growne. Yet why stand I not by ? behold him staine? And with that spectacle my eyes profane? Adde fury to the Bulls ? to th' Earth-borne ire? And sleepleste Dragon with more spleene inspire? The Gods forbid! yet rather helpe, than pray. My fathers kingdome shall I then betray? And faue this fellow, whom I hardly know, That fau'd by me, he should without me goe, , Marry an other, and leave me behind To punishment? could he proue so vnkind, Or for an other my deferts neglect; Then should he dye. Such is nor his aspect; The clearnesse of his mind; his every grace; To scare deceit, or censure him so base. Besides, before hand he shall plight his troth: And bind the contract by a solemne oath. What need thou doubt? goe on; delay decline: Obliged lalon will be euer thine. Hymen shall crowne, and mothers celebrate Their ions Protectrelle through th' Achaian State. My fifter, brother, father, country, Gods, Shall I abandon for vaknowne abodes? Austere my father, barbarous my land, My brother, a childy my fifters wishes stand

With my defires; the greatest God of all My brest inshrines. What I forsake is small: Great hopes I follow. To receive the grace For Argo's safetic: know a better place And Cities, which, in these far-distant parts, Arc famous; with civilitie, and arts: And Afon, son, whom I more dearely prize Than wealthy Earth and all her Monarchies. In him most happy, and affected by The bounteous gods, my crown shall reach the sky. They tell of Rocks that justle in the maine: Charybdis, that lucks in, and casts againe The wrackfull waves: how rau'nous Scyl'a waite With backing dogs in rough Sicilian straits. My loue posser; in lasons bosome laid; Let scas swell high: I cannot be dismaid While I infold my husband in my armes. Or should I feare, I should but seare his harmes. Call'st thou him husband? wilt thou then thy blame Medea, varnish with an honest name? Consider well what thou intends to doe; And, while thou maist, so foule a crime eschue. Thus the. When honour, pictie, the right, Before her stood; and cupid put to flight. Then goes where Hecates old Altar stood; O're-shadowed by a dark and secret wood. Her broken ardor she had now reclaim'd: Which la/ens presence forth-with re-inflam'd.

Her checks bluth fire: her face with feruor flashes. And as a dying cinder, rak't in affice, Fed by reuiting windes, augmenting, glowes; And tolled, to accustom'd fury growes:

So fickly Loue, which lare appear'd to dye; New life assum'd from his inflaming eye.

Whose looks by chance more beauty now discouct Than heretofore: you might forgiue the loucre

Her cager eyes the riuets on his face;

And, frantick, thinks him of no humane race: Nor could divert her lookes. As he his tongue

Began t'vnloose ,her faire hand softly wrung. Implor'd her aide, and promis'd her his bed:

She answer made, with tearrs profusely shed. I see to what events m' intentions moue:

Nor ignorance deceiues me thus; but loue. You, by the vertue of my art, shall live:

In recompence, your faithfull promise giue. He, by the Altar of the Triple Powre,

The groues which that great Deity imbowre, Her fathers Sire, to whom the hid appeares,

His owne successe, and so great danger, sweares. Beleeu'd : from her th' inchanted herbs receiues ;

With them, their vie : and his Protectreffe leaues. The Morrow had the sparkling stars defac't:

When all in Marse's field assemble; plac't On circling ridges. Seated on a throne, The mory-scepter'd King in scarlet shone. From adamant nostrils bras-hoou'd Buls now cast

Hot Vulcan, and the graffe with vapors blast. And as full forges, blowne by art, refound;

As puluer'd flints, infurnest vnder ground; By iprinkled water fire conceine: so they

Pent flames, inuclu'd in noysefull brests, betray; So rumble their scorcht throtes. Yet Alons Heire

Came brauely on: on whom they turne, and stare

Metamorphosis.

With terrible aspects; his ruine threat With steele-tipt hornes. Inrag'd, their elest hooues beat The thundring ground; whence clouds of dust arile; And with their finoky bellowings rend the skies. The minus freeze with feare; but he remaines Votoucht: such vertue Sorcery containes. Their dew-laps boldly with his hand he strokes. Inforc't to draw the plough with heauy yokes. The colchians at lo strange a fight admire: The Minra thour, and fer his powres on fire. Then, in his caske, the vipers teeth affumes: Those in the turn d-vp furrowes he inhumes. Earth mollifies the poys'nous feeds, which spring; And forth a haruest of new People bring. And as an Embrion, in the womb inclosed, Affirmes the forme of man; within compos'd, Through all accomplishe numbers; nor comes forth To breathe in ayre, till his maturer growth: So when the bowels of the teeming Earth Grew great, the gaue mens perfect thapes their birth. And, what's more ftrange; with them, their armes afcend: Who at th' Amorian Youth their lances bend. When this th' Achaiam faw, they hung the head: And all their courages for terror fled. Euen the, who had fecur'd him was affraid, When the beheld to many one inuade. A chil cold checks her bloud; death looks leffe pale. And left the hearbs the gaue thould chance to faile; Vnheard auxiliarie charmes imparts: And calls th' affiftance of her fecret Arts. He hurles a massic stone among his foes: Who on shemselves convert their deadly blowes.

The Senenth Booke.

The Earth-borne brothers mutuall wounds destroys. And civill warre. The Achines skip for joy, And throng t' imbrace the Victor. Her the same Affection spurd, but was with-held by shame. Yet that too weake if none had lookt vpon here Not vertue checkt her, but the wrack of honor. Now, in conceit, the hugs him in her armess Applauds th' inuentiue Gods; with them, her charmes To make the Dragon sleepe that neuer slept, Remaines; whole care the golden purchace kept. Bright crefted, triple tongu'd; his cruell iawes Arm'd with sharpe phangs; his feet with dreadfull clawes; When once besprinkled with Lethean inyce, . And words repeated thrice; which sleepe produce, . Calme the rough seas, and make swift rivers stand; His eye-lids vail'd to fleepes vnknowne command... The Heros, of the Golden Fleece possess, Proud of the spoyle, with her whole fauour bless His enterprize, an other Spoyle, now bore

To sea; and lands on safe loscian shore. Æmonian parents, for their lons returne, Bring gratefull gifts, coniefted incense burne; And chearfully with home-gilt offrings pay Religious vowes. But Æfon was away ; Oppress with redious age, now necre his tomber When thus Afonides : O wife, to whom My life I owe: though all I hold in chiefe From thy deserts, which far surpasse beliefe; If magick can (what cannot magick do?) Take yeeres from me; and his with mine renue. Then wept. His piecie her passion firs: Who fighs to thinke how valike the had beene to hers.

The

Yet this concealing, answers: What a crime Hath flipt thy tongue? thinkst thou, that with thy time I can, or will, anothers life inueft? Hecat' forc-fend! nor is't a just request. Yet lason, we a greater gift will give: Thy father, by our art renew'd, shall live, Without thy losse; if so the triple Powre Assist me with her presence in that howre.

Three nights yet wanted, ere the Moone could joyne Her growing hornes. When with replenishe shine She fac't the earth; the Court she scaues; her haire Vntrest, her garments loose, her ankles bare: And wanders through the dead of drowfie Night With vnscene steps. Men, beasts, and birds of flight, Deepe Rest had bound in humid gyues; who crept So filently, as if her felfe had flept. No Aspen wags, moyst ayre no sound receiues: Stars onely shine: to which her armes she heaves: Thrice turnes about; besprinkles thrice her crowne With gather'd deaw; thrice yawnes: and kneeling downt

O Night, thou friend to Secrets; you cleare fires, That, with the Moone, succeed when Day retires: Great Hecate, that know's, and aid imparts To our defignes: you Charmes, and magick Arts: And thou, O Farth, that to Magicians yeelds Thy powerfull simples; aires, winds, mountaines, fields; Soft murmuring springs, still lakes, and rivers cleare: You Gods of woods; you Gods of night, appeare! By you, at will, I make swift streames retire To their first fountaynes, whilst their banks admire; Seas toffe, and finooth; cleere clouds, with clouds deforme $ Stormes turne to calmes, and make a calme a Storme-With The Seventh Booke.

With spels and charmes I breake the Vipers iaw, Cleaue folid rocks, okes from their scasures draw, Whole Woods remoue, the, ayrie mountaines shake; Earth grone, and ghosts from beds of death awake. And thee, Titania, from thy Sphere I hale: Though ringing Cymballs thy extreames availe. Our charmes thy charriot pale; our poys'nous weeds, The frighted Morne; though drawne by rosie Steeds. Flame-breathing buls you tam'd; you made them bove Their stubborne necks anto the servill plow; The Serpents brood by you selfe-slaughtred lyes; Your flumbers clos'd the wakefull Dragons eyes, At our command: and sent the Golden Fleece (The guard deluded) to the towres of Greece-Now need I daugs, that may old age indue With vigour, and the flowre of youth renue. Which you shall give. Nor blaze these stars in vaines Nor Dragous vainly through the ayric maine This Charriot draw. Hard by the charriot refts. Mounting, the strokes the bridled dragons cress; And shakes the raignes. Rapt vp, beneath her spies The flatian Tempe; and her inakes applies To parts retir'd. The hearbs that cills beare, Steepe Pelion, Othrys, Pindus; cuer-cleare Olympus, who the loftic Pindus tops; Vp-routs, or with her brazen Cycle crops. Much gathers on the bank of Apidan; By Amphr; sus much; and where Enipeus rans Nor Sperchius, nor Peneus, barren found: Nor thee smoothe Bee'es with sharpe rushes erown'd. And rautht from Enbotan Anthedon, That hearb, as yet by Glancus change voknowne-

180 Metamorphosis.

By winged Dragons drawne, nine nights, nine dayes, About the romes; and every field survayes. Remrn'd: her Snakes, that did but onely smell The Odors, cast their skins, and age expell. Her feete to enter her owne roofe refuse. Rooft by the sky: she touch of man eschues, Two Altars builds of living turfe: the right To Hecate, the left to Youth. These dight With Vervin and greene boughs; hard by, two pits. She forthwith digs: and facrificing, slits The throtes of black-fleeft rams. With reaking blood The ditches fils; and powres thereon a flood Of honey, and new milke, from turn'd-vp bowles; Repeating powerfull words. The King of Soules, His rauisht Queene, inuokes; and Powers beneath, Not to preuent her by old Æfons death-With pray'rs, and long-breath'd murmurings appeas'd: She bids them to produce the age-dileas'd. Her sleepe-producing charme his spirits deads: Who on the graffe his senselesse body spreads. Charg'd lason, and the rest, far-off with-drew: Vnhallowed eyes might not fuch fecrets view. Furious Medea, with her baire vnbound, About the flagrant Altar trots a Round. The brands dips in the ditches, black with bloods Lad on the Altars fires th'infected wood. hrice purges him with waters, thrice with flames, And thrice with fulphur smuttering horrid names. M. ane while, in hollow brattle the med'cine boyles : And Iwelling high, in fomy bubbles toyles. There leethes the what th' Amonian vales produce;

The Seventh Booke.

Addes precious stones, from farthest Orient reft: And pibles, by the ebbing Ocean left. The deaw collected ere the Dawning springs: A Screech-owles flesh, with her infamous wings. The entrailes of ambiguous Wolues; that can Take, and forfake the figure of a man. The liver of a long-lived Harre then takes The scaly skins of small cinyphean snakes. A Crowes black head, and poynted boake, was cast: Among the rest; which had nine ages past. These, and a thousand more; without a name, Were thus prepared by the barbarous Dame For humane benefit. Th'ingredients now. She mingles with a wither'd olive bough. Lo! from the caldron the dry flick receives First virdure; and a little after, leaves; Forth-with, with ouer-burdning Oliues deckt. The skipping spume which under flames eiect, Vpon the ground descended in a dew: Whence vernall flowres, and springing pasture grew. This seene, she cuts the old mans throre; out-scrus'd; His scarce-warmeblood, and her receipt infus'd. Suckt in at mouth or wound, his beard and head Blackhaite forth-with adorne, the hoary shed. Pale colour, morphue, meger looks remoue: And under-rising thesh his wrinkles smoothe. His limmes wax throng and luftic. A fon much Admires his change: himselfe remembers such Twice twenty summers past. With all, indu'd. A youthfull mind: and both at once renew'd. This wonder from on high Lyaus views: By colchis grit his nurles dates renewes.

Bootes, inyecs, flowres, and feeds of fourraigne vie. Addes.

Leali

Least fraud thould faile; the, with her bed's Confort Diffention faines, and flies to Pelias Court. His daughters (for lad Age the King arrefts) Her entertaine. Who foone with fly protests Offorged loue ailures their quick beliefe. Among her mailes mentions the repriefe Of Allem yeares; infifting on that part. This hope ingenders, that her able Art Might fo their father's vanisht youth restore: Whom they, with infinite rewards implo: c. She, musing, seemes to doubt : and, with pretence Of difficultie, holds them in suspence. But when she had a tardy promise made; To win your stedfast considence (she said) Take from your flocks the most age-shaken Ran; And suddenly he shall become a Lamb. Streight thither by the wreathed hornes they drew A funk-cy'd Ram; whose youth none liuing knew. Now, at his riueled throte, out-lanching life (Whose little blood could hardly staine her knife) His carkasse she into a caldron throwes: With it, her drugs. Each limb more slender growes; He casts his hornes, and with his hornes his yeares: Anon a tender bleating strikes their cares. While they admire, out skips a frisking Jamb; That sports, and seekes the vdder of his dam. Fixt with amaze: they, firongly now possest, Her promise more importunately prest. Thrice Phabus had vnyok't his panting Steeds, Drencht in Iberian Seas; whist Night succeeds, Studded with stars; when falle Medea tooke, With vselesse herbs, meere water of the brooke.

The Seventh Booke.

On Pelias, and his drowfic Guard, flee hung A death-like fleepe with her inchanting tongue. Whom now the fo-instructed sisters led Into his chairber; and besiege his bed. Why paule you thus, faid the, o flow to good? Vniheath your swords, and leed his aged blood; That I his veines with sprightly juyce may fill: His life and youth depend vpon your will. If you have any vertue, nor pursue Vnfruitfull hopes, performe this filiall due. With steele your fathers age expulse, and purge His dregs through wounds. Their zeale her speeches vrge-Who were most pious, impious first became: And, by auoyding, perpetrate the same. Yet hearts they had not to behold the blow: But, with auerted lookes, blind wounds bestow. He, blood-imbrew'd, his hoary head aduanc't: Halfe-mangled, stroue to rife. Who now intranc't Amidst so many swords, his armes vp-held; And, Daughters, cry'd, what doe you | what compeld Those cruell hands t'inuade your fathers life! Downe sunke their hands and hearts. Medea's knife, With following speech his throte asunder cuts: And his hackt limmes in seething liquor puts. And had not Dragons rapt her through the skies, Reuenge had tortur'd her. Aloft the flies Ore thady Pelion, god-like (biron Den, Aspiring Othrys, hills renown'd by men

Of fauouring Nymphs, reliefefull wings displaide; While swallowing waues the waighty earth surrounds And swolne Deucations surges scap't vndrown'd Eslian

For old cerambus safety: who, by aide

Erens,

Æulian Pitane on her left hand leaues; That marble which the Serpents shape receives: Idean groues, where! iber turn'd a Steere (To cloke his sons slye thest) into a Decre; The fand-heape which corytus Size containes; And where new-barking Mera frights the plaines: Euryphylus towne, where hornes the Matrons sham'd: Of co, when Hercules the Coans tam'd; Phæleian bode; lal, sian Telchines, Drencht by love vengeance in his brothers seas, For all transforming with their vitious eyes: By Caa's old Cartheran turrets flyes, Where fates A'cidamas with wonder moue, To thinke his daughter could become a Douc. Then Hyries lake, Cycneian Tempe view'd, Grac't by a Swan with sudden plumes indu'd. For Phyllius there, had, at a Boyes command, Wild birds, and faluage Lyons, brought to hand. Who bid to tame a Bull, his will perform'd; Yet at so sterne a loue not seldome storm'd And his last purchase to the boy deny'd. Pouting, You'l wish you had given it me, he cry'd; And impr from downe-right cliffs- All held him bain'd; When spredding wings a siluer Swan sustain'd His Mother (ignorant thereof) became A Lake with weeping: which they Hyrie name-Next Pleuron lies; where Opbian Combe shuns With trembling wings, her life purfuing fons. Then neere I atona-lou'd Calaure rang'd; In which the King and Queene to birds were chang'd. if the on the right hand (where the beaft Mercephon would his mother have compress.)

ceptifus spies (who for his nephew mourn'd; Into a Sea-calfe by Apollo turn'd). Eumeius Court, whose daughter sads her Sire, With mounting wings. Her Snakes at length retire. To Piren, Ephyr: men, if Fame fay true, Here at the first from shower-rayed mushrumps gre N. But after colchis had the new-wed Dame, And Creons Pallace, wrapt in Magick flame; When impious steele her childrens bloud had shed, The ill-reueng'd from Iasons fury fled. Whom now the swift Titanian Dragons draw To Pallas towres. Those thee, iust Phineus, saw; And thee, old Periphar, at once to flie: Where Polyphemons Neece new wings supply. Ageus entertaines her (of his life The onely staine) and took her for his wife. Here The seus maskt vnknown: who, great in Deed Had two-sea'd 1stbmos from oppression freed. Whose vadescrued ruin Phasias sought By mortall Aconite, from Scribia brought. This from Echidna's hel-hound effence drawes-There is a blind steepe caue with foggy lawes, Through which the bold Tirynthian Heros strain'd Drag'd Cerberus, with adamant inchain'd. Who backward hung, and scouling, looks a-skew On glorious Day; with anger rabid grew: Thrice howles, thrice barks at once, with his three heads; And on the graffe his spumy poyson sheds. This sprung; attracting from the fruitfull soyle Dire nourithment, and powre of deathfull spoyle. The rurall Swaines, because it takes delight In living rocks, furnam'd it Aconito.

Cepb. [11]

As to a foe, presents it to his sonne;
He took the cup: when by the inory hist
Of the seus sword, Again sound her guilt;
And struck the porion from his lips. With charmes

Ingendring clouds, the scapes his lengthlesse armes.
Though glad of his sons safetic, a chill scape.
Shooke all his powers, that danger was so necre.
With fire he feeds the Altars, richly scasses.
With sire he feeds the Altars, richly scasses.
The Gods with gifts. Whole Hecatombs of beasts
(Their hornes with ribands wreath'd) imbrew the ground.
No day, they say, was ever so renown'd.
Amongst th' Athenians. Noble, vulgar, all,
Together celebrate that Festivall.
And sing, when slowing bowles their spirits raise:

Together celebrate that Festivall. And fing, when flowing bowles their spirits raise: Great Thefeus, Marathon resounds thy praise For flaughter of the Cretan Bull. Secure They live, who Cremyons wasted fields manure. By thy exploit and bounty. Pulcans Seed By thee glad Epidaure beheld to bleed. Immane Progrustes death Cephisia view'd: Elusis, Cercyon's. Scinis ill indu'de With strength so much abus'd; who Beeches bent, And tortur d bodyes 'twixt their branches rent, Thou flew'st. The way which to Alcathue led Is now fecure, inhumane Sopron dead. The Earth his scatter'd bones a graue deny'd; Nor would the Sea his hated reliques hide: Which toffed to and fro, in time became A folid rock: the rock we Sayron name. If we thy yeares should number with thy acts; Thy yeares would proue a cypher to thy facts.

The Seventh Booke.

Great soule! for thee, as for our publique wealth, We pray; and quaffe Lyaus to thy health.
The Pallace with the peoples praises rings:

And facred loy in encry bosome springs.

Æzensyet (no pleasure is compleat:

Griese twins with ioy.) for Theseus safe receit
Reapes little comfort. Minos makes a war:

Though strong in men and ships, yet stronger far Through vengeance of a father: who, his harmos In slaine Androgeus, scourgeth with iust armes. Yet wisely first endeuours forraine aid:

And all the Ilands of that Sca suruai'd. Who Anaphe and Astipalea gain'd; The one by gifts, the other war constrain'd:

Low Mycone, Cimolus chalkie fields, High Scyros, Siphnus, which rich metals yeelds,

Champion Seriphos, Paros far display'd
With marble browes, and Cythnos il betray'd
By impious Arne for yet-loued gold;

Turn'd to a Chough, whom fable plumes infold.

Oliaros, Didyme the Sea-lou'd loyle

Of Tenos, l'eparethes fat with oyle, Andros, and Gyaros; these their aid deny'd. The Gnossian sleet from thence their sailes apply'd Vnto Otnopia, for her children sam'd.

Genopia by the ancient dwellers nam'd:
But Æacus, there raigning, call'd the same

Æzina, of his honour d mothers name.
All throng to see a Prince of so great worth.

Straight I elamon and Peleus, isluing forth, With Phocus, youngest of that royall race, Make haste to meet him. With a tardie pace

Came

Great

Came aged Æacus, and askt the cause Of his repaire. At those sad thoughts he drawes His breath in fighs: some intermission made, The Ruler of the hundred Cities faid. Assist our armes, borne for my murdred son; And in this pious war our fortunes run: Giue comfort to his graue. The King reply'd: In vaine you aske what needs must be deny'd. No Citie is in stricter league than ours Conjoyn'd to Athens: mutuall are our powres. He, parting, faid: Your league shall cost you deare. And held it better far, to threat, than beare An accidentall warre; whereby he might. Consume his force before he came to fight.

Yet might they see the Cretans under faile From high built walls: when, with a leading gale,. The Attick thip attain'd their friendly thore: Which cephalus, and his emballage, bore. Th! Æacides him knew (though many a day Vnscene) imbrace, and to the Court conuay. The goodly Prince, who yet the pledges held Of those perfections, which in youth exceld, Enters the Pallace; bearing in his hand. A branch of Olive. At his elbowes stand Ciyius, and Butes; valorous and young: Who from the loynes of high-borne Pailas sprung. First cephalus his full oration made; Which thew'd his mellage, and demanded aid: Their leagues, an ancient loues to mind recalls; And how all Greece was threatned in their falls: With eloquence inforc't his embassie. When God-like Æicus made this replie

(His royall scepter shining in his hand) Athenians, crave not succour, but command: This Ilands forces yours vouchfafe to call; For in your ayde I will aduenture all. Souldiers I have enow, at once t'oppose My enemies, and to repell your foes. The Gods be prais'd, and happy times, that will Seeke no excuses. May your Citie still

The Seventh Booke.

Increase with people; Cephalus reply'd. At my approch I not a little ioy'd To meet to many youths of equall yeares, So fresh and lustie. Yet not one appeares

Of those who heretofore your towne possest & When first you entertayn'd me for a Guest. Then Æacus, (in fighs his words ascend)

A sad beginning had a better end. Would I could veter all: Day would expire Ere all were told, and t'would your patience tire. Their bones, and ashes, filent graves inclose: And what a treasure perished with those ! By Iune's wrath, a dreadfull pestilence

Deuour'd our lives; who tooke vniust offence, In that this lleber Riuals name profest. While it feem'd humane, and the cause vnghest; So long we death-repelling Physick try'd: Bur those diseases vanquisht Art deride. Heaven first, the earth with thickned vapors shrouds

And lazie heat involves in sullen clouds. Foure pallid moones their growing hornes vnite, And had as oft with-drawne their feeble light; Yet still the death-producing Auster blew.

Sunke springs, and standing lakes infected grew:

How

Serpents in vntild fields by millions creepe; And in the streames their tainting poylons steepe. First, dogs, sheepe, oxen, fowle that slagging sly, And faluage beafts, the swift infection try. Sad Swaines, amazed, see their oxen shrink Beneath the yoke, and in the furrowes link. The fleecie flocks with anguish faintly bleat; Let fall their wooll, and pine away with heat, The generous Horse that from th'Olympicks late Return'd with honour, now degenerate, Vnmindfull of the glory of his prize; Grones at his manger, and there deedlesse dyes. The Bore forgets his rage: swift feet now faile The Hart: nor Beares the horned Herd affaile. All languith. Woods, fields, paths (no longer bare) Are fil'd with carkailes, that stench the aire. Which neither dogs, nor greedy fowle (how much To be admir'd!) nor hoary wolues would touch. Falling, they rot: which deadly Odors brod, That round about their dire contagion spred. Now raues among the wretched country Swaines: Now in our large and populous Citie raignes. At first, their bowels broyle, with feruor stretcht: The symptoms; rednesse, hot wind hardly fetcht. Their furd tongs swell; their drie iawes gasp for breath; And with the ayre inhale a swifter death. None could indure or couerture, or bed: But on the stones their panting bosoms spred. Cold stones could no way mitigate that heat: Euen they beneath those burning burdens sweat. None cure attempt: the sterne Discase inuades The heartleffe Leech; nor Art her author aids.

The neere ally'd, whose care the fick attends, Sicken themselues, and dye before their friends. Of remedy they see no hope at all, But onely in approching funerall. All cherish their desires: for helpe none care: Help was there none. In shamelesse throngs repaire To springs and wells: there cleave, in bitter strife Textinguish thirst; but first extinguish life. Nor could th'o're-charg'd arife; but dying fink: And of those tainted waters, others drink. The wretches lothe their tedious beds: thence breake With giddy steps. Or, if now growne too weake, Roule on the floore: there quitted houses hate, As guilty of their miscrable fate; And, ignorant of the cause, the place accuse: Halfe-ghosts, they walk, while they their legs could vie. You might fee others on the earth lye mourning; Their heavy eyes with dying motion turning: Stretching their armes to heaven, where ever death Surpris'd them, parting with their figh't-out breath, O what a heart had I! or ought to haue! I loth'd my life, and with with them a grane. Which way focuer I convert my eye, The breathlesse multitude dispersed lye. Like perisht apples, dropping with the strokes Of rocking windes; or acornes from broad okes. See you yon'Temple, mounted on high flaires? 'Tis I upiters. Who hath not offer'd praiers, And flighted incense there ! husbands for wives; Fathers for fons: and while they pray, their lives Before th'inexorable altars vent; With incense in their hands, halfeyet vnspentil

How oft the oxe, vnto the temple brought, While yet the Priest the angry Powres belought. And pour'd pure wine betweene his hornes; fell downe Before the axe had toucht his curled crowne ! To Impiter about to facrifice, For me, my country, fons; with horrid noyse Th'vnwounded Offering fell: the blood that life Bore into exile, hardly flaind the knife. The Inwards lost their signes of heavens presage; Out-raized by the sterne Diseases rage. The dead before the facred doores were laid: Before the Altars too; the Gods t'vpbraid. Some choke themselues with cords: by death eschue The feare of death; and following Fates pursue. Dead corps, without the Dues of funerall, They weakly beare: the ports are now too small. Or vn-inhum'd they lye: or else are throwne On wealthlesse pyles. Respect is given to none. For Pyles they striue: on those their kinsfolke burne. That flame for others. None are left to mourne. Ghosts wander vndeplor'd by sons or lires: Nor is there roome for rombs, or wood for fires. Aftonisht with these tempests of extreames: O love, faid I, if they be more than dreames That wrapt thee in Æeina's armes; nor shame That I, thy son, should thee my father name: Render me mine, or render me a graue! With prosperous thunder-claps a signe he gaue.

I take it, said I; let this Omen be A happy pledge of thy intents to me; Hard by, a goodly Oke, by fortune, flood, Sacred to leve; of Dedencian wood:

Graine-gathering Ants there, in long files I faw, Whose little mouthes selfe-greater burthens draw; Keeping their paths along the rugged rine. While I admire their number: O divine,

And ouer helpfull! give to me, faid I, As many men; who may the dead supply. The trembling oke his loftie top declin'd:

And mutmured without a breath of wind. I thooke with feare; my treffes ilood an end Yet on the earth and oke I kisses spend. Idurst not sceme to hope; yet hope I did: And in my breft my cheritht wifhes hid.

Night came; and Sleepe care-wasted bodies chear'd Before my eyes the felfe-same Oke appear'd; So many branches, as before, there were;

So many busic Ants those branches beare; So shooke the Oke, and with that motion threw To ynder-earth the graine-supporting crew.

Greater and greater straight they seeme to sight: To raise themselves from earth, and stand vp-right. Whom numerous feet, black colour, lanknelle leauet

And inflantly a humane shape receiue. Now Sleep with-drew. My dream I waking blames And on the small-performing Gods exclaime. Yet heard a mightie noyle; and feem'd to heare

Almost forgotten voyces: yet I scare That this a dreame was also. Whereupon, The doore thrust open, in rusht Telamon;

Come forth, said he, O father; and behold What hope transcends 3 nor can with faith be told! Forth went I; and beheld the men which late

My dreame presented: such in every state

I saw; and knew them. They salute their King.

Ioue prais'd: a partie to the towne I bring;
Among the rest I share the fields: and call
Them Asyrmidens of their originall.
You see their persons: such their manners are
As sormerly. A people given to spare,
Patient of labour; what they get, preserve.
They, like in yeares and mindes, these wars shall serve,
And sollow your conduct; when first this wind
(The wind blew Easterly) that was so kind
To bring you hither, will to your availe
Convert it selte into a Southerne gale.

Conuert it selte into a Southerne gale. Discourse thus entertain'd the day; with seasts They crowne the euening: Sleep the Night inuclta The morning Sun projects his golden rayes: Still Furns blew; and their departure stayes. Now Pallas sons to Cephalus resort, And cerbalus, with Pallus fons, to Court, With early visits: (fleepe the King inchaines). Whom Phocas in the Prefence entertaines. For Peleur, with his brother Telamon, To raise an army were already gone. Meane-while th' Athenians I hours leads into The Priny chamber, beautifull to view. Talking; his eyes upon the lauclin seaze, Which grac't the fingers of Ædider. Thaunt, taidhe, the woods; delight in blood Of faluage beafts; yet know not of what wood Your darr is made of. If of ash it were 'Tould look more brown; if Cornel, 'twould appeare More knotty: on what tree fo'ere it grew, My eyes did neuer fuch another view.

One of th' Affaan brethren made reply: You would more wonder at the quality. Ithits the aim'd at, not by fortune led; And of it selfe returnes with slaughter red. Phoens the cause defireth much to know: From whence it came; and who did it bestow. He yeelds to his request; yet things well knowne, Restrain'd by modesty, he lets alone. Who toucht with forrow for his wife, that bleeds In his remembrance; thus with teares proceeds. This Dart, & Goddesse-borne, prouokes these teares And cuer would, if endlesse were my yeares. This me, in my vnhappy wife, destroy'd: This gift I would I neuer had inioy'd! Process Orithya's fister was; if Fame Haue more inform'd you of Orithya's name. Yet the (thould you their minds and formes confer) More worth the rape. Erechtheus, mee to her, And loue, vnite. Then happy! happy, I Might yet haue beene. But ô, the Gods enuy! Two months were now consum'd in chaste delights When gray Aurora, having vanquisht Night, Beheld me on the euer-fragrant hill Of steepe Hymettus: and, against my will, As I my toyles extended, bare me thence. I may the truth declare without offence: Though rofic be her checks; although the sway The deawy Confines of the Night and Day, And Nectar drink; my Process all possest: My heart was hers; my tongue her prayse profest. I told her of our holy nuptiall ties; Of wedlocks breach; and yet scarce tasted loyes.

Fire-red, the faid; thy harth complaints forbeare: Pollefle thy Procris. Though so faire, so deare; Thou'lt with th'hadft neuer knowne her, if I know Infewing fate: and angry, lets me goe. Her words I ponder as I went along: And 'gan to doubt the might my honour wrong. Her youth and beauty tempt me to distrust: Her vertue checks those feares, as most vaiust. But I was ablent: but example fed My icalousic: but louers all things dread. I scike my forrowes; and with gifts intend To tempt the chafte. Aurora proues a friend To this suspition; and my forme translates. Vnknowne, I enter the Athenian gates; And then my owne. The house from blame was free: In decent order, and perplext for me. Scarce with a thousand sleights I gain'd a view a View'd with aftonishment, I scarce pursue My first intent; scarce could I but reueale The truth; and pardon with due killes leale. She was full fad: yet louelier none than she, Euen in that sadnesse: sorrowfull for me. How excellent, & Phocus, was that face, Which could in griefe retaine fo sweet a grace? 'What need I tell how often I affail'd Her vexed chaffitie! how often fail'd! How often faid the! One I onely ferue: For him, where cuer, 1 my joyes preferue. What mad man would luch faith haue faither prest, But 1? industrious in my owne vnrest. With deepe protects, and gifes still multiply'd, At length the waters Falle of faith, I cry'd,

Thou art disclos'd : I, no adulterer, But thy wrong'd spouse; nor can this tryall erre. She made no answer, prest with silent shame. Th'infidious house, and me, far more in blame, Forlaking: man-kind for my lake elchues: And Dian-like the mountaine chace purfues. Abandon'd; hotter flames my blood incense. I beg'd her pardon, and confest m'offence: And faid, Aurora might have me subdude With such inticements, had but she so woo'd. My fault confest, her wrong reuenged, wee Grow reconcil'd; and happily agree. Besides her selfe, as though that gift were small, A Dog she gaue: which conthia gining; All, Said the, surpasse in swiftnesse: and this Speare You so commend, which in my hand I bearc. Doc you the fortune of the first inquire? Receiue a wonder: and the fact admire. Dark prophesies, not vnderstood of old, The Naiades with searching wits vnfold. When sacred Themis, in that so obscure, Neglected grew. Nor could the this indurc. A cruell Beast insests th' Adnian plaines; To many farall: fear'd by country Swaines, Both for their cattle, and themselves. We mets And with our toyles the ample fields befet. He nimbly skips aboue the vpper lines:

The Seventh Booke.

And mounting ouer, frustrates our designes. Their dogs the vncouple; whose pursuit he out-fprings With no lette speed, than if supply'd by wings.

All bid me let my I alaps flip (for to My dog was call'd) who strugling long agoe,

Halin

Metamorphosis.

Fire-red, the faid; thy harth complaints forbeare: Possessite thy Process. Though so faire, so deare;

Thou'lt with th'hadft neuer knowne her, if I know Insewing fate: and angry, lets me goc. Her words I ponder as I went along:

And 'gan to doubt the might my honour wrong. Her youth and beauty tempt me to distrust:

Her vertue checks those feares, as most vaiust. But I was ablent: but example fed

My icalousse: but louers all things dread. I feeke my forrowes; and with gifts intend

To tempt the chafte. Aurora proues a friend To this suspition; and my forme translates.

Vnknowne, I enter the Athenian gates; And then my owne. The house from blame was free:

In decent order, and perplext for me. Scarce with a thousand sleights I gain'd a view:

View'd with aftonithment, I scarce pursue My first intent; scarce could I but reueale

The truth; and pardon with due killes leale. She was full fad: yet louelier none than she,

Eucn in that sadnesse: sorrowfull for me. How excellent, à Phocus, was that face,

Which could in griefe retaine fo fweet a grace? What need I tell how often I affail'd Her vexed chaffitie! how often fail'd!

How often faid the! One I onely ferue: For him, where ever, 1 my joyes preferue. What mad man would luch faith have farther preft,

But 1? industrious in my owne vnrest.

With deeps proteits, and gifes still multiply'd,

At length the waters Talfe of faith, I cry'd,

The Seventh Booke.

Thouart disclos'd : I, no adulterer,

But thy wrong'd spoule; nor can this tryall erre. She made no answer, prest with silent shame.

Th'infidious house, and me, far more in blame, Forlaking: man-kind for my lake elchues:

And Dian like the mountaine chace purfues. Abandon'd; hotter flames my blood incense.

I beg'd her pardon, and confest m'offence: And faid, Aurora might have me subdude

With such inticements, had but she so woo'd.

My fault confest, her wrong reuenged, wee Grow reconcil'd; and happily agree. Besides her selfe, as though that gift were small,

A Dog the gaue: which combia giving; All, Said the, surpasse in swiftnesse: and this Speare You so commend, which in my hand I beare.

Doc you the fortune of the first inquire? Receiue a wonder; and the fact admire.

Dark propheties, not understood of old, The Naiades with searching wits vnfold.

When facred Themis, in that so obscure, Neglected grew. Nor could the this indure. A cruell Beast infests th' Aonian plaines;

To many farall: fear'd by country Swaines, Both for their cattle, and themselves. We mets

And with our toyles the ample fields befet. He nimbly skips aboue the vpper lines: And mounting ouer, frustrates our designes. Their dogs the vncouple; whole purluit he out-fprings

With no lette speed, than if supply'd by wings. All bid me let my I alaps flip (for to Halm

My dog was call'd) who strugling long agoe,

Hufe-th orled, straind the leash. No sooner gone, Than out of fight; his foot-steps lest vpon The burning fand: who vanisht from our cycs As swelly as a well-driven jauelin flyes, Or as a finging pellet from a fling; Or as an arrow from a Cretan ftring. I mount a hill which ouer-ropt the place; From thence beholding this admired chace. The Beast now pincht appeares, now shuns by slight His catching lawes. Nor (crafty) runs out-right; Nor trusts his heeles: with nimble turnings shunning His vigent foe; cast back by ouer-running. Who prest, what onely might in speed compare; Appeares to catch th'vncaught; and mouthes the aire My dart I take to aide : which, while I shooke, And on the thong direct my haftie looke To fit my fingers; looking vp againe, I faw two maible statues on the plaine. Had you these seene, you could not chuse but say That this appear'd to run, and that to bay. That neither should each other ouer-goe The Gods decree'd: if Gods descend to low. Thus he; here paus'd. Then Phoens; Pray'vnfold Your daits offence. Which cerbalus thus told.

loy griefe fore-runs: that ioy we first recite. For o, those times I mention with delight, When youth and ymen crown'd our happy life: She, in her husband bleft; I in my wife. In both one care, and one affection moues. She would not have exchang'd my bed for loves; Nor 11. 14 could have tempted my defire: Our boicins flam'd with such an equall fire.

When

The Seventh Booke. When Sol had rais'd his beames about the floods; My custome was to trace the leavy woods; Arm'd with this dart, I folitary went, Without horse, huntimen, toyles, or dogs of sent. Much kild; I to the cooler shades repaire: And where the vallie breathes a freiher aire. Coole aire I seeke, while all with feruor gloes: Coole aire expect, my trauels sweet repose. Come aire, I wont to fing, relieue th'opprest; Come, ô most welcome, glide into my brest: Now quench, as erst, in me this scalding heat. By chance I other blandishments repeat; (So Fates inforce) as, ô my soules delight! By thee I am fed and chear'd: thy sweets excite

My affections to these woods: ô life of death! May cuer I inhale thy quickning breath ! Á busic care these doubtfull speeches caught; Who oft-nam'd aire some much-lou'd Dryad thought And told to Procris, with a leuder tongue, His false surmiss; with the long I sung. Lone is too credulous. With griefe the faints; And scarce renining, bursts into complaints: My spotlesse faith with furie execrates. Woe's me, she cryes, produc't to cruell fates! Transported with imaginarie blame, What is not, feares: an vnsubstantiall name. Yet grieucs (poore soule!) as if in truth abus'd: Yet often doubts ; and her diftrust accus'd.

Now holds the information for a lye: Nor will trust other witnesse than her eye. Aurora re-inthron'd th'infuing Day: I hunt, and speed. As on the grasse I lay,

Meine-

Come aire, faid I, my tyred spirits cheare. At this an vinknowne fighe inuades my care. Yet 1; O come, before all ioyes prefer d. Among the withered leaves a ruftling heard, I throw my dart; supposing it some boast: But ô, 'twas Process' wounded on the breft, Shee threeks, ay me! Her voyce too well I knew: And thither, with my griefe distracted, flew-Halfe dead, all blood-imbrew'd, my wife I founds Her gift (alas!) exhaling from her wound. I rais'd her body, than my owne more deare: To bind her wounds my lighter garment teare;

And strine to stench the blood. O pitty take, Said I, nor thus a guilty soule for sake! She, weake, and now a dying, thus applies Her tongues forc't motion: By our nuptiall ties; By heaven-imbowred Gods; by those below, To whose infernall monarchy I goe: By that, if ever I descrued well;

By this ill-fated loue, for which I fell, Yet now in death most constantly retaine; O, let not Ayre our chaster bed prophane. This faid; I show'd, and the perceived how That error grew: but what avail'd it now? She finkes; her blood along her spirits tooke:

Who lookes on me as long as the could looke. My lips her foule receiue, with her last breath? Who, now resolved, sweetly smiles in death.

The weeping Hero's told this tragedy To those that wept as fast. The King drewnye And his two fons, with wel-arm'd Regiments, New-rais'd; which he to Cepbalus presents.

OVIDS

METAMORPHOSIS.

The Eighth Booke.

THE ARGUMENT.

HArmonious walls. Loud Scylla new despaires; ... With Nifus, chang'd: the Larke the Hobby dares. Ariadnes Crowne a Confellation made. Th'insumtine youth a Partridge; fill affraid Of mounting. Meleagers Sifters mourne Histragedie : to Poule, fo named, turnes Fine water Nymphs the fine Echiaades Defigure. Perimele, neere tothefe, Becomes an Iland. Tone and Hermes take The formes of men. A Citie turn's'a Lake! A Cottage to a Temple. That good pares Old Baucis and Philemon, changed are. At once to facred Trees In various foapes .. Blew Proteus perts. Ofs felfe- chang'd Metta fcapa es Scorn'd feruitude. The Streame of Calydon Forfakes his owner, and other foapes puts en. ..

TOW Luciser exalts the Day: to hell Old Night descends. The Easterne winds now fell ; Moyst clouds arose: when gentle Southerne gales Befriend returning Cephalus. Full failes Wing his fuccellefull courfe: who, long before -

All expectation, toucht the withed shore.

OVIDS

For no heart is so hard, that did but know, And would a lance against his bosom throw. It takes: with me, my country I intend To render vp; and give these warres an end. What is to intend? Each pallage hath a guard; My tather keepes the keyes, and lees them bard. Tis he defers my joyes; 'eis he I dread: Would I were not, or he were with the dead! Tuth, we are our owne Gods. They thrive, that dare: And fortune is a foc to flothfull praire. Long fince, an other, scorcht with such a fire, By death had fore'r a way to her defire. Yet why should any more aduenturous proue? I date through sword and fire make way to Loue. And yet here is no vic of fire nor fword; but of my fathers haire. This must afford What i to much affect, and make me bleft: Richer than all the treasure of the Fast. This faid; Wight, murfe of cares, her curtaines drew; When in the dark the more audacious grew.

This faid; Night, nurse of cares, her curtaines of When in the daily the more audacious grew. In prime of rest, when tyr d with day-bred cares obscepe all inuests; the silently repaires Into her sathers bed-chamber; and therofortharts; o horridaet! This ratall haire. I cased of her wicked prey; with her she bore. The gualty spoyle; a valocks a Posteria doore: This past the soc (bold by her merit made). This past the soc (bold by her merit made). This past the soc (bold by her merit made). This past the soc (bold by her merit made). Yeeld your Commerciand my Gods: no meede, not the reasence. This parple haire receive,

Rut my old fathers head. With that, prefents
The gift with wicked hand, and bad oftents.

Minos rejects it: and much terrifide
With horror of so foule a deede, replide:
The Gods exile thee (O thou most abhord!)
Their world; to thee nor Land nor Sea afford.
How-ere loves Creete, the world wherein I raigne,
Shall such a Monster neuer entertaine.
This said: the most inst Victor doth impose
Lawes, no lesse inst, vpon his vanquisht foes.
Then orders, that they forth with ores conuay
Abord the brasse-beakt ships, and anchors waye.

The Eighth Booke.

When Scylla faw the Gnossian nauy swim; And that her treaton was abhor'd by him: To violent anger the conuerts her prayers. And Furie-like, with stretcht armes and spred haires; Cry'd; Whither fly'st thou? leauing me for-lore, That conquest-crown'd thee? à preferd before My Country! Father! 't was not thou didft win; But I that gave: my merrit, and my fin. Not this ; not such affection, could perswade: Nor that on thee I all my hopes had layd. For whither should I goe, thus left alone? What ? to my Country? that's by me o're-throwne. Wer't not in my treason doomes me to exile. Or to my father; giuen vnto thy ipoyle? Me worthily the Citizens will hate: And neighbours feare th'example in their State. L, out of all the world my selfe have throwne, To purchase an accesse to creet alone. Which if deny'd; and left to fuch despaire Enroya ne'r one so vngratefull bare:

Ex

His

But Iwallowing Syrt's, Charybdis chaft with wind; Or fome fell Tygres of th' Amenian kind. Interest no: thy father; nor with forged thape Of Pull beguild, thy mother culd her rape. That flow of the glorious race is faind: For thee a wild and loueleffe Bull fuftaind. O tather Ni/m, thy reuenge behold! Reiovee, O Citie, by my treason fold! Death, I confelle I merit. Yet would I Might, by their hands whom I have iniur'd, dye. I or why thouldft thou, who onely didft fubdue By my offending, my offence purfue? My Country and my father felt this sinne: Which vnto thee a courtefie hath beene. Thou worthy art of such a wife, as flood A Bullshot incest in a Cow of wood; Whose shamelesse womb a monstrous burthen bare. Ah! doe my forrowes to thy eares repaire? Or are my truitlesse words borne by that wind That braies thee hence, and leaves a wretch behind? What though Paliphae a Bull preferd? I hou far more brutish than the faluage Herd. Woo's me ! make hast I must : the waves with ores Reflaind, his thip forfakes, with vs. our thores. In vame! I'le follow thee vngratefull King: And while I to thy crooked veffell cling Be drag d through drenching feas. This having faid, Attempts the waves, by Cupies strengthning aid, And cleaves this thip. Her father, now high-flowne Strikes a rise ings (a red-maild Hobbie growne) And the eyes to cuif her with his golden leares.

She tips her he lightfeebled by her feares.

While yet a falling, that the might eschue The threatning sea, light wings ther shoulders grew. Now changed to a bird in fight of all: This, of her tufted crowne we Ciris call. No sooner Minos toucht the Cretan ground, But by an hundred Buls, with garlands crown'd. His vowes to conquest-giving tome he payd: And all his pallace with the spoyle arrayd. And now his families reproch increast. That vncouth prodigic, halfe man, halfe beaft, His mothers dire adultery descryd. Minos resolues his marriage shame to hide In mulcitude of roomes, perplext and blind The work t'excelling Dadalus affignd. Who sense distracts, and error leades a maze Through subtill ambages of sundry wayes. As Phrygian Meander sports about The flowrie vales; now winding in, now out; Himselse incounters, sees his following floods, His streames leades to their springs; and, doubling, scude To long mockt seas: so wadalus compilid Innumerable by-wayes, which beguild The lenies conduct; that himselfe with much Adoe returnes: thefallacies were such. When in this fabrick Mines had inclos'd This double forme, of man and beaft compos'd; The Monster, with Athenian bloud twice fed, His owne, the third Lot, in the ninth yeere, shed Then by a Clew reguided to the doore (A virgins counfell) neuer found before; Ægides, with rapt Ariadne, makes For Dia; on the naked thore for takes

While

His confident and fleepe-oppressed Mate. Now, pining in complaints, the defolate " with marriage, comforts: and that the Might glorious by a Constellation be; Her head vibuithers of her crowne, and threw leypto heaten; through thinner ayre it flew-His insighthe lewels that the verge inchace Connect to fires; taff-fixed in one place; Th' old tame retaining They their station take, I wixt Him that Kneeles, and Him who holds the Snake. The Sea impris ned tredalus, meane-while, Weaver reci, and othis long exile; I ouche with his countries loue, and place of birth; Thus hid: Though stinos bar both sea aud earth; Yet heatien is free. That courfe attempt I dare: Held he the world, he could not hold the ayre. This faid cto arts viknowne he bends his wits In natures change. The quils in order knits, Deginning with the leaft: the longer fill The their jucceds; much like a rifing hill. Their in all pipes, the thepheards, long agoe, (I cam d of vineq tall reeds) contriued fo. With thirds the midft, with wax he joynes the ends ? And there, as naturall wings, a little bends. Young : arm flood by, who little thought That with his death he played; and imiling, caught The feathers that lay hulling in the ayre: Now chates the yell w waxe with buffe care, And interrupts his Sire. When his laft hand He had imposed; with new-made wings he fand The ayre that bare them. Then inflinets his fon: De tore that in the middle course thou run.

Dank

Dank seas will clog the wings that lowly flye: The Sun will burne them if thou for'ft too high. Twixt either keepe. Nor on Bootes gaze, Nor Helice, nor sterne Orions rayes: But follow me. At once, he doth aduife; And vnknowne pinions to his shoulders ties, Amid his work and words a tyde of teares Frethis old checks, who trembling fingers reares. Then kift him, neuer to be kiffed more: And rais'd on lightsome feathers slies before; His feare behind: as birds through boundleffe sky From ayeric nests produce their youg to fly; Exhorts to follow: taught his banefull skill; Waues his owne wings, his fons obseruing still. These, while some Angler, fishing with a cane; Or Shepheard, leaning on his staffe; or Swaine; With wonder viewes: he thinks them Gods that glide Through ayrie regions. Now on the left side Leaues Iuno's Samos, Delos, Paros white, Lebynthor, and Calydra on the right, Flowing with hony. When the boy, much tooke With pleasure of his wings, his Guide forfooke: And rauisht with defire of heaven, aloft Alcends. The odor-yeelding wax more loft By the swift Suns vicinitie now grew: Which late his feathers did together glew. That thaw'd; he shakes his naked armes, that bare. As then no faile, nor could containe the avic. When crying, Helpe, ô father! his exclaime Blew Scas supprest, which tooke from him their name. His father, now no father, left alone, Cryde learns! whereart thou? which way flowne? What What region, Icarus, doth thee containe. Then spies the feathers floting on the Maine. Fig curft his acts, interres the couple, that gaue The land a name, which gaue his sonne a graue.

The Partridge from a thicket him furuayd; As in a tombe his wretched fon he layd; Who clapt his fanning wings, and lowdly churd T'expresse his joy: as then an onely bird. So made of late (vinknowne in former th. c) O De lidar, by thy eternall crime. To thee thy Sifter gaue him to be taught; Who little of his detlinic fore-thought: The boy then twelue yeare aged; of a mind Apt for infliruction, and to Arts inclind. He Sawes invented, by the bones that grow In fither backs; the steele indenting so. And two-thankt Compattes with river bound; Th' one to stand still, the other turning round In equall diftance. Deda'us this flung: Who from Minerna's facred turret flung The churd head-long; and his falling faincs. Him Pallis, fautor of good wits, fustaines: Who straight the figure of a foule assumes; Clad in the midst of agre with freckled plun es. The vigor of his late fwift wit now came Into his feet, and wings: he keepes his name. They never mount aloft, nor trust their birth To tops of trees; but fleck as low as earth, And lay their egs in tufts. In mind they beare Their ancient fall, and haughtic places feare.

Tyr d I eds w now in Sectualights: In whole detence hospitious cocatio fights. Now Athens by Ægaus glorious Seed Was from her lamentable tribute freed. They crowne their Temples: warlike Pallas, lone, Inuoke; with all the Deities aboue. Whom now they honour with the large expence Ofbloud, free gifts, and heapes of frankincenfe. Vast fame through all th' Argolian cities spred His praise: and all that rich Achaia fed His aid in their extremities intreat, His aid afflicted Calydon (though great In Meleager) sought. The cause a Bore: Dian's reuenge, and horrid Seruatore. For Ocneus, with a plenteous haruest blest: To ceres his first fruits of corne addrest, To l'allas oyle, and to Lyans winc. Ambitious honours all the Powres diuine Reape from the rurals; yet neglect to pay! Diana dues; her Altars empty lay. Anger affects the Gods. This will not we? Vnpunisht beare: nor vnreueng'd, said she, Though vn-adored, shall they vant we be. With that the sent into Oeniean fields A vengefull Bore.Rank-graft Epirus yeelds

The Eighth Booke.

No big-bon'd bullock of a larger breed: But those are lesse which in Sicilia feed. His eyes blaze bloud and fire: his stiffe neck beares Horrible briftles, like a groue of speares.

A boyling fome vpon his shoulders flowes From grinding lawes: his tuthes equal those Of Indian Elephants: his fell mouth casts

Hot lightning; and his breath the virdure blafts. He tramples under foot the growing corne;

Now

And

And Icaues the fighing husband-man forforne; Reaping the uper cares. Their viuall graine The barnes and thrething floores expect in vaine. Broad-spreading vines he with their burden, sheres: And boughs from euci-leany oliues teares. Then falls on beafts: the Heidlingn, now vnfeard; Nor dogs, nor raging Buls, detend their Herd. I he people flye; nor are fecure of mind In walled townes, cill Meleager, joyn'd Vitth youths of choycest worth, inflam'd with praise, Attempts his death. The twin'd Lyndarides; One for his horiemanthip, the other fam'd For hurle-bats; Ia/on, who the first thip fram'd; Theleus with his I trithous, a pairc Of happy friends; and Lynzius, Aphar's heire; The two Thefisade, Lencippus crownd For strength; Acastus for his dart renownd; Swift Idas, caneus, not a maiden then; Hippothous, tryas: I havin (best of men,) Amyntors iffue; both th' Actorises, And Phyleus lint from Elistiame with thefe: I heretes hope; aducuturous Telamon; And he who call d the great Achilles fon; Hrantian id.a 11, the quick grac't Engines; and Kirion, who lurpast In running, Lelex the Navyeran, Wath Landien , Hylens, Hippafan, Now youthfull Notes : tons to that intent Histor on from Ad Amy distent: l'eserge tather in law, Larragia-bred Ance us, will man ines well read In faces, O. J. 1.5, not as yet betrayd

B' his wife; Tegenan, Atalant', a maide Opathing beautie, sprung from Schwaus race: Othigh Lyc.can woods the onely grace. A politht Zone her vpper garment bound; And in one knot her artlelle haire was wound: Her arrowes inory guardian clattering hung On her left shoulder; and a bow well strung Her left hand held. Her lookes a wench displayd In a boyesface, a boyes face in a maide. The calpdonian Herosher beheld And withit at once: his withes fate repeld. Who lurking flames attracts; and faid, O bleft Ishe, whom thou thalt with thy loyes inueft! But time, and thame, with further speech dispence: Vrg'd by a work of greater con'equence. A Wood o're-growne with trees, yet neuer feld, Mounts from a Plaine, that all beneath beheld. The glory-thirsting Gallants this atcend. Forth-with a part their corded toyles extend; Some hounds vncouple; some the tract of feet Together trace; and danger long to meet. A Dale there was, through which the raine-rais'd flood Oft tumbled downe, and in the bottom flood: Repleat with plyant willowes, murith weeds, Sharpe tuthes, oliers, and long tlender reeds. The Bore from thence dislody d, like lightning crusht Through infiling clouds, among the hunters rusht: Beares downe the obuious trees; the crathing woods Report their fall. The youths each others bloods With high-rais'd thoots inflane: who keepe their stands: And thake their broad-tipt speaces with threatning hands. The dogs he featters; those that durit oppole His

Metamorphosis.

214

His horrid furie, wounds with ganching blowes. Febron first his iauelin vainly cast, Which struck a beech. The next his sides had past, But that with too much strength it ouer-flew: The weapon l'agasan Iason threw. O I habit faid Ampycides, If I Haue honourd, and doe honour thee, apply Thy fuccour in fuccesse of my intents. The God, as much as lay in him, affents: But from the dart the head Diana took; Which gaue no wound, although the Bore it strook. The beast like lightning burns, thus chaft with ire: His grim eyes thine, his breft breaths flames of fire. And as a stone which some huge engine throwes Against a wall, or bulwarke man'd with foes: The deadly Bore with fuch fure violence Affaults their forces. The right wings defence; Fupalamon, and belagonus, caft On lounding earth: drawne off with timely haft. Fræmmy, great Employeding Ion. Could not to well his flaughtring tuffics fluin: Which cut the ibrinking finewes in his thigh, Fuen as he trembled, and prepar'd to flye. And N For long had perithed, perchance, Petote Trans warre; but, vauting on a lance, Hotooke a tree, which there his branches spred; And tarely faw the foe from whom h'had fled. Who, tull of rage, his vengefull tuthes whets Viscoun Oke; and dire destruction threats. When, truthing to his new-edg'd armes, the Bore The manly thigh of great Grithyus tore. The bother I wins, not yet coelestiall Starres:

Conspicuous both, both terrible in warres; Both mounted on white Steeds, a loft both bare Their glittring speares, which trembled in the aire:

The Eighth Booke.

And both had sped; but that the Swine with-drew Where neither horse nor iauelin could pursue.

In followes Telamon, hot of the chace;

And stumbling at a roote, fell on his face. While Pelcus lifts him vp, a winged flight

Tesea drew, which flew as swift as fight: Below his care the fixed arrow stood, And staind his bristles with a little blood.

The Virgin lesse reioyced in the blow

Than Meleager : who first faw it flow, First show'd his mates the blood: O most renownd

Said he, thy vertue hath thy honour crownd. The men, they blush for shame; each other cheare;

And high-rais'd foules, with clamors higher reare:

Their speares in clusters fling; which make no breach Through idle store: and throwes their throwes impeach.

Behold, Ancaus with a polax sterne To his owne fate; who faid, By nie O learne

You youths, how much a mans tharpe steele exceeds A womans weapons, and applaud my deeds.

Though Dian should take armes, and in this strife Protect her beaft, she should not saue his life. 31

Thus gloriously he boasts; in both his hands Aduanc't his polax, and on tip-toes stands.

Whom, ere his armes descend, the furious Swine Preuents, and theathes his tuthes in his groync.

Downe fell Anceus, out of his bowels gutht,

All gore; with blood the earth, as guilty, bluthe Ixions son Pirithous forward prest:

Conspi-

And

The c

And with an able arme his lance addrest. To whom: Ægidev; O to me more deare I han my owne life! my better halfe, forbeare. The wire in valour thould aloofe contend: Foole hardy courage was Anceus end. This faid, his heavy cornell; with a head Otbraile, he hurles: which fure had flouck him dead (It was delivered with fo true an aime) But that a Medlar interpos'd the same. A four 'es then threw his thrilling lance; Which hit (directed from the mark by chance) A dog betweene his baying lawes: the wound Rusht through his guts, and naild him to the ground. Cender varying hand discharge two speares: The earth the one, the beaft the other beares. While now he raues, grunts, turnes his body round. Calls bloud and fome; the author of his wound No lat in ; pronokes his greater wrath; and where Liss thields differer, thrufts his deadly speare.

they all with chearfull though their loyes vafold; Shake his victorious hands; the Beaft behold With wonder, whose huge bulk possess so niuch: And hardly thinke it fafe the flaine to touch: Yet with his bloud they die their fauelins red. He lets his foot vpon his horid head; My right, faid he, receive rare Nonacrine, And let my glory euer thare with thine. Then gave the briftled poyle in terror charm'd: And gast's head with monstrous tushes arm d. She in the Ont and Order pleature tooke. All marma, with preportious entry, ftrooke. On whom the violent sissified frowne;

The Eighth Booke.

And cry aloud with ftretcht-out armes; Lay downe: Nor, Woman, of our titles vs bereaue. I est thee thy beauties considence deceaue : His aid to weake whom love hath reft of fight: And fnatcht from her, her gift; from him, his right. Omides swels; his lookes with anger sterne: You rauishers of others honours, learne

(Saidhe) the distance betweene words and deeds. With wicked steele secure Plexippus speeds. While Toxens, whether so reuenge his blood. Or thun his brothers fortune, wavering flood; He cleares the doubt: the weapon, hor before

By th'others wound, new heats in his hearts gore.

Gifts to the holy Gods Altheabrings For her sons victorie; and Peans sings, When back the faw her flaughtred brothers brought: At that sad obiect screecht; and griefe-diftraught, The Citie fils with out-cryes : off the teares Her royall robes, and funerall garments weares. But told by whom they fell; no longer mournes: Rage dries her eyes; her teares to vengeance turnes. The triple Sifters earst a brand conuai'd Into the fire; her belly newly laid; Thus chanting, while they spun the fatall twine: O lately borne, one period we assigne To thee and to this brand. The charme they weaue Into his face; and then the chamber leaue.

Out of the fire; and quencht the flagrant brand. This in an inward clotler closely layes: And by prescruing it, prescrues his dayes.

His mother fnatcht it with an hastie hand

Which now produc't; a pyle of wood the rais'd,

And

That by the house fire inuaded, blaz'd. Youre times the proffers to the greedy flame the farall brand; as oft with-drew the fame. A Mother, and a Sifter, now contend: And two-divided names, one bosome rend. Oit feare of future crimes a palenesse bred: Of burning Furie gaue her eyes his red. Now seemes to threaten with a cruell looke: And now appeares like one that pitie tooke. Her teares the feruor of her anger dryes: Yet found the teares againe to drowne her eyes. luch as a ship, when wind and tyde contends, Iceles both their furies, and with either bends: So Thestias, whom vnsteddie passion drives; Fy changes, calmes her rage, and rage reviues. A fifters loue at length subdues a mothers: That bloud may appeale the ghosts of bleeding brothers, Impiously pious. Flames, to ashes turne I his brand, faid she, and my loth'd bowels burne. Then, holding in her hand the fatall wood; As the before the funerall alter stood:

You triple Powers, who guiltie Soules persue; Fun enides; these Rites of vengeance view. I act the crime I punish. Death must be liy death atton'd. On murder, murder we Accumulate; redoubling sunerall.

Due linage, by congested sorrowes fall.

Shall Vencusion in his victorious son?

Sad Thestus rob'd of his? be both undone.

I onke up, o you my brothers ghosts; you late it is adject soules; see how tright your fate.

Accept of this informal sacrifice.

Of high esteeme: my wombe accurled prize. Ay me! ô whither am I rapt! excule A mother, brothers. Trembling hands refuse Their fainting aid. He merits death : yet by A mothers rage me thinkes he should not dye. Then shall hee scape? aliue, a victor, feast In proud successe; of Calyden posses? You, little afties, and chill Shades, forlorne? l'le not indure it. Perish Villaine, borne To our immortall ruine. Ruinate With thee, thy fathers hopes, his crowne and state Where is a mothers heare? a parents praier? Th'vnthought-of burden which I ten months bare? O would, while yet an infant, the first flame Had thee deuour'd; nor loppos'd the same! Thy life, my gift; by thine owne merit dye: A just reward for thy impiety. Thy twice-given life restore; first by my womb, Last by this rauisht brand; or me a tomb With my poore brothers. Faine I would perfue Reuenge ; yet would not. O, what shall I doe! Before my eyes my brothers wounds now bleed : And the fad image of so foule a deed. Now pittie, and a mothers name controule My sterne intention. ô distracted soule! You have won, my brethers; but, alas, ill won: So that, while thus I comfort you, I run Your fate. With eyes reverst, her quaking hand To crembling flames expos'd the funerall brand. The Brand appeares to figh, or fighes expires: 1 Wrapt in th'imbracements of vnwilling fires, Vaknowing Meleager, absent broyles

I uen in these flames; his blood, thick-panting, boyles I volcene fire. Who such tormenting paines Venth more then manly fortitude sustaines. Yet gricues that by a flothfull death he fals Without a wound: Ancaus happy calls. His aged father, brothers, fifters, wife, Now groning names, with his last words of life: Perhaps his mother. Plaines and paines increase: / gaine they languish; and together cease. To houid ane his vanisht spirits turne.

And table coles in shrouds of ashes mourne. I ow her high calydon: the yongue, the old, Ignoble, noble, all, their griefes vnfold. The E Andonian matrons cut their haire; Ucflossie their beauties: ciy, woe and despaire! His housie head with dust his father hides; I ves groueling on the ground; and old age chides. for now his mother, by her guilt perfude, Renenging fleele in her owne breft imbrude: Though lane an hundred able tongues bestow, A weether thould with tull invention flow, Al Helicon intule into my breft; Hi Pflers ferrowes could not be exprest. Theatelues forgetting decency, deface: As long as he a bodie, it imbrace; Kille his palelips: when turn'd to aftes, they The affics in their bouiled bosons lay: I all on his tomb; his name, that there appeares, Infold, and fill the characters with teares. But when Dana's wrath was fatisfide With Genius wresy: they all (befide Faire Garge and the lonely Delante)

On plumy pinions, by her powre, aspire; With long-extended wings, and beakes of horne: Who through the syre in varied shapes are borne. Meane while to Pallas towres Ægides hyes

The Eighth Booke.

(His part performed in that iount enterprise) Whose hast raine-raised Achelous staid. Renoun'd Gecropian Prince, the River faid, Veuchsafe my roofe; nc. to th'impetuous flood Commit thy person: Oft huge logs of wood,

Andbroken rocks, downe-tumbling, lowdly rore. Houses and Herds not seldome heretofore Huiried away: nor was the Oxe of force lokeepe his stand; nor swiftnesse sau'd the Horse. And when diffolued fnow from mountaines pour'd, The turning eddies many haue deuour'd, More fafe to stay vntill the current run

Within his bounds. To whom Ægaus fon: Twere folly, if not madnesse, to resuse I hy house and counsell: both I meane to vie. Then exters his large caue, where Nature plaid

The Attifun ; of hollow Pumice made, And rugged Tophas ; floord with humid moffe ; The roofe pure white and purple shels imbolle.

Now had Hyperion past two parts of day: When Thefeus, with the partners of his way. Pirithous, and Lelex the renowne

Of Tragen, now appearing gray; fat downe: And whom the River glad of fuch a gueft, Preferd vnto the honour of his feast.

Forth with, bare-footed Nymphs bring in the meat:

I hat tane away, vpon the table fet Crown'd cups of wine. When Thefeus turnd his face

Tυ

To vinder fear; and poynting, faid; What place Is you, and of what name, that stands alone? And yet me thinks it should be more then one.

It is not one, the courteous Flood replyes,
But fine; their neighbourhood deceiues your eyes.
The less of admire Diana, late despis'd,
Fine Nymphs they were: who having sacrifis'd
Ten becues, inuited to their festivall
The rurall Gods; my selfe forgot by all.
At this my surges swell. I, then as great
As ener, with inraged waters fret.
The woods from woods, and fields from fields I teare
With them, the Nymphs (now mindfull of me) beare
In exile to the Deep: whose waves, with mine,
That then vnited masse of earth distionne
Into as many peeces as in seas

Are of the flood imbrac's Echinades. Yet see one Ile, far, ô far off remou'd! Call'd Perimele; once by me belou'd. I, from this Nymph, her virgin honour rooke Il .: o.lamas his daughter could not brooke: et caft her from a rock into the Deepe. Whom, while my thickned streames from finking keepe; land: O Neptune, thou that do'ft command i he wandering waves that beat upon the land; To whom we Rivers run, in whom we end; Incline a centle care. I did oftend; It, stronging whom I beare : if pious ; he Would both haue pittied her, and pardon'd me. Her, whom his furie hath from earth exil'd, And in the firangling waters drencht his child; A place afford : or let her be a place

Which I may ever with my streames imbrace. His head the King of Surges forward shooke:
And, in assenting, all the Ocean strooke.
The Nymph yet swims; although with seare oppress. I laid my hand vpon her panting breast:
While thus I handled her, I might perceive.
The earth about her stifning body cleave.
Now, with a masse infolded, as the swims,
An Iland rose from her transformed lims.
He held his peace. This admiration won

In all: derided by Iviens fon:
By nature rough, and one who did despise
All-able Gods: who said; Thou tel'st vs lyes,
And thinkst the Gods too potent: as if they Could give new shapes, or take our old away.
His saying all amaz'd and none approvid:
Most Lelex, ripe in age and wisdome, mou'd.

Heauens power immense and endlesse, none can shun;
Saidhe; and what the Gods would doe, is done.
To check your doubt; on Pbrygian hils there growes
An Oke va Line-tree, which old wals inclote.
My selfe this saw, while I in Pbrygia staid;
By Pittbens sent: where erst his father swaid.
Hard by, a lake, once habitable ground;
Where Coots and sisting Cormorants abound.
Jone, in a humane shape; with Mercurie;
(His heeles vnwing'd) that way their steps apply.
Who guest-rites at a thousand houses craue;
A thousand shut their doores: One only gaue.
A small thatch't Cottage: where, a pious wise
Old Bancis, and Philenon, led their life.
Both equall-ag'd. In this, their youth they spent;

Which

In this, grewold: rich onely in content. Who pouertie, by bearing it, declind: And made it casie with a chearfull mind. NoneMafter, not none Seruant, could you call: They who command, obey; for two were all. Lue bother came, with his cyllenian mate; And flooping, enters at the humble gate. Sit de wne, and take your cafe, Philemon faid. While buffe Bauch ftraw-ftuft cushions layd: Who flit dabroad the glowing coles, that lay In famothering affect; tak't vp yester day. Dry barke, and withered leaves, thereon the thrower. Whate feeble breath to flame the cinders blowes. Then flender clefts, and broken branches gets: And ouer all a little kettle fets. Her husband gathers cole-flowrs, with their leaues; Which from his gratefill garden he receives: Tooke downe a flitch of bacon with a prung, That long had in the smokie chimney hung: Whereof alittle quantitie he cuts: And it into the boying hquor puts. This dething; they the time beguile with speech; Vnler Ble of Ray. A bowle of beech, There, by the handle hung vpon a pin: This the hic with warme water; and therein Wather their feet. A moffe-stuft bed and pillow Lay on a homely bed steed made of willow: A couer'er, onely vs d arteafts, they fpred : Though course, and old; yet fit to thich a bed. Downe we the Gods. The palite-fnaken Dame Sets forth a talle with three legs; one lame, And thereer then the reft, a pot fluore reares:

This, now made levell, with greene mint the cleares. Whereon they party-colour'd oliues fet, Autumnall Cornels, in tart pickle wet; Coole endiffe, radiffi, new egs rosted reare. And late-prest cheese; which earthen dishes beare. A gobler, of the selfe same silver wrought; And bowles of beech, with wax well varnisht, brought, Hot victuals from the fire were for thwith fent: Then wine, not yet of perfect age, present. This tane away; the second Course now comes: Philberts, dry figs, with rugged dates, ripe plummes, Sweet smelling apples, disht in ofice twines; And purple grapes new gatherd from their vines : I'th' inidit, a hony combe. Aboue all these; A chearefull looke, and ready will to pleafe. Meane while, the Muple cup it selfe doth fill 1 And oft exhausted, is replenisht still. Assonithe at the miracle; with scare Philemon, and the aged Bauck, reare Their trembling hands in prayre: and pardon eraue. For that poore entertainment which they gaue. One Goose they had, their cottages chiefe guard; Which they to hospitable Gods award: Who long their flow perfuit deluding, flies To Iupiter; fo sau'd from sacrifice. W'are Gods, said they; Revenge shall all vadoe: Alone immunitie we grant to you. Together leaue your house; and to you hill Follow our steps. They both obey their will; The Gods conducting: feebly both ascend; Their stanes, with theirs; they, with times burden bend. A flight-shorfrom the top, review they take; And Thurstonning: Not the Goddelle-lou'd alone; But though this were the Goddesse, shee should downe: And tweepe the earth with her afpiring crowne. A he advanc't his armes to firike; the Oke For elighted and trembled at the threatning froke. Lie leaves and acornes pale together grew: and colour-changing branches tweat cold deaw. Then wounded by his impious hand, the blood Cont from th'incision in a purple flood. Much like a mighty oxe, that falls before The accedultar; spouring streames of gore. O sall amazement seaz'd: when One of all the crime deterres; nor would his axe let fall. Contracting his sterne browes; Receive, faid he, Thy pictics reward; and from the tree The floke converting, lops his head; then flrake The Oke agains : from whence a voice thus fpake ; A Nymph am I, within this tree inshrin'd, Relou'd or ceres. O prophane of mind, Vengeance is necrethee. With my parting breath I prophetic: a comfort to my death. He flillhis guilt perfues: who overthrowes With cabels, and innumerable blowes, The flurdy Oke: which, modding long, downerusht; And in his long fall his fellowes crushe. Their fifter, and their groue, the Nymphs lament; Who had in table foles, to Ceres went; On Eri lb boniult revenge require. Who readily confents to their defire. The fanc-brow'd Goddeffe flakes her shining haires: With that, the fields thook e all their golden cares.

This

Who to apitteous punishment proceeds,

(Had he had any pitty in his deeds) By starting. But since not by fatall doome, Circs and Famine might together come: A mountaine Facry of th'Oreades Dispatcheth thither, with such words as these. In frosty Scythia lies a land, forlorne And barren; bearing neither fruit nor corne. Numb Cold, pale Hew, chill Ague, there abide; And tafting Famine. Bid the Fury glide Into his cursed entrailes, and deuoure All plenty: let her rage subdue my powre. But lest long wayes thy journy tedious make: My chariot and my yoked dragons take. Taking her chariot; through the empty skies To Scythia and rough Caucasus the flies. There, in a stony field, sad Famine found; Tearing with teeth and nailes the foodleffe ground : With marled haire, funk eyes, lookes pale and dead, Lips white with flime, thin teeth with ruft ore-spred; Hide bound, through which her clinged guts appeare; Dry bones, in spare and crooked hips, vp-beare; Her belly bellylefle : low hung her breft; So lank, as if her bosom had no cheft: The rifing knuckles falling flesh augment; Round knees and ankles leanely eminent, Espide far off (she durst not be so hold To come toonecre) the Nymph her message told. After a little flay, although the were Farre off, although but now arrived there; She famine felt. Who wheeles about her Snakes & And her high passage to Amonia takes. Famine obayes the Goddesses compand; Though

The Eighth Booke.

(Had

Though their endeuors still opposed stand. Who, by a tempest hurried through the skies, Enters the wretches roofe : besides him lyes, Then fast asleepe: (for now Nights heavy charmes All eyes had clos'd) imbra'st himin her armes; Herselse infus'd; breathes on his face and brest: And emptie veines with hungers rage possess. This thus perform'd for lakes the fruitfull earth: And back returnes to her abodes of dearth.

Sound Sleepe as yet with pleasurable wings On Frisichth, n gentle slumber flings. Who dreames of feafts, extends his idle inwes; With labouring teeth fantastically chawes. Deludes his throte by swallowing emptie fare: And for affected food devoures the aire. Awak'r; horfamine raues through all his veines: And in his guts, and greedie pallat raignes. I orth-with; what Sea, what Earth, what Ayre affords, Acquires: complaines of staruing at full bords. In banquets, banquets scekes. What might alone Hue Townes and Nations fed; suffize not one. Hunger increaseth with increast repast, And as all rivers to the Ocean halt; Who thirfly full, drinks up the stranger floods: As rauenous fires refuse no profferd foods; Huge pyles receive; the more they have, the more by much defire; made hungry with their flore. So i rifel thon, of a mind prophane, Full dithes empties, and demands againe. Meat breeds in himan appetite to meat; Who euer emptie, full prepares to eat. his bellies gulf; his patrimonie wasts;

Confuming

Consuming samine yet vnlesned lasts; And his infatiable throtes extent Now all his wealth, into his bowels fent : A daughter left, vnworthy such a Sire, The beggar fold to feed his hungers fire. Her noble thoughts base servitude disdaine : Who now her hands extending to the Maine; O thou that hadft my mayden-head, said she, Thy ranisht spoyle from hated bondage free! Neptune had this: who to her prayer consents. And, though then by her master seene, prevents His following learch: transforming of his Rape Into a man; maskt in a fishers shape. Angler, her master said, that with thy bait Conceal'st thy hooke; so prosper thy decent, So rest the sea compos d; so may the fish l'e credulous, and taken at thy wish; As thou reueal'A her, who in garn ente, poore, And ruffled haire, late flood vpon this shore. For here, but very now, I saw her stand: Nor farther trace her foot-steps in the fand. She, Neptunes bountie finding; well apaid To be inquir'd for of her selfe; thus said. Pardon me Sir, who c're you are; my eyes Haue beene attentiue on this exercise. To win beleefe; so may the God of Seas Assist my cunning in such arts as these: As late nor man nor maid I saw before Your selfe, my selfe excepted, onthis shore. He credits, and beguil'd, the shore for sooke: When the agains her former figure tooks, Her father, feeing the could change her shapes Oft fold her; who as often made a scape.

Now hart-like, now a cow, a bird, a mare:
And sed his hunger with ill-purchast fare.
But when his maladie all meanes had spent,
He gaue the mischiefe a new nourithment.
Now to deuoure his proper sless proceeds:
And by diminishing, his body seeds.

What need I dwell on forrein facts? even we Can vary shapes, though limited they be. Now seeme I as Iam; of clike a Snake: And many times a Buls hornd figure take. But while I hornes assumed, one thus was broke, As you behold. This, with a figh, he spoke.

OVID'S

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The ninth Booke.

THE ARGYMENT.

A Serpone Achelous: now a Bull:
His senercd Horne with plenty ener full.
Lichas a Rocke. Alcides sunke in stame,
Ascends a God. The labour beloing Damo
A Weefell. Lotie, stying lust, becomes
A Tree: the like sad Dryope intembes
Old Ioldus maxeth young agen.
Callinhoes susping Foundaine. Iphis now
A Boy, to Isis pages his maiden Von.

Ee, who his high descent from Neptume drawes, Of his so sad a sigh demands the cause,
And maimed brow. When thus the God proceeds;
His dangling curses impald with quivering reeds.

A heavie taske you impose: his owne disgrace Who would reviue? yet was it not so base To be subdude, as noble to contend: And such a Victor doth my soile desend. Have you not heard of faire-cheekt Deiawire? The envid hope of many: the desire Of all that knew her. We, with others went To Oeneus Court, to purchase his consent.

Parthaons

Long

More strong by twinning heirs. This death-borne crue Growing in wounds; I tam'd: and twice subdue. What hope hast thou, a forged Snake, to scape? That is heft with others armes; and begst thy shape.

This faid; my necke his grasping singers clincht;
And it ruz'd my throat; as if with pincers wrincht;
While from his gripes I from my tawes to pull.
Twice ouer-come; now, like a surious Bull,
Once more his terrible assaults oppose.
His as mes about my twelling chest he throwes,
And following, backward hales: my foreheads bit th
Lixt in the ground; and threw me on the earth.
My brow (that not sufficing) disadornes:
Ey breaking one of my ingaged hornes.
The Natades with fruits and flowers this sill:
Good Plenty, in my Horne aboundeth still.

Here Achalow ends. One louely-faire, Gittlike Diana's Nymph, with flowing haire, Came in; and brought the wealthy Horne; repleat With Autumnes store, and apples after meat.

Day springs, and mountaines shine with early beames. His Guests depart: nor stay till peacefull streames Gyde nently downe, and keepe their bounded race. When Ache was, his agrestick face And may med head within the current shrowds. This bleamh much his former beauty clouds: All elic compleat. The suprare of his browes He shades with slaggic wreathes, and fallow boughes.

So D. Lanna, Neijus, was thy wrack:
A deadly acrow preventy through thy back.
I unston, with his new write; to Thebes his course
Directing, came to Lagran papel sourse.

The big-swolne Streames increast with winters raine. And full of turning gulfes, his Passe restraine. For her hereares: though he felfe-feare abhord. When strong-limd Neffus came, who knew the Ford: And faid ; I fafely will transport thy Bride: . Meane-while swim thou voto the other fide. To him Alcides his pale wife betakes: Who, fearing both the flood, and Nellus, quakes. Charg'd with his quiuer, and his Lyons skin (His club and bow before throwne ouer) in The Heros leapes, and faid; How cuer vast. These waves, since undertaken, shall be past. And confident, nor feckes the smoothest wayes: Nor dy declining his transcent delayes. Now ouer; flooping for his bow, he heard His wives thrill threeks; and Neffus faw, prepar'd To violate his trust. Thou ravisher. What hope, faid he, can thy vaine speed confer? Holla, thou halfe a beaft; with hold thy flight: I pray thee heare; nor intercept my right. If no respect of me can fix thy trust: Yet, let thy Fathers wheele restraine thy lust. Nor shalt thou scape revenge; how ever fleet, Wounds shall ore-take thy speed, though not my feet. The last, his deeds confirme; for as he fled, An arrow firuck his back : the barbed head Past through his brest. Tug'd out, both vents extrade Hot spinning gore, with Hydras blood imbrude. This Neffes cooke: and forty laid: yet i, Alcides, will not vnreuenged dy. , And gaye his Rape a vest, dipt in that gore:

This will (faid he) the hear of loue restore.

The

Of

Long after (all the ample world possess With his great acts, and Innoshate increast) From raz'd Oechalia hastning hisremoue, To facrifice vnto Cenean love: Fames bablings Deianira's cares surprise (Who falshood ads to truth, and growes by lies) How 16'e, Amphitryoniades With love inthraul'd. Stung with this firong disease. The troubled louer credits what the frares. Ar first she nourisheth her griefe with teares: Which weeping eyes diffule. Then layd; But why Weepe we? the Strumper in these teares will joy. Since come the will, some change attempt I must; Refore my bed be stained with her lust. Shall I complaine? be mute? shift houses? flay? Returne to Calydon, and give her way? Or call to mind that I am fifter to Great Meleager, and some mischiefe doe? What injur'd woman; what the spleenefull woe Of relousie; or harlors death, can show? Her thoughts, long toyld with change, now fixed stood To fend the garment dipt in Nellus blood; To quicken fainting love. The Present she To Lycas gaue (as ignorant as he) And her owne forrow. Who, with kind commends, The robe to her suspectlesse husband sends. Which now the factificing Heros wore: Wrapt in the poylon of Echidna's gore. Who praying, new-borne flames with incense fed : And bowles of wine on marble alters fed. The spreading mischiefe works : withheat diffolial, The manly limines of Hercules involved.

Who, whilst he could, with vsuall fortitude His grones supprest. All patience now subdew'd With fuch extremes; the alear downe be flings; And shady Octe with his clamour rings. Forth-with to teare the torture off, he ariues. The riven robe, his skin that lines it, rives: Or to his limmes vnseparable cleaues; Or his huge bones and finewes naked leaves. As fire-red steele in water drencht; so toyles His hiffing blood, and with hot poylon boyles. No meane ! the greedy flames his bowels fret; And all his body flowes with purple sweat: His scorched sinewes crack, his marrow fries. Then, to the stars his hands advancing, eries. Feast, lune, on our harmes. O from on high Behold this plague! thy cruell stomack cloy. If foes may pitty purchase (such are we) This life, with torments cras'd, long fought by thee; And borne to toyle, depriue. For death would proue To me a bleffing : and a Step-dames loue May such a bleffing give. Have I this gain'd For flaine Busiris; who loves temple flain'd With strangers blood? That from Auteus tooke His mothers aid? Whom Geryons triple looke, Nor thine, ô Cerberus, could once difmay? These hands, these made the Cretan Bull obey. Your labors, Elis; smooth Sigmobalian floods. Confesse with praises; and Parthenian woods. You got the golden belt of Thermeden: And apples from the fleepletic Dragon won. Nor Cloud-borne Centaures, nor th' Arcadian Bore, Could merchil: nor Hydra wah ber flore

Who,

Of frightfull heads; which by their loffe increaft. I. when I faw the Theacian Horfesfeaft With humane flesh, their mangers ouer-threw: And with his steeds, their wicked Master slew. These hands the Nemean Lyon choakt: these queld Huge cacus; and these shoulders heaven vpheld. loves cruell wife grew weary to impole; Incuer to performe. But o these woes, This new found plague, no vertue can repell; Not armes, not weapons! Hungry flames of hell Shoot through my veines, and on my liver prey. Find yet Emplibus thriues : and some will fav That there be Gods! Here his complaints he ends, And high-raild fleps ore lofty Oeta bends, Harried with anguish-lik a Bull that beares A wounding fauelin; whom the wounder feares. Oit thould you fee him quake, oft grone, oft friuing To teare his garments; tolid trees vp-riving, Intaged with the mountaines, and to reare His scouched armes vnto his fathers sphere. Hid ma hollow rocke, he Lycas spies: When to: ture had possess his faculties With all her furies. Lytas didft thou give This horaid gift, faid he? Think & thou to live; And I die ly thy treason? While he quakes, Lookes gaffly pale, vnheard excuses makes; While yet he foake, while to his knees he clung Causht by the heeles, about his head thrice fwong, Himinto deepe Fubean lurges threw (As engines stones) who hardned as he slew. As falling thomes congoald with freezing winds Convert to thew, as thew to gether binds,

And rouling round in folid haile descends: So while the aire his forced body rends, Bloodlesse with terror, all his moisture gone; Those times his change product english flone. And fill within Eubara gulphy dreams A short rock lies, which mans proportion heepes. Whereon the mariners forbeare As sensitive. And this they Lynds With Rore
But thou, Iones God-like for the with Rore Of trees advanc't, which lofty Thy bow and ample Quinte (white by Those arrowes that against must visite Troy)
Bequeath's to Panisheire who catching fire Puts to the Pyle. While micedy flames afpire Thou on the top thy Lyone file And by thereon (thy child With such a looke; as it was Amidst full goblets, Now all imbracing And their Contemis The Gods much thought fine When thus Saturnim, with at the Blooks This gricfe, you Gods, is Our foule we toy that Vs King and Father And of our progent in For though his notice and You vs oblige. Sueles vaing terro Who conquer dell still Half Vul an his machine part thall be For that's immortal which from vs bedrew;

Would

Or if I lie, may my greene branches fade: And, feld with axes, on the fire be layd, This lefant from his dying mother beare To son e kinde Nurse : and often let him here Be fed with milke; oft in my fhidow play. Let him falute my tree; and fadly fay. (When he can speake) This Letu doth containe My dearest mother: Yet let him refraine Alllakes; nor ener dare to touch a flowre: But think that every tree inshrines a Powre. Dearc Husband, Sifter, Father, all farewell. Since you I know in pietle excell, Suffer no axe to wound my tender boughes; Nor on my leaues let hungry cattaile brouse. And fince I cannot vnto you decline, Ascend to me; and joyne your lips to mine. My little fon, while I can kiffe, aduance." But face cuts off my failing veterance. For now the lofter rine my neck afcends: And round about my leasy top extends. Remoue your hands: without the belpe of those, The wrapping barke my dying eyes will close.

So left to speak, and be: Yet humane heat In her chang'd body long retain'd a fear; While this flory told; her eyes, G'az'd with her teares, the kinde Alemena dryes; And weeps her seke. Behold, a bester change With toy defers their forrow: nor leffe strange. For locans, twice a youth, came in: The doubtfull downe now budding on his chin. Faire Hebe, at her busbands sute, on thee This gift bestow'd. About to sweare that she Would never give the like; wife Themis faid. Forbeare: Warre raues in Thibes by Discordswayd: And Capaneus but by Your alone

Can be subdude. The brothers then shall grone With mutuall wounds. The facred Propher, loft In swallowing earth, aliue shall see his Ghost. His Sons red hands his Mothers life extract T' appeale his Sire: a just and wicked fact.

Rapt from his home and lenles, with th'affriche Of staring Furies, and his mothers Sprite, Vntill his wife the fatall gold demands: The kinfman murder d by Phegides hands.

Then Acheloian Callinghas Shall here importune, that her infants may Be turn'd to men : and due reuenge require (As he, for his) of those who slew their fire; Her prayers shall win consent from Jene: who then

Will bid thee make Collisabor's children men. This, Themis with prophetick rapture fune. Among the Gods a grudging murmur lyrung. Why the this gift thould nor to others give . Aurera for her hutbande me decharione Ceres complaines of lefons hary ha

Vulcan would Erichtbering Young And cares of time to come in a second All fue for fome: feditions francis fronc

In highe of genealt; thus oppress by Isus. What mutter you? Or where is your respect? Think you, you can the powre of fate subject? Old Iolaniwas by face renew'd: By fate Callurboe's babes shall be indew'd

Whh

The

What will become of me (the weeping faid) Whom new, vnknowne, prodigious loues inuade! If pittifull, the Gods should have destroyd: Or elic have given what might have beene injoy'd. No Cow a Cow, no Mare a Mare persues: But Harts their gentle Hindes, and Rammes their Ewes. So Birds together paire. Of all that mone, No Female fi ffers for a Female loue. O would I had no being ! Yet, that all Abhord by Nature should in Creet befall; Sol's lust-incensed daughter lou'd a Bull: They male and female. Mine, & farre more full Of vncouth fury ! for the rileas'd her bloud; And food his errour in a Cow of wood: She, to deceive, had an adulterer. Should all the world sheir daring wits confer : Should Dedalas his waxen wings renue, And hither flye; what could his cunning doe! Can art convert a virgin to a boy? Or fit läntbe for a maidens joy? No, fixthy mind; compole thy vast delires: O quench these ill-advis d and foolish fires! Or know thy selfe or Selfe-deceit accuse: What may be, seeke; and loue as virgins vie-Hope wings Defire; hope Capiel Hight fustaines! In thee thy Sex this deads. No watch restraines Out deare imbrace, nor husbands icalonfies, Nor rigorous Sires; nor the her felfe devices: Yet not to be injoy'd. Nor canst thou be Happy in her sthough men and Gods agree! Now also all to my delires accord: What they can give, the easie Gods afford;

What me, my Father hiers, her felfe would please, Displeaseth Nature; franger than all these. She, the forbids. That day begins to thine; Long wisht ! wherein line must be mine : And yet not mine. Of mortal moft accurs! I starue at feasts, and in the river thirst. Iuno, ô Hymen, where the are you come? We both are Brides : but where it the Bride groome? Here ended. Nor kille barnes the other Maid; Who, Hymen, for thy lwift apparance praid-Yet Telethusa feares what thou affe ets; Protracting time: bis want of health obiects; Ill-boading dreames, and auguries oft faines: But now no colour for excule remaines. Their supriallrites, put off with fuch delay; Were to be folemoined the following day. When the vabinds here And holding by the Alba form d life.

If is; who Paratonials Phone I have Smooth Marestin, and Schemelanneld Nile, Chear'st with thy presents thy poore suppliants heare ? O helpe in these extremes, and cure out feare! Thee Goddeffe, thee of old; their enlignes, I Haue kene, and know celly lamps, accendancie, And founding Timbrels ; and have thee shaid. To me, impunity flife, to this maid, Thy fauing counfell gaue: to both remue Thy timely pittie. Teares her words perfus. The Goddesse sher Altars when the gate Shooke on the hinger: hornes that imitate The waxing Moones, through all the Temple flung A facred splendor : noyle-full Timbrels rung.

What

The Mother, glad of this fucceffehill figne, Though not secure, returnes from ffe drine. Whom Iphis fe llowes with a larger pace Then youll; nor had so white a face. Her strength augments; her looke more bold appeares; Her shortning curles scarce hang beneath her eares; More courage hath, then, when a wench, the had: Fot thou, of late a Weach, art now a Lad. Gifts to the temple beare, and 16 fing ! Sing Ioy! Their gifts varo the Temple bring; And adde a title in one verse displaid: What Iphis vow'd a Wench, a Boy he pai'd. The Morning Night difmasks with welcome flame : When lune, Vinne, and free Myster came To grace their marriage ; who, with gifts diulas, This the Boy, to his sante loyne.

OVIDS

O VID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The tenth Booke.

THE ARCYMENT.

G. Eare surmes a mon to Pline. Lechan's blame
Olemus beares: more flines; their shapes she same.

Vexe Cybole to Phin ber Atys surves.

Swee Cypatificatio a Gyptest mourners.

Enumented Loud all Englis prings differences
And lanely Changinised so Momen countages.

Slaine Hyacinthin sights in his new Phiners.

The crosed Satrificurs by the power
Of Venus turned to Buls. The Profitture
To Stones, Pygmalion wines the liming frais
Of his ware Are. Erigone doet from
In Hearen; commend to the Virgin Signe.

Mytthe, is ultipling Tree. Hippomenes
And Atalanta, Lyins. Cyprides
(14form'd by Mentha's change) her Paramoure
Turnes to a faire, the mainly finding slower.

In fastion manule, Hymeness sites:

By Orphons call d. But neither visual words,
Nor chearfull lookes, wer happy figure affords.

The torch his hand fusion d, stull sputtering, rais'd A tearefull smoke: more yer, though shaken, blazid.

Th'euene

Th' cuent worse then the Omen. As his Bride
Troopes with the Naights by Heliras side;
A Scrpent bit her by the keele: which forc't
Life from her hold, and nupriall tyes diuorc't.
Whom when the Thracian Poet had aboue
Enough bewail'd; that his complaints might mone
The vader Shades, at Tanarus descends
To Sigian flouds; and his bold steps extends
By ayrie Shapes, and fleeting Soules, that boast
Of tepulture, through that vapleasautions
To Plutos Court. When, having tun'd his strings,
Thus to his harpe the God-like Poet sings.

You Powresthat sway the world beneath the Earth. The last abode of all our humane birth : If we the truth without offence may rell; I come not hither to discover Hell? Nor binde that scolding Curre, who barking shakes About his triple browes Medufa's inakes. My wife this journey vrg'd: who, by the tooth Of trod-on Viper, perisht in her youth. I would, and froue thaue borne her loffe that Loue Won in that strife, A God well knowne aboue: Nor here, perhaps, whenowne. If truly Fame Report old rapes, you also felt his flame. By these obscure abodes, so tull of dread; By this huge class, and deepe Silence, fragad I brough your vast Empire; by these prayers of mine; Explicis too hally face vnewing. We all are yours: and after a thorn thay; Early, or late; we all must runne one way, Hicher we throng ; for our laft home affign'd; The eccupal habitation of man-kind.

She, when her time by nature shall expire, Againe is yours: I but the vie defire. If Fate denie me this, my second choice Is here t'abide: in both our deaths rejevce. While thus he fung, and ftruck the quavering ftrings. The bloudlesse Shadowes wept: nor flattering Springs Temps Tantalus; Ixions Wheele Rood still; Their Vine the Belides no longer fill: The Vultures feed not; Tityes left to grone: And Sifiphow fate luttning on his Stone. The Furies, vanquisht by his verse, were seene To weepe, that nouer wept before. Hels Queene. The King of darknesse yeeld this powrefull plea. Among the late-come Soules, Enrydice They call: the came; yet halting of her wound. Giuen Orpheus, with this law ! Till thou the bound Of pale Auernus palle, if back thou cast Thy carefull eyes, thou loofest what thou hast. A steepe ascent, darke, thicke with fogges, they clime Through enerlasting Silence. By this time Approach the confines of illustrious Light. Doubting ber loffe, and longing for a fight, His eyes th'impatient louer backward threw: When the, back fliding, prefently with-drew. He carches at her, in his wits diffrought; And yeelding aire for her (vnhappy !) caught. Nor did she, dying twice, her spoule reproue: For what could the complaine of, but his lous Who takes her last farewell: her parting breath Scarce reacht his eares; and fo revoluce to death Her double loffe fad Orpheus Stupifides With equal terror vnto his, who file

Tlw Ou

O:

Ao#

W

On

No

He

Th

 $\mathbf{V}\mathbf{p}$

An

Ca

Ca

At

An

ln

T

OI

TI

W

 \mathbf{A}^{1}

W

About the pleasant fields in pleasure ride;
And with a purple raigne the willing guide.
Twas Summer, and high Noone: Dayes burning eye
Made smoking Cancers crooked clawes to fry.
Vpon the ground the panting Hart was laide:
Coole aire receiving from the sylvan shade.
Whom filly Cyparifies wounds by chance:
And seeing lite pursue his tue dout lance,
Resolves to die. What did not Phebus say,
That might a griefe, so slightly caus'd, allay?
He answers him in sighs: this last good-turne
Implores; That he might never cease to mourne.
His bloud now shed in teares, a greenish hiew
His body dimmes: the locks that dangling grew

Vpon his inery fore-head briffling rife; And pointing vpward, feeme to threat the skies. When Phathas fighing: I for thee will mourne:

Mourne thou for others : Herfes still adorne.

Such trees attracting; and inuiron'd round With birds and beafts, you the rifing ground The Poet fits: who, hauing tun'd his strings, Indistonancie musicall, thus fings.

From lone, & Mother Muse, derive my verse;
All how to lone: lones power we oftrehearse.
And lare of Giants sung, in losty straines,
Fold y his thunder on Phiegram plaines.
N win a lower key, to lovely boyes
belou'd of Gods, turne we out softer layes.
And sing of womens suries, who persue
Folding of womens furies, who persue
Folding of womens furies, who persue
Feathaden luss; persude by Vengeance due.
Heavens King, young Ganymed inflames with love:
There was what lone would rather be than lone.

Yet daines no other thaps than hers, that beares
His awfull lightning in her golden feares.
Who forthwith Rooping with deceitful wings,
Trust vp Iliades by Idd's fprings.
Who now, for Ions (though iealous Inno feoules)

Delitious Nectar fils in flowing bowles.

And thee Amyclides, in azure skies
Had Phabus fixt; if cruell Destinies
Had not presented: yet in some fort made
Ereinall. For, as oft as Springs inuade
Sharpe winters; and to Aries Pisces yeelds:
So oft renu'd, thy Flowre adorne the fields.
Thee lou'd my Father, best of humane births.
Her Guardian quits his Delphos, in wide Earths
Round nauill seated: while the God of Beames

Haunts wall-lesse Sparte, and Enretes Rreames.
Now neither for his Harpe, nor Quiuer, cares:
Himselfe debasing, beares the corded snares;
Or leads the dogs; or clambers mountaines; led
By Lordly Lone, and slames by custome fed.
Now Titan bore his equall-distant Light,
Betweene fore-running and ensuing Night:
When lightned of their garments, either shone
With suppling Oile, in first to throw the stone.

This swinging through the aire first Phathus threw:
The obulous clouds dispersing as it flew;
On solid earth, though flying long, at length
Descends; inforc't by art-inabling strength.
Th'imprudent Boy attempts with satall hast
To take it vp; when Earth, by boundings, cast

The Globe, ô Hyacinibus, at thy head,
The Boy lockt pale; and so the God, who bled

Yct

Eu. n

270

Ou

O_F

W

Or

No

He

Th

 $\mathbf{V}\mathbf{p}$

An

Ca

C

AR

A

ln Ti

0

T

W

A

W

Their lookes imboldned, modefly now gone, Convertat length to little-differing Stone. Pygmalion sceing these to spend their times So beaft-like; frighted with the many crimes That rule in women; chose a single life: And long forbore the pleasure of a wife. Meane while, in inory with happy are A Statue carues; lo shapefullin each part, As woman neuer equall'd fr: who stands Affected to the fabrick of his hands. It seem'd a Virgin, fullof liuing flame; That would have mou'd, if not withheld by shame, So Arrit felfe conceal'd. His arradmires; From th'Image drawes imaginary fires: And often feeles it with his hands, to try It 'twere a body, or cold inory. Nor could resolue, Who killing, thought it kift: Oft courts, imbraces, wrings it by the wrift; The flesh impressing (his conceit was such) And feares to hurr it with too rude a touch. Now flatters her; now spaukling stones presents, And orient pearle (loues witching instruments) Sett-finging birds, each seuerall colour'd flowre, First Lillies, painted balls, and reares that powre From weeping trees. Rich Robes her person decke; Her fingers, rings; reflecting chaines her necke; Pendants her eares; a glittering zone her breft. In all, thew'd well; but thew'd, when naked, best. Now laies he her vpon a gorgeous bed: With carpets of Sidenian purple spred. Now calls her wife. Her head a pillow preft Of plumy downe, as if with sense posseit.

Now came the day of Venus Festivall: Through wealthy cypus folemniz'd by all. White heifers, decks with golden hornes, by frokes Of axes fall; ascending incense smokes. He, with his gift, before the Altar flands? You Gods, if all we crave be in your hands, Giue me the wife I wish: one like, he said, But durst not say, give me my ivory Maid. The golden Venme, profent at her Feaft, Conceines his wish; and friendly fignes exprest: The fire thrice blafing, sparkling thrice on high. He hastes to his admired Imagrie ; Couches besides her, rais'd her with his arme; Then kist her tempting lips, and found them warme. That lesson oft repeates; her bosome oft With amorous touches feeles, and fele it foft, The incry disapled with his singers, lacks Accustom'd hardnesse: as Hymettian wax Relents with heat, which chafing thumbs reduce To pliant formes, by handling fram'd for vie. Amaz'd with doubtfull joy, and hope that reeles; Againe the Louer, what he wishes, feeles. The veines beneath his thumbs impression beat: A perfect Virgin full of iuyce and hear. The Cyprian Prince with joy-enhightned words, To pleasure-giving Venus thanks affords. His lips to hers he loynes, which feeme to mek: The blushing Virgin now his kiffes telr; And fearefully creeting ber faire cies, Together with the light, her Louer spics. Venus was profens at the match the made. And when nine Crescents had at full displaide

Now

Their

TOO AV WON HE I VER CO AC

In T

OTINA

Would I ? it will not : he too well inclin'd. O that like fury would inflame his mind! Thus the. But Cinyras, prest with the store Of worthy futers who his voice implore; In his owne choice irresolute, demands (Their names rehearling) how her fancy stands. She, thoughtfull filent; gazing on his face, Flusht with imbosom'd flames, and wept apace. He, taking this for mayden feare; Delist From weeping, said: then dride her cheeks, and kist Too much the loyes. Againe demanded, who She best could like: replyde, One, like to you. Re full, said he, so pious. At that name She hung the head, as conscious of her blame. Twas now the mid of night: when Sleepe bestowes On men; and on their cares, a sweet repose. But Myrrba watches, rapt with tameleile fires; Retracting her implacable desires. Despaires, hopes; will not, will; now shames, againe Defires; nor knowes what course to take. As when A mighty Oke (one blow behind) his fall On each fide threatens; and is fear'd on all: Euch lo her mind, impair'd with various wounds, Waves to and fro; and changes full propounds. No meane, no cure, was left for love but death: Death pleas'd. Refolu'd to choke her hated breath; Vp-starting, to a beame her girdle ties. Deare Cinyras farewell (she softly cries) And of my ruine understand the cause. That faid, the noofe about her necke the drawes. Her wakefull Nurses faithfull cares, they say, A whilpering heard: who in the Lobby lay.

Straight rose; valockt the doores; the instrument Of death beholding, screecht: together rent Her haire and bosome: and, with trembling haste, The girdle from her pallid nocke displac't. Now had the time to weepe; t'imbrace her Carc: And aske the cause of such accurst despaire. She filent, fixes on the earth her eyes: And grieues at deaths preuented enterprise. Paring her horie haires and empty breft, The Nurie, by her first food, and cradle, prest Hergriefes discholure. Myrbeturnes alide, And fighes. The Nurse would not be so denide: Nor onely promit secrecy; but said: Tell me, my child, and entertaine my aid. My oldage is not fruitlesse: charmes have we, And powerfull medeines, if it furie be: If witchcraft; magicke thall thy torments eafe: If wrath of Gods, the Gods we will appeale With sacrifice. What can be else surmiz'd? Thy fortunes by incursions vasurpriz'd; Thy mother, and thy father, well? That Name Drew from her soule a figh, that scorche like flame. Nor in the Nurse did this suspition moue Of fuch a crime: and yet she law'twas Loue. Importunate to know what leaft the feares, Laid in her lap surrounded with her teares, Sh'infolds her in her feeble armes, and faid; I know thou lou'ft; wherein (nor be atraid) Thou maist on my ledulity rely: Nor shall thy father ever this dekty. At that, in fury from her lap the sprung; Then on the bed her profitate body fung;

Straight

Muffling

As swift as Septhian shafts; her forme he more
Admires; by motion louelier than before.
The wind reuerberates her ankles wings,
And whiskes her ham-bound buskins purple frings,
Tessing her haire, on inory shoulders spred.
Her pure white body so assumes the red;
As when carnation curtaines are displayd
On pure white walls, and dye them with their shade.
While this the stranger view'd, the race was run:
And Atalant i's browes the garland won.
The vanquisht sigh, and pay their forseiture.
Nor could so sad successe his seare procure:
Who rose; and sixing on the Maid his eyes;

Why feeke you praise by easie victories?
Contend with vs: if we obtains the Bayes,
Our victory will not eclipse your praise.

Megareus me begot, Ouchestim bloud;
He Neptunes, Ruler of the facted Floud:
Nor we degenerate. My foyle, your name
Will honou; and immortalize your fame.

This while, a well-pleas'd eye She on him threw:
Nor knowes her with; to lofe, or to subdue.
What God, a Foe to beauty, would destroy
This Youth, said she, who seekes my bed t'inioy
With his lifes forfeiture? If I may be
The judge, there is not so much worth in me.
Nor is't his beauty moues, though it might moue;
But that a Boy. We pitie, and not love.
Besides; his courage, and contempt of death!
But once temou'd from Neptunes sacred birth!
And then, his Love; content to part with life,
If harde: sate deny me for his wise!

Begone, ô Stranger; shun my bloudy bed, While yet thou mailt : this Match will cost thy head. No Virgin is there who would not be thine: And fuch would feeke, whose lusters darken mine. Yet why regard I him, so many slaine? Looke to thy selfe, or perish: since in vaine Admonishe by such numbers, whom this strife Hath sent to death. Thou'rt weary of thy life. And must be die, because hee'd live with me? Must death, aduction Loue, thy wages be? This murder will our victory defanie; And purchase hate: yet am not I in blame. O would thou would to defift, and danger fhun] Or fince to mad, would thou could fafter run! How Boy and Virgin reuell in his face! Ah poore Hippeneires! O would this place, Th'hadft neuer feene I thou well deseru'ft to line. Were I more happy, and hard face would give Me leave to marry; thou are He alone, To whom my bed and beauties should be knowne,

Thus she: Who raw, and pierc't with Loues first touch,
Erres in her thoughts; and loues; nor knew so much.
Now King and People call vpon the Race:
When Neptunes Islue thus implored my grace.
O Venus, fauour my attempts, he said:
And those effections, which you gaue me, aid!
This friendly winds convey d vnto my eare:
I pitie, and no longer helpe forbeare.

A field there is, so fertill none, through all Rich Cyprus; which they Damostemus call. Antiquity this to my honour vow'd:
And therewith all my Temples had indow'd.

Begone

METAMORPHOSIS.

The Eleventh Booke

THE ARGUMENT.

A Serpene chang'd so Stone. Rough barkes infold
I he cruell Bacchanals. To flarming Gold
All turnes at Midas souch: He's bodie launs
In cleere Packolus, whose invision weaves
Wash off his gold and gile: an Assa owes
Hu folly shame: the whispred Secres beares
Like sounding Reeds. Apollo, and the Guide
Of sacred Sear, in humane shapes reside.
Fore's Thetis waries formes. Dadalion
I'a Falcon turn'd. A Wolfe conical dee Sease.
Morpheus to moreals, Phobesor to Brates,
And Phantasus to shapes inanimaes sues.
Transferm'd Haleyone and Ceyn styr.
So Elacus, who wainly strium to dye.

Hus while the Thracian Poet with his force
Beafts, trees, and stones, attracts in following throngs:
Behold, Ciconian dames (their furious brests Clad with the spotted skins of faluage beafts)
The Sacred Singer from a hill espy'd,
As he his dittie to his Harpe apply'd.
Of these, One scream'd, and tost her flairing haire;
See, see the Woman-hater! then her speare

Threw

O

Threw at his vocall mouth; which inie-bound, Kift his affected lips without a wound. An Other hurlesa ftone; this, as it flew. His voice and Harpes according tunes subdue: Which felfe-accus'd for fuch a rude affay, Before his feet, as in submission, lav: Rath violence, the meane exil'd, increast: And mad Ermmys raign'd in euery breaft. His fongs had all their weapons charm'd, if noyle () Beriegnthian Shalmes, clapt hands, loud cryes, Drummer, howling Bacchanals, with franticke found Had not his all-appearing musique drown'd. The Rones then blush with filenst Orphens blood. But first on rauisht beasts that listning stood, On fowle, and Scrpents, they their spight infer; Andraze the glory of his Theater. Then all with cruell hands about him fly: And flocke, like birds, when they by day clipy The bird of Night. And as a Stag at bay, In early Spectaclegiuen to the pray Of eager hounds; affaile, together flung Their leavie speares, not fram'd for such a wrong. bome clods, some armes of trees, some Lones aduance: And left wilde Rage should weapons want, by chance Not far off Oxen drew the furrowing ploughes; And Swaines, prouiding food with sweating browes, Their brawny armes imploy'd: who feare-inclinde, before them fled, and left their tooles behinde. Their mattockes, rakes, and spades, dispersed lay About the empty helds: their inarcht away, (The oxens hornes torne from then skuls) their hate basisy them backe vato the Poets fate.

Thee, holding up thy hands, who n'er before Befought it in vaine, now to preuaile no more. That Rout of facrilegious Futies flew! Euch through that mouth (& Impiter !) which drew From stones attention, which affection bred In faluage beatts, his forced spirits fled! Sad birds, wilde Heards, hard flints, and woods which oft Remou'd to heare thee, wept: trees weeping doft Their pallid leaues; ftreames with their teares increast: The Naiades and Dreades innest Their loynes in fullen fable, and display Their scattered haire. Thy limbes dispersed lay. Hebrus had head and Harpe: as borne along The Harpe founds fomething, fadly; the dead tongue Sighes our fad dieties: the bancker sympachie; I hat bound the river in their fad replic. Now borne to Ses, from native streames they drive: And at Methymnian Lesbes shore arine. A Dragon on the forren fand prepares To seaze his head, and licke his dropping haires. When gaping to deuoute the Hymnists face, Phabus descends, and in that very space Into a Stone converts him by his powre. With lawes extended readie to devoure. His Ghost retires to under-shades: once more He fees, and knowes, what he had feene before. Then through the Big fan fields among the bleft Seekes his Eurydice. Now reposses With first imbraces, guided by one minde, They walke together: of the comes behinde, Oft goes before: now Orphem fafely may lis following Eurydice furuay.

Thee,

Yet would not Bactbes fo remit their hate: Who rexed for his Prophets cruellfate. Fixe all th'Edonian Dames that then were by With spreading roots; and who more eagerly Persudo his death, their toes he deeper drew Within the follid earth, which downward grew. And cuen as fowle whose feet intangled are Within the Subtile Fowlers secret Snare Become by fearfull fluctering faster bound: So, each of these, now cleaning to the ground. With terror struggle to escape in vaine; For faster-binding roots their flight restraine. One, looking for her nailes, her roes, her foer: Behold, her swinning legs in timber meet; In passion, thinking to have Arucke her thinker. She ftikes hard oke ; hard oke her breft supplies : Her shoulders such: her armes appeare to grow In naturall branches; and indeed did fo.

Not thus content, their fields Lyencleaues: Whom I melse, with a better crew, receives, And swift Pallolus, who did then infold No precious fands, nor graines of enuitd gold. Salyres and Bacchanals make their repaire, His viualistaine: Sueventhen not shere. Him cift the Phygian turals recling found With age and wine; and now, with juic erown'd. To Main bring: whom Orphem Orgics taught, And lage Eunifous from Correpie brought. When knowne to be his partner in those Rites; Full twice fine dayes, with their forceeding nights, He entertain'd him with a sumptuous feast. klenen times Lucifer the flarres suppreft:

TATATLICAN

When, with wide mirth, he treads the Lidias fields; And to the God his Foster-father youlds. He in his fafe receipt doth much reiovee : Whose bounty Mides frustrates by his chowes. Por, will'd to wish; Let:all, said he, Frouch Convert to go'd. His ignorance was fuch. Forth-with his hurtfull with Lyon gines:

And at his folly nor a little gricues. But in his curse the Bereignthian ioges:

And home-ward bound, the truth by touching tryes. Scarce truffs himfelfe. Who from a tree beresues A flender branch; this shone with golden leaues. Takes up a stone; that flone pale gold became:

Takes up a cled; the cled prefents the same: Crops Ralkes of come; they yeeld a facate of gold: An apple pulls; therein you might behold

Th'Heferien purchace : toucht by him alone. The marble pillers with rich merral shone. And when he washe his hands; that, showr'd is raise; Might simple Danet have decein'd againe. His breft fearce holds his hopes; wholefancle wroughs

On golden wonders: when his feruants brought Meat to the table. Sooner had not he Toucht Ceres bounty, but that prou'd to be A thining made : affumed viands fireighe Betweene his greedy teeth convert to plate. About to drinke mixt wine; you might behold His this fly lawes o're-flow with liquid gold.

Strucke with so strange a plague; both rich and poore; He hates, and shuns the wealth he wish before. No pleasy hunger feeds; he burnes with thir ft:

In loathed gold deferuedly accurft.

Then,

When

Then, lifting up his skining armes, thus praid: Father Leneus, & afford thy aid! I have offended; pitie thou; and mee From this fo beautifulla mischiefe free. The gentle Powre accepts his penitence: And for his faith, doth with his gift dispence, Lest ill-wisht gold about him still abide. Goe, said he, to those Cristall streames that glide By potent Sardis: keepe the bankes that lead Along th'incountring Current to his head. There, where the gushing fountaine fomes, dine in: And, with thy body, wash away thy sinne. The King obeyes: who in the fountaine leaves That golden vertue, which the Spring receives. And still those ancient seeds these waters hold: Who gild their shores with glittering graines of gold He, having wealth, in woods and helds beflowes Histime with Pan; whom mountaine Cauesinclofes Yet his g offe wit remaines: his shallow braine

And fortish fenses punish him againe.

High Tmolon with a steepe ascent vnfolds.

His rigid browes, and vnder seas beholds:

Whose stretcht-out bases here to Sardisioyne;

There to Hypapia, girt in small confine.

Where boatsing Pan, while he his verse doth praise.

To tender Nymph, and pipes this rurall layes;

Before Apollo's durst his songs prefer.

They meet (ill-matcht) great Tmolos arbiter.

Tho'd ludge on his owne Mountaine sits; and cleares his cares from trees; alone a garland weares.

Of Oke, with acornes dangling on his brow.

Who thus bespake the God of Shepherds; Now

Your Judge attends. He blowes his wax-bound reeds: And Mid.u fancie with rude numbers feeds. Then facted Timbus to divine Apollo Converts his lookes: his woods his motion follow. He, his long yellow haire with laurell bound, Clad in a Tyrian robe that swept the ground, A Violl holds, with sparkling gemmes mehac't And Indian teeth; the bow his right hand grac't. A perfect Artift shew'd. The strings then strucke With cunninghand: With his sweet musicke tooke; Tmolus bids Pan his vanquisht reeds refigne. All in the holy Mountaines sentence ioyne, But Midas only; whose exclaimes traduco The Censure. Phabus for this grolle abuse Transformes his eares, his folly to declare: Stretcht out in length, and couer'd with gray haire: Instable, and now apt to moue. The rest The former figure of a man possest. Punisht in that offending part: who beares. Vpon his skull a flow-pac't Affes eares

He striues to couer such a soule defame:
And with a red Tiara hides his shame.
But this his servant saw that cut his haire:
Who bigge with secrets, lieither durst declare
His Soueraignes seene deformity, nor yet
Could hold his peace. Who digs a shallow pit,
And therein softly whispers his disgrace:
Then turning in the earth, for sooke the place.
A tust of whispering Reeds from thence there growes;
Which comming to maturity, disclose
The husbandman: and by soft South-winds blowne
Restore his words, and his Lords eares make knowne.

Your

For aged Protess thus forecold the truth

Reueng'd Apollo, leaving Toulus, flies Through liquid aire; and on the land which lies On that fide Helles ftreightned furges ftands : Where far-obey'd Lasmedon commands. Below Rha'ann, high shoue the flood, And on the right hand of Sigaum, flood n Altar vow'd to Panemphaan loue: From whence He faw Laomedon improve New Troy's scarce founded walls; with what adoe, And with how great a charge they flowly grew. Who, with the Father of the tumid Maine, Indues a mortall shape: and entertaine Themselves for varegarded gold to build The Playgian Tyrants walls. That worke fulfilld; The King their promifed reward denies: And periury by iwearing multiplies. Reuengefull Neptune his wilde waves vnbound; Which all the thores of greedy Trop furround, And made the Land a Lake : the country Swaine His labour lost beneath that liquid Plaine. Betides the daughter of the King demands: Who chained to a Rocke exposed stands To feed a Monster of the Sea; leafree, By stremous Hercules. Yet could not Hee The hories of Liemeden enjoy; His valours hire: who fackes swice periur'd Trey; Andgiues his fellow Souldier Telamon Hefione: for Polim now had won A Deity; nor in his Grandfather Tooke greater pride, than in his Sire by her. For Inpiter had Nephewes more than one: But he a Goddelle had espous d alone.

To waste-wet Thein: Thou shalt beare a Youth, Who shall in glorious armes transcend his birth And Fathers fame. Left any thing on earth Should be more great than love, love fluns the bed Of Sea-thion'd Thetis, though her beautyled His fliong defires: who bids Acides Succeed his love, and wed the Queene of Seas. A Bay within Amonialies, that bends Much like an arch, and far-stretcht armes extends: Which were, if deepe, a harbor locke by land; Where shallow seas o're spred the yellow fand. The follid thore (where on no fea-weed growes) Nor clogs the way, nor print of footing showes. Hard by, a mirtle groue affords a shade: In this, a caue; though doubtfull, rather made By art than nature: hither Thein fwimmes On Delphins backes, here coucht hernaked limbes. In this the flooping Goddeffe Pelem caught: Who, when the could not by his words be wrought, Attempts to force, and claspe her in his atmes. And had the not affum'd her vivall charmes In varying shapes, he had his will obtain'd. Now, turning to a fowle, her flight restrain'd: Now feemes a mallie tree adorn'd with leaves; Choic to the bole th'inamor'd Feleus cleaucs. A spotted Tygreffe the presents at last: When he, with terrour strucke, his armes vaclaspe. Who powring wine on leas, those Gods implores; And with pertumes and facrifice adores : Till the Carpaibian Prophet rais'd his head, And faid; Macides, inicy her bed

Doe thou but binde her in her next surprise, When in her gelid caue the fleeping lies: And though the take a thousand shapes, let none Difmay; but hold, till she resume her owne. This Protess faid, and din'd to the Profound: His latter word in his owne waters drown'd. Now hasty Titan to Hefterian seas Descends; when beauteous Thetis, bent to ease Forfooke the floud, and to her caue repair'd, No sooner she by Pcleus was in snar'd, But forth-with varies formes; vntill she found Her Virgin limbes within his fetters bound. Then, spreading forth her armes, She sighing said, Thou haft subdude by some immorrall aid; And Theis shew'd; nor his imbrace repell'd: Whose pregnant wombe with reat Achilles swell'd.

Happie was Peleus in his sonne and wife: And had not Phoeus murder foild his life, All-fortunate. With brothers bloud defil'd. Thee Trackin harbours, from thy home exil'd. Where courteous ceyv, free from rigour, raign'd; The fonne of Lucifir; whose lookes retain'd His fathers lufter: then disconsolate. Not like himselfe, for his lost brothers fate. Hither, with trauell tir'd, and clog'd with cares, The banntht with a flender traine repaires: Mis Flockes and Heards, with men for their defence, Left in a shadie vale not farre from thence. Conducted to his Royall presence, Hee With oliue brancht, downe bending to his knee, His name and buth declares: the murder maskes With fort, ed cause of flight; a dwelling askes

In field, or citie. Ceyx thus replyes:
Our hospitable bounty open lyes
To men of vulgar ranke: what owes it then
To your high spirit, so renoun'd by men?
Of monume.ntall praise? Whose bloud extracts:
His sourse from lone, improved by your Acts?
To sue, is times abuse: your worth assures
Your full desires; of all, the choice is yours:
I wish it better. And then wept. The cause
lones Nephew as ices: when, after a short pause;

Perhaps you thinke this Bird which lives by rape: To all a terror, ever had that shape. He was a man; as conftant in his minde As fierce in warre, to great attempts inclinde: Dedalion nam'd; fprung from that Star which wakes The deawie Morne; the last that heaven forfakes. Affected peace I foftered, with the rites Of nuprial ioyes: He ioy'd in bloudy fights. His valour Kingdomes with their Kings fubdude; By whom the Thubian Doues are now perfude. His daughter Chione, whose beauty drew A thousand surors, ripe for marriage grew. By fortune Phebus, and the sonne of Mar, From Delphus, and Cyllenus, came this way: Here meeting, looke, and like. The God of Lights Deferres his 10y-imbracing hopes till night. Hermes ill-brookes elay: who on her laid His drowlie rod, and forc't the fleepie Maid. Night spangs the skie with flarres. Anold wifes shape:

Apullo tooke, and leconds Hermes cape.

Autolichia was borne so Mereuria.

Now when the fulnctie of her time drew nie,

Nor from the Sire the Sonne degenerates, Cunning in theft, and wily in all fleights : Who could with subtiltie deceive the light; Converting white to blacke, and blacke to white. To Phabus (for the bare two fonnes) belongs Philammon, famous for his Harpe and fongs. What is't t'haue had two sonnes ? two Gods t'inflame ? A valiant father? Iupiter the same? Is glory fatall? fure t'was fo to Her: Who to Diana durfther face confer. And blame her beauty. With a cruell looke, She faid; Our deeds shall right vs. Forthwith tooke Her bow, and bent it: when the bow-firing flung Th'eicaed arrow through her guiltie tongue. It bleeds; of speech and sound as once bereft: And life, with bloud, her falling bodie left. What gricfe (ô Piety!) oppref my heart! What faid I not, t'asswage my brothers smart! Who heares me so as rockes the roring waves That beat their browes; and for his Daughter raues. But when he saw her burne, foure times affail'd To facke the flamie Pile: as often fail'd. Then turnes his heeles to flight (much like a Bull By Hornets stung) whom scratching brambles pull: Yet feem'd to tun farre faster than a man. As if his feet had wings; and all out-ran. Who swift in chace of wished death, ascends Parnaffus top. As he his bodie bends To iumpe from downe-right cliffes, compassionate . 1; ollo, with light wings, preuents his fate: With beake and tallons arm'd; with ftrength repleas

Aboue his fize : his courage full as great.

This Falcon, friend to none, all foule perfu'th: And grieuing, is the caule of common ruth. Sad copx thus his brothers change relates: When Phosam Ander prest the gates; Who kept the Heard : and cry'd (halfe out of breath) Pelens, I bring thee newes of loffe and death. Report, faid Pelem, we are bent to beare The worst of fortunes. While the King with seare Hangs on his tongue. He panting still afeard: To winding thores we draue the weary Heard, When Phabus from the heighth of all the skie The East and West beheld with equal cic. A part on yellow fands their limbs display; And from their case the wany fields surnay : While other flowly wander here and there: Some swim in seas, and lofty fore heads reare. A Fane, vndc ckt with gold or marble frone Adioynes; high blocke; within a groue o're-growne. This the Nercides and Neren hold: By sea men, who there dry'd their nets, so told, Neere it, a Marish, thicke with sallowes, stood; Made plashie by the interchanging flock. A Wolfe, a monstroust east; with hideous noise That frights the confines, from those thickets flies. His lightning lawes with bloud and foame besmear'd: In whose red eyes two darring flames appear'd. Though fell with rage and famine; yet his rage More greedy farre: nor hunger feckes t'affwage With bloud of becues, and to furcease; but all He meets with, wounds; infuking in their fall. Nor few of vs, while we his force with-flood, Fell by his rankling phangs. The flore with blood

This

302

With bloud the sea-brimme blusht, and bellowing lakes. Delay is losse; and Doubt it selfe for sakes. Arme, arme, while something yet is left to lose: And loyning force, this mortall Banc oppose. The Heardsman ends. Nor did this lusse incense Æacides; remembring his offence: Borne, as the iustice of fad Planathe. To celebrate her Phocus Obsequie. The King commands his men to anne: prouides To goe in person. Busie rumour guides This to Aleyene: her passion bare Her (wiftly thither; running with her haire Halfe vncompos'd: and that disordering, clung About his necke : then weepes ; and with a tongue That scarce could speake, intreats, that they alone Might goe; nor hazard both their lives in one. To whom Aacides; Faire Queene torgoe Your vertuous feare; too much your bounties flow. No force auailes in such oftents as these: Tis peayer that must the fea-thron'd Power appeale. A loting towic within a fortrelle flood; A friend to wandring ships that plough the flood. They this afcend; and figling, fee the thore With cattell frew'd; the Spoyler drencht in gore. Here Pelese fixt on feas, with knees that bend, Blew "famathe implores at length to end The ruftie e other wrath. She from his speech, Diverts her cares: till Thesis did befeech, And got her husbands pardon: nor yet could The faluage Wolfe from thirst of bloud with-hold; I ill the the beaft, as he a Heifer flew. Transform'd to marble; differing but in hew:

All else intire. The colour of the stone Shew him no Wolfe: now terrible to none: Yet Fate would not permit Macides To harbour here; nor found in exile ease; Till at Magnesia, in a happy time Acastus purg'd him from his bloudy crime. Meane-while perplext with former prodigies Both of his neece and brother; to aduize With facred Oracles, the loyes of men, Cipx prepares for Clares. Pherbas then, With his Phlegyen hoaft, alike prophano, The passage stopt to Delphian Phabus Fianc. Yet first to thee his secret purpose told, Faith crown'd Alcrene. An inward cold Shorthrough her bones ther changing face appeares As pale as Box, surrounded with her teares. Thrice strong to speake, thrice weeps through deare con-. (Araine: Sobs interrupting her divine complaint. What fault of mine, my Life, hath chang'd thy mind? Where is that loue that late fo eleerely thin'd? Canst thou thy selfe enioy, from me remou'd? Doe long wayes please? is now my absence lou'd? Yet didft thou goe by land, I should alone Grieue without feare: now both combine in onc. Seas fright me with their tragicall aspect. Of late I saw them on the shore ciech "Their scattered wracks : and often haus I read Sad nameson sepulchers that want their dead Nor let falle hopes thy confidencie please; In that my father, great Hippotades, The struging winds in rockie caucraes keepes.

And at his pleasure calmes the raging Deepes.

KA

They once broke loofe submit to no command;
But raue o're all the sea, and all the land;
High clouds perplex, with sterne concursions rore,
Emitting stames: I feare, by knowledge, more.
These knew I, and oft saw their rude comport;
While yet a Girle, within my Fathers Court.
But if my prayers can no recesse procure;
And that, alas, thy going be too sure;
Take me along: let both one fortune beare;
Then shall I only what I suffer seare.
Together saile we on the toyling Maine:

And equally what cuer hap fuffaine. Thus spake Aleyone: whose forrowes melt Her Rar-like spoule; nor he lesse passion felt. Yet neither would his first intent for fake Nor her a Parener in his danger make. Much faid he to affwage her troubled breff: As much, in vaine. This addes vnto the reft. Which only could ber pensive cares reclaimee All stay is irkesome; by my fathers Flame, I (weare, if Fate permit, returne I will E're twice the Moone her shining Crescens fill. Reuni'd with promise of so short a stay; He bids them lanch the thip without delay, And fit her tacklings. This renues her feares; Presaging ill successe: abortine teares Flow from their springs; then kift: a sad farewell, Long first, at length she takes; and swowning, fell-The Sea-men call aboard: in double ranks Reduce their oares, vp-rifing from their Banks With equall frekes She reares her humid eies, And in A her husband on the Poope office

Shaking

Shaking his hand: that, answers. Now from shore
The vessell drives, and thence her Obiect bore.
Her sollowing eyes the flying ship persue:
That lost, the sailes her eager gazes drew.
When all had lest her, to her chamber goes;
And on the empty bed her body throwes:
The bed and place, with teares, to minde recall
That absent part, which gave esteeme to all.

Now farre from Port; the winds began to blow On quivering Shrowds; their ores the Sailers flow: Then hoise their Yards a trip, and all their failes Atonce let fall to catch th'approching gales. The Ship scarce halfe her Course, or fure no more, By this had runne; farre off from either shore: When, deepe in night, fierce Larm fifly blew; And high-wrought Seas with chasing foamie grew. Strike, ftrike the Top-laile, let the Main-these fly, And furle your failes, the Mafter cry'd; his cry The bluftring winds and roring leas suppresse. Yet of their owne accord in this distresse They ply their tasker: fome feeling yards bestri'd And take-infailes ; some flop on either fide The yawning leakes; some leas on seas reiect. While thus Disorder toiles to small effect. The bitter florme augments; the wilde Winds wage Warre from all parts, and joyne with Neptunus rage. The Mafter loft, in terrour, neither knew The state of things, what to command, or doe; Confuling ignorance; lo huge a maffe Of ills oppreise! which flighted Art surpasse. Lowd cries of men relound; with rathing throwds, Flouds iustling flouds, and thunder-crashing clouds.

Now

Hin

Who late a scepter held. His father in law,
And father, now invokes: but could not draw
(Alasse!) from either succours. Still his wise
Runnes in his thoughts In that short span of life.
He wisht the waves would cast him on the sands
Of Trachin, to be buried by her hands.
Who swimming, fighes Alyms; ber name
His last of speech: in Seas conceives the same.
Behold; an arch of waters, blacke as hell,
Brake o're the floud: the breaking surges quell
Their sinking Burthen. Lawise that might Became obscure; nor could you see his light.
And since he might not render up his place,
With pitchie clouds immur'd his darkned face.

Meane-while Akpone, not knowing ought Computes the tedious night; the daies out-wrought Vpon a robe for him; another makes To weare her felfe: whose flacering hope mistakes In his returne. Who holy fumes prefents To all the Gods : but most of all frequents The Fane of Inno: at her alters praid For him that was not, Grant successe ! (she said) A quicke returne ! Give he our right to none! Of all her prayers the last succeeds alone. The melting Goddeffe could no longer brooke Her death-croft prayers; but from her alter shooke Her tainted hand; and thus to Irus spake; Hafte faithfull Mellenger, thy journey take To drowfie Skepes dimme palace: bid him fend A dreame that may prefent the wofull end Of Ceyx to Aleyene. This faid; She, in a thouland-coloured robe araid,

Her ample Bow from Heasen to Earth extends:
And in a cloud to his abode descends.

Neere the Cinamericus sculks a Cane, in fleepe And hollow hile; the Manfion of dell Skepe: Not scene by Phabus when he mounts the skies. At height, nor flooping : gloomy mifts arise From humid carab, which fill a cwi-light make. No crested fowler Avill crowings here awake The cheerefull Morne: no barking Sentinell Here watch; nor geele, who wakefull dogs excell. Beafts tame, nor falusge, no wind-fhaken boughes, Nor strife of iarring conques, with noyses rouse Secured Eafe. Yet from the rocke a spring, With streames of Lette fostly mannuring, Purles on the pibbles, and innices Repole. Before the Energy pregment Poppie growes, With numerous Simpley from whose inicie birth Night gathers sleepe, and facds it on the Earth. No doores here on their crecking hingers iart'd: Through-out this court there was nor doore, not grand. Amid the Hebon Canea downie bed High mounted Rands, with lable concrings fored. Here lay the lazie God, diffolu'd in ref. Fantasticke Dreames, who various formes exprest, About him rough then Ausumn's cares far more: Or leaves of trees, or fands on Neptunes fhore. The Virgin enting; parts the obvious Dreames: And fils the factod Concaue with the beames Of her bright robe. The God with Rrife dissoince His feeled lides against his head declines, And knocks his drivagainst his breft. Anon

Himfelfe Himfelfo six its; and, leasing on

His elbow, asketh (for he knew her) why She thither came? when Iris made reply: Thou Rest of things, most mecke of all the Gods: O Sleepe, the Peace of minds, from whole abodes Care cuer flies; restoring the decay Oftoile-tyr'd limbs to labour-burdning Day: Send thou a Dreame, resembling truth, in post T'Herculean Trathin; that, like Ceyx ghoft.

310

May to Alcyone his wracke vnfold. Saturnia this commands. Her meffage told. Iris with-drew; who could the power of Sleepe Refift no longer. When the found it creepe Voon her yeelding lenfes, thence the flies: And by her painted Bow remounts the skies.

The Sire, among a thousand sons, excites Shape faining Marpheus: of those brother Sprites None (bid t'allume) with subtler cunning can Vsurpe the gesture, visige, voice of man, Hishabit, and knowne phrase. He onely takes A humane forme: an Other thewes a fnakes. A birds, a beafts. This Iceles they call, Whom heaven imbowre; though Phobeter by all Of mortall birth. Next Phantasus; but he, Of different facultie, indues a tree, Earth, water, stone, the severall shapes of things That life enjoy not. These appeare to Kings And Princes in deepe night; the rest among The vulgar stray. Of all the germane throng,

Their aged father onely Morpheus chose

Refolu'd to flumber, thrinkes into his bed.

To att I hammantia's charge. His eies then close

Their drowfie lids, and hanging downe his head,

His noiselesse wings through night fly Marphens straines; And with the swiftnesse of a thought attaines Th' Amenian towers: then laid them by, and tooke The forme of Cepk. With a pallid looke He naked stood, like one depriu'd of life, Before the Couch of his vnhappy wife: His beard all wet, the haire vpon his head With water dropt; who, leaning on her bed, Thus spake; while teares from seeming passion flow. Doft thou, o wretched Wife, thy coxknow?

Or am I chang'd in death I looke on the Lost: And for thy husband thou shalt see his Ghost. No fauour could thy pious prayers obtaine: For I am drown'd; no longer hope in vaine. Cloud-crushing South-winds in Ægaum caught Our rauisht ship, and wrackt her with her fraught.

My voice the flouds opprest, while on thy name I vaincly call'd. This, neither wandring Fame, Nor doubtfull Author tels: this I relate;

I, that there periflit by vitimely fate. Artic, weepe, put on blacke: nor vndeplot'd For pity send me to the Stygian Ford.

To this he addes a voice, such as she knew Express her Lords: with teares appearing true, And gesture of his hand She sigh't and wept; Stretch out her armes t'imbrace him as the flept, But claset the empty aire. Then cry'd, O stay!

Ah, whither wilt thou! goe we both oneway. Wak't with her voice, and husbands shade; with feare She lookes about for that which was not there.

For now the maids, tais'd with her shreekes, had brought A Taper in. Not finding what the fought,

She

Day springs: She to the shore address her hafte.

She strikes her cheekes, her nightly linnen tare, Inuades her brests; nor staies t'vubind her haire, Eut tugs it off. Her Nurse the cause demands Of such a violence. She wrings her hands, And in the passion of her griese replyde:

There's no Aleyone; none, none! she dyde Together with her Ceyx. Silent be All founds of comfort. These, these eyes did see My thip-wrackt Lord. I knewhim; and my hands Thrust forth t'haue held him: but no mortall bands Could force his stay. A Ghost: yet manifest: My husbands ghost: which o but illexprest His forme and beauty, late divinely rare! Now pale, and naked, with yet dropping haire. Here stood the miserable; in this place: Here, here (and sought his airry steps to trace.) O this my fad missiuing soule dinin'd; When thou for look it me to perfue the wind. But fince imbarqu'd for death, would I with thee Had put to lea: a happy face for me! Then both together all the time affign'd Por life had lin'd; nor in our death dis-ioyn'd. Nowhere, I perisht there: on that profound Poore I was wrackt; yet thou without me drown'd. OI, then flouds more cruell; should I striue To lengthen lite, and such a griefe survive! Nor will I, nor for fake thee, nor defer. Though one Vrnehold not both, one Sepulcher Shall toyne out titles: though thy bones from mine The seas differer, yet our names shall joyne.

Griefe chok't the rest. Sobsenery accent part:
And figlics ascend from her associate heart.

Euen to that place from whence the law him laft. And while the fadly veters, Here he Raid; Here parting, kift me; from thence anchor waid: While the fuch fighs recalls; her fleady eyes Fixt on the Sea, far off the fomething spies; But knowes not what: yet like a cor's. First shee Doth doubt: driven neerer (though not neere) might fee A body plainly. Though vnknowne, yet much The Omen mou'd her, fince his fate was fuch. Poore wretch, who'ere thou art: and fuch (she said) Thy wife, if wed, by thee a widdow made! By flouds driven necrer; the more necre, the more Her spirits faint: now nigh th'adioyning shore. Now ices the what the knowes: her husbands cor's. Woe's me!'tis He, the cries! at once doth force Her face, haire, habit: trembling hands extends To foule-leffe Cepx; and then faid: Here ends My last of hopes: thus, 8 then life more deare; husband, thus return'A thou I Art a Peere lad stretcht into the furges; which with-flood. And brake the first incursion of the flood. Thither forth-with (o wonderfull!) the springs; peating the palliue aire with new-growne wings. Who, now a bird, the waters fummit rakes: bout the dies, and full of forrow, makes A mournfull noise; lamenting her divorce: non the toucht his dumbe and bloudleffe cor's: With Aretched wings imbrac't her perithe bliffe; And gaue his colder lips a heatlefic kille.

Nhether he felt it, or the flouds his looke

duanc't, the vulgar doubt : vet fure he toobe

Day

Schle

Sense from touch. The Gods commiserate:
And change them both, obnoxious to like fate.
As crst, they loue: their nuprial faiths they shew
In little birds; ingender, parenta grow.
Scuen winter dayes with peacefull calmes possess,
Alcyon sits upon her floting nest.
Then safely saile: then Eclus incaues.

For his, the winds; and smoothes the Rooping wates. Some old man seeing these their pinions moue O're broad-spread Seas, extols their endlesse loue. By theirs, a Neighbour, or Himselfe, reviues An others face. You'sable fowle that dives: (And therewith shewes the wide-mouth'd Cormorant) Of royall parentage may also vaunt. Whole ancestors from Trus their branches spred: Ilas, Affaracus, Iones Ganymed, Laomedon, and Priamus the last That raign'd in Trey: to Heller (who lurpaft Infortitude) a brother. If by powre Of Fate vnchanged in his youths first flowre, He might perhaps as great a name haue wonne: Though Heller were great Dymes daughters forme-For Alixothet, a country Maid, Bare Afains by Realth in Idas shade. He, hating Cities, and the discontents Of glittering Courts; the lovely woods frequents And vnambitious fields; but made repaire To Il:um rarely: yet, he debonaire, Nor vnexpugnable to loue. Who splde Eperia, oft delic'd, by Cebreus fide (Herfathersriver) drying in the Sun Her fluenthaire. Away the Nymph did run-

Swift as a frighted Hinde the Wolfe at hand a Or like a fearefull fowle thrust ouer-land Beneath a falcon. He perfues the chace: Feare wings her feet, and loue inforc't his pace. Behold a lurking Viper in this strife, Deaz'd on her beele; repressing fight with life. Francicke, his trembling armes the dead include: Who cry'd, Alas that ever I perfude ! fear'd not this; nor was the victory Worth such a losse. Ay me I two, one destroy. Thy wound the Serpent, I the occasion gaue: ô more wicked! yet thy death shall have My life for satisfaction. There-with flung His body from a cliffe which ouer-hung The yndermining Seas. His falling limmes pheld by Tethys pitie; as he swimmes h'his person plumes, nor power of dying gives. o be compel'd to liue the Louer grieues: Distaining that his soule, so well appai'd To leave her wretched fear, should thus be staid. and mounting on new wings, againe on Seas His body throwes: the fall his feathers cafe. Vith that, inrag'd, into the deepe he dines: and still to drowne himselfe as vainly striues. Loue makes him leane. A long neck doth sustaine His fable head; long-ioynted legs remaine. Nor ever the affected Seas for lakes: and now a futed name from diving takes.

P a

OVID'S

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The twelfth Booke.

TRE ARGY MENT.

A Snahe; a snahe-like Stone. Cycnus, a Swan, Canis the maid, now Canens and a man, Becomes a Fowle. Neleius caries shates: At last an Eagle; nor Alcides scapes.

Ld Priam mournes for Æfacus; nor knew That he survived, and with light feathers flew. While Hellor and his brethren dues, with teares. Pay to the tembe which his inscription beares. But Paris, absent from that obsequy, Straight, with his Rape, brought ten yeeres warre to Troy. A thousand ships, in one confederate, Perfue his Realth, with all the Achaian State. Nor vow'd resenge so long had beene delaid; If wrathfull Seashad not their passage staid: At fishie Aulis, in Bestia, Their wind-bound Nauy in expectance lay. Here, as th'old vie, to love they facrifice. While from the antique altar flames arise; Ablew scal'd Dragon, in the Armies view, Ascends a tree, which neere the alter grew.

318

A feathered nest the upper branches beare. With twice foure birds : these and their dam (with feare Flying about her losse) the greedy snake At length denour'd. This all with wonder strake. When Chikhas cry'd (who could the truth denine) Reioyce, Pelafgans, 'cis a happy figne! Proud Troy th Ilfall; though with long toile and care: These three birds, thrice three yeeres war declare, He, wound about a bough, gorg'd with his rape; Became a Stone, hat held the Serpents fiape. Still Nevens in Admian furges raues: Norware transferres. Some thinke the God of Wauca Would I ray preferue; and faue the walls he made, Theforides relents: who knew, and faid, A virgins bloud must Dian' reconcile. Now did the publike cause the prinate soile; A King a father : Iphigenia stood Before the altar to religne her blood. The Priest did weepe; the Goddesse pittieth too; Who a're their eyes a cloudy meteor threw; And while they profecute her rites, and praid; Produc't a Hinde to represent the Maid. When fitter facrifice had dul'd her rage; Her furie and the Seas, at once asswage. A fore-winde then their thousand Vessels bore: Who, fuffering much, attaine the Phryeian shore. Au id the world, 'twixt Aire, Earth, Nepunes brine, A place there is; the triple Worlds confine. Where all that's done, though far remou'd, appeare:

And eucry whilper renetrates the eare. The Houle of Fame: who in the highest towre Her lodging takes. To this capacious bowre

Innu-

Innumerable wayes conduct ; no way With doores debat'd, but open night and day. Allbuilt of ringing braffe; through out refounds : The heard reports, and every word rebounds. No reft within, no filence 1 yet the noise .

Not lowd, but like the murmuring of a voice. As seas that fally on fandiffant shores; Or as Isus terminating thunder rores.

Hither the idle Vulgar come and goe: Millions of Rumors wander to and fro; Lies mixt with truths, in words that vary still.

Of these, with newes volknowing cares Some till; Some carry tales; all in the telling growes; And euery Author addes to what he knowes.

Here dwels rath Error, light Credulity, Deiested Feare, and vainly grounded loy; New rais'd Sediction, secret Whisperings

Of vnknown Authors, and of doubtfull things. All done in Heaven, Earth, Ocean, Fame fin mewest

And through the ample world inquires of newes. She notice gaue, how with a dreadfull heaft The Greeian Nauie Recred for their coaft .

Nor vnexpected came: the Treams bend Their powers timcounter, and their shores desend. Fuft thou thy life, Protefilas, loft

By Hellors fatall lance; the battle coft The Greekes a world of foules : fo cloerely shone. Their fortitudes; great Mclor yet valenowne.

Nor no final freames of bloud their valours drew From Phrygian wounds, who felt what Greece could dos And now their mingled gores Signum staine:

Mow Neptuber Cychen had a thouland flainc.

Now, in his chariot, on Achilles fell; And with his lance whole squadrons sent to hell: Seeking for Cyenus, or for Heller, round About the field; at length braue Cyanus found: (For Fate nine yeeres great Hellors life fustaines.) Cheering his horses with the flaxen maines, His thundring Chariot drives against his foe, And shakes his trembling lance; about to throw; O youth, he said, what e're thou art, reioyce: A billes honours thee with death. His voice His speare persues : the steele no wound imprest Though strongly throwne. When, bounding from his brest He faid; I hou Goddeife-borne, Fame brittes thee fuch; Why wondrest thou (Achilles wondred much) This helme with horse-haire plum'd, this shield I beare, Defend not me: for fashion these I weare. So Mars his person armes. Should I display My naked breft, thy force could finde no way The grace to be Nereis sonne is small: What his, who Nereus, who his Nymphs, who all I he Ocean guides? Then at Achilles threw His lance, that pierc't his plated shield, and through Nine oxe-hides rusht: the tenth did it restraine. The Heros caught it, and retorts againe The finging fleele; againe it gaueno wound. The third affay no better entrance found, I kough Cyemubar'd his bosome to the blow. He rages like a bull in Circian Shew; Whose dreadfull hornes the flammell, which pronokes His fury, toffe with ftill deluded ftrokes. Then fearches if the head were off : that on; What, is my hand, faid he, so feeble growne?

On one is all my vigour spent ? my powre Was more, when first I raz'd Lyrneffus towre: When Tenedos, Eetien, Thebis, were fil'd With bloud of theirs, by my incounters spild. The red Careus flaughtred natives dyde: Twice Telephus my powrefull lauelin tryde. Behold these heapes of bodies! these I slew: Much could my hand have done; as much can doc. This faid, his former deeds almost suspects. And at Menetes breft his aime directs, (A Lycian of meane ranke) the thrilling dare Quite through his faithlelle curasse pierc't his heart: Whose dying body Reacke the groning ground. Snatching the weapon from his recking wound; This hand, he faid, this now victorious lance Shall vige thy fate: affift me equal Chance! With that, th'vnerring dart at Cycnus flung. Th'vneuitated on his thoulder rung: Which like a rocke the lance repel'd againe: Yet where it hit it left a purple staine; By vainely glad Æacidas delery'd: He woundlelle: this Meneter bloud had dy'd. Then roring, from his chariot leapes; and made A horrid on-fet with his flaming blade: Who fees the breaches in his helme and shield; Yet he secure: his skin the steele vnsteeld. Now all impatient, with the hik his Foe's Hard front inuades with thicke redoubled blowes:

Swim o're his eyes: whole now auerted steps
A stone with stood. On whom Achilles leapes

Persues his back retreit, perturbs, infifes;

Nor lets the aftonisht breath. He faints; blew miss

With

Ou

Orelfe affured. Canis Rill forbore All nupriall ties. As on the secret shore She walkt alone, the Sca-god her dissent Inforc's to Rape: for fo the rumor went. Rapt with the joy of loues first tasted fruit; All shall, said Nepture, to thy wishes sute; Wish what thou wilt. So Fame the flory toki. My wrong, said canis, makes my wishes bold: That never like inforcement may befall, Be I no woman; and thou giv'st me all. Her latter words a deeper voice expresses Much like a mans, for now it prou'd no lesse. The Sea-God had affented to her will: And further addes, that Reele should neither kill Nor wound his person. Young Assacides, Departs; reioycing in such gifts as these: Who great in enery manly vertue growes;

And haunts the fields through which Paneus flowes.

The fonne of bold Irim now had wed
Hippedame: the faluage Centaures, bred
Of clasped Clouds, his inuitation grac't;
In plashed bowres at fundry tables plac't.
There were th' Emmiss Princes; there was I:
The Palace rung with our confused ioy.
They Hymen sing; the altars sume with slames:
Forth came th'admired Bride with troopes of dames.
We call Pirithess happy in his choice;
But scarce maintaine the Omen of that voice.
For Empiss, more heady than the rest;
Foule rapine harbors in his saluage brest;
Incenst by beauty, and the heat of wine;
Lust and Ebriety, in out-rage ioyne.

Straight, turn'd-vp boords the feast prophane : the faire And tender spouse now haled by the haire. Fierce Eurylus Hippodime; all tooke Their choice, or whom they could: fackt cities looke With such a face. The women shreeke: we rise. When Thefeus first; & Empeus, vovvise! Dar'st thou offend Pirithers as long As Thesenslives? in one two suffer wrong. Thegreat-Sould Heios, not to boaft in vaine, Breakes through the throng, and from his herce discaine The Rape reprised. He no reply affords; Such facts could not be justifed by words: But with his fifts the brane redeemer preft; Affailes his face, and frikes his generous breft. Hard by there flood an antique goblet, wrought With extant figures: this Ægides caughe; Hu: I'd at the face of Eurytes: a floud Ofrecking wine, of braines, and clotted bloud At once he vomits from his mouth and wound; And falling backward, kickes the dabled ground-The Centaures, francieke for their brothers death, Arme, arme, refound, with one exalted breath. Wine courage gives. At first an vacouth fight Of flagons, pors, and boules, began the fight: Late fit for banquets, now for bleud and broiks. First Ampene, Ophions issue, spoiles The facred places of their gifts; downersmues A brazen creffet flucke with burning happes: This fwings alofe, as when a white-hair'd Bull The Sacrificer Strikes; which crushe the skull Of Celaden the Lapithite, and life. His face voknowne: confusioniforme bereft.

Straight,

Out fart his eyes; his batter'd nose betwing His shiner'd bones flat to his pallat fint. Pillean Pelades a treffell tore That propt the boord, and fell'd him rothe flore, He knockes his chin against his brest, and spude Bloud mixt with teeth. A second blow persude The first; and sent his vexed soule to hell. Next, Gryneus stood; his lookes with vengeance swell: Seines this, faid he, for nothing? therewith rais'd Alofta mighty Alrar; as it blaz'd. Among the Lagis bites his burden threw ; Which Brotest, and the bold Orien flew. Or. ovsmother My ale, est-soone Could with her charmes deduce the strugting Moone. Exadus ciy'd, Nor shalt thou so depart Had a weapon. Of a voted heart The Antlerstion a Pine he puls; they fix Their forkes in Grincus darkned eyes: this flickes Vicon the horne, that in concreted gore Hung on his beard. A fire-brand Rhatta borc. Snatch from the Alear; and Cheravio head Crackt through sheskull, with yellowsteffes fored. The rapid flame his blezing curles furround. Like coine on fire; bloud broyling in his wound Horribly hilles: as sed feele that glocs. With feruent blafts, which pleane conques dupofe To quenching cools troughed, spuriors, strines; consumes; And hiffing vider heared masor, firmes. The Wounded from his singed tacties thakes

The greedy flame; and no his thoulders takes it

A frome torne from the thraffiold, which alone to

Would loade a waine out diffant Abaus ibsownes

This, falling short, Comites life innades: And fent his friend to everlasting shades. When Rhadus, laughing; May you all abound In strength so try'd; and aggravates his wound With repercussions of his burning brand. Crusht bones now linke in braines. Then turnes his hand! Voon young Ceritus, Emegrus, Dryas: Which gaue to Coritus a fatall paffe. What glory can the flaughter of a boy Afford, Eugerus Gid? nor more could fay: For Rhaius, e'r his iawes togother came. Hid in his throte and breft the choaking flame. Then whiskes the brand about his browes, and drives At valiant Dryas; but no longer thriues. For through his shoulder, who had triumphe long In daily flaughter, Dryas fixt his prong. Who groning, tugs it out with all his might: And foild with bloud, converts his hecles to fl ghte. So Lyidas, Arnaus, Medon (fred In his right arme) Pifener, Common, fled: Wound-tardie Mermerus, late swift of pace; Menclem, Pholus; Abas, vs'd to chace. The Bore; and Affyles, who fates fore-knew: Who vainly bade his friends that warre eschews And faid to frighted Neffus, Fly nor fo; I hou art reserved for great Akides bow.

But yet Eurynamus, nor Lycidas,

Areus, nor Imbreus, vnflaughtred paffe:

All quell'd by Dryas hand. Thee Contra too.

Though turn'd about for flight, a fore-wound flore

For looking backe; the point betweene his fights.

There where the note isynes with the fore-head, lights

This

Who with his shield and burganet defends The founding strokes: yet still his sword extends. And twixe his shoulders at one thrust doth gote His double brefts. Yethad he flaine before Phlegram, Hyles, with his lances flight; Hiphinom and Danu, in close fight. Addes Dorplas to these; who wore a skull Of Wolfe-skin tan'd; the sharpe hornes of a Bull. In stead of other weapons, fixe before: And dyde in crimfon with Lapithian gore. To whom, with courage fir'd. I faid in feorne: Behold how much our steele excels thy horne. And threw my lance: not to be shun'd, he now Claps his right hand you his threatned brow: Which both together nail'd. They rore : and while Th'ingaged with his bitter wound doth toile; Thy father, who was necrest, necres made: And through his nanill thrust his dendly blade. He bounds, and on the earth his bowels trailes The trailed kickes, the kickt in peaces halps; Which winding, fetter both his legs and thighes? So falls; and with a gutleffe belly dies. Nor thee thy beauty, Cyllans, could faue: If such a two-form'd figure beauty hane. His chin now gan to bud with downe of gold: And golden curles his item y backe infold: His lookes a pleasing vigor grace; his brest, Hands, shoulders, accior, and all thet man express, Surpalling arts admired images. Nor were his bestiall parts a shame to these : Adde but a horses head and crest, he were For failure vie; his backe lo from to beare,

So largely chefted; blacker than the crow: His taile and feet-lockes, white as falling inow. A number of that nation fought his lone: Whom none but faire Mylmame could moue: None for attracting favour so excell. Of all the halfe-mares that on Others dwell. Shee, by fweet words, by louing, by confest Affection, only cyllarus peffect. With combes the imouthes her haire; her person trimmen With all that could be gracefull to fuch limbes. Of Roses, Rolemary and Violets, And oft of Lillies curious dreffings pleats. Twice daily washe her face in Springs that fall' From Pagafaan hills; twice daily all Her body bathes in cleaning freames : and ware The skins of beafts, fuch as were choice and rare. Which flowing from her shoulder crosse her breft. Vaile her left fide. Both equal love posses: Together on the shady mountaines stray. In woods and hollow cattes together lay. Then to the palace of the Lepithite Together came; and now together fight. A jaueline from the left hand flung, thy breft O Cyllarus, beneath thy nocke imprest. His heart though flightly hurt (the dart exhald) Grew forth-with cold; and all his body pal'd. Hylonome his dying Jimbes receincs; Poments his wound; close to his lips the cleaner. To stay his flying soule. But when she found Lifes fire extinct; with words in clamour drown'd. Euen on that steele, which through his bosome past. She threw her owne: and him in death imbrack.

Me thinkes I fee grim Phacemes yet: Who with two Lions skins, together knit, Protects his man and beaft. A log he tooke, Which scarce two teams could draw; this darted, strocke The Crowne of Phonolegides: his braines It through the fractures of his skull confraines; Which from his mouth, eyes, eares, and nofthrils gushe, Like curds through wicker squease; or inces erushs Through draining Colendars. As he the dead Prepares t'ynarme, my sword his bowels shred. Your father faw his downfall. Chibonius too. And flout Teleboas our fawchion flew. The first a forked branch, the other held A lengthfull lance: the lance this wound impeld: Whereof you see the ancient scarre. Then I. Then should I have beene sent s'hauer uin'd Tror. Then might I have restrain'd, if not o're-throwne Great Heller. But, he either then was none. Or elfe a child. Now spent with age, I waine. What speake I of two-shapt Pyresw, flaine By Periphas? Thy dart, without a head. Braue Ampyem, soure-hoom'd Oicles sped. Macarem, borne by Peletbrenian rocks, Huge Eriedams with a leaver knocks To ecchoing earth. His dart Cymelus sheath'd Deepe in Nellaus groine, and life bereau'd. Nor would you thinke Amprides alone Could Fate fore-tell; a lance by Mapfus throwns Odites flue (this, as the Centaure rail'd, His tongue this chin, his chin this bosome nail'd. Fine Canem flue; Browns Antimoches, Axe-asm'd Pyracmos, Helius, Stipbelm.

Although

Although forgetfull by what wounds they fell;
Their names, and number, I remember well.
Giant-like Latrem lightneth to these broiles;
Arm'd with Emathian Alasm spoiles:
His yeares, 'twixt youth and age; nor age impaires
The strength of youth, though sprinkled with gray haires.
A Macedonian speare, a sword, a shield,
Consirme his powers: o're-viewes the well-sought field,
Classes his armes; and trotting in a round,
Infring'd the aire with this distainfull sound.

Shall I indure thee Canu? Itill to me
Thou are a woman, and shak Canu be.
Thou hast forgotthy births originall,
And for what fact rewarded; by what fall
Aduanc't to this man-counterfeiting shape.
Thinke of thy birth; thinke of thy easie rape.
Goe, take a spindle and a distaffe; twine
The carded wooll; and armes to men refigne.

While thus he scoffes; and circularly ran;
Canens his sides gores with his lance, where man
And horse vnite. He, mad with anguish, slings
His speare at the Phylican youth, which rings
On his vntainted face; and backe recoiles,
As pibbles dropt on drummes, or haile on tiles.
Then rushing on, with thrusts affayes to wound
His hardned sides; the sword no entrance found.
Norshalt thou scape; the edge shall lanch thy throte,
Although the point be dull. This said, and smote
At once. The blow, as if on marble, sounds:
And from his necke the broken blade rebounds:
When he his charmed limbes had open laid
Enough to wounds and wonder, canens said:

Now

Now will we trie, if thou our fword sanft feele. Then twixt his shoulders thrusts the facall steele Up to the hilts; which to and fro he wanes Deepe in his guts, and wounds on wounds ingraues. The frighted Centaures, with a horrid cry. On him alone, with all their weapons fly. Their dares rebated fall, but draw no blood: For Cancus fill in-vulnerable Rood. This more amaz'd. Ah, Mongebus exclaimes, One foiles vs all, to all our endielle shames ! He scarce a man! nay he the man, and we Are what he was: so poore our actions be-What bootes our mighty limbes ? our double force? The strongest of all creatures, man and horse, In vaby nature ioyn'd? fure we are not A Goddelle birth; nor by Ixion got, Who durft the Queene of Deities imbrace: This Halfe-man conquers his degenerate race. Stones, massic logs, whole mountaines on him roule; And with congested trees crush out his soule. Let woods oppresse his rawes: o're-whelme with waight, In stead of idle wounds. Thus he: and fraight An Oke, vp-rooted by the furious blafts Of franticke winds, on valiant Ceneus caffs. Th'example quickly Othrys difaraide Of all his trees; and Pelien wanted shade. Prest with so huge a burthen, Current sweats: And to th'o're-whelming okes his thaulders fets. But now the load about his statute climbes. And chookes the passage of his breath. Sometimes He faints; then ftruggles to advance his crowne About the Pile, and throw the timber downer ometimes the preflute with his motion quakes: is when an earth-quake yonder ids shabes. His end was doubtfull: fome there be, who told low with that weight his body funke to hell. Kopius differes; who law a fewle srife from thence with yellow wings, and mount the shies: The first I ever law) which flying round About our Tents, sent forth a mournefull found. This he persuing with his soule and fight. Cry'd, Haile thou glory of the Lapithic! D Canno, late a man at armes; but now An ynmatcht fowle! Hiswigneffe all allow. Griefe whets our fury; brooking ill, that one ly fuch a multitude frould be o're-throwne: And Sorrow to long executes the fight. fill halfe were flaine: halfe fau'd by speed, and night, Tlepelemus could not his tongue debarre: Since in the repetition of that warre, Of Hercules he had no mention made. Old man, how can you so forget (he said) Akides praise? my father oft would tell, How by his hand the Cloud-borne Centaures fell. To this fad Neffer answer'd: Why should you Compell me to remember, and renue My forrow lost in time? or iterate Your fathers guilt; together with my hate? His acts transcend beleefe; his high repute Pills all the world : which would I could refute. But not Polydamas, Deiphobai, Nor valiant Heller, are extel'd by va.

For who commends his foe? Mellene's walls

Hie raz'de faire Elis Pylus, in their falls

Some-

Detel

DeteRhis fury; Cities which his hate Had not descru'd: with them, did ruinate Our House with swo: d and fire. Not now to tell Of others, who by his sterne out-rage fell; 'Twice sixfaire-fam'd Neleile were wee; Twice fix Alides flew, excepting mee. Conquest is common: but, ô more than strange Was Periclymen's flaughter! who could change And rechange to all figures. Such a grace Great Neptune gaue; the root of Neleus race. He, forc't to vary formes, at length vnfolds lones well-lou'd Fowle, who in her tallons holds Imperuous thunder; and His vilage teares Both with his crooked beake, and armed seares. At him his bow, too fure, Alcides drew. As towring in the loftic clouds he flew, And strucke his side-ioyn'd wing. The wound was slight; But sunder'd nerues could not sustaine his flight. When tumbling downe, his weight the arrow smote In at his fide, and thrust it through his throat. Now brauc Commander of the Rhodian Fleet: Think'st thou Akides praise a subject meet For my discourse ? Alone with filence wee Reuenge our flaughtered brothers; and love thee When Nefter with mellifluous eloquence Had thus much veter'd; they with speech dispence, And liberall Bacchus quaffe: then all arose: And guetherest of night to loft repose. The God, whose Trident calmes the Ocean. For strangled cyenus, turn'd into a Swan, Grieues with paternall griete. Achilles fate He profecutes with more than civil hate.

Ten yeeres now well-nigh laps'd in horrid fights. Thus ynthorne Smintbous his fterne rage excites. Of all our brothers sonnes to vs most deare: Whose hands, with ours, Troys walls in vaine did reare: O fi h st thou not to see the Asian towres So neere their fall? their owne, and aiding powres By millions flaine? the last of all their iov Dead Hellur drag'd about his fathers Troy? Yet dire Achilles, who our labour giues To vecer spoile, then Warre more cruell, lives. Came he within my reach, he then should trie The vengeance of my Trident: but fince I Cannot approch t'incounter with my foe: et him thy close and mortall arrowes know. Delias affents: his vakles wrath intends; With it, his owne; and in a cloud descends To th' Ilian hoast: amid the battle seekes For Paris, theoting at vn-noted Greekes. Then thew'd a God, and faid: Why doft thou lose Thy the fee to bafely? nobler objects chole; If thou of thine at least hast any care: Thy brothrens deaths reuenge on Peleus heire. Then thew dhim fterne A billes, as he flew The Tro an troopes: and, while his bow he drew. Directisthe deadly thaft. This only might Old Priam, after Heciors death, delight. Him, who with conquests cloy'd the lawes of death, A faint adulterer depriues of breath. If by th'effeminate to be o're-throwne; Then should the Pollax of the Amugon Hane forc't thy fate. The Phrygian feare; the fame. And fire g protection of the G weigh Name. Inuin Innincible Æacidis now burnes: The God, who arm'd, his bones to athes turnes. And of that great Achilles scarce remaines So much as now a little Vrne containes. Yet still he lives; his glory lightens forth, And fills the world: this answers his full worth. This, ô diuine Pelider, foares as high As thy great spirit; and shall never die. And even his armes, to inflance whole they were; Procure a warre. Armes for his armes they beare. diax Oileus, Diomedes, nor The leffe Atrides , not in age and war The Greater: no nor any; but the Son Ot old Laertes, and bold Telamon, Durst hope for such a prize. Tantalides, To thun the burden, and the hate of thefe, The Princes bids to fit before his tent: And puts the strife on their arbitrement.

OVID'S

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The Thirteenth Booksi

THE ARGUMENT.

Those purple slowers which Aian name difley,
Hu blond produce. Inraged He: uha
Becomes a Bisch. From Memnons cinders rise
Selfe staughting Fowle: a peerely sacrifice.
What our Anius daughters handle, prouse
Come, wine, or ople: themselves transformed to Dones.
From honour'd virgins assess Sonnes ascend.
Th' Ambracian Indge a Stone. Light wings defend Mossins royall issue. Scylla growes
A herrid Monster. Murder'd Acis slower
With speedie streames. The kinde New Ciden
For Glaucus sue: inchroid su facred Sear.

He great Chiefes sate; the Souldiers crowne the field:

Vp tose the Master of the scuen-fold Shield.

With wrath impatient, his sterne eyes survay.

Sigaum, and the Nause which there say.

Then holding vp his hands, o love, he said;

Before the Fleet must we our title plead?

And is Vlyses my Competitor?

Whose sugarthesis as the same sabhor.

Thole

Those, I, sustain'd; from those this Nauie treed. 'I is fater to contend in word than deed. I cannot talke, nor can he fight: as farre His tongue excells, as I exceed in waire. Not need I to rehearfe what you have feene In act, renowned Greekes: what his hath beene I et ithacus declare; perform'd by flight, We thout a witnesse, only knowne to Night. Great is th'affected prize, I must confesse: Buctuch a Rivall makes the Value leffe. For me 'tis no ambition to obtaine. How cher great, what he could hope to gaine. Valo of this fluife now wins the praise; that he, When vanquithed, may boaft he ftrove with me. Inn were my valour question'd, I might on My buch infift; begot by Telavion, Who under Hercules Trey's bulwarkes fcal'd: And in Pagalean keele to Colchis fail'd. Histother, Alacus; the judge of Soules, Where S typhus his restlesse torment roules. High Lapiter vpon a mortall Loue Got A acus: I Alax third from Iouc. Not let this pedegree affift my clame, If g cat Achilles joyn'd not in the fame. He was ny brother, his I aske. Why thus Shouldst thou, thou sonne of damned Supplies, Alike in thef. and fraud, a stranger to Achille, race, the right of his perfue? Becaule I first assumed armes, descry'd Ey no detector, are these armes deny'd? Or rather for the last in field design'd; Who with fun'd lunacie the watte declar'd:

Till P. laned more politicke, and more Sche-farall, did his coward-guile explore, And drew him to avoided armes? Must he Now weare the best, who all eschew'd? and we Vnhonoul'd, of hereditary right Depriu'd, in that we first appear'd in fight? And would to lose he had beene truly mad; Or full to thous ht; nor this companion had. This tempter to foule actio is, euer feene The Physian towres. Then should's not thou have beene O Peans lonne, exposed by our crime To Lemilan rockes: where thou confum'st thy time In louely caues oblem'd with woods, the stones Prouok's to pitie with thy daily grones, And withest him, what he descrues, thy paine: If there are Gods thou withest not in vaine. Now our Confederate (a Prince of braue Command) to whom his thafts Alcides g ue; Broken with paine and famine, doth in, Joy Those arrowes, that import the fate of Troy, For food and clothing: yet he lines the while, In that removed from Vlyffes guile. And Palamed might with c'haue beene so left: Then had he liu'd, or perithe vnbereft Of his deare fame. This, hellithly inclin'd, Beares his conuicted madnetle in his mind; And falfely him accus'd to have betraid

Th' Achoian hoast; confirming what he said

Himselse had hid. Thus he by banishment

By shewing summes of gold, which in his tent

Or death, our strength impaires; for this preferr'd:

Till

Sofights, so is Vhiss to be feat'd,

Though

Though faithfull Neftor he in eloquence, Surpasse, his leaving Nester, no desence Of words can falue: who flow with tired Age And wounded Steeds, implored to his ingage Vlyffeshelpe; who left to oddes of foes His old acquaintance. This Tydides knowes For no forg'd crime; who vainly call'd, to stay His trembling friend, reviling his dismay. The Gods with i stice view our humane deeds. Who would not late affift, affiftance needs: And now to be for faken by the law Himfelfe preferib'd. He cry'd; I came, and faw The coward quaking, pale, about to yeeld His ghost for scare. Tinterpos'd my shield; Bestind him as he lay; and from that strife Redeem'd (my least of praise) his coward life. Eur if thou wilt contend, reloyne we there; Renoke the foe, thy wounds, and viuall feare; Behinde my target sculke: then plead. This man, Who read with wounds; freed, as vinwounded, ran. New Leitn came, and brought the Gods along; Rethe on all parts; not thou alone, the fitting And best refelued thrinke : so great a dread He drew on all. Him, as he triumph led To cogh blond and flaughter, with a rightic flone Ist a le to carth: Him I fuftain'd alone, When he to all to bold a challenge made; Wheats tany lotyou all denoutly pray'd, No. p. syd in vainc: If you inquire the fumme Or three is hight, I was not out tome. With rengetuli weapons, flimes, and lone, the men Or Tro, muade our nauie: where was then

Your cloquent Vlysses? I, euen I A thousand ships preseru'd; whereon rely The hope of your teturne. These armes for all Your Fleet afford. The meed more honour shall-Receive then give : our glories iuftly peafe; These armes doe Aiax sceke, not Aiax these. Rbefus surprise, with ours let him compare ; That poore Spie Dolon's, Hellenus despaire; The rapt Palladium: nothing done by day; He nothing worth, take Diemed away. If to fuch meane deserts these armes accrue; Divide them: to Tydides most is due. Why would be thefe? who still ynarmed goes, Conceal'd; and cunningly intraps his foes? This radiant Caske that thines with burnisht gold; Will his deceit, and lucking steps vnfold. His necke can scarce Achilles helmet beare; Nor can his feeble arme imploy this speare: His shield, whose orbe the figured world adornes; A cowards arme, inur'd to theeuing, scornes. O toole, that thus thy owne vndoing feekes! If given thee by th'error of the Greekes, It will not make thee dreadfull to thy foe; But be th'oceasion of thy ouerthrow, And flight, wherein thou only dost exceed, Clog'd with to huge a weight, will faile thy need. Resides, thy shield in battle rarely borne, Is yet entire: mine, all to hackt and torne With stormes of blower, a new successor needs. What boots so many words ? behold our deeds. These armes deliver to the foes desence: And let him weare, that wins the prize from thence,

Your

Here Ainx ends. The Souldier in the close A murmure rais'd; till Ith. cus arose: Who having fixed on the earth a space His eyes, vnto the Princes rais'd his face; And now expected, spake vntothis sense; With all the grace of winning eloquence. G. scians; if heaven, with yours, had heard my prayre; Sogs cat a fluife had found no doubtfull Heire: I thindfl kept thy armes, Achilles, and we thee. bat fince fleine Fate, auerse to you and mee, Socoueted an Excellence denies; . With that appeares to weepe, and wipes his eyes) Who great Achilles with more right succeeds, Than he who gaue you great Achilles deeds? Let not his folly purchale your affent; Nor let my wit, in that so preualent For you, my losse incurre: nor hate incense, That for my felfe I arme my eloquence; (!! I have any) oft for you imploy'd. I er cone the glory of his owne awid. In AnteRois, diume originall, And deeds by vs not done, we ours mis-call. Yet in that Aiax vants himselie to bee C. cat-grand hilde vnto Ioue; no leffe are wee. I coles was my Sue, drochushis; His, Istiter : in this deficit there is None damn'd nor barm t. By the venter I I our he me spring: in both a Deitie. Not that more noble by the mothers fide, Nor that my father had his hands undide Latte hers bloud, doe I inforce this claime: Weigh but our worths; and cenfure by the fame.

That Telamon and Peleus brethren were. In Aiax is no merit. Not the Neere In birth, but Great in act, deserue this grace. Or if proximity in bloud haue place, Peleus his father, Pyrbus is his fon: What right remaines for Aiax Telamon? To Philia then, or Serros carry thefe. Teucer is coozen to Æacides As well as he; yet firs not he herein: Or if he should, should he the honour win? Then fince our actions must cur sute aduance; Although my deeds furmount my vtterance, Their abstract yet in order to relate: Theis, fore-knowing great Achilles fate, Disguis'd her sonne: io like a Viegin drest, That all mistocke, and Aiax with the reft. When, Armes, with womens trifles, that might blinde Suspect, I brought to tempt a manly minde. Yet was the Heros Virgin-like araid; Who taking up the Speare and Shield, I faid: O Goddeste-borne, for thee the fate of Troy Her fall rescrues: why doubts thou to destroy Great Pergamus I then made him d'off thole weeds: And fent the mighty vnto mighty decds. His acts are therefore ours. We Telephus Foild with our lance; the suppliant cut'd by vs. Strong Thebes we fackt : fackt Lesbes vs renounes, Chry and Tenedos (Apollo's townes) With cilla; Sea-girt Syros, in their talls Our fame advance: we raz'd Lyrneffu's walls. To paffe the reft; I gaue, who could subdue The brane Priamidis: 1 Hedor flue.

That

For th'armes that found Achilles, these I craue: He dead, I aske but what, aliue, I gaue. The griefe of one, with all the Griekes prenailes: Euboian Aulis held a thousand failes. The long-expected winds opposed stand, Or fleepe in calmes. When cruell Fates command Afflicted Agamemnon to allwage With Ighigenia's death, Diana's rage. But he diffents; the Gods themselues reproues: And in a King a fathers passion mones. His noble difposition ne re the lesse I to the publike won; and must confesse (Atrides, pardon;) we did profecute Before a partiall Judge a hatefull fute. Yet him his brother, scepter, publike good Perswade to purchase endlesse praise with blood. Then went I to the mother for her child: Now not to be exhorted, but beguild. Had Aiax thither gone, our flagging failes Nor yet had swel'd with fill-expected gales. Then on a bold embassage I was lent To haughty Troy: to th'Ilian Court I went, Yet full of men : and feareleffe, vig'd at large The common cause committed to my charge. Falle Faris Laccufe: rapt Helena I re-dimand, with all they bore away. Old Plan and Antenor inft appeare. I at Park, with his brethren, and who were Histollowers in that flealth, from wicked blowes Coule fearee retraine. This Menelaus knowes. the fast or dangers wherein you and I Sogether royald. But what my policic

And force perform'd, behoouefull to this State, In that long warre, too long is to relate. The first great battle fought, our weary foes Long liue immui'd: nor durst their powers expose. Nine yeeres expir'd, warres all the fields affight. Meane-while what didft thou, only fit to fight? What vie of thee? inquire my actions; I The foe intrap, our trenches fortifie, Incouraging the weary Souldier To brooke the tediousnesse of lingring warre With faire expectance: teach them wayes to feed, And arts to fight. Imploy'd at cuery need. The King del ded in his fleepe by loue, Bids vs the care of future warre remove. The author was his strong apologie. Aiax should have with-stood : the facke of Trey He should have vig'd; and, what hee could, have fought. Why was the nobler fiege by him vnfought? Why arm'd he not? a speech he might have made, That would the wavering multitude have staid: To h m not difficult, who lookes fo high, And speakes so big. What, if himselfe did flie? 1 1aw, and sham'd to see thee turne thy backe To horsethy failes vnto thy honours wracke. What doe you? ô what madnesse, mates, said I, Prouokes you to abandon yeelding Troy? Ten yeeres nigh spent, what will you beare away But infamic? I this, and more did fay; Wherein my forrow made me eloquent: And from the flying Fleet turn'd their confenta-The King a Councell calls; distinuts afford No found aduice: durft Aux speake a word? When'

The Thirteenth Bookes.

When base Thersites durst the King provoke With bitter words: who felt my scepters stroke. Their doubts with hope of conquest linspire: And let their fainting courages on fire. Since when, what he hath nobly done, by right To me belongs, that thus round this flight. Befides, what one of all the wifer Greekes Commends thee; or thy connectation feekes? Tid dervs approues, builds on our will; Is confident in his Vhffes ftill. Autong a million tipa grace for me To be his confort; and the choise so free. The danger of the foe, and night despis'd; ID by, then a counter-scout, surpris'd: Nor flue him, till I forc't his bosome to; Informed what perfidious Tray would doe. Allknowne, and nothing left to be inquir'd; I now with praise enough might have retir d. Yet net so satisfide, I forward went; And R. E/No flue, with his, in his owne Tent. When like a Victor, on his Chariot I Return'd in triumph. Can you then denie debilles armes, whose horses were aflign'd Fer one nights hazard? Aiax is more kind. What should I of Sas pedens forces tell, O're-threwne by vs? by vs Caranes fell, Ipi maes, Alaftor, chromius, Al ander, Prytanis, Nee nonus, Halius, front Theou, bold Pheridamas, With charepe: Eunemon's fatall Paffe Sien d by my lance; and many more in view Of heft le I 19, of meaner ranke, I fluc.

And I, ô Country-men, haue honour'd wounds, Faire in their scarres: nor trust to empty sounds: Behold (faid he, with that his bosone bares) This breft, ftill exercis'd in your affaires. No drop of bloud in all thefe lengthfull warres For Greece hath Aiax shed: shew he his scarres. What boots it, though his deeds his brags approue: That for our fleet he fought with Troy and loue? I grant he did to: nor will we detract With hated enuy from a noble act. So he ingrosse not to himselfe alone A common praise, but render vs our owne. Actorides (for great Achilles held) Tro,'s flames and Fautor from our ships repeld. He thinkes, he onely able, could alone Incounter Hellors opposition: The King, his brother, and my selfe forgot Of nine the last, and but prefer'd by lot. But what euent, ô great in valour, crown'd ? Your doughty combat? Heller had no wound. Woe's me! with what a tide of griefe I call That time to mind; wherein the Gracian Wall, Achilles fell ! teares, feares, nor forrow flaid My forward zcale; his raised corps I laid Vpon these shoulders : these, even these did beare Him and his armes; which now I hope to weare. Our strength sufficient is for such a weight: Our knowledge can your bounty explicate. Was Theta fo ambitious for her Son; That such a brainlesse Souldier should put on , This heavenly gift, of so divine a frame? Whole figured flueld his ignorance would fliame.

Wherein, the Ocean; Earth with cities crown'd, Skies with their Rarres; cold Artlos neuer drown'd, Sword-gut Orion, fad Plesades; The rainie Kids. He seekes, yet knowes not, these. Vpbraids he me, that I this warre did flun, And time deferd till others had begun ? Nor can confider how he wounds in me Achilles honour. If a crime it be To counterfeit; we ioyne in that defame: If, in that tardy; I before him came. Me, my kind wife; his mother him with-drew: Our flow, ero them we gaue; the fruit to you. Not feate I, flould I quit my owne defence, To futter with fo cleere an Excellence. Not Alay wit reneal'd VIffes; yet Reneal'd Achilles was I'lyffes wit. Left I should wonder, why h stool sh tongue Should flander me, he you vpbraids with wrong-Was guiltlesie Palamed accus'd by me To my detame ? nor must his sentence be To you reprochfull? neither Nauplius Seed Could inflific fo condent a deed: Not didyour cares informe your faculties: The hire of treaten laid before your eies. Peantius in Leumos left, was none Of my offence; doe you defend your owne: You to his flay conjented. Yet, how ere, I must confesse I aduiz'd him to forbeare The trauels of long warre; and to appeale The anguith of his bitter wound with eafe. He did The lines. Th'aduice was good: successe As fortunate approves it for no lelle.

Since Fate designes him for the fall of Trey: Spare me, and Aiax industry imploy. His tongue the mad with wrath and anguish will Appeale: hee'l fetch him with some reach of skill. First Simon shall retire, Ide want a shade, Achaia promise to the Troians aide; L'iemy endeuours in your service faile, And fortish Aiax, with his wit, preuaile. And, Phile Betes, though obdure thou be, Incenst against the King, these Lords, and me; Though curses lighten from thy lips, though flill Thou couet my accesse, my bloud to spill; Yet Pleattempt thee: and will bring thee backe; That neither may his cager wishes lacke. Thy thafts I must possetie (so Fanour Fate) As I possess the Dardan Prophet late; As I voknit the Trojan destinie, And doubtfull answer of the Gods; as I. Amid a world of focs, the fatall Signe Of Phrygian Pallas rauisht from her shrine. Compare with me will Aiax? this vntane, Tray's hopt-for expugnation had beene vaine. Where was strong diax? where the glorious boost Of that great Souldier ? why in terror loft ? How durft Vlyffes trust himselfe tonight, Passe through the watch, their threatning weapons slight? The walls not onely, but the highest towie Of Ilium scale; and from her Fane the Powre That beares their fate inforce: and with this prey, Repalle the dangers of that horrid way? Which had not I atchieued, Yet in Field Had diax vainly borne his seuen-fold Shield.

Sinc*

That

That night Troy fell before Laertes fon: Won, when I made it that it might be won. Forbeare to mutter; nor with nodding gaze On Diomed: he thates in equall praise. Nor for our Nauy didst thou fight alone: Thouby an hoft affifted, I by one. He knew that wildome valour should command: That this belong'd not to a firenuous hand: Elfe he him selfe had joyn'd in our debate; Orthother Acce, far more moderate; Brane I bose, fierce Euryphis; with thefe Idomenius and Meri, nev Of Creet; or Mendow. For they are Fs fliong, not second vnto thee in warre: Yet yeeld to our aduce. Thou, fit for fight, Doft need my reason to direct thy might. Thy valous wants fore-cast, n.y studious care Respects the suture: thou canst fight thy share: The time and place must be by vs assign'd: Thou only fliong in body; I in mind. As skilfull Pilots those surpasse, who row: As wife Commanders, common fouldiers; fo Ithee excell. Our vertue is lesse great In brawne than brame: this vigoroufly compleat, Then o remunerate my vigilance: And, Erinces, for so many yeeres expence In anxious cares, this dignity extend To a y deserts. Our worke is at an end: With-standing fates remou'd: I, in that I Haue made it fefable, have taken Troy. Now by our mutuall hopes, Troy's ouerthrow, Those Gods which late I rausht from the fee;

The Thirteenth Booke. It ought remaine to be discreetly done,

That courage craues, through danger to be won; If in the Ilian destiny there be

A knot yet to vakit; remember me. Orif you can forget; these Armes resigne

To this: and shewes Minerua's fatall Signe.

The Chiefes were mou'd. Here words approu'd theit The Eloquent the Valiant now difarmes. (charmes: He who alone, loue, Heller, sword and fire

So oft sustain'd; yeelds to one brunt of ire. Th'vnconquered, sorrow conquers. Then his blade

In haste unsheaths: Sure thou art mine, he said; Or feckes VIsses this? this shall conclude

All sense of wrong. And thee, so oft imbrude In Phrygian bloud, thy Lord's must now imbrue:

That none but Aiax, Aiax may subduc.

This faid; his breft, till then with wounds vngor'd, The deadly sword, where it could enter, bor'd.

Nor could his strength the fixed steele reuell;

Expeld by gushing gore. The bloud that fell, A purple flowre ingendred on the ground:

Created first by Hyacinthus wound.

The tender leanes indifferent letters paint; Both of His name, and of the Gods complaint.

The Conqueror, now hoifing failes, doth fland For chaste Hypsiphile's, and Thous land; (Defam'd by womens vengefull violence)

To fetch the shafts of Hercules from thence.

These, with their owner, to the campe conuaid, On that long warre a finall hand they laid.

Now Tray and Priamus together fall.

Th'vnhappy wife of Priam after all,

Her

Her humane figure lost: who'e rauing Sprite And vncouth howlings forraine fields affright. The flames of Ilium flietch their hungry fire To nariew Hellefont; nor there expire. That little bloud which Priams age could shed, Jours aftar drinkes. By her anointed head Apollos Priest they drag, her hands in vaine To heaven vpheld. The Victor Greekes constraine The Dardan Dames; a deadly-hating prey: Who imbrace their country Gods; and while they may, Behold their burning Fanes. Dire violence Allyana vithrew from that towre; from whence He had scene his father, by his mother showne, Fight for his Kingdomes safety, and his owne. North-winds to seas inuite, and prosperous gales Sing in their shrouds: they haste to trim their failes. The Trojan Ladiesery, Deare soile farewell! We are hal'd to loth'd captivitie! then fell On killed earth: and leave with much delay, Their countries smoking ruines. Hecaba Her sad departure to the last deferres: Nowfound among her childrens sepulchers, (A fight of ruth!) ipread on their tombes: there wailes; Their cold bones kissing: whom Vhyses hales From that sad comfort. Some of Hectors dust, Vp finatcht, deliners to her bosomes trust, Vpon his combe the left her horie haires (A poor e oblation!) mingled with her teares. Oppes'd to Ilium's ruines lyes a land,

Oppes'd to Iliam's ruines lyes a land, Till d'y the Biflones; in the Command Of Polymn, flor. Danger to prouent, To him his tacher Polydorus fent. Ind wifely; had he not withall confign'd maile of gold, to tempt his greedy mind. His foster-child, when lingring Ilium drew To her last date, the Thracian Tyrant slew. Whom, as if he his murder with the slaine Could cast away, he casts into the maine. Now rod Atrides at the Thracian shore; I'll winds forbore to storme, and seas to rore. When from the yawning earth Achilles rose; Like mightic as in life: whose lookes discole as sterne a wrath, as when his lawlesse blade. Was on Atrides drawne; and frowning, said:

Vas on Atrides drawne; and frowning, sales
You Greekes, of me vimindfull; can you thus
From hence depart? shall our deferts with vs
Lodge in oblinion? Proue not so ingrate.
With slaine Polixena regratulate
Our Sepulcher: tis she I couet most:
A sacrifice, that will appease our Ghost.

Then vanisht. They th'vngentle Sprite obaid;
And from her Mothers bosome drew the Maid,
(High-fould, vnhappy, more then feminine,)
(To his resembled tombe; with life to signe Insernal) Dues. Of her high birth she thought:
And now vnto the bloudy altar brought;
Seeing the sacrifice for her prepar'd,
And that Neoptolemus vpon her star'd
With sword advanc't; she said, vntoucht with dred:

Our generous bloud to your intentions thed:
Dispatch; I am ready; in my throat or brest
Your weapon sheath. (With that, with-drew her yest.
Palyxens doth servitude despise:
And yet no God assects such sacrifice.

And

I onely with my death might be vnknowne To my afflicted nother. She alone Disturbs the loves of death; though Priams wife My death thould leffe bewaile, then her owne life. Nor let the touch of man pollute a maid: That my free foule may to the Stigian thade Vntainted passe. If this be just, remoue Your hand: I thall more acceptable proue Vnto that God or Ghoft, what ere he bee To whom I am offer'd, if my bloud be free. And if a dying tongue prevaile at all; I, late great Priams daughter, now a thrall, Sollicit that my corps may not be fold; But given my mother; nor exchange for gold Sad rites of lepulture. In former yeares Sh'had gold to giue, now poore, accept her teares.

This having faid; for her that would not weepe, The people wept: the Priest could hardly keepe His eyes from teares; yet did what he abhord; And in her proffered bosome thrust his sword. On doubling knees the finkes, with filent breath; And cheerefully incounters smild-on Death. Then when the fell, the had a care to hide What should be hid; and chastly-decent dide. Her corpes was carried by the Troiandames: Who in a funerall long repeat the names Of Prims mourn'd-for Seed; what streames of gore One House had spont. Thee, Virgin, they deplore: And thee, O royall Wife, intitled late The mother Queene, and glory of that State: A Captine now, cast by a scorned lox On victor tibachas; tefus'd, if not

For bearing Hellor. Hellor, fo renoun'd, A mafter hardly for his mother found. bhe hug's the corps that fuch a spirit kept. Who for her country, children, husband, wept bo oft; now weepes for hert her lips comprest, Her wounds his with her teares. Then beats her breft: der hoarie haire besmear'd with clotted gore. And bosome torne, this spake she; and much more. Poore daughter, our last forrow: (what is left For Fortunes (pight!) by bloudy death bereft. On thee I fee my wounds. That none of mine May woundleffe die, these wounds thy bosonie signe. n that a woman, thee I held secur'd: fut thou, a woman, fuffer'st by the sword. his Banc of Troy, our Deprination, who bomany of thy princely brothers flue; hith flaine thee also. When his life was laid y Paris and Apollo's shafts, I faid, Now is Achilles to be fear'd no more. Now dead, to vs as dreadfull as before. igainst my race his ashes raues: his tombe Prefents a foc. O my vnhappy wombe! 'his fury fruitfull! Ruin'd Troy descends; nd fad fuccesse the publike for ow ends: et they are ended. Ilium alone o vs remaines: our forrowes frefilly grone: cift to potent and so fortunate husbands, fons, and height of humane State; o exile now am hal'd: despis'd, and torne on my owne sepulchers: from Phrygiaborne o scrue Penelope; that while I sew figurather commandement, the may thew

Her

Her flaue to Ithacenfian dames, and fay, Loc Heltors mother, Priam's Hecuba. My forrowes fole reliefe, so many loft, Is offered to appeale an hostile Ghost. Infernall facrifices to the dead, Euen to my foe, my curfed wombe hath bred. Hard heart, why break'st thou not? what hopes ingage Thy expectation? Mischieuous Old-age, For what referu'st thou me? You cruell Powres, Why lengthen you a poore old womans howres To see new funerals? O Priam, I May call thee happy, after ruin'd Trev. Happy in death. Thouseest not this sadfate: Thou loft thy life together with thy flate. Rich funerals attend thee, royall Maid: And by thy Ancestors thou shalt be laid. O no! thy mothers teares, a heape of fand, Must now content thee in a forreine land. All, all is lost! Yet liues a little Boy My last, and youngest toy, when I could ioy; For whom I condescend to live a space 5 Here foster'd by the courteous King of Thrace. Meane while why stay we with the cleansing floud Towash these wounds, and lookes besmear'd with bloud! Then with an aged pace, her horie haires All tone and leattred, to the Sea repaires.

Then with an aged pace, her horse haires
All tome and leatured, to the Sea repaires.
And while the wretched faid; You Troades,
A pitcher being to draw the brinish Seas:
She taw the elected corps of Polydore
Stucke fall of wounds upon the beachie shore.
The Ladies sheeke; the dumbe with forrow stood:
Internall stiefe her voice, her teares, her blood,

At once deuout'd. And now, as if intranc't tares on the earth; fometimes to Heauen aduane's Her scouling browes: oft on his visage gaz'd: But oftner on his wounds. By anger rais'd. Arm'd, and instructed; all on vengeance bent. buil Queene-like, destinates his punishment, And as a Lyonelle, rob'd of her young, Perfues the vnfeene-hunters fleps: lo flung With fury, when her forrow with her rage. Hidioyn'd their powers; vnmindfull of herage. But not of former greatnesse, ran with speed To Polyinnestor, author of this deed. And crauing conference, the Tyrant told How the would thew him fummes of hidden gold To give her Polydor. This held for true; He thusty of his prey, with her with-drew. And flattering her thus craftily begun: Delay not, H'ccuba, t'inrich thy fon: By all the Gods we justly will restore What thou shalt give, and what thou gau'st before. She with a truculent aspect beheld The fallely swearing King: with anger swel'd. Then calls the captine dames, vpon him flyes; Who hides her fingers in his periar'd eyes. Extracts his eye-balls: more then viual trong With thirsty vengeance and the sense of wrong, Her hand drownes in his skull; the roots vp-tore Othis lost sight, imbrude with guilty gore. The men of Thrace incenfed for their King. Weapons and stones at Hecuba now fling. She, gnarling, bites the followed flints: her chaps, or speech extended, barke. Of whose mis-hape

That

That place is nam'd. She, mindfull of her old Mil-fortunes, in Sithmian deferts howld.
Kinde Trolans, Greeium foces, both love and hate; Yea, all the Gods commiferate her fate.
So all, as Iuno did to this defeend;
That Hecuba deferred not fuch an end.

Aurona had no leafure to lament
(Although those armes the fauour'd) the event
Of Troy or Heenka. Domesticall
And necret griese, afflicts her for the fall
Of Mennon; who Actives lance imbru'd
In Playgian fields. This as the Goddeste view'd,
The rose die, that deckt the Mornes vp-rise
Grew forth with pale, and clouds immur'd the skies.
Nor could indure to see his body laid
On sunerali flames: but with her haire displaid,
As in that season, to high love repaires;
And kneeling, thus with teares, vnfolds her cares.

To all inferior, whom the skie sustaines
(For mortals rarely honour me with Fanes)
A Goddesse yet, I come: not to desire
Shrines, Festivals, nor Altars fraught with fire;
Yetshould you weigh what I, a woman doe,
That Night confine, and sacred Day renue,
I ment such futch fute not now our state;
Nor such desires infect the desolate.
Of Meman roled, who glorious armes in vaine
Eare to this yield, by Avalles staine
In slowie of youth (to would you Gods) come I.
O cinete of Powers, a mothers forrow, by
Some honour given him, lessen: death with same
Reconnect Suggestions. When greedy staine

Deuour'd the funerall Pile; and curling fumes Day ouer-cast: as when bright Sol assumes From streames thicke vapours, nor is seene below. The flying, dying sparkles ioyatly grow Into one body. Colour, forme, life, fpring To it from fire, which leuity doth wing. First like a Fowle, forth-with a Fowle indeed: Innumerable fifters of that breed Together whiske their feathers. Thrice they round The tunerall Pile; thrice raife a mournfull found. In two battalions then divide their flight: And like two strenuous nations fiercely fight: Their opposites with beake and tallons rend: Cuffe with their wings; in facrifice descend. Now dying on the aines of the dead: Remembring they were of the Valiant bred. These new-sprung Fowle, men of their author call Memnonides. No sooner Sol through all The Signes returnes; but they reloyne againe In civill warre, and dye vpon the flaine. While others therefore doe commilerate l'one barking Hecuba in her chang'd fate: Aurora her owne griefe intends; renewes Her pious reares, which fall on earth in dewes.

Yetfates relift, that all the hopes of Troy
Should perify with her towres. The Son and Ioy
Of cytheres, with his houshold Gods,
And aged Sire, his pious shoulders lodes.
Of so great wealth he onely chose that prize,
And his Ascanius: from Ansand as flies
By seas, and shuns the wicked Thrasian shore,
Octif d with bloud of murdored Polyder:

R

With

With prosperous winds arriving with his traine A: Phabus towne, where Anius then did raigne. sipollo's holy Prieft; who, with the reft, into the Temple leads his honour'd Guest: The City, with the facted places, showes; And trees held by Latona in her throwes. Incenie on flames, and wine on incense powr'd: Entrailes of flaughtered becues by fire devour'd; His Guests conducts to Court: on carpet spred. With Ceres and Lyens bounty fed-When thus Anch fes: ô to Phabus deare! Lam deceiu'd; or, when I first was here, Foure daughters and a fon thy folace crown'd. He shooke his head, with sacred fillets bound; And fighing faid: ô moft renoun'd of men, I was the father of flue children then: Whom now (fuch is the change of things!) you fee Halie childleffe; for my absent sonne to mee It of small comfort; who, my Vice-roy, raignes It ica-girt Andros, which his name retaines. Him, Delins with prophetick skill infpir'd. A oft past credit, still to be admir'd, My daughters Bacchargane; aboue their fute That all they toucht thould presently transmute To wine, to coinc, and to Minerua's oile. Rich in the vie. To purchate fuch a spoile, Great Try's Depopulator, Aireus Heire, (Left you thould thinke we have not borne a thare In your mif haps) with armed violence Interest them from me: charged to dispence That hexically gift vato th' Argolian Hoft. They scape by flight : two to Enbaacrost;

Two fled to Andros: these the Souldier
Persude, and threaten (if vnrender'd) warre.
Feare nature now subdude: his sisters were
By him resign'd; forgiue a brothers seare.
Not Hessor nor Aneas then were by
To guard his towne, who so long guarded Troy.
About to binde their captiue armes in bands;
Rearing to heaven their yet vnchained hands,
O father Bacchus helpe! While thus they prai'd,
The Author of that gift presents his aid.
(If such a losse may be accounted so)
Yet how they lost their shapes I could not know;
Nor yet can tell. It selfe the sequel proves;
Converted to thy Wives white-seather'd Doves.
With such discourse they entertaine the seass:

That to'ne away, dispose themselues to rest.
With day they rose; the Oracle exquire:
Who bids them to their ancient Nurse retire,
And kinred thores. With them the King convents,
And their departure with rich gifts presents.
A stepter to Anchises gives: a brave
Rich cloke, a quiver t'Ascanius gove:
A si un'd gobler on Aineau prest;
By Thiban Theoses fent him, once his Guest.
Mistan Alconmade what Theoses sent;

And carn'd thereon this ample argument.

A City with feuen gates of equall grace;
These painly character the name and place.
Before it, exequies, tombs, piles, bright fires.
Dames with spred haire, bare brests, and torne attres,
Decipher mourning: Nymphs appeare to weepe
For their dry Springs: sap-searing cankers creepe

Two

On

On maked trees: Goats licke the foodlesse earth.
In midst of Theors, Orion's semale buth
Vind inted stand: This proffers to the sword
Her manly brest; her hands her death: stord,
For common safety. All the people mourne;
And with due sunerals their bodies burne.
Y tless the world should such a linage lose,
Two youths out of their virgin ashes rose.
There O. phans wanding Fame Corone calls:
Who celebrate their mothers sunerals.
The anticke brasse with sulgent sigures shin'd:
Whose brim near wreaths of guilt Acanthus bind.

Nor were the Troian gifts of leffe expence:
Who gave a Cenfor for tweet frankincente,
An ample Chalice of a curious mold;
With these a crowne, that shone with gemmes and gold.
In that the Turious spring from Tencers Hod,
They saile to Creet: but Ione their stay with stood.
I causing those hundred Cities, now they stand

Tor wisht Ausonia's destinated strand.
Tost by rough Winter and the wrath of seas,
They anchor at the faithluste Stropbides.
Thence frighted by Selle; faile away
By steepe Dulichium, stony Ithaca,
Samus, high Nevitus classed by the Maine;

All fullect to the flye Vlyffes raigne.
Then it Ambracia touch, the strite and grudge
Ot angr. Gods; the image of the ludge

Behold, by them converted into flone: Now to Afiacan Apollo knowne.

Then the podoncan vocall Oke they view; Chaonia, while phologius children flew

With aidfull feathers from the impious flame; Next to Pheasia, rich in hort-yards, came; Then to Epirus: at Buthratos staid,

Whose scepter now the Phrygian Prophet swaid; And see resembled Troy. Fore-told of all By Priam's Helenus, that would befall, They reach Sicania. This three tongues extends

Into circumfluent Seas. Pachymus bends
To showi ie Auster; flowrie Z p'yr blowes

On Lilybeums browes; Pelvrus thowes His Cliffes to Boreas, and the Sea expel'd Aidurus. Vinder this their course they held

With stretching ores; and fauous'd by the tide, That night in Zincle's crooked harbour ride. The right-side dangerous Siylla, turbulent Charphdis keepes the left; on ruine bent.

She belches (wallowed thips from her profound:

Her fable wombe, dogs enerran ning, round;

rer lable wombe, dogs enerratining, round Yet beares a Virgins face: if all be true That Poets ling, the was a Virgin too.

By many fought, as many the despised:
To Nymphs of seas, of sea-nymphs highly prized,
She beares her vizets; and to them discouers

The history of her deluded lovers.
To whom thus Galatea, fighing, faid;
While Siglacomb'd her haire. Yon, lovely Maid,
Are lou'd of generous-minded men, whom you

With fafety may refule, as now you doe.
But I, great Nereus and blue Doru Seed,

Great in so many sisters of that breed;
By shunning of the Cyclops love provok's
And revenge. Here teares her viterance chok's.

R 3

Thele

Their cleanfed by the marble-finger'd maid; Who, having comforted the Goddesse, said: Relate, o most ador'd, nor from me keepe. The virtched cause that makes a Goddesse weepe; For I am faithfull. Nereis consents, And thus her griefe to cratic daughter vents.

The Nymph Sivethis bore a louely Boy To Faunus, Acis col'd; to them a joy; To vs a preater. For the sweetly-Faire To me an innoccot after ion bare. this blooming youth twice told eight Natals crowne. And figne his checkes with scarce appearing downer As I the gentle boy, so Polypheme My oue perfu'd; vnlike, alike extreme. Whether my love to Ach, or my have To him were more, I hardly can relate. Both infinite! O Vinus, what a powre Hath thy command! He still austere and sowre, A terror to the woods, from whom no guest With life eleapes, accustomed to feast On humane fleth; who all the Gods above, With them Ohmpus scorn'd; now stoops to love. Forgetfull of his flocks and coues, a fire Feeds in his brest, converts into desire. Hisferture now intends, now bends his care To plafe: with rakes he combes his stubborne haire i His brilles barbes with seithes: and by the brook's Vnfolidmirror calmes his dreadfull lookes: His thirt of bloud, and loue of flaughter cease; Leffe cruffnow: fhips come and goe in peace. When Telepus came from Sicilian Seas, Augurious demas Eurymides,

And faid to Polypheme, thy browes large fight Shall by I herebe deprined of light. O foole, he laughing faid, thou tell ft a lye; A remale hath already stolne that eye; Thus flouts the Prophets true prediction: And with extended paces stalks vpon The buildned shore; or weary, from the waue-Bet beach retireth to his gloomy caue, A promontory thrusts into the maine; Whose cliffie sides the breaking Seas restraine: The Cyclop this ascends: whose Heecy flocke Vnforced follow. Scated on a rocke; His staffe, a well-growne Pine, before him cast, Sufficient for a yard-supporting mast; He blowes his hundred reeds: whose squeaking fils The far-resounding Seas, and ecchoing hils. Hid in a hollow rocke, and laid along By Acis fide, I heard him fing this fong.

O Galatea, more than lilly-white,
More fresh than flowrie meads, than glasse more bright,
Higher than Alder-trees, than kids more blithe,
Smoother than shels whereon the surges drive,
More wisht than winters Sun, or Summers aite,
More sweet than grapes, than apples far more rare,
Cleerer than Ice, more seemly than tall Planes,
Softer than tender curds, or downe of Swans,
More saite, if fixt, than Gardens by the fall
Of springs inchac't. Though thus, thou art withall
More serce than saluage bulls, who know no yoke,
Then waves more giddy, harder than the oke,
Than vines or willow twigs more easily bent,
More suffer than rocks, than streames more violent,

And

Prouder than Peacocks prais'd, more rath than fire, Than Beares more cruell, that per than the brier, Deafer than Seas, more tell than tood-on Snake; And, if I could, what I would from thee take, More speedy than the Hound-perfued Hind, Or chafed clouds, or than the flying wind. If knowne to thee, thou wouldft thy flight repent; Curfe thy delay, and labour my content. For I have Caues within the lining flone; To Summers heat, and Winters cold vnknowne: Tices charged with Apples, spreading Vines that hold A purple grape, and grapes refembling gold. For thee I these preserue, affected Maid. Thou Straw-berries shalt gather in the shade, Autumnal cornels, plummes with azure rin'd, And wax-like yellow, of a generous kind; Nor thalt thou Chef-nuts want, if mine thou bee, Nor scalded wildings: seru'd by every tice. These flocks are ours: in vallies many stray, 🔻 oodsmany fhade, at home as many flay. N . can I, should you aske, their number tell: Who number theirs, are poore. How these excell, Pelecue not me, but credit your owne eyes: See how their Vdders part their stradling thighes. I in my sheep-coats have new-weaned lambs; And hisking kids late taken from their dams. New mike, fieth curds and creame, with cheefe well preft, Are never wanting for thy pallats feast. Nor will we gitte for thy delight prepare Of calieparchale, or what are not rare: Decre, ted and tallow, Roes, light-footed hares, Nests ica'd from chifes, and doues produc't by paires.

A rugged Beares rough twins I found vpon The mountaines late, scarce from each other knowne. For thee to play with: finding thefe, I faid, My Mistris you shall serue. Come louely Maid. Cone Galatea, from the furges rife, Bright as the Morning; nor our gifts despile. I know my felfe; my image in the brooke Hately saw, and therein pleasure tooke. Behold how great! not Impiter about (For much you talke I know not of what Ione) Islanged fiz'd : curles on my browes displai'd, Affight; and like a groue my shoulders shade. Not let it your esteeme of me impaire, That all my body brifles with thicke haire. Trees without leaues, and horfes without manes. Are fights vnfcemely: graffe adornes the planes. Wooll theepe, and feathers fowle. A manly face A beard becomes: the skin rough briftles grace. Amid my fore-head shines one onely light; Round, like a mighty Shield, and cleere of fight. The Sun all obiects fees beneath the skie: And yet behold, the Sun hath but one eye. Besides your Seas obey my fathers theone: I give you him for yours. Doe you alone Vouchfase me pity, and your suppliant heare: To you I onely how; you onely feare. Heauen, Impiter, his lightnier, I despise: More dread the lightning of hy angry eyes. And yet your scorne my patience lette would mone, Were all contemn'd. Why thould you Acid loue, And flight the Cyclop? why to him more free? Although himselfe he please; and pleaseth thee, Which

The shore a meddow bounds; whereof one side Is fring'd with weeds, the other with the tide. On this nor horned cattle cuer fed, Nor harmlesse sheep, nor gotes on mountaines bred. No bees from hence their thighes with honey lade; Those flowers no geniall garlands ever made: That graffe ne're cut with fithes. Of mortals I First thither came; my nets hung up to dry. While I exposed the fishes which I tooke; By their credulity hung on my hooke, Or masht in nets; (what would a lye behoue? Yet such it seemes) my prey began to moue, Display their finnes, and swim as on the flood. While I negle at their stay, and wondering stood; They all by flight avoiding my command, Together left their owner and the land. Amaz'd, and doubting long; the cause I sought, If either God, or Herbe, this wonder wrought. What herbe, faid I, hath such a powre? in haste An herbe I pul'd, and gaue it to my taste. No sooner swallowed, but my entrailes shooke: When forth with I another nature tooke. Nor could refraine; but said, O Earth, my last Farewell receiue! in seas my selfe l cast. The Sea-gods now vouchfafing my receit Into their facied fellowship, intreat Both Tethyr and Oceanus, that they Would take, what cur, mortall was, away. Whom now they hallow, and with charmes nine times Repeated, purge me from my humane crimes: And bade me couch beneath a hundred streames. Forth-with the rivers ruthe from fundry Realmes;

And sea-rais'd surges roule aboue my crowne. As soone as streames retire, and seas were downe, Another body, and another mind; Valike the former, they to me assign'd. Thus much of Wonder I remember well: Thence-forth insensible of what befell Then first of all this sea-greene beard I saw. These dangling lockes, which through the deepe I draw; Broad shoulder-blades, blew armes of greater might; And thighes which in a fillies taile vnite. What boots this forme? my grace with Gods of seas? Or that a God? If thou affect not these? While this he spake, and would have vttered more, Coy Scyllaflies. He with impatience bore His loues repulle: whom strong defires transport To great Titanian Circes horrid Court.

OVID'S

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS.

The Fourteenth Booke.

THE ARGUMENT.

T Nebanted Scylla, hemb'd wish horrid [hapes; Becomes a Rocke, Cercopeans sarn'd to Apes. Sibvila meares s'a Voice. Vlyffes won Transform'd to Swine, are re-transform'd agen. Picus a Bird: bis Followers. Beafts. Defaire Refelues fad-finging Canens into Aire. The Mates of Diomed wereconcild Idalia turnes to Fombe. An Oline wild Rude Apulus deciphers. Turnus barnes Aneas fbips : thefe Berecynthia turnes To Scanymphs; who Alcindus Ship wish ion Behold a Rocke. The Troian flames deftroy Befreged Ardea; from whofe after frings A meager Herne, that beares them on her wing & Æneas, Deifi'd. Veremmus eries All fhapes. Rhamnufia ; for ber erweleier. Congeales proud Anaxatete to Stone. Cold Fountaines bule with heat. T' a beautily shree Mars Romulus affinnes. Herfilia Likegrase receines : who loyer in equal flory.

Now Glauciu, thron'd in tumid floods, had past High Ains, on the jawes of Typhen cast;

Cyclopian fields, where never oxen drew

The furrowing plough, nor ever tillage knew;
Crookt Zansle; Rhegium on the other side;
The wrackfull Straights, whose double bounds divide Sicilia from Austria: forward drives
Through spatious Tyrrben Seas; at length arrives
At hearbie Hills, Pleabean Circes seat,
With sundry formes of monstrous beasts repleat.
When, mutually saluting, Glaucus said:

A God, ô Goddesse, pitie: on your aid
Alone relies (if my desert might moue
So deare a grace) th'astwagement of my Loue.
For none than I, Titania, better knowes
The powre of hearbs, that am transform'd by those.
T'informe you better, in Italia
Against Missenia, on a sandie Bay,
I Scyllasiaw: it shames me to recite
My slighted court ship, answered by her slight.
Doe thou, if charmes availe, in charmes vntie
Thy sacred tongue: or soueraigne Hearbs apply,
If of more powre. Yet I assection cure,
Nor end of Loue: like heat let her indure.

But Circe (none to such desires more prone,
Or that the cause is in her selfe alone;
Or stung by Vinus ingry influence,
In that her Father publish ther offence)
Reply'd: The willing with more ease persue;
Who wish the same; whom equal slames subdue.
For thou o well deserves to be persude:
Give hope, and, creditine, thou shalt be woo'd.
Rest therefore of thy beautie confident:
Loe, 1, a Goddesse, radiant Sels descent,

In heaths so potent, and no lesse in charmes;
Proster my selfe, and pleasures to thy armes.
Scorne her that scornes thee; her, that seckes, persue:

And in one deed revenge thy felfe of two. Glaucus reply'd to her who fought him fo: First shady groues shall on the billowes grow, And Sea-weeds to the mountaine tops remoue; Ere I (and Seylla living) change my love. The Goddeffe frets: who fince the neither could Destroya Deitie, nor, louing, would; On her, preferi'd before her, bends her ire: And high-incenfed with repulf defire, Forth-with infectious drugs of dire effects Together grindes; and Hecat's charmes inicels: A fullen robe indues, the Court for fakes Through throngs of fawning beafts: her iourney takes To Rhegium opposite to Zanele's shore; And treads the troubled waves that lowdly rore. Running with vnwet feet on that Profound; As if th'had trod vpon the folid ground. A little Bay, by Siylla haunted, lies Bent like a bow; sconst from the Seas and skies Diftemper, when the high-pitcht Sunne inuades The World with hottest beames, and shortens shades. This with portenteous poisons she pollutes; Besprinkled with the juyce of wicked roots: In words darke and ambiguous, nine-times thrice Inchantments mutters with her magicke voice. Now Scylla came; and, wading to the waste, cheld her hips with barking dogs imbrac't. Starts backe: at first not thinking that they were 'art of her selfe; but rates them, and doth feare

Their

There

Their threatning iawes: but those, from whom the flies, She with her hales. Then looking for her thighes, Her legs, and feet; in flead of them the found The mouthes of Cerberus; inuiron'd round With rau'ning Curres: the backes of faluage beafts Support her groine; whereon her belly rests.

Kinde Giancus wept; and Circes bed refus'd: Who had so cruelly her Art abus'd. But Scylla still remaining, Circe hates; Who for that cause destroy'd Vlyses mates. And had the Troian name drown'd of late, If not before transform'd by powerfull Fate Into a Rocke: the stony Prodigie Yet eminent, from which the Sea-men slie.

This, and Charpbdis past with Aretching oares; The Troian fleet, now neare th' Ausonian shores, Crosse winds, and violent, to Libya draue. There, in her heart, and palace, Dido gaue Aneas harbor: with impatience beares Her husbands flight: forth-with a Pile she reares, Pretending factifice; and then doth fall Vpon his fword: deceiu'd, deceiuing all. Flying from Cartbage, Eryx he re-gain'd; There where his faithfull friend Acestes raign'd His fathers funeralls re-solemniz'd, He puts to Sea, with thips well-nigh furprized By irus flames. Hippotade's Command, The fulphur-fuming lles, the rockie Strand Of Acheloian Sirens leaving, lost His Pilot: to Inarime then croft, To Probita, and Pithecufa, wall'd With barren hilles; so ofher people call'd.

For Iupiter, detecting much the flie
And fraudulent Cercopeans periury,
Into deformed beafts transform'd them then;
Although valike, appearing like to men:
Contracts their limbes, their nofes from their browes
He flats, their faces with old wrinkles plowes;
And, coucring them with yellow haire, affords
This dwelling; first depriving them of words,
So much abus'd to periury and wrongs:
Who iabber, and complaine with stammering tongues.

Then on the right-hand left Parthenope, Misenus on the left, far-stretcht in Sea, Sonamed of his Trumpetor: thence, past By flimie Marithes, and anchor caft At Cuma; entring long-lin'd Sibylscaues. A pallage through obscure Auernus craues T'his Fathers Manes. She ereds her eyes, Long fixt on earth, and with the Deities Reception fill'd, in facred rage reply'd. Great things thou seek'st, ô thou so magnifi'd For mighty deeds: thy picty through flame, Thy arme through Armies confecrate thy name. Yet feare nee, Troian, thy defires inioy: T' Elifan Fields, th'infernall Monarchie, And Fathers Shade, I will thy person guide: No way to noble Vertue is denide.

Then to a Golden bough directs his view,
Which in Anerman lune's Hort-yard grew:
And bade him pull it from the facred tree.
Eneas her obeyes: and now doth fee
The Spoiles of dreadfull Hell; his Grand-sires, loss in death, and great Anchifes aged Ghost.

Is by his bounty: that the cyclops fowle And hungry maw had not deucur'd my Soule: That now I may be buried when I die; Or at the least not in his entrailes lie. O what a heart had I! with feare berefe Of tonle and lenfe! when I behinde was left. And faw your flight! I had an Out-cry made, But that afeard to have my felfe betray'd. Yours, almost had Vlyffes thip destroy'd. I saw him rive out of the mountaines side A folid rocke, and dart it on the Maine: I faw the furious Giant once againe, When mightic stones with monstrous strength he slung: Like quarries by a warlike engine flung. Lest thip should linke with waves and stones I feare: Not then remembring, that I was not there. He, when your flight had reicu'd you from death, O're Attui paces; fighing clouds of breath: And groping in the woods, bereft of fight, Incounters willing rockes: mad with despight Extends his bloudy armes to under waves, The Greekes perfores with curfes; and thus raues.

O would fome God Vly Jer would in gage,
Or some of his, to my infattate rage!
I'd gnaw his heart, his living members rend,
Gulpe downe his bloud till it againe afcend,
And crain his panting finewes. O, how light
A loss, or none, were then my losse of fight!

This spake, and more. My ioynts pale horror shooke, To see his gim, and slaughter-sineared looke, His bloudy hands, his eyes deserted seat, Vast limbes, and beard with humane gore concreat.

Death flood before mine eyes (my leaft difmay:) Now thought my felfe furpilized; now, that I lay, Sou'st in his paunch. That time presents my view, When two of ours on dashing stones he threw: Then on them like a shagged Lion lies; Their entrailes, flesh, yet mouing arteries, White marrow, with crasht bones, at once deuoures. I, lad, and bloudlesse stood: feare chill'd my powres, Seeing him cat, and cast the horrid food; Raw lumpes of flesh, wine mixt with clotted blood. Euen fuch a fate my wretched thoughts propound. longlying hid, afraid of cuery found, Althorring death, yet couering to die; With maff, and hearbs repelling famine; I, Alone, forlorne, to death and torment left, This thip elpy'd: this by my gestures west, I ranne to thore, nor fatety vainly feeke: A Traisn vessell entertain'd a Greeke. Now, worthy friend, your owne aduentures tell;

And what, fince first you put to sea, befell.

He told how Airlus raign'd in Thasian Seas,
Storme-fettering Airlus Hipsotades,
Who nobly gaue to their Dulichian Guide
A wind, inclosed in an oxes hide.
Nine daies they sailed with successeful gales;
Sought shores descry'd: the tenth had blancht their sailes;
When greedy Sailers, thinking to have found

When greedy Sailers, thinking to have sound.

A maile of enuy'd gold, the wind vnbound.

This though rough leas the Nauie backward drives,

Which at the Ænlian poit againe arrives.

To Leftigonian Lamus ancient towne

From thence, faid he, we came. That countries crowne

Death

Proffering th'infidious Cup, her magicke wand About to raile, he thrusts her from her stand; And with drawne fword the trembling Goddelle frights, When vowed faith with her faire hand shee plights; And grac't him with her nuptiall bed : who then Demands in dowry his transfigur'd men. Sprinkled with bitter juyce, her wand reuerst Aboue our crownes, and charmes with charmers dispers: The more the chants, we grow the more vpright, Our builtles thed, our clouen feet vnite, Shoulders and armes possesse their former grace. With teares our weeping Generall we imbrace, And hang about his necke: nor scarce a word Breathes through our lips, but such as thankes afford. From hence our passe was for a yeere defeni'd; In that long time much faw I, and much heard: Of which, a Maid (one of the foure, prepar'd For facred feruice) closely this declar'd. For while my Chiefe with Circe sports alone, Shee show'd a youthfull Image of white stone Clos'd in a Shrine, with crownes imbellished; Who bare a Wood-pecker vpon his head. Demanding whose it was, why placed there, Why he that Bird vpon his fummit baic? I will, reply'd the, & Macareus, tell In this my Mistris power: observe me well. Saturman Picus in Aufonia raign'd, Who generous horses for the battle train'd. His forme, fuch as you ice: whom had you knowne, You would have ta'ne this feature for his owne. His minde as beautifull. Nor yet could hee Foure Gracius wraftlings in th'Olympicks fec.

The Dryades, in Latian mountaines borne, His lookes attract: nor Nymphs of fountaines scorne To fue for pitie. Those whom Albela. Numicus, Anie, Alme short of way. And headic: Ner sustaine, the shadie Flood Of Farfarm, the Scythian Cynthias woo'd-Inuiron'd marishes, and neighbouring lakes. Yet for one only Nymph the rest forfakes: Who whilome on Mount Palatine, the faire Venilia to the two-fac'd lanus bare. The Maid, now marriageable, honoured Laurentian Piem with her nuptiall bed. Her beauty admirable: yet more fam'd For artfull fong; and thereof canens nam'd. Her voice the woods and rockes to passion mones; Tames saluage beafts, the troubled Riuers smooths. Detaines their hasty course; and, when the sings, The birds neelect the labour of their wings. While her fweet voice coelestiall musicke yeelds Young Pieus followes in Laurentian Fields The filuage Bore, vpon a fiery Steed; Arm'd with two darts: clad in a Tyrian weed With gold close-buckl'd. Thither also came The daughter of the Sunne; who left her name-Retaining fields, and on those fruitfull hills Her facred lap with dewie Simples fills. Seeing vnseene, his sight her sense amaz'd: The gathered hearbs fell from her as the gaz'd: Whose bones a marrow-melting slame inclos'd. But when the her distraction had compos'd; About t'impart her wish, attendancie, And swiftnesse of his borse, accesse denie.

Thou shalt not so escape, said thee, altho! The winds should wing thee; if my selfe I know, If hearbs retaine their powre, if charmes at least My trust deceiue not. Then creates a Beast Without a body, bid to runne before The Kings persuit; and made the ayrie Bore To take a thicket, where no horse could force Hisbarr'd accesse. He leaves his forning horse On foor to follow a deceitfull Shade, With equall hopes? and through the forrest strai'd. New Vowes the ftraight conceineth, aid implores: And Gods vaknowne with vaknowne charmes adores. Wherewith inur'd t'eclipse the pale-fac't Moone: And cloud her Fathers splendor at high Noone. And now with pitchie fogs obscures the Day, From earth exhal'd. His Guard mistake their way In that deceitfull Night, and from him straid. When the, the time and place befitting faid: By thole faire eyes, which have inthralled mine; And by that all alluring face of thine,

Which makes a Goddelle sue; asswage the fire Py thee incenst; and take vnto thy Sire The all-illuminating Sunne: nor proue Hard hearted to Titanian Circes loue.

Her, and her prayers, despis'd; What ere thou art, I am not thine, faid he: my captine heart Another holds; and may the hold it long. Nor will I with externall Venus wrong Our nuptiall faith, fo long as Fate shall give Life to my veines, and lanu daughter line. Titamia, compting oft, as oft in vaine; Thoughait not scape my vengeance, nor agains Returne Returne to Canens. What the wrong'd can doe, A wronged Louer, and a Woman too; Thou shalt, said she, by fad experience proue? For I a woman, wrong'd and wrong'd in loue. Twice turnes she to the East,, twice to the West; Thrice toucht him with her wand, three charmes exprest. He flyes; at his vnwonted speed admir'd; Then saw the feathers which his skinne attir'd: Who forth with seekes the woods; and angry Rill, Hard okes assailes, and wounds them with his bill-His wings the purple of his cloake assume; The gold that claspt his garment turnes to plume, And now his necke with golden circle chaines: Of Picks nothing but his name remaines.

The Courtiers Piem call, and seeke him round About the fields, that was not to be found. Yet Circe finde (for now the day grew faire, The Sunne and Winds fet free to clense the aire) And charge her with true crimes: their King demand With threatning lookes, and weapons in their hand. Shee sprinckles them with juyce of wicked might. From Erebus and Chaos conjures Night, With all her Gods; and Hecate intreates With tedious mumblings. Woods for lake their seates. Trees pale their leaues, Hearbes blush with diops of gore, Earth grones, dogs howle, rockes horcely feeme to roce: Vpon the tainted ground blacke Serpents flide; And through the aire unbodied Spirits elide. Frighted with terrors, as they trembling fland, Shee firokes their wondering faces with her wand: Forthwith the shapes of Saluage beasts inuest Their former formes; not one his owne postek.

Phebus

401

Yet

Now tir'd with griefe and trauell, Tybris last
Beheld the Nymph: on his coole bankes she cast
Her seeble limbes: there weepes, and weeping sung
Her sorrowes with a softly warbling tongue.
Euen so the dying Swan with low-rais'd breath,
Sings her owne exequies before her death.
At length her marrow melts with griefes despaire:
And by degrees she vanisheth to Aire.

Yet still the place doth memorize her fame:

Which of the Nymph the Rurall Canens name. "
In that long yeare, much, and such deeds as these I show and heard. Vn-neru'd with restine ease, Againe we put to Sea; by Circetold Of our hard passage, and the manifold Disasters to ensue, I grew asraid (I must confesse) and here ariting, staid.

Macareus ends. Caieta Vrne-inclos d, This verse had on her maible tombe impos d. Here, with due files, my pious Nurse-child mee Caieta burnt; si on Gracian fires set siec.

They look their cables from the graffie strand; Avoiding cirresquile full palace, stand For those tall groues, where Tybia, darke with shades,. In Tyrrhon Seas his fandy streames volades. The throne of Faunus sonne, the Latian flarre Lauini gaine; but not without a warre. Warre with a furious Nation is commen ? 3 Sterne Turnus for his promist wife incenst: While all Hetruria to Latium swarmes: Hard victory long fought with penfine armes. To get Recrutes from torren States they try. Nor Troians, nor Rutulians want supply. Nor to Euanders towne Aneas went Invaine: though vainly Venulus was fent To banisht Diemeds Citie, late immur'd: Those fields Iapygian Daunus had insur'd To him in dowre. When Venulou had done His embassic to Tydens warlike sonne: The Prince excus'd his aid; as loth to draw The subjects of his aged father in law T'vnnecessary warre: that none remaine Of his to arme. Lest you should thinke I faine; Though repetition So. row renouates; Yet, while I suffer, heare the worst of faces. After that Pergammour prey became, And lofty Ilium fed the Gracian flame: A Virgin, for a Virgins rape, let fall Her Vengeance, to Oileus due, on all, Scattered on faithlelle Seas with furious stormes, We, wretched Gracians, suffer'd all the formes Of horror: lightning, night, showres, wrath of skies, Of Seas, and dire Capbarean cruekies. To abridge the story of so sad a fate; Now Prium would have pitied our estate.

Yet Pallas Inatcht me from the swallowing Maine; Then from my vngratefull Country chac't againe. For Venus, mindfull of her ancient wound. New woes inflicts. Much on the vast profound. Much suffering in terrestrials conflicts, I Oft call'd them happy, whom the iniury Of publike rempests, and importunate Caphareus drown'd: and now enui'd their fate. The worft indur'd; with seas and battles tyr'd. My men an end of their long toyle defir'd. But A non, full of fire, and fiercer made By vsuall slaughters: What remaines (he said) O mates, which now our patience would eschue? I hough willing, what can Cytheres doe More than th'hath done? when worle mishaps affright, Then prayers availe: but when Mif-fortunes spight Her work inflicts, then feare is of no vie: And height of ills, fecuritie produce. Let Venus heare: although flie hate vs all, # As all she hates that serue our Generall) Yet let vs all despise her emptie hate; Whose Powre hath made vs so vnsortunate. Pl wronion Acmonangry Venus flung: Reuenge reniaing with his lauish tongue.

Few like his words the most senerely chid His tongues excesse. About to have reply'd, His speech, and path of speech, at once grew small, His haire converts to plume; plumes couer all His necke, backe, bolome: larger feathers spring prom his rough armes, and now his elbowes wing. His feet divide to toes, hard horne extends From his chang'd face, and in a bill descends.

Rhitenor.

Rhetenor, Nicteus, Lycus, Abas, Ide, Admire! and in their admiration try'd Like destiny. Most of my Souldiers grew Forthwith new Fowle; and round about vs flew. If you inquire, what shape their owne vn-mans; They are not, yet are like to filuer Swans. Their barren fields, with this poore remnant, I,

The Fourteenth Booke.

As sonne in law to Daunus, scarce inioy. Thus faire Oenides. Venulus forfakes Tydides Kingdome: by Puteofitakes His way, and through Mejapia: there furuaid A Caue, inuiron'd with a fyluan shade, Diffilling streames. By halfe-goat Pan possest: Which erit the Wood-nymphs with their beauties bleft.

They terrified at firth with fudden dread. From home bred Apulus, the shepheard, fled. Straight, taking heart, despised his persuit > And danced with a measure-keeping foot. He scoffes: their motion clowne-like imitates; Nowonly raileth, but obscenely prates.

Nor cealeth, till a tree inuelts his throte; A tree whose berries his behausour notes An oliue wilde, which bitter fruit affords, Becomes; dis-scassed with his bitter words.

Th'Embassador returnes without the sought Atolian succours ; the Rusulians fought 'Gainst foes and fortune; of that hope depriu'd: Whole freames of bloud from mutuall wounds deriu d. Loc, fire-brands to the Nauie Turnus beares And what cleaped drowning, burning feares,

Pitch, rozen, and like ready tood for fire, Now Valcan foed : the hungrie flames alpire

Vp

Vp to the failes along the lofty mast; And catch the yards, with curling smoke embrac't. But when the Mother of the Gods beheld Those blazing Pines, from top of Ida feld; Lowd Shalmes and Cymballs viher'd her repaire: Who, drawne by bridled Lions through the aire. Thus faid: Thy wicked hands to small effect, O Turnus violate, what we protect. Nor shall the greedy fire a part of those Tall Woods devoure, which shelter our repose. With that the thunders, powring downe amaine Thicke stormes of skipping haile, and clouds of raine, Th'Astraan Sonnes in swift concursions ioyne; Toffing the troubled aire, and Neptunes brine. One thee imployes, whose speed the rest out-strips; That brake the Cables of the Phygian Ships, And draue them under the high-swelling Flood. The timber fortens, flesh proceeds from wood, The crooked Sterne to heads and faces growes, The Oares to swimming legs, fine feet and toes; What were their holds, to ribbed fides are growne, The lengthfull keele prefenting the back-bone; The yards to armes, to haire the tackling grew: As formerly, fo now, their colour blew. And they, but lately of the floods afraid; Now in the flouds, with vugin pastime, plaid. Theie Sca-nymphs, borne on mountaines, celebrate The Seas, for citullof their former flate. Yet weighing, what themselves so oft endur'd On high-wrought wanes, oft finking fhips fecur'd; have, inglish, as Gracians carry : thole The, hate, memorious of the Troian moes.

Who faw Vhffes thips in furges queld With pleased eyes, with pleased eyes beheld Alcinous thip, in swiftnesse next to none, Vnmoucable; the wood transform'd to stone. Twas thought this wond ous prodigie would fright The Rutuli, and make them cease from fight. Poth parts persist, both haue their Godsto friend; And Valour no leffe potent: nor contend Now for Lauinia, for Latinus crowne, Nor dotall Kingdome; but for faire renowne: Atham'd to lay their brused armes aside, Till death or conquest had the quarrell tride. Venus her sonne victorious sees at length. Great Turnus fell; ftrong Ardra falls, of ftreng h While Turnis flood, decourd by barbarous flame, In dying cinders buried. From the same A Fowle, vnknowne to former ages, springs; And fannes the after with her houering wings, Pale colour, leanenelle, threeking founds of woc, The image of a captive City show. Who also still the Cities name retaines: And with felfe-beating wings of Fate complaines, And now Æneaswertues terminate The wrath of Gods, and Iune's ancient hate. An opulent foundation having laid For young Inius, by his merit made Now fit for Heaven: the Powre, who rules in Loue The Gods folicits; then, imbracing love: O Father, neuer yet to me vnkinde; Now & inlarge the bountie of thy minde. A God-head, meane, fo it a God-head be,

Amagine; that are cohim by me.

W

A Grand-father: th'vn-amiable realizes Suffice it once t'hauc seene, and S ygiar streames.

The Gods agree; nor Iuno's lookes diffent. Who with a chearefull freenesse forward bent. Then loue: He well describes a Deity: Thy fute, faire Daughter, to thy with enjoy. Shee, joyfull, thankes returned; and through the aire, D awne by he. youked Dones, lights on the bare I. u entranthores; where smooth Numicius creepes Through whifpering reedes into the neighbour Deepes. What is him f. om Æneas wash away All viito death obnoxious, and conuay It filently to Seas. The horned Flood O' cyes; and what subsists by mortall food, With water pulg'd, and only left behinde His better parts. His mother they refinde Anoints with facted odors, and his lips In Nectar, mingled with Ambrofia, dips; So deifi'd: whom Ind ges Rome calls; Honour'd with altars, shrines, and sessivalls.

Two-nam'd Ascan'us Latium then obey'd,
And Alba: next, the scepter Syluius swai'd.
His sonne Latium, held that ancient name,
And crowne. Him Epitus, renown'd by Fame,
Succeeds. Then Capys. (apetus, his Son
Succeeded film. Next Tiberine begun
His taigne: who, drown'd in Thusan waters; gaue
Those streames his name: who Remulus got, and braveSould Acrota. But Remulus was slaine
With thunder; who the Thunder er durst faine.
More moderate Acrota resign'd his throne
To Angune: yponthe Mount whereon

Heraign'd, intomb'd; which yet his name retaines. Ouer the Palatines next Procas raignes. Pemona flourisht in those times of case: Of all the Latian Hamadryades. None f unfull Hort-yards held in more repute; Or tooke more care to propagate their fruit. Thereof so nam'd. Nor streames, nor shadic groues, But trees producing generous burdens loues. Her hand a hooke, and not a jauelin bare: Now prunes luxurious twigs, and boughs that dare Transcend their bounds; now flits the barke, the bud Inferts; inforc't to nurse an others brood. Nor fuffers them to fuffer thirst, but brings To moisture-sucking roots, fost-sliding Springs. Such her delight, her care. No thoughts extend To loue synknowne desires: yet to desend Her selfe from rapefull Rurals, round about Her Hort-yard walls; t'auoid, and keepe them out. What left the skipping Satyrs vn-affai'd; Rude Pan, whose hornes Pine-briffled garlands shade; Silenus, still more youthfull than his yeares; Or he who thecues with hooke, and member feares, To talle her sweetnesse ; but farre more than all Vertumnus loues; yet were his hopes as small. How often, like a painfull Reaper, came, Laden with weighty sheafes; and seem'd the same! Oft wreathes of new mow'd graffe his browes array; Asthough then excercis'd in making hay. A gode now in his hardned hands he beares, And newly feemes to have vnyok't his Steer es. Oft Vines and fruit-trees with a pruning hooks Corrects, and dreffes; oft a lather cooke

Now

To gather fruit: now with his crooked skeine A Souldier feemes; an Angler with his cane: And various figures daily multiplies To winne accelle, and please his longing eyes. Now, with a staffe, an old-wife counterfeits; On hory haire, a painted miter fets. The Host yard entering, admires the faire And pleafant fuits: So much, faid he, more rare Then all the Nymphs whom Albula enioy, Haile spotlesse flowie of Maiden chastity: Andkist the prais'd. Nor did the Virgin know, (So innocent) that old wives kist not so. Then, fitting on a banke, observeth how The pregnant boughs with Autums burthen bow. Hardby, an Elme with purple clusters shin'd: This plaining, with the Vine fo closely loyn'd, Yer, Lid he, it this Elme should grow alone, Except for thode, it would be priz'd by none: And fo this Vine, in amorous foldings wound, If but dis-joyn'd, would creepe vpon the ground. Yet art not thou by such examples led: But thun's the pleasures of a happy bed. Nor would thou wouldst: not Helen was so sought, Nor the for whom the luftfull Centaures fought. As thou shouldst be; no nor the wife of bold And timorous Vhifes. Yet, behold Though thou averte to all, and alleschue; A thouland men, Gods, denu-gods, perfue Thy constant home; and every deathlesse Powre Which Alia's high and thady hils imbowie. Put thou, it wife, it thou'lt well married be; Or an old woman trust, who eredit me.

The Fourteenth Booke.

Affects thee more than all the rest, refuse These common wooers, and Vertumous choose. Accept me for his gage; fince so well none Can know him; by himselfe not better knowne. Ho is no wanderer, her's his delight: Nor loues, like common louers, at first fight. Thou art the first, so thou the last shalt be: His life he onely dedicates to thee. Besides his youth perpetuall; excellent Hisbeauty; and all shapes can represent. With what you will, what ever hath a name; Such shall you see him. Your delights the same: The first-fruits of your Hort-yard are his due; Which toyfully he still accepts from you. But neither what these pregnant trees produce He now desires, not herbs of pleasant inyce : Nor ought, but onely You. O pity take! And what I speake, suppose Veriumnus spake. Reuengefull Gods, Idelia, still seuere To such as slight her, and Ramnusia seare. The more to fright you from so foule a crime. Receive (fince much I know from aged Time) A flory, generally through Cyprus knowne; To mollifie a heart more nard than stone. Ipby, of humble birth, by chance did view The high-borne Anaxarere, who drew Herbloud from Tower. Seeing her, his eyes Extracts a fire, wherein his bolome fixes. Long strugting, when no reason could reclaime His fury, to her house the Suppliant came. Now to her Nutse his wretched love displaid; And by her tofter'd hopes implor'd her aid:

Affects

Now humbly sues to some of most repute
In her affection, to prefer his suit.
Sad letters oft his desperate passions beares:
Oft myrtle garlands, sprinkled with his teares,
Hangs on the posts: the stonic threshold lades
With his soft sides, and rigid doores vp-braids.
But she more excell than the seas, imbroyl'd
With rising stormes; more hard than iron, boyl'd
In sire-red turnaces; or rooted rocks;
Dissaines the louer, and his passion mocks:
Who to her forward deeds addes bitter words
Of no lette scorne; nor hope to loue affords.
Impatient of his torment, and her hate;
These words, his last, he weters at her gate.

O Amazerete, thou hast o're come! Nor shall my life be longer wearisome To thy disdaine. Triumph, o too vnkind! Sing Pasns, and thy browes with laurell bind. Thou haft o're-come; loe, willingly I die: Proceed, and celebrate thy cruelliny. Yet is there something in me, ne're the lesse, That thou wilt raispe; and my deserts confesse. Thinke how ney loue my heart no fooner left Then life it selfe: of both at once bereft. Nor rumor, but euen I will death present In such a forme, as shall thy pride content. But O you Gods, if you our actions fee (This onely I implose) remember me! Let afterages celebrate my name: And what you take from life, afford to fame.

Then heaves his meger armes and watty eyes
To those knowne posts, ofterown'd with wreaths, and tyes

A halter to the top. Such wreather, he said,
Best please; hard-hearted, and inhumane Maid I
Then turning toward her, he forward sprung:
When by the neck th'vnhappy louer hung.
Strucke by his sprawling feet, wide open flies
The sounding wicket; and the deed descries.
The seruants shreeke; the Vainely raised bore

This mothers house; his father dead before.
His breathlesse corps she in her bosome plac't;
And in her armes his key-cold limbs imbrac't.
Lamenting long, as wofull parents vse;
And having paid a wofull mothers dues;

The mournfull Funerall through the City led:
And to prepared fires conveyes the dead.
This forrowfull Procession passing by

To th'cares of Amaxarete arrives:
Whom now sterne Nemefis to ruine drives
Wee'l see, said she, these sad solemnities:
And forth-with to the losty window highes.

Her house, which bordering on the way, their cry

When feeing Iphia on his fatall bed; Her eyes grew stiffe; bloud from her visage fled, Van pt by palenesse. Strining to retire,

Her feet fluck fast; nor could to her desire Diuert her looks: for now her stony heart teleste dilated into enery past.

This Salamis yet keeps, to cleere your doubt, in Venus temple 3 call'd, the Looker-out.

Inform'd by this, 6 louely Nymph, decline

hy former pride, and to thy louer loyne. o may thy fruits furnine the Veinall frost: or after by the rapeful winds be tost.

When

Vniust Amulius next th' Ansonian State Py firength viurpt. The nephewes to the late Deposed Numicor, him re-inshrone: Who Rome, in Pales Feafts, immur'd with flone. Now Tatins leades the Sabine Sires to warre. Tarpcia's hands her fathers gates vnbarre: To death with a melets prest; her treasons meed. The Sabine Sires like filent Wolues proceed T'inuade their sleeping sonnes, and secke to seaze Vpon their gates; barr'd by Iliades. One lam opens: though no noise at all Thehinges made, yet by the barres lowd fall Descry'd by Venus: who had put it too; But Gods may not, what Gods have done, vndos Ausinian Nymphs the places bordering To Linus held, inchased with a spring. Their aid th'implores. The Nymphs could not deny A fute so inst, but all their flouds vntic. As yet the Fane of lanus open stood: Nor was their way impeached by the flood. Beneath the fruitfull (pring they fulphure turne; Whole hollow veines with blacke bitumen burne: With these the vapours penetrate below; And waters, late as cold as Alpin snow,

The fire it selfe in servour dare provoke:

Now both the posts with flagrant moisture smoke.

These new-rais'd streames the Sabine Powre exclude,
Till Mars his Souldiers had their armes indu'd.

By Remulus then in Batalia led:
The Roman fields the slaughtred Sabines spred;
Their owne the Romans: Fathers, Sonnes in law,
With wicked steele, bloud from each other draw.

Atlength conclude a peace; nor would contend
Vnto the last. Two Kings one throne ascend
With equalitude. But noble Tatius slaine,
Both Nations under Remulus remaine.

When Mars laid by his shining caske; and then
Thus spake unto the Sire of Gods, and men.

Now, Father, is the time (fince Rome is growne To such a greatnesse, and depends on One)
To put in act thy neuer-failing word;
And Romalus a heavenly throne afford.
You, in a synod of the Gods, profest (Which still I carry in my thankfull brest)
That one of mine (this o now ratific 1)
Should be advanc't vnto the starry skielove condescends: with clouds the day benights;

And with flame-winged thunder earth afrights.

Mars, at the figne of his affumption,
Leanes on his lance, and strongly vaults vpon
His bloudy Charior; lashes his hot horses
With sounding whips, and their full speed inforces:
Who, scouring downe the ayrie region, staid
On faire mount Palatine, obscur'd with shade:
There Remulus assumeth from his Throne,
Vn-kinglike rendering instice to his owne.

The

Rapt

Rapt through the aire, his mortall members waste, Like melting Bullets by a Slinger cast: More heavenly faire, more fit for lofty shrines; Our great and scallet-clad Quirinus shines.

Then Iuno to the sad Herssia
(Lost in her forrow) by a crooked way
Sent Iris to deliuer this Command.
Star of the Latian, of the Sabineland;
Thy sexes glory: worthy then the vow
Of such a husband, of Quininus now;
Suppresse thy teares. If thy defire to see
Thy husband so exceed, then follow mee
Vnto those woods, which on mount Querin spring;
And shade the temple of the Roman King.

Iru obayes: and by her painted Bow Downe-fliding, so much lets Hersilia know. When she, scarce lifting up her modest eyes: O Goddesse (which of all the Deities I know not; sure a Goddesse) thou cleere light, Conduct me, ô conduct me to the fight Of my deare Lord: which when the Fates shall shew, They heaven on me, with all the gifts, bestow. Then, with Thaumantian entering the high Romulian Hills, a Star shot from the Skie, Whose golden beames inflam'd Hersilia's haire; When both together mount th'enlightned Aire. The Builder of the Reman City tooke Her in his armes, and forth-with chang'd her looke: To whom the name of Ora he affign'd. This Goddesse now is to Quirinus loysed.

OVID'S

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSIS

The Fisteenth Booke.

THE ARGUMENT.

B Lacke Stones conners to Winse. Pythagoras. In Ilium's linguing warre Euphorbus was. Of erinfinierations, of she change of shings, and frange efficie, she learned Samian fings. Recur'd Hippolyius w deifide; Whom fafer Age, and name of Virbius bide. Ageria thawes into a Spring. From Earth Trophetick Tages takes hu wondrow borth.

A Speare a Tree. Gram Cippus vertues from The rowne, bu Hornes profens. Apollo's Son Afumes a Serpens finge. The Soule of Warre, Great Calar, Laine, becomes a Blazing Starre,

Kanewhile, a man is fought that might fustaine
Sogreat a butthen, and fucceed the raigne
Of fuch a King: when true-foreshewing Fame
To God-like Numa destinates the same.
He, with his Sabmerites vnsatissed,
To greater things his able mind applied
In Natures scarch. Inticed with these cares,
He leaves his countries cares, and repaires

To Croson's City : askes, what Grecian hand Those walls erected on Italian land? One of the Natines, not vnknowing old, Who much had heard and seene, this story told. Joues fonne, inrich't with his Iberian prey. Came from the Ocean to Lacinia With happy steps: who, while his cattle fed Vpon the tender clouer, entered Heroick Croton's roofe; a welcome Guest: And his long trauell recreates with rest. Who faid, departing; In the following age ACity here shall stand. A true presage. There was one Mycilus, Argelian Alemons iffue ; in thoso times, no man More by the Gods affected. He, who beares The dreadfull Club, to him in fleepe appeares; And faid: Begon, thy countries bounds for fake; To stony Æsarus thy iourney take. And thi catens vengeance if he dis-obay. The God and Sleepe together flew away. He, rifing, on the Vision meditates: Which in his doubtfull foule he long debates. The God commands; the Law forbids to goe: Death due to such as left their Country so. Cleare Solin seas his radiant fore-head vail'd. Swart Night her browes exalts, with flarresimpal'd; The selfe same God the same command repeats: And greater plagues to disobedience threats. Afraid, he now prepares to change his owne For for einescats. This through the City blowne; Accused for breach of lawes, arraign'd, and try'd; They proue the fact, not by himselfe deny'd.

His hands and eyes then lifting to the skie: Othou, whom twice Six Labours deifie. Assist, that art the author of my crime! White stones and blacke they vs'd in former time: The white acquit, the blacke the pris'nor cast: And in such fort this heavy sentence past. Blacke stones all threw into the fatall Vrne: But all to white, turn'd out to number, turne. Thus by Alcides powre the fad Decree Was strangely chang'd, and Myciles fer free. Who, thanking Amphitryoniades, With a full fore-wind croft th' 18 sion Seas. Lacedemonian Taventum past. Faire Sybaris, Neathus running fast By Salentinum, Thurin's crooked Bay, High Temesis, and strong Japygia: Scarce searching all that shores sea-beaten bound. The fatall mouth of Æ farus out-found. A Tombe, hard by, the sacred bones inclos'd Of famous Croton: here, as era impos'd. A'emons sonne erects his City walls: Which of th'intombed he Crotona calls. Of this Originall, this City boalts: Built by a Gracian on Italian coafts. Here dwelt a Samian, who at once did flie From Sames, Lords, and hated Tyrannie: Preferring voluntary banishment. Though farre from Heauen, his mind's diuine ascent Drewneere the Gods: What natures felfe denies To humane Sight, he saw with his Soules eyes. All apprehended in his ample breft,

And studious cares; his knowledge he profest

The Fifteenth Bookes.

To filent and admiring men: who taught The Worlds originall, past humane thought: What nature was, what God: the cause of things; From whence the Snow, fro whence the lightning springs: Whether love thunder, or the winds that rake The breaking Clouds: what caus'd the Earth to quake; What course the Startes obserued; what e're lay hid From vulgar sense: and first of all forbid With flaughtred creatures to defile our boords, In fuch, though vnbelecu'd; yet learned Words. Forbeare your selucs, ô Mortals, to pollute With wicked food : corne is there; generous fruit Oppresse their boughs; plump grapes their Vines attire; There are sweet hearbs, and sauory roots, which fire May mollifie; milke, honey redolent With flowres of Thime, thy pallat to content. The prodigall Earth abounds with gentle food; Aftording banquets without death or blood. Brute beafts with fleth their rau nous hunger cloy: And yet not all; in pastures horses ioy: So flocks and heards. But those whom Nature hath Indu'd with cruelty, and faluage wrath (Wolues, Beares, Armenian Tigers, Lions) in Hot bloud delight. How horrible a Sin, That entrailes bleeding entrailes should intombe! That greedy flesh, by flesh should fat become ! While by the Livers death the Living lives! Of all, which Earth, our wealthy mother, gives; Can nothing please, valette thy teeth thou imbrue In wounds, and dire Cyclopean fare renue? Nor fatiate the wilde voiacitie Of thy rude panch, except an other die?

But that old Age, that innocent estate. Which we the Golden call; was fortunate In hearbs, and fruits, her lips with bloud vndy'd. Then Fowle through aire their wings in fafety plyd: The Hare, then feareleffe, wandred o're the plaine; Nor Fifth by their credulity were ta'ne. Not treacherous, nor fearing treacherie. All hu'd secure. When he, who did enuic (What God so e're it was) those harmlesse cates And cramb'd his guts with flesh; set ope the gates To cruell Crimes. First, Slaughter without harme (I must confesse) to Piety, did warme (Which might fuffice) the recking steele in blood Offaluage beafts, which made our lives their food: Though kil'd; not to be eaten. Sinne now more Audacious; the first sacrifice, the Bore Was thought to merit death; who, bladed come Vp-rooting left the husband-man forlorne. Vine-brouzing Gotes at Bacchus alter flaine. Fed his revenge: in both, their guilt their bane. You Sheep, what ill did you? a gentle beaft. Whose vaders swell with Nectar, borne t'inuch Exposed man with your soft wooll; and are Aliue, then dead, more profitable farre. Or what the Oxe? a creature without guile. So innocent, so simple; borne for toile. He most vngratefull is, deserving ill The gift of corne; that can vnyoke, then kill His husband-man: that necke with axe to wound In service gall'd, that had the stubborne ground So often til'd; so many crops brought in. Yet not contest therewith, t'aferthe the fining

To guiltleffe Gods: as if the Powres on high

In death of labour-bearing oxen ioy. A spotlesse sacrifice, faire to behold,

('I is death to please') with ribands trickt, and gold, Stands at the Altar, hearing prayers vnknowne:

And sees the meale vpon his fore-head throwne, Corby his toile: the knife smear'd in his gore, Ev fortune in the lauer scene before.

The entrailes, from the panting body rent, Forth-with they search; to know the Gods intent.

Whence springs so dire an appetite in man To interdicted food? O Mortals, can, Or date you feed on flesh? henceforth forbeare I you intreat, and to my words give eare:

When limbs of flaughtred Beeues become your meat; Then thinke, and know, that you your Servants eat.

Phains inspires; his Spirit we obay:

My Delphu, heaven it felfe, I will display: The Oracle of that great power vnfold: And fing what long Jay hid; what none of old

Could apprehend. I long to walke among The lofty flarres: dull earth despis'd, I long To backe the clouds; to fit on Atlas crowne: And from that hight on erring men looke downe

The treason want: those thus to animate That feare to die; t'ynfold the booke of Fate.

O You, whom horrors of cold death affright; Why feare you Stix, vaine names, and endlesse Night; The dreames of Poets, and fain'd miferies

Of forged Hell? whether last-flames surprise, Or Age denouse your bodies; they nor grieue,

Not futter paines. Our Soules for euer liue:

The Fifteenth Booke.

Yer enermore their ancient houses leaue To liue in new; which them, as Guests, receiue.

In Troit warres, I (I remember well)

Enthorbus was, Panthous sonne; and fell By Menelauslance: my shield againe

At Argos late I saw, in Iuno's Fane. All alter, nothing finally decayes:

Hither and thither still the Spirit strayes; Guest to all bodies: out of beasts it flies

To men, from men to beafts; and neuer dies.

Aspliant wax each new impression takes; Fixt to no forme, but still the old for sakes:

Yet it the same: so Soules the same abide.

Though various figures there reception hide. Then left thy greedy belly should destroy

(I prophesie) depressed Piety.

Forbearet'expulse thy kindreds Ghosts with food By death procur'd; nor nourish blood with blood. Since on so vast a sea, my faile's vnfurl'd,

And-firetcht to rifing winds; in all the World There's nothing permanent; all ebbe and flow:

Each image fo, m'd to wander to and fro. Euen Time, with restlesse motion, slides away Like huing streames : nor can swift Rivers stay,

Nor light-heel'd Howers. As billow billow driucs, Driven by the following; as the next arrives

To chace the former: times to flye, perfue At once each other; and are cuer new.

Yel

What was before, is not; what was not, is:

All in a moment change from that to this. See, how the Night on Light extends her shades: See, how the Light the gloomy Night inuades.

Nor fuch Heauens hew, when Mid-night crown's Repole; As when bright Lucifer his taper showes: Yet changing, when the Harbinger of Day Th'inlightned World resignes to Phabus sway. His raised Shield, earths shaddowes scarcely fled, Lookes ruddy; and low finking, lookes as red: Yei bright at Noone; because that purer skie Doth farre from Earth, and her contagion flie. Nor can Night-wandring Dian's wavering light Be euer equall, or the fame: this night Lette than the following, if her hornes the fill; If the contract her Circle, greater still. Dothnot the image of our age appeare In the successive quarters of the Yeare? The Spring-tide, tender; fucking Infancie Refembling: then the tuy, efull blade sprouts high; Though tender, weake; y. thope to Plough-men yeelds. All things then flourith: flowers the gaudy fields Wi h colouts paint : no vertue yet in leaues. Then tollowing Summer greater Arength receives: A lufty Youth; no age more strength acquires, Mo ciruittull, or more burning in defires. Maturer Autumne, heat of Youth alaid, The fober meane twixt youth and age, more Raid And tempe, are, in Summers waine repaires: His reuctiona temples sprinckled with gray haires. Then comes old Winter, void of all delight, With trembling steps: his head or bal'd, or white. So change our hodies without reft or flay: What we were yester-day, nor what to day, Shallbe to mor. w. Once alone of men The seeds and hope; the wombe our mansion: when

The Fifteenth Booke. Kind Nature thew'dher cunning; not content That our vext bodies should be longer pent Inmothers stretched entrailes, forth-with bare Them from that prison, to the open aire. We ftrengthleffe lye, when firft of light posselt; Straight creepe vpon all foure, much like a beaft ; Then, staggering with weake nerues, stand by degrees, And by fome ftay support our feeble knees: Now, lufty, swiftly run. Youth quickly spent, And those our middle times, incontinent We finke in fetting Aze: this last deuoures The former, and dimolisheth their powres. Old Mile wept, when he his armes beheld, . Which late the ftrongest beast in strength excel'd, Big, as Alsides brawnes, in flaggie hide Now hanging by flacke finewes: Helen cry'd When the beheld her wrinkles in her Glaffe ; And asks her felfe, why the twice rauitht was. Still eating Time, and thou o entitious Age, All ruinate: diminisht by the rage

Nor can these Elements stand at a stay: But by exchanging alter cuery day. Th'eternall world foure bodies comprehends, Ingendring all. The heavy Earth descends, So Water, clog'd with weight: two light, aspire, Deprest by none; pure Aireand purer Fire. And though they have their feuerall fites; yet all Of these are made, to these agains they fall. Resolued Earth to Water rarifies; To Aire extenuated Waters rife;

Of your devouring teeth, All that have breath

Consume, and languish by a lingring death.

The

The Aire, when it it selfe againe refines, To elementall Fire extracted, shines. They in like order backe againe repaire: The groffer Fire condenseth into Aire; Aire, into water: Water thickning, then Growes folid, and converts to Earthagaine. None holds his owne : for Nature euer ioyes In change, and with new formes the old supplies. In all the world not any perish quite: But onely are in various habits dight. For ; to begin to be, what we before Were not, is to be borne; to dye, no more Than ceasing to be such: although the frame Be changeable, the substance is the same. For nothinglong continues in one wold. You Ares, you to Silver grew from Gold; To Braffe from Siluer ; and to Yi'ne from Braffe. Euen places oft such change of fortunes passe: Where once was folid land, Seas haue l'icene; And folid land where once deepe Seas haue beene. Shels, far from Seas, like quarries in the ground; And anchors have on mountaine tops beene found. Torrents have made a valley of a plaine; High hils by deleges Loine to the Maine. Deepe standing lakes fuck't dry by thir fly fand; And on late thirfly carth now lakes doc frand. Here Nature, in her char ges manifold, Sends forth new feuntames; there thuts vp the old. Streames, with in petuous earth-quakes, heretofore Houebrokenforth; or funke, and run no more, So them, swallowed by the yawning Earth, Takes in an other world his second buth.

The Fifteenth Booke.

So Erasinus, now conceales, now yeelds His rifing waters to Argelian fields. And Mysius, hating his first head, and brayes, Caisus nam'd, else-where his streame displayes. Coole Amasenus, watering Sicily, Now flowes; now fpring-lockt, leaves his channell dry, Menformerly drunke of Anigrus areames: Not to be drunke (it any thing but dreames The Poets tell) fince Centaures therein washt Their wounded limbs, by Alcides arrowes gathr. So Hypanu, deriu'd from Seythian Hilis, Long sweet, with bitter streames his channell fills.

An: Ma, Tyrus, and Ægyptian Phare, The flouds imbrac't : yet now no llands are. Th'old Colon knew Leucadia Continent: Which now the labouring furges circumuent.

So Zanele once on Italie connin'd; Till interpoling waves their bounds dif-ioyn'd, If Bura and Helice (Gracian townes) You seeke; behold, the Sea their glory drownes: Whose buildings, and declined walls, below

Th'ambitious floud as yet the Sailers show. A Hill by Pitthean Trazen mounts, vncrown'd With syluan shades, which once was levell ground. For furious winds (a story to admire!)

Pent in blinde cauernes, strugling to expire; And vainly seeking to inioy th'extent Of freer aire, the prison wanting vent; Th'ynpailable tuffe carth inflated fo,

As when with swelling breath we bladders blow, The tumor of the place remained flill,

In time growne follid, like a lofty hill.

To speake a little more of many things Both heard and knowne: New habits funding Springs Now give, now take, Horn'd Hammons Wellat Noone Is cold; hot at Sun-rise, and setting Sun. Wood, put in bubling Albamas then fires; When farthest from the Sun the Moone retires. Ciconian streames congeale his guts to stone That thereof drinkes 2 and what therein is throwne. Crathis, and Sybaris (from your mountaines rold) Colour the haire like Amber, or puregold. Some fountaines of a more prodigious kind, Not onely change the body but the mind. Who hath not heard of oblicene Salmacis? Of th' Atbiopian Lake? who drinke of this, Runne forth-with mad: or if their wits they keepe, Fall fuddenly into a deadly fleepe. Who at Clitories Fountaine this it remoue: Loath wine, and abstinent, meere water loue, Whether it by antipathic expell Delire of wine; or (as the Natiues toll) Atalim pus having with his herbs and charmes Snatcht Pracus tranticke daughters from the harmes Orentred Fories, their wit's phylicke cast Into this fpring; intufing such distast. With streames, to these oppos'd Lymestus flowes: They recle, as drunke, who drinke too much of those. A Lake in taire Arcadia stands, of old Call'd Phe eus; suspected, as two fold: heare, and forbeare, to drinke thereof by night: By night inwholfome, wholfome by day-light. So other lakes and flicames have other powre-Originationed once; fixt at this houre:

Once Argofear'd the justling Cyones; Which rooted now, resst both winds and seas. Nor Æina, burning with imbowel'd fire. Shall cuer, or did alwayes, flames expire. For whether Tellus be an Animall, Haue lungs, and mouthes that smoking flames exhale : Herorgans alter, when her motions close These yawning passages, and open those. Or whether winds, in caues impris'ned, raue: Juffling the stones, and minerals which have The feed of fire, inkindled with their rage: They then extinguish when the winds attwage. Or if Bitumen doe the fire proucke; Or fulpher burning with more subrill smoke: When Earth that food and oylie nourishment With drawes, the matter by long feeding spent; The hungry fire of fustenance beieft, Ill-brooking tamine, leaves, by being left. In Hyterborean Palleneliuc A People, if to Fame we credit give. Who, diving three times thrice in Tritons lake, Of Fowle the feathers and the figure take. The like, they fay, the Scytbish Witches doe With magicke oyles: incied ble thoughtrue. If we may trust to triall, see you not Small creatures of corrupted flesh begot? Bury your flaughtred Steere (a thing in vic) And his corrupted bowels will produce Flowre-lucking Becs; who, like their parent slaine, Loue labour, fields, and toile in hope of gaine. Hornets from buried horses take their birth. Breake off the Crabs bent clawes, and in the earth

The Fifteenth Booke.

Once

Bir

Bury the rest; a Scorpion without faile From thence will creepe, and menace with his taile. The Catterpillers, who their cop-webs weaue On tender leafes (as Hindes from proofe receiue) Conuert to poymous Butterflies in time Greene Frogs, ingendred by the feed of flime, First without feer, then leg, assume; now frong And apt to swimme, their hinder parts more long Then are their former, fram'd to skip add iumpe. The Beares deformed birth is but a lumpe Of huing fleft .: when licked by the Old, It takes a forme agreeing with the mold. Who fees the Young of honie-bearing Bees Intheir fexangular inclosure, fees Their bodies limb-leffe; these vnformed things In time put forth their feet, and after, wings. The flarre-imbell sht Fowle, which luno loues, Iones Armour-beater, Cytharea's Doues, And birds of enery kinde; did we not know Them hatch't of egges, who would coniecture fo? Some thinke the pith of dead men, Snakes becomes; When their back-bones corrept in hellow tombs. Yet thefe from others doe derine their birth. One onely Fowle there is in all the Earth, Call'd by th' Affyrian Phænix, who the waine Orage repaires, and it was her felfe againe. No. leeds on graine nor heils, but on the gumine O: Frankincense, and mycre Amomum. Now, when her life five ages both fultild; A neither houncd beake and tallons build Ypon the co-wnot of a tiembling Palme: Tims strew d with Caffin, Spicknard, precious Balme,-BIUZE

Bruz'd Cinamon, and Myrrh; thereon she bends Her body, and her age in odois ends. This breeding Corp's a little Phænix beares: Which is itselfe to line as many yeeres. Growne strong; that load now able to transferre; Her Cradle, and her parents sepulcher, Denoutly carries to Hyperions towne: And on his flamie Altar layes it downe. If thefebe wonderfull, admire like strange Hyana's, who their fex fooften change: Those foodlesse creatures, fed by ayre alone; Who every colour, which they touch, put on. The Lynx, first brought from conquered India Ey vine bound Bacchus, his hot piff, they fay, Congeales to stone. So Corall, whi h below The water is a limber weed, doth grow Stone-hard, when toucht by aire. But Day willend. And Phabus panting Steeds to Seas descend, Before my fcant oration could perfue All forts of fhapes, that change their old for new. For this we fee mall is generall. Some Nations gather firength, and others fall. Troy, rich and powrefull, which to proudly flood; That could for ten yeeres spend such threames of blood; For buildings, oncly her old raines showes; For riches, tombs; which flaughtred Sires inclose. Sparta, Mycene, were of Greece the flowres; So Cecrop's City, and Amphion's towies: Now glorious Sparta lies upon the ground; Lofty Mycene hardly to be found, Of OEdipushis Thebes what now remaines, Or of Pandien's Athens, but their names?

Now

Now Fame reports that Rome by Dardans Sons Begins to rife, where yellow Tybris runs From fountfull Appenines; and there the great Foundation of so great a fabricke seat. This therefore shall by changing propagate, And give the World a Head. Of such a fate The Prophets have divin'd. And this of old, As I remember, Priam's Helen told To sad Aneas, of all hope for loine, In finking Troy's eclipse. O Goddesse-borne, If our Apollo can prefage at all; Troy, thou in fafety, shall not wholly fall. Both fire and sword shall give thy vertue way: Flying with thee, thou Ilium shalt conuay; Vntill thou finde a Land as yet whknowne, To Troy, and thee, more friendly than thy owne. A City built by Phrygians I fore-fee; So great none cuer was, is, or shall bee. Others shall make it great: but He, whose birth Springs from Iilm, Soueraigne of the Earth. He, having rul'd the World, shall then ascend Athereall thrones and Heaven shall be his End. This, I remember, with propheticke tongue, Sage Heles to diune Aneas lung. We log to see our kinds eds City grow: The Physianshappy in their Quer-throw. But lest our heedlesse Steeds too far should range From their proposed course; Allsuffer change: The heavens themselves, what under them is sound 5 Earth, what thereon, or what is under ground. We, of the World a part, fince we as well Haue Soules as Bodies, which in beafts may dwell?

To those, which may our parents Soules inuest. Our brothers, dearest friende, or men at least : Let vs both safety, and respect afford: Nor heape their bowels on I hyestes boord. Howillinured ! to shed the bloud of man How wickedly is hep epar'd, who can Asunder cut the throats of calues; and heares The bellowing orecder with relentlesse eares! Or filly kids, which like poore infants cry, Sticke with his knife! or his voracitie Feed with the fowle he feed! Oro what ill: Are they not prone, who are so bent to kill? Let Oxen till the ground, and die with age: Let Sheepe defend thee from the winters rage: Gonts bring their vdders to thy paile. Away With nets, grans, fnares, and arts that doe betray & Deceiue not birds with lime; nor Deere inclose With terrors; nor thy baits to hish expose. The hurtfull kill: yet only kill: nor eat Defiling flesh; but feed on fitter meat. With other, and the like Philosophy Infirmfied; Name, now return'd, was by Th'intreating Latine crown'd. Taught by his Bride The Nymph Ageria, Ly the Muses guide, Religion institutes; a People rude And prone to waire, with lawes and peace imbu'd. His raigne and age relign'd to funerall; Pleucians, Reman Danies, Patricians, all For Numa mourne. His wife the Citie fled: Hid in Acicia's Vale, the ground her bed, The woods her shroud, distantes with grones and cries Orestean Diana's lacrifice.

How oft the Nymphs who haunt that Groue and Lake Reprou'd her teares, and words of comfort spake! How oft the Thesean Heros, Temperate Thy sorrow, said! nor onely is thy sate To be deplor'd: on worse miss fortunes looke; And you will yours with greater patience brooke. Would mine were no example to appease So said a griete: yet mine your griese may ease.

Perhaj sy'hane heard of one Hippolytus; By f'e, don es fraud, and fathers credulous Beleefe denow'd to death. Admire you may That I am he, if credit, what I lay. Whom Phedra formerly tolicited. Put va nly todefile my fathers bed. Fearing actection, or in that refus'd; She turnes the crime, and me of her's accus'd. My father, I amilhing the innocent, Along with me his winged curses sent. Toward Pittican Trazen me my Chariot bore: And driving now ry the Corinihian shore, The imouth Seas swell; a monstrous billow rose, Which, rouling like a mountaine, greater growes; Then, bellowing, at the top afunder rends: When from the breach, breft high, a Bull afcends; Who at his dicadfull mouth and nofthrils spouts Part of the Sea. Feare all my followers routs: But my : fflicted minde was all this while Vinte rifi'd; intending my exile. When the hot horses start, ered their cares: With horror rapt, and chased by their feares. Cherag jed rocks the tottr'd Charlot drive: While I to curbe their fury vainly Ariue;

The bits all frothe with fome: with all my might Pull backe the raignes, now lying bolt vp-right. Nor had their heady fright my fliength o'r-gon; Had not the feruent wheele, which roules vpon The bearing Axel-tiec, rufht on a flump: Which brake, and fell afunder with that jump. Throwne from my chariot, in the raignes fast-bound, My guts drag'd out aliue, my finewes wound About the stumpe, some of my limbs hal'd thence You might have seene, some hanging in suspence; My breaking cones to cracke, not any whole, While I exhal'd my faint and weary foule. No part of all my parts you could have found That might be knowne: for all was but one wound. Now say, selfe-tortred Nymph, or can, or dare You your calamities with ours compare? I also saw those realmes, to Day vnknowne: And barh'd my wounds in wavy Phlegeton. Had not Apollo's Son imploi'd the aid Of his great Ait; I with the dead had staid. But when by potent hearbs, and Peans skill, I was restor'd, 'gainst angry Plutes will: Left I, if feene, might enuy haue procur'd, Me, friendly Cynthia with a cloud immur'd: And that, though feene, I might be hurt by none; She added age, and left my face vnknowne. Whether in Deles, doubting, or in Creet; Rejecting Creet and Delos as vnmeet, She plac't me here. Nor would I should retaine The memory of One by horfes flaine: But faid; Hence forward Virbins be thy name That wer't Hipfolites; though thou the same.

The

One

The

One of the Lesser Gods, here, in this Groue, I cynthia serue; preserued by her Joue.

But others miseries could not abute
Again's forrowes, nor preuent her sate.
Who, couched at the bases of a hill,
Thawes into teares, that streame-like ran; vntill
Apollo's Sister, pitying her wees,
Turn'd her t'a Spring; whose current ever flowes.

The Nymphs and Amazonian this amaz'd;
No leffe than when the Tyrrhen Plough-man gaz'd
Vpon the fatall clod, that mou'd alone;
And, for a humane flape, exchang'd its owne.
With infant lips the newly Animate,
Reucal'd the Mysteries of suture fate;
Whom Natines Tages call'd. He first of all
Thistory in staught to tell what would be fall.

Or when aftonish the medius of old Did, on Mount Palatine, his lance behold To flourith with greene leaves: the fixed foot Stood not on steele, but on a living root. Which, now no weapon, spreading armes displaid; And gave admirers ynexpested shade.

Or when as cippus in the liquid glasse
Beheld his hornes, which his beleete surpasse.
Who litting oft his singers to his brow,
Felt what before he saw: nor longer now
Condemnes his sight. Return'd with victory;
His eyes and hornes erecting to the skie:
You Gods, what e're these prodigies portend;
If prosperous, he said, let them descend
On Roman and on Rome: but if they be Valortunate, o let them sall on me!

An Altar then of lining turfe creds; The fire feeds with perfumes, pure wine iniects: And with the panting entrailes of a beaft New slaine, consults; to know the Gods behest. This, when the Tyrrben Augur had beheld, And faw therein endeuours that excell'd, Although obscure; he from the facrifice To Cippus hornes converts his steady eyes: Halle King, to thee, and to those hornes of thine, This place, and Latian towres, their rule refigne. Delay not; enter thou the yeelding gate: Haste, Cippus, haste: such is the Will of Fate. Thou shalt be crown'd a King vpon that day: And safely an eternall Scepter sway. He, starting backe, from Rome diverts his face: And faid; You Gods, farre hence this Omen chaes; Better that I in banishment grow old; Than me, a King, the Capitoll behold. Hiding his hornes with leavie ornaments, The people and grave Senathe convents. Then mounts a Mound, late by the Souldier made, And praying first (as was the custome) said; Videfle expeli'd your Citie, here is One Will be your King: though not by name, yet knowne By his strange hornes. I heard the Augus say, If once in Rome, you all should him obey. Hemight, vnstopt, have entred without feate: But I withstood; though none to me more nearc-Be he, Quirites, into exile fent: Or, if hemorit such a punishment,

Binde him in heavie chaines, and keepe him fure:

Or with the Tyrants death your feares lecure.

The troubled People fuch a murmuring make: As when farre off the roring furges rake On rathing fliores; or when through high-trust Pines Lowd Eurus howles. One only Voice dif-ioynes In this confusion; asking, Which is he? All feeking for the hornes they could not fee. Cippus repli d; Behold the man you looke. Then from his head (with-held) his garland tooke: And thew'd the hornes which on his fore-head grew. Not one but figh'd, and downe his count'nance threw: And those cleare browes (a thing beyond beliefe) Adorn'd with merit, they behold with griefe. Nor suffer him his honour to debase: But on his head a laurell garland place. And fince he his owne entrance did with-stand: The Nobles, in due fauour, so much land To Cippus gaue, as well two oxen might Round with a plough from morning vntill night. The Monumentall figure of his hornes, So much admir'd, the golden Posts adoines. Now Muses, Goddesses of Verse, relate (You know, nor yeares your memory abate) How Æscularius in our Citie found A Temple, by circumfluent Tybris bound. A deadly plague the Latian aire defil'd: Soules from their feats the pale disease exil'd. Wearied with funeralls, when physicke fail'd; Nor any humane industry preuail'd; They tecke corlectiall aid. To Delphos fent, Built in the round Earths nauell, and prefent Their prayers to Phubus; that he would descend

To their reliefe, and give their woes an end.

His Temple, Laurell, and his Quiver, shake: Who thus, they trembling, from his Tripod spake. What here you fecke, you neerer should have fought: And seeke it neerer yet. At ollo ought Not now to cure you, but Apollo's Seed. Goe with successe; and fetch my Sonne with speed. The Senat having heard this Oracle, The Citie search, where Phabus sonne should dwell. The shore of Epidanre the Legate scekes: There anchoring, he intreats th'assembled Greekes To fend their God: who might th' Aufenian State To health restore; and vrg'd the charge of Fate. They vary in opinion: some affent Tolend this fuccour; many, not content Tolofe their owne in gluing othersaid, Strine to retaine him, and the rest distinade. While thus they doubt, the Day declin'd his Light: And Earth-borne shadower cloth'd the world in Night Th'Health-giving God, in fleepe, appeares to fland In his old forme; a stasse in his lest hand: And stroking with his right his reverend beard; From his hope-rendring brest these words were heard. Feare not, I come; my shape I will for sake: View, and marke well this staffe-infolding Snake: Such will I feeine, yet shew of greater fize; So great as may a Deity comprize. God with the Voice, with God and Voice away Sleepe flew: fled Sleepe persude by chearefull Day. The Starres now vanquisht by the mornings flame; The doubtfull Nobles to the temple came, Intreat him by coleffiall fignes to fhew Whether he were content to stay or goe. This

With

This hardly faid, the God in Serpent's shroud, His high cieft gold-like eliftring, hift aloud. His statue, altar, gates, the marble flore, And golden roofe, thooke at th'approching Powre. He, in his Fane, brest high his body rais'd: Rouling about his eyes that flame-like blaz'd. All tremble. The chast Priest, his haire imbraid With Virgin fillet, knew the God, and faid: 'Tishe! 'tishe! all you who present are Pray with your hearts and tongues: ô heauenly-Faire, Propinious proue to those who thee implore! All that were there the present Powre adore; Reiterating what the Priest had said: With heart and tongue the Romans also pray'd. He, by the motion of his lofty crest, And doubled hilles, figne's to their request. Then fliding downe the polifit staires, his looke Reuerts on his old altars; now for focke: Salute's his fhrine, and I emple deckt with towres. Then creeping on the ground, ftrew'd with fresh flowres, Indenteth through the Citie; Ropping where The Harbour is defended by a Peerc. The following troopes, and those whose zeales assist In honouring him, with gentle lookes difmift; He climbes th' Ausonian Amp: which felt the waight, And shrunke with pressure of so great a fraight. The toyfull Romans, offering on the firand A Bull to Nepiune; anchor weigh, and land Forfake with casse gales. Rais'd on his traine, He, leaning, lookes vpon the blew wau'd Maine. Through Ionian Seas by friendly Zephyrus borne, They fell with Italy on the fixth morne.

Lacinian Iunos Fane, Scyllean shores, lapygia past; they shun with nimble ores Amphrysian rockes; Ceraunian, weather-cleft: Romechium, Caulon, and Narycia left: Suilian Straights o're-come, and wrackfull seas. Saile by the mansion of Hippotades: By Temefa, in metalls fruitfull; by Leucofia, and the Paftan Rofary. Necre Capres, and Minerua's Fore-landrow. Surrentine hills, where wines fo generous grow; Heraclea, Stabia, Naples boine to case, Cumean Sibyl's Temple: next to these. Hot Baths; Linternum, iweet with masticke flowres; Vulturnus, who his fandy channell skoures; Sinuefla, swarming with white Snakes; ill-air'd Miniturna; and where Pietie prepar'd His Nurse a tombe: forthwith the mansion make Ot fell Antiphates; and then the Lake-Belieged Trachin: thence directly bore To circe's Ile, and Antium's folid thore. The Sea now swelling high, this harbour holds The Saile wing'd ship. The God his orbs vnfolds; And, with huge doublings o're the yellow fand Slides to his fathers Temple on that strand. Rough waves allwag'd, the Epidaurian Guelt His fathers altar leauce; to Sea-ward prest, Slicing the fandie shore with rustling scales: And, by her sterne the ship ascending, failes Till he to Callrum, to Lauinia's name-Retaining Scat, and mouth of Tyber came. Allhither throng; sonnes, daughters, mothers, fires, The Nunnes who keepe the Phrygian Velia's fires,

The Gods appeale: the headlesse inwards shew Signes of succeeding Tumults, Death, and Woe. Dogs nightly, in the Court, about the Gods, And holy Temples howle. From sad abodes The Dead arise, and wander here and there: Rome trembling, both with Earth-quakes and with searc, These Warnings of the Gods no changes wrought In Fate, or Treason. Musderous swords were brought Into the Temple: for no place might sort With such a Slaughter, but the sacred Court. Then Venus smore her brest: who sought to shroud, And snatch him thence in that Athereal cloud, Which Paris from Airides rage conuaid:

And freed Ameas from Tydid sblade. Daughter, said Ione, canst thou resist the doome Of conquering Fates? Into their mansion come, There shalt thou see Decrees that needs must passe, Writ in huge folds of folid steele and brasse. Which fafe, eternall, euer fixed there; My thunder, lightnings rage, nor ruine feare. In Jaffing Adamant there ma ft thou reade What shall to thy great Progenie succeed. I read, remember well, and will relate What may informe thee in succeeding fate. He, whom thou striu st to saue, his race hath runne Of Time and Glory: whom, thou and his Sonne Shall make in heauen a God; on Earth, with praire And Temples dignified. His names great Heire Alone his Load shall beare: and strongly shall By our conduct revenge his fathers fall. By his good fortune Mutine, o're-throwne, Shall me for peace: Pharfalian fields thall grone? Slangheer

Slaughter againe Philippi shall imbrue: On red Sicilian Seas he shall subdue Amighty Name. Th' Algoptian Spouse shall fall,

Ill trusting to her Reman Generall:
To make out stately Capitel obay

Her proud Canopus, shall in vaine assay.

What need I of those barbarous People tell,

And Nations, which by either Ocean dwell?

And Nations, which by either Ocean dwell?
He shall the habitable Earth command;

And stretch his Empire ouer sea and land.
Peace guen to Earth; he shall convert his care

To civill Rule, iuft Lawes; and by his faire Example Vertue guide. Then looking to

The future times, and Nephewes to enfue;
A Sonne shall blesse him from a holy wombe:

To him he shall refigne his name, and roome. Nor shall, tillfull of age, ascend th'aboads

Of heavenly Dwellers, and his kindred Gods.
Meane-while from this flaine corps his foule convay

Vp to the starres, and give it a cleare Ray:
That Islam may with friendly influence

Shine on our Capitoll and Court from thence.
This faid: inuitible fair c Venus flood

Amid the Senate; from his orps, with blood Defil'd, her Celuri new-fled pirit bare

To heaven, not futter'd to retolue to aire.
And, as in her fost bolome borne, shee might

Perceiue it take a Powre, and eather light.
When once let loofe, It forth with vp-ward flew;

And after it long blazing treffes drew.
The radiant Starre his Sonnes great acts beheld

Tout-lufter his; and toy d, to be excelled.

Tho: gh

444

Though he would have his Fathers deeds preferr'd Before his owne; yet free-tongu'd Fame, deterr'd By no commandement, yeeld th'euited Bayes To his cleare browes; and but in this gain-fayes. So Atreus yeelds to Agamemnons fame;

A geus fo to Thefeus: Peleus name Stoopes to Achilles. That I may confer Th'illustrious to their equalls, Iupiter So Saturne tops. Ioutrules the arched Skie,

And triple World; th Earths wast Monarchie T' Augustus bowes: both Fathers, and both sway. You Gods, A neas mates, who made your way

Through fire and fword; you Gods of men become; Quirinus, Father of triumphant Rome; Thou Mars, innincible Quirinus Sire; Chast Veff.s, with thy cuer-burning fire, Among great Cafars Houshold-Gods inshrin'd;

Domeiticke Phaba, with his Vefta ioyn'd; Thou love, Whom in Tarpeian towers we adore; And You, all You, whom Poets may implore: Slow be that day, and after I am dead,

Wherein Augustus, of the world the Head, Leauing the Earth, thall vnto Heauen repaire; And farmer those that seeke to him by prayer.

And now the Worke is ended, which, loue's rage, Nor Fire, nor Sword thall raze, nor eating Age. Come when it will my deaths vncertaine howre; Which only of my body bath a powre: Yer holl my bette. Part transcend the skie; And my immortall name shall never die.

For, where fo-ere the Roman Eagles spread Their conquering wings, I shall of all be read: And, if we Prophets truly can divine, I, in my living Fame, shall cuer shine.

Fol

planations. With these I had thought, in their seucrall places, to hauecharged the margent: but the hastinesse of the Presse, and vnexpected want of leasure, have prevented me. The same reason may serue for divers flips, acd errours, which I not only know but acknowledge. Yet if the too cleanly Criticke sweepe not all the dust together and lay it on one heape, it may perhaps be hardly difcerned, howfoeuer borne-with in fo long and interrupted a labour, Bantiades. pag. 111. vers. 7. Actifius the Sonne of Abas King of Argos. Abantiades pag. 117. verf. 4. and pag. 124. vers. 25. and pag. 128. vers. 21.

Perseus great grand-childe to Abas. Acheloides. she Syrens, daughsers to Achelons. Acheron. a Riner in Heil, and signifies deprina: i-

Acrisionides. Perseus grand-childete Acrisius. on of loy. Actorides. pag. 212. verf. 20 Euritus and Creatus the sonnes of Actor.

Aftorides. pag. 359. vers. 13. Patroclus grandchilde to Actor. The Eacides. pag. 188. vers. 19. Peleus, Telamon, and Phocus, sonnes to Æacus. Hacides. pag.297. verf.7. and 32. pag.302. verf.

6. Peleus the fon of Azens.

Eacides. pag. 321. ver f. 21. and thence-forth, Achilles the grand-childe of Æacus. Aclle. one of the Harpyes. Æctias. Medea, the daughter of Æcta. Ægides. Theseus, the sonne of Ægens. Ægis. Minerua's shield. Holian Virgin.pag. 149. vers. 24. Arne, the daughter of Æolus. Molides. pag. 107. vers. 31. Athamas, the sonne of Æolus. Æolides.pag.194. vers.2 C. Cephalus, the grand. child of Holus. Holides. pag. 250, verf. 17. Macareus and Canace, the sonne and daughter of Æolus. Æsonides. Iason, the some of Æson. Agenorides. Cadmus, the sonne of Agenor. Aloidæ. Otus and Ephialtes, got by Neptune on the wife of Aloeus. Alcides. a name of Hercules, which signifies Arength. Amezonian Heros. Hippolyeus, fonne to Hippolytethe Amazonian.

Amiclydes. Hyacinthus, the sonne of Amyclas.

Amphitite. the daughter of Oceanus, and wife to Neptune; taken for the Sea.

Amphitryonides. Hercules the son of Amphitryo.

Ampycides. Mopsus, the sonne of Ampycus.

Anubis.

of a dog.

Apis. a blacke Oxe spotted with white, wor/hipped by the Ægyptians in remembrance of Ositis.

Aphrodites. a name of Venus, in that sprang

Anubis. an Idell of the Ægyptians with the head from the foam of the Sea.

Arcturus, a Star in the taile of the Greater Beare.

Astræs. Instice, so called of Astræs, a most inst

Prince.
Aftræn sons. The Winds, sons to the Gyant Astræns.
Athamantiades. Palæmon, the sonne of Athamas.
Atlantiades. pag. 24. vers. 8. and pag. 48. vers. 13.

Mercurie the grand-childe of Atlas.

Atlantiades.pag. 102.vers.23. Hermaphroditus, the sonne of Mercurie, and great grand-childe of Atlas.

Atracides. Cancus, so called of Atraxa Citie of Thessale.

Atrides. Agamemnon; sometimes Menclaus;

hoth sonnes to Atreus. Auernian luno. Proserpina.

Auernian luno. Proteiphila.

Auernia. a lake in hell, oner which no birds can flie without falling.

Autonocius. Acticon the some of Autonoc, Gade

Auster. The South-wind.

Bacchindze

BAcchiadæ, the off-spring of Bacchia the Corinchian.

Bacchanals. women folemnizing the feast of Bacchus.

Belides. the Neeces of Belus, and daughters of Danaus.

Berecynthian. pag. 293. vers.9. Midas of Berecynthus, a Citie of Phrygia.

Bootes. the Star, that followes Charles waine.

Boreas. the North-wind.

Bromius. a name of Bacchus, which fignifies raging. Bubaitis.an Ægyptian Goddesse, companion & Isis.

Arpathian Prophet. Proteus a God of the Cecropides. the danghters of Cecrops, King of Athens.

Centaures, said to be halfe men and balfe beafts, in that they were the first that rid on borses.

Ccrafte. men with hornes.

Cerberus.

Cerberus, the Hell-hound with three heads, fignit ing a demourer of the dead. Chimera. a monster 3 having the face of a woman, the body of a goat, and the taile of a Serpent. Colchis. Medea, so called of Colchis, where shee was borne.

Crarxis daughter. Scylla. Cyclades. Hands in the Ægæan Sea, differsed in forme of a cycle. Cyclops. Giants, and sons of Neptune; so called of the round eye, which they had in their fore-books.

Cyclopean darts. Thund r and Lightning forged by the Cyclops.

Cyllenius, a name of Mercurie, in that borne ou

Cynthius Charles Dallo and Diana, of Cynthius Church bullion Dallo Cynthia (borne. Cyprides, a name of Venus, of the Iland of Gy-prus, where hee was worthipped. Cytherea. aname of Venus, of the Iland Cythera, dedicated to Venus.

Arraean Heros. Perfeus the fon of Danse. Derdan Prophet. Helenus the jon of Priame Hymen, the God of marriage 3 sometimes taken for marriage. Hyperion. sometimes taken for the Sun, sometimes for the father of the Sun.

T Acchus. a name of Bacchus, which signifies cla-

Iapetonides. Atlas the sonne of Iapet. 'Idalia. Venus of Idalia, a hillin Cyprus, where she had her groves. Iliades. pag. 267. vers. 4 Ganymed, grand-child to Ilus.

Iliades. pag. 412. verf. 18. Romulus, descended from Ilus.

Hichyia. a name of Lucina, Godde fe of child birth. Inachis. pag. 21. vers. 30. 183 the daughter of Inachus. Inachides. pag. 16. verf. 19. Epaphus, the sonne of 10, and grand-child of Inachus. Inachides. pag. 115. verf. 5. Perseus. The Argolians being fo called of thereuer Inachus. 10. an acclamation of toy: where it flands not for Jothe daughter of Inachus. Iris. sbe Raine-bow.

Isme-

Ismenians of Bocotia, Ithacus, Vlyiles, of the land Ithaca, where he was borne. Iulus. aname of Ascanius.

Ismenides Thebans, so called of Ismenus, a riner

Emnian issue. pag. 55. vers. 22. Erichthonius Lemnos. Lenzus, aname of Bacchus, of the vessell that re-

Liber. a name of Bacchus, inthat wine freeth the ceines the wine from the presse. Lethe. a river of Hell, and signifies for getfulnesse.

heart from forrow. Lucifer. the Morning Starre. Lyzus. a name of Bacchus; the same with Liber,

A Eandrius. Caunus, grand-child by the mothere fide to the river Mander. Mæduscan Herse. Pegasus, sprung from the bloud of Medula. Mæonidæ. the Muses. Of Mæonia, where the dwelt.

Pæons. the daughters of Picrus, so called of the woods of Pxonia, which they frequented. Palladium. the Image of Pallas. Paphian Heros. Pigmalion of Paphos.

Pelides. Achilles, the son of Peleus. Persephone. The same with Proserpina.

Phalias. a name of Medea, from the river Phalis. Phegides. Themenus and Axion the sonnes of Phogeus. Pheres hope. Admetus, the son of Pheres.

Phlegeton. a burning riner in hell.

Phoebus? names of the Sun and Moone, in regard Phoebe 5 of their splendor.

Phorcydes. the daughter of Phorcus. Phoronis. 16, the fifter of Phoroneus.

Pleias. Maia, one of the Pleiades, and mother to Mercury.

Pleiones Nephew. Mercury, grand-childe to Pleione, the wife of Atlas.

Porneine ? Philostetes, the sonne of Porne.

Pramides. pag. 355. verf. 32. Hector, the son of Priamus.

Promerhides. Deucalion, the sonne of Prome-

Propecides. Infamous women of Cyprus.

Quirinus.

Virinus. aname of Romulus.

Quirites. Romans, so called of Quirinus.

Rhamnusia. a name of Nemesis, of the city
Rhamnus, where the hadber Temple. Rhamnus, where she badher Temple.

CAturnius? Iupiter and Iuno, the soune and Saturnia & daughter of Saturne. Smincheus. a name of Apollo, for destroying of mice.

Sol. the Sun.

Stygian shades. Hell 3 so called of Styx, an infernall riner.

Antalides. pag. 348. verf. 15. Agamemnon. grand-child to Tantalus. Taygeta. one of the Pleiades, or senen Starres.

Tellus, the Earth.

Teucrans. Troians, descended of Teucer. Thaumantias. Iris, the dangbter of Thaumas.

Thespiades. the Muses; of Thespix, a City neere Thestiada: Helicon.

Thestiadæ. Toxeus and Plexippus, the sonnes of Theftius. TheRias. Althæa, the daughter of TheRius. Thestorides. Chalcas, the son of Thestor. Thyon. Bacchus; of Thyone, a name of bis mother Semele. Thyrsus. a Iauclin woond with Iny, borne by Bacchus. Titan. aname of the Sun, from his mother Titea. whose 45. children were generally called by the name of Titans. Titania, p. 14. v. 19 Pyrtha, descended of the Titans. .Titania. pag. 67. vers. 19. and pag. 179. vers. 5. Diana, grand-child to Titza. Titania, pag. 157. vers. 11. Latona, dangbter to Cous, one of the Titans. Titania.pag. 386. verf. 13. Circe, descended of the Titans. Triones, the senen stars, that turne about the Pole. Triopeius. Eresichthon, the sonne of Triopas. Tritonia. Pallas, so called for her wisdome. Troades. the women of Troy. Tydides. Diomedes, the sonne of Tydeus. Tyndarida. Castor and Pollux, the sons of Tyndarus. Tyrinchian. Hercules of Tyrus.

V
Vlcans seed. pag. 186. vers. 19. Periphacus.
Z
Ephyrustebe West-wind.

FINIS!

Vulcane